Alberta Girl Supervises Work of 106 French Cooks

By EDNA BLAKELY

MARVILLE, France. (CP)—FO Valerie Liss of Sangudo, Alta., says she cooked her first full-course meal when she was eight.

Now 30 years later the attractive RCAF officer is responsible for about 1,500 meals a day at the No. 1 Fighter Wing base here.

As food services officer, she supervises all food served in the messes at this base 130 miles east of Paris. Under her are 106 cooks and food service attendants, mostly French civilians from the surrounding area.

"That's one of my problems," she says. "I don't speak French."

But she manages to make herself understood with her high school French and the help of French - speaking air force personnel who act as interpreters.

Valerie was born at Barrhead, Alta., and moved as a child to Sangudo, 70 miles northwest of Edmonton. She was active in 4-H Club work during her high school days and won a one-year 4-H scholarship for proficiency to the Vermilion School of Agriculture.

While at Vermilion, she became interested in dietetics and decided to take home economics at the University of Alberta. She joined the RCAF reserve three during the first year of the three-year university course and entered the permanent force on her graduation in 1957. She was posted overseas three years later.

She comes from a military family. Her father, John Liss, served in the Canadian Army in the First and Second World Wars and two of her brothers are in the services, one in the army and the other in the RCAF.

On the Marville base, she's assistant editor of the twice-monthly station paper, The Arrowhead. It was started last September as a small publication put together on the station but has grown to a glossy-type magazine printed in nearby Virton, Belgium.

Valerie also is captain of the Maple Leaf Air Ranger Flight, a group of six girls aged 17 and 18 who meet once a week at the station's high school. The group was started last fall and next year its membership, drawn from girls who have been Brownies and Girl Guides, is expected to double.

Summer Cottage Luncheon Dishes

by Mary Moore

Mrs. W. R. M. ends her letter with "We especially appreciate ideas for noon lunches that are quick and inexpensive and liked by small children". — a 15-word sentence that set me to working hours and hours on lunch dishes. I wanted to add another feature to them — adaptability to summer cottage conditions.

The first luncheon dish was successful in a big way for I served to 3 really hungry young people — Pete and Margy — for Sunday's lunch in the garden.

The second one has an added dividend if you are serving 4 people. I made it up to serve 8 (see below) divided it into 2 small casseroles and served it as soon as it was baked. I cooled and chilled and covered and froze the second one, for it was in a corningware freezerproof casserole. I had to thaw and reheat it in 3 days' time to be sure. So tell you how this worked out. Fine!

WEDNESDAY
(Guests In Garden)

Dinner Menu

POTATO-MEAT FATTIES (8):

1 cup water, ½ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 envelope instant mashed potato, 1 egg, beaten, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 can (12-oz.) corned luncheon meat, shredded (or mashed with strong fork, ½ cup finely rolled cracker or cornflake crumbs or cornmeal.

Bring water, milk and salt to a boil. Remove from heat. Add instant mashed potato. Whip briskly with a fork. Add beaten egg, minced onion and luncheon meat. Mix well. Form into 8 patties ¾" thick and coat with crumbs or cornmeal. Fry in 2 or 3 tablespoons butter until golden brown on both sides.

5-I-L'S LUNCH DISH:

(This was inspired by Evelyn Horne's Sister-In-Law).

4 cups (10-oz.) 1" macaroni shells (or elbows), 6 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 lb. hamburg, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon chopped onion or dried minced onion, 2½ cups grated old Cheddar cheese (or half and half Cheddar and Swiss), 1 28-oz. can tomatoes.

Cook the macaroni shells or elbows in the boiling water with the first 1 teaspoon salt for 20 minutes. Drain. Saute the hamburg in a hot frying pan without any fat until seared. Pour off about ¼ cup of the excess fat. Add the onion, second amount of salt and tomatoes. Remove from heat. Add the drained macaroni shells and half of the cheese. Pour into 1 very large or 2 medium-sized casseroles. Sprinkle with remaining cheese and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Variations: 1) One-quarter to one-half lb. fresh mushrooms or 1 can mushrooms may be added. If canned mushrooms are used reserve juice and add with tomatoes. If fresh mushrooms are used slice them and saute with the meat when it is partially browned but do not drain off the excess fat. 2) If desired, the second half of the cheese may be mixed with fine bread or cracker crumbs and sprinkled over top and dotted with butter.

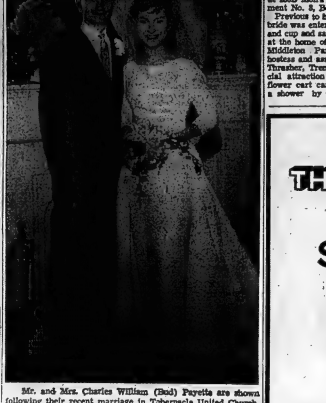
Birthday Girl



By TRACY ADRIAN

As important to the party as the candles to the cake is this enchanting dress that will delight Little Sister whether she's hostess at a birthday party or a guest.

The frock is of white organdy with tiers of French val lace on the bodice, skirt, collar and puff sleeves. A pink satin sash ties at the waist.

Underneath is a separate pink polished cotton slip which adds a delicate gleam of color. It has an attached, full-skirted marquisette petticoat, piped for comfort.

PAYETTE — JUBY

White gladioli, white pompoon 'mums, palo pink carnations, and tall white candles in candelabra formed the setting in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville for a lovely summer wedding on Saturday, July 7th, 1962 at four o'clock, when Gail Pauline Juby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Juby, Shannonville, became the bride of Charles William (Bud) Payette, son of Mr. Edward Payette, Trenton, and the late Mrs. Payette. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry M. Davis, minister of Bridge Street United Church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, organist, provided the wedding music which included the triumphant "Hymn" by Purcell for the processional and "Trumpet and Aire" by Purcell as the bridal party left the church.

Mr. Thomas Hinchey, Shannonville, was the guest soloist. He sang the "Wedding Prayer" before the ceremony, and, "O Perfect Love," while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her original bridal gown of candlelight white satin bonzed brocade made on sheath lines. It was fashioned with an empire bodice (emphazing the tiny waistline) formed by a contour band encrusted with crystal and satin pearl beading which was repeated on the wide, turned back cuffs of the elbow-length sleeves. The piped neckline was a shallow portrait. The floor-length skirt was enhanced by an overskirt gathered on the hips to a full cathedral sweep at the back.

A crown of matching brocade held her shoulder-length pouffe veil of tulle illusion, the only ornament being a drop design of crystal beads at the front. White kid shortie gloves, white kid opera pumps and single cultured pearl earrings completed her costume. She carried a single white orchid, surrounded by stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Miss Carolyn Payette, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor. Miss Betty Grills, the senior bridesmaid; and Miss Cheryl Juby, sister of the bride, as junior bridesmaid.

Their bouffant gowns of white silk organza were styled with short sleeves and sabrina necklines and were worn over white taffeta, featuring strapless bodices of scalloped pink lace. A row of tiny white satin bows accented the bodice backs. They wore white satin opera pumps and the junior bridesmaid wore kid shoes with white shortie gloves and a single strand of pearls, the gift of the bride. Their headdresses were crowns of pink velvet leaves and white seed pearls with circular veils and they carried crescent shaped bouquets of pink Sweetheart roses and trailing ivy.

Little Miss Janie Kearns, Shannonville, was the charming flower girl, dressed in white silk organza over taffeta, styled with a bouffant skirt and wide sash tied in a large back bow. She wore a pink crown headdress of velvet leaves and seed pearls matching the other attendants and a sterling silver engraved bracelet, the gift of the bride, with white shortie gloves, and carried a nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses and ivy with pink satin streamers.

Bancroft; Foxboro; Shannonville and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a linen and cup and saucer shower held at the home of Mrs. A. Kelly, Middleton Park, Trenton, hostess and assisted by Mrs. T. Thrasher, Trenton, with a special attraction being a white flower cart carrying her gifts; a shower by the girls of the Belleville Utilities at the home of Miss Carolyn Payette, assisted by Mrs. C. Greavrix at which Miss Beth Robertson presented her with a double damask tablecloth with napkins and silence cloth; a consumable ity shower in Shannonville, at the home of Mrs. Vernon Rump as hostess, with Mrs. S. MacDonald and Mrs. W. Millchund as co-hostesses, when she was given a gold brocade fireside chair, six crystal sherbets and plates in her pinwheel pattern, a cup and saucer; a presentation from the Eastern Star, Chapter No. 55, when Mrs. R. Johnston, Worthy Matron, presented Gail, on behalf of her fellow officers, with a pinwheel crystal dish; a presentation from the Belleville Utilities staff, of Royal Doulton china flowers; a presentation by Mr. Thomas Hinchey of a black leather hymnary on behalf of the Shannonville United Church choir.

An after-rehearsal party for the wedding attendants was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Diamond, Belleville, at which time the bride and bridegroom presented the gifts to the bridal party.

The Experts Say

Tempting Iced Tea Starts With Making Good Hot Tea

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP) — Although iced tea and coffee are quick, easy to make and thirsty summer drinks, they must not be made haphazardly if they are to be enjoyed.

The key to making sparkling and tempting iced tea is to make good hot tea in the first place, says John Haldane, manager of the Brooke Bond Tea Centre in Toronto.

The tea leaves or teabag of good quality tea for each person and one for the pot should be used when brewing hot tea.

Heat the teapot, and then take it to the boiling water. "If you carry the boiling kettle across the room to the teapot, the water is no longer fresh and bubbling by the time it is poured, and its infusion will not be the best," Mr. Haldane says.

Brew tea for five minutes and stir well before pouring.

For iced tea, brew tea in the usual manner but with double the amount of tea so that melting ice cubes will not dilute the flavor. Fill a tall glass with ice cubes first and then pour fresh hot tea directly over the cubes.

"Always use cold or chilled glasses for best absorption," Mr. Haldane advises.

Refrigeration will cause iced tea to become cloudy, but it will not lose any of its flavor or freshness if left on the cupboard shelf. Cloudy iced tea can be cleared by adding a little boiling water.

USE FRUIT SUGAR

Sugar should be added after the tea is poured over ice, and fruit sugar dissolves quickest.

Instant tea can be used for iced tea but "nothing can really be much more instant than a tea bag," Mr. Haldane says.

A cold tea drink, now popular in Denmark and recommended by Mr. Haldane, is called todyglass, and is made by adding orange and lemon to a mixture of mint and tea.

Amber tea delight will solve beverage problems for a large crowd.

Brew eight teaspoons or six teabags in four cups of boiling water for five minutes and then strain. Add one cup of sugar, one cup of fresh lemon juice, one quart orange juice, four 12½ ounce tins of apricot nectar, stir until sugar is dissolved and chill.

Iced coffee can be made in four ways, says J. L. Wyndoney, sales manager of the Club Coffee Company of Toronto.

The first method is similar to that followed for iced tea — make hot coffee double strength and pour over ice cubes in tall glasses.

Regular strength coffee can be made and then cooled in a covered non-metallic container, but not for more than three hours, before it is poured over ice and served.

COFFEE ICE CUBES

Extra coffee brewed at breakfast time can be frozen into coffee ice cubes. Then iced coffee can be made by pouring regular strength coffee over these cubes.

For iced instant coffee, mix the usual amount of instant coffee with a little water (hot or cold, according to brand) in each glass and then add ice cubes, cold water, and stir thoroughly.

Coffee nectar is a refreshing drink that can even be served for breakfast when the weather is hot. To make it, add one tablespoon of Angostura bitters to and a pint of coffee ice cream to 2¼ cups of strong, cold coffee and beat until smooth and creamy.

Frosted coffee Hawaii- is a summertime cooler made by combining two strong cups of cold coffee, one cup chilled pineapple juice and one pint soft ice cream. This recipe makes four to five servings.

For an easy and versatile beverage that suits every occasion, combine two cups extra strength chilled coffee, six tablespoons butterscotch topping, four tablespoons light cream and one cup of coffee ice cream.

Coffee drinks will become cloudy and flat tasting only when the coffee has not been made with fresh clear water, Mr. Wyndoney says.

Young Couple Honored by Communities

MOIRA — On Friday evening the friends and neighbors of Moira and Fuller communities gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson in honor of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ashley, on their recent marriage.

Mr. Cecil Gean was master of ceremonies for the evening. Community singing was enjoyed, and several readings were given by Diane McIlroy, Mrs. James Wilson, Donald McIlroy; duets by Messrs. Angus and David Mumby.

Miss Bonnie Smith read an address to the young couple, when Mr. Fred Regenaburg and Mr. Wilson presented them with a lovely gold colored rocker and a twilight floor lamp, for which Bernard and Patricia expressed their sincere thanks and invited each to visit them in their new home at West Huntingdon.

Maybe He Deserted Her for Kicks

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—How would you explain the actions of an interior decorator (married), who, in the course of his job at a married woman's home over a period of three months, tells her he loves her, has an affair with her, makes many promises, then just "takes off" without finishing up a few odds and ends?

The woman involved went along with the affair "just for kicks," but is happily married and has everything a woman could possibly want. The decorator lives out of the city, and when contacted by letter to finish the job made no reply.

If he really loved her, wouldn't he keep on seeing her?

—BEWILDERED.

DEAR BEWILDERED—If the lady in the case was in it "just for kicks," her Romeo probably sensed this and withdrew.

Now we'll never know whether he really meant what he said, will we? Maybe he decided such an affair was not worth losing his happy home over.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I have just turned sixteen and I am in grade ten at present. I would like very much to become a social worker.

Could you send me some information about being one; also do you need a language?—ALICE.

DEAR ALICE—If you need a language to get your matriculation, then you need a language to become a social worker. There are eight courses of social work in Canada in connection with Canadian universities.

I am sending you a booklet which describes social work and which lists the universities where there are Schools of Social Work in Canada.

(Trouble with dates? Write a letter to Doris about it, being sure to identify yourself and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Canadian Women Send Protest to K.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Voice of Women organization, campaigning for unclear disarmament, has disclosed the text of a cable sent to Premier Khrushchev protesting against the Soviet Union's decision to hold a new series of nuclear weapon tests.

The message, signed by VoW President Helen Tucker of Toronto and Vice-President Mme. Therese-F. Casgrain, said:

"With millions of others, Voice of Women of Canada learned with horror of your resolution of resuming armament testing. In the name of humanity, we beg you to rescind your decision. Such a gesture on your part would bring a real contribution to world peace. VoW has always opposed and will always oppose nuclear weapons testing conducted by any country whatsoever. Final victory will only be achieved by the one who will have the greatness and moral courage to put a stop to this mad armament act which threatens the survival of all."

The VoW sent a similar message of protest to President Kennedy before the United States started its last series of nuclear weapon tests.

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

We receive so many inquiries about the selection, duties and obligations of ushers at weddings that we thought it might be helpful to clarify a few points. See if you can come up with the correct answers:

1. Who chooses the ushers and how is the selection made?
2. Is it proper to refuse an invitation to usher?
3. Must ushers be single, or may married men also serve?
4. Who provides the wedding attire for ushers?
5. Are ushers expected to entertain the bride and groom before the wedding?
6. How are ushers transported to the church?
7. Do ushers stand in the receiving line at the reception?
8. Where are the ushers seated at the reception?
9. Do the ushers propose any toasts to the bridal couple?
10. When do the duties of the ushers officially end?

Answers

1. Ushers are chosen by the bridegroom from among his brothers, relatives and closest friends.

2. Since only relatives and friends are invited to be ushers such an invitation should be honored unless there's a strong reason for not being able to do so.

3. Married men may act as ushers, in which case their wives also must be invited to the nuptial parties and to the reception.

4. Ushers provide their own wedding clothes, wearing the style specified by the groom according to the type of wedding and time of day. The groom provides the accessories, including tie, gloves, boutonnieres and sash.

5. This is optional, and something about which the ushers may make a group decision.

6. Ushers get to the church under their own power. From the church, they are transported to the reception in the same cars with the bridesmaids.

7. No.

8. At the bridal table, if there is one. The wives of married ushers sometimes are asked to sit at the bridal table, but where they sit is decided by the bride and her mother, who have to work out the best arrangement.

9. They may, after the best man and both fathers, Toasts by the latter, while customary, also are optional.

10. Ushers remain on duty until the bride and groom leave the reception, after which they may depart, as well.

Mother's Helper

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY for your children's behavior isn't lessened when you're visiting—its increased. You must be sensitive to the unspoken feelings of your hostess, and see that your junior guests behave accordingly. Firmness without nagging is essential.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

UNIONDALE W.I.

9TH SIDNEY — The July meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Edison Sine, 9th con. of Sidney with 15 members present and one guest. This meeting was planned for the 4-H club girls, thus the business was of short duration. Belleville Fair was discussed and the acknowledgement of the "Hat Short Course" was read, but no date set. Five dollars is to be sent for the renewal of the C.A.C. bulletin.

The roll call for the meeting was answered by "Where I Get My Vitamin C" and the motto, "A Man Builds the House, while a Woman Builds the Home" was prepared and read by Mrs. Edison Sine.

The meeting was turned over to the 4-H club girls, who were Betty Sine; Monica Sine; Brenda Weslake; Jean Rose; Linda Fleming; Berning Grills; Jean Chard; Joyce Anderson.

A sing-song started the program followed by a reading, "A Bill of Tools" by Brenda Westlake; piano solo by Betty Sine. Jean Rose gave a report of the bus trip, which the girls said boys of "Hastings County" had enjoyed. They visited their neighboring county Northumberland, with places of interest being a Holstein farm owned by Mr. Petherick of Campbellford; a tobacco farm at Cashion, Smithfield experimental farm; Agriculture Centre in Brighton and a lunch at Presqu'ile.

GOOD BREAKFAST

A demonstration and comment on a "Good Breakfast" was well prepared and shown by Monica Sine and Joyce Anderson, their club books were also on display, their club name being "Fruit Fanciers".

A trio, Linda Fleming, Bernice Grills, Jean Chard, sang a medley of tunes and the girls thanked Mrs. Edison Sine for opening her home for the meeting.

A delicious lunch was prepared and served by the 4-H club girls. The girls and club leaders are to be congratulated on their success.

The August meeting will be at Mrs. George Sirkett's with 'Agriculture' as the topic.

MIRACLE SHRINE — This is part of the sanctuary or main altar of the Roman Catholic basilica at Ste. Anne-de-Beaupre, Que., where miracle cures have been reported for more than 300 years. Millions of pilgrims flock to the shrine each year. The marble and granite basilica is cared for by Redemptorist Fathers. (CP Photo).

STE. ANNE-DE-BEAUPRE, Que. (CP)—"Beaupre enjoys a heavenly atmosphere hardly paralleled anywhere else on earth."

Regular pilgrims to this famous Roman Catholic shrine, where miracle cures have been recorded for 300 years, fervently endorse this claim by the Redemptorist Fathers who care for it.

The basilica, or palace, of Ste. Anne of the Beautiful Meadow, set solidly between the St. Lawrence River and the old Laurentian Mountains, is for them a place of rare serenity.

Rev. Eugene Lefebvre, director of pilgrimages, mentioned in an interview a Detroit man who has been coming here for 20 years and stays a little longer each time.

The crippled, the diseased, the spiritually sick come looking for solace. Among them are the curious, trying to discover what brought the others

2,000,000 VISITORS

"If they look for commercialism, they'll find it," says Father Lefebvre, discussing the problem that has dogged every holy place from Jerusalem to Lourdes.

Nothing is sold on church-owned grounds here and the mention of money is carefully avoided, though the basilica has been built on revenue gathered from visitors' donations.

It has been under construction since 1922, when fire destroyed the fifth church. The first was built in 1650.

In its quiet fight to feed off the less-heavenly atmosphere of the town, the church recently bought a street 400 feet from the basilica that had been overrun with vendors of religious articles and souvenirs.

But Father Lefebvre says the church would have to buy the whole community, which has a year-round population of 1,846, to destroy this aspect of the shrine.

This year, possibly 2,000,000 persons will visit Ste. Anne, and between 50,000 and 100,000 were here for the ceremonies leading up to the Feast Day of Ste. Anne, July 26.

CLIMB ON KNEES

The devout climb the Santa Scala, the replica of the 28 steps mounted by Christ during his passion, on their knees in prayer, or take part in candlelight processions before the bronze and marble figures of the Stations of the Cross.

Relatives help the infirm past the stacks of crutches, canes and braces at the entrance of the church to the miraculous statue of Ste. Anne. Others pray before the bejewelled case containing the major relic of the basilica, the wrist bone of the saint. It was donated in 1892 by Pope Leo XII.

Many visit the old church, which was the shrine itself for 200 years until 1876, and sip from the fountain before it, whose waters are said to have miraculous powers.

Others admire the beauty of the marbles and art work in the basilica, which is 200 feet wide and 375 feet long. And many get caught up in the history of the place.

Almost every important figure to explore North America passed Ste. Anne, and many stopped here. The early Jesuits kept the detailed records that spell out a fascinating tale.

Sailors grateful for their survival after a storm tossed them ashore here in the 1650s built a small chapel dedicated to Ste. Anne. When Louis Guimond, a crippled farmer, placed three small stones in the foundation as his contribution, tradition says, his body straightened and healed.

PRAYED FOR SON

He was sculped two years later by Iroquois raiders.

But in the next 40 years, to 1700, records show 41,000 visitors came to Ste. Anne to pray at the sailor's church.

Queen Anne of Austria prayed for a son, and the great Louis XIV of France was born. In gratitude she sent a chasuble, a vestment worn by the priest, to Ste. Anne-de-Beaupre. Made of silk, gold and silver, it is among the souvenirs on display.

Gen. Wolfe's English fleet passed Ste. Anne quietly on a night in 1759 en route to Quebec City, 20 miles southwest, where he conquered the garrison and with it French Canada.

Quebec's bishops and cardinals all have been close to Ste. Anne. Bishop Laval, whose diocese at the time comprised much of settled North America, wrote in 1680 as addition to the description of a cure of a French soldier at Ste. Anne:

"All this is sincerely true, and we have made of the facts so careful an examination, that they may be made known to the whole world."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. G.N. — I'm afraid Philip will run away again.

Mr. G.N. — He won't. He's just trying to scare his mother.

Mrs. G.N. — Our son is ill and has just us through an agonizing and humiliating experience. A few nights ago we received a phone call from a Traveller's Aid worker in Boston, Ste said, "It's all right. We have your boy here." We hadn't even missed him! He'd slipped out of the house after supper and bought a half-fare bus ticket to Maine. During the stop in Boston, someone got suspicious at seeing a little boy alone at midnight with no luggage.

Now that he's back, I can't rest easy. He's quiet and sulky. He says he wants to run away because he doesn't understand him. My husband laughs it all off. He punished Phil severely and told him to stop the nonsense. As a joke, he said he'd help him pack next time he felt like leaving. But I'm sure Phil is serious about it and I'd like to know why.

Mr. G.N. — Every boy tries running away at least once. I know I did. You just want to see if anybody misses you. You get as far as Phil. His mother can forget about the whole thing.

Instead of being so alarmed that the boy may try it again, my wife should joke with him about it, even buy him a travel case. All he wants is to get a little out of her and she obliges him with her worry. If she really comes down to cases, why should Phil leave home? There isn't one thing he lacks here. When he's older, I'll be he makes a beeline for home no matter where he is!

The Council: There are only two forces to which we object from one point to another, either the attraction of the second, or the repulsion of the first. In Philip's case, we'd say he left home because it wasn't a home. A home is a nest, a shelter, a mending place. Philip didn't feel sheltered there.

Running away always is a big Why. And the answer will not leap forth from a beating, from threats, from ridicule. It awaits the patient probing of a child guidance expert. Sometimes the answer is easy. A little child may run away as in a game. It's all hide-and-go-seek to him. But an older child is announcing his distress. This is his "public-address system".

Both Mr. and Mrs. J. speak of the anguish Philip visited upon them by his escapade. They do not evidence much understanding of his own searing pain, of the emotional beatings he must have been taking right along, with no one to comfort him, no one even to listen to him sympathetically. Perhaps one reason he had to leave home was to remind his parents that he was still around, still of some importance. He wanted to know if he mattered. He wanted to be missed, and sent back for!

This was a desperate gesture on Philip's part, a cry for help. It should not be laughed off. Mrs. N. should follow it up by tracking down, with outside help if necessary, the problems gnawing away at this child. Psychologists go so far as to pronounce running away "a mild form of suicide"! Here is a boy who considers himself tragically misunderstood and can't carve a direct path of communication between himself and his parents. Maybe in the beckoning outside world, he reasons, there'll be a listening ear.

Out of this confusion some constructive attitudes may emerge. Most important, these parents must convince Philip that they understand his despair, they "care," they want to help him solve his problems, they love him dearly. And, of course, that he doesn't have to run away to test the truth of those statements.

HOW OLD CAN A GOOD HOUSE BE?

This is a question we are often asked. Is it wise to buy a home built 75 years ago — or even more? Does "old age" lead to trouble? Are newer homes worth much more?

These questions can be answered in reference to any specific property. Many older residences were better built than some going up today. Others do not warrant buying.

We'll be glad to view any listings, condition and worth. Value of any home we list . . . and help make the ideal selection for your family's circumstances. Call us without obligation.

Latest Hog Cholera Case Is Found on Farm in Peel; Vets Try to Halt Spread

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. C. H. Collacutt, Ontario district veterinarian for the agriculture department's health of animals division, says a case of hog cholera has been diagnosed in Peel County, north of suburban Malton.

He corrected an earlier report that hog cholera had been discovered in Perth County, explaining that the report came from a herd on a farm near Tavistock, in Oxford County just south of the Perth County border.

Dr. Collacutt Tuesday said that hog cholera is "a highly contagious virus, able to spread rapidly especially in warm dry weather in mid- and late-summer."

He said sales barns at Kitchener, Waterloo and Galt, closed earlier have been opened again for other livestock traffic after cleaning and disinfecting.

TRACE CONTAGION

Attempts were being made to trace all hogs sold through these three centres which might have spread virus to other herds.

A quarantine has been imposed in a seven-mile radius from Oxford County farms where hog cholera was suspected.

Meanwhile, two new cases were reported in Quebec, French-speaking veterinarians from the department officials killed 800 pigs on the Maltice district farm in Ontario, 610 in Arthabaska and 105 in Terrebonne.

In Ottawa, Dr. J. E. McClenaghan, director of the federal department's contagious diseases section, said Tuesday's three new cases brought the total to six in Ontario and 15 in Quebec.

QUEBEC HIT

Some 300 farms in western Quebec are under quarantine because of hog cholera. Dr. Ernest Trudeau, regional director of federal animal health services, said in Montreal. He hoped the epidemic could be checked within 30 days, but the quarantine would have to remain for at least a month.

Slaughter and burial of Quebec's diseased pigs Tuesday brought to 4,388 the number killed on 19 farms since the epidemic was detected in Quebec July 12.

Dr. Trudeau said all farms within a one-mile radius of each sick sheep, pigs or cattle are buried are placed under quarantine. Any farm where pigs are destroyed is disinfected and not permitted to raise pigs for three months.

All 25 veterinarians attached to the federal agriculture office in Montreal have been assigned to the epidemic in Quebec. They have been joined by French-, English- and Spanish-speaking veterinarians from the Maritimes and the Prairies.

Water Skier Hits Board, Fatally Hurt

PRESCOTT, Ont. (CP)—Two persons died in separate mishaps on the St. Lawrence River Monday and Tuesday.

About 30 minutes later, swimmers found the body of Jean Lucien Sevarnigon, 36, of Prescott about half a mile upstream from the site of the water skiing accident. He had been seen alive about four hours earlier.

The body later crossed the river from his hometown in a motorboat with a companion, Donald Voight, 37, and was sighted on the Canadian side where his head struck a diving board jutting from a dock.

Twelve-year-old Gregory St. Louis of Prescott dove from the board, cut and bruised the injured skier, but he died shortly after being taken to nearby Brockville hospital.

The drowning victim, found fully clothed, is believed to have fallen off one of the docks on the waterfront. He was unemployed.

Hutchen befriended the bird during the army's six-week training course at Camp Wainwright, Alta. He found it in a field early this summer, fed ill-and now Brig has attached himself to the unit's 3 Field Ambulance RCAMC, part of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade Group. First Chinese Refugee Family Due on Aug. 7

OTTAWA (CP) — The first of the 100 Chinese refugee families Canada has agreed to admit as immigrants from Hong Kong will arrive in Canada Aug. 7.

The immigration department said Tuesday that four families of a total of 18 persons—will arrive in Vancouver on the 10:15 a.m. pacific coast and fly to Toronto that day.

The immigration department said the four families are among 32 families totalling 82 persons selected to date for emigration to Canada. The other families will be flown to Canada as soon as arrangements are made.

The refugee families being admitted to Canada all have arrived in Hong Kong since June 1 this year. The department has had some difficulty in meeting its 100-family objective because of the reluctance of refugees to make themselves known to Red officials are in Hong Kong illegally.

Gold Shares Take Beating As Result of Telstar Pledge

LONDON (Reuters) — President Kennedy's Telstar-transmitted offer to share the value of the United States-built has strengthened the currency on European markets while gold shares have taken a drubbing.

Gold shares on the London Stock Exchange, which lost about $18,000,000 Tuesday morning, rallied slightly later but took another steep tumble on Wall Street opened.

The American announcement also hit sterling, which showed a slight decline.

BUYERS SCARCE

The gold price was officially "fixed" in London at the same rate as Monday—$35.241/2 an ounce—but there were few takers as the recent heavy demand dropped off.

The dollar exchange rate rose sharply in continental Europe, particularly Switzerland.

Normally devaluation denials arouse some cynicism in financial circles and can even be self-defeating. But the fact that the American president used the Telstar conference to the 18-nation economy and offer to share the value of the United States gold reserves

Says 'Liz' Did Not Plead For Divorce Halt

NEW YORK (AP)— Actress Elizabeth Taylor did not plead by telephone with singer Eddie Fisher to stop his divorce plans, a lawyer for both says.

The lawyer, Louis Nizer, said Monday the estranged couple had authorized him to deny that Miss Taylor begged Fisher to stop his plans to end legally their three-year marriage.

Fisher, 33, said in Las Vegas earlier that the story was untrue.

Miss Taylor, 30, is reported to be staying at a villa in Switzerland.

Better Living Centre to Be Feature at Ex.

TORONTO — So what's new at the Ex?

Lots is new at the Ex, as a stroll around the grounds of the world's oldest and still largest annual exhibition will clearly show.

While carpenters hammer and painters paint in preparation for the August 17th opening of the 84th edition of the Canadian National Exhibition, final polish is being applied to new buildings and and in some old buildings which were torn down in the general face-lifting which marks this year's Exhibition.

Spick-and-span now is the $3,000,000 Better Living Centre which sits on the site once occupied by the Manufacturers' Building across the street from the Queen Elizabeth Building.

This building, described as the finest structure of its type in the world, will mirror all that is good in modern-day living.

The General Exhibits Building, located north of the old Administration Building, is no more. On the land once occupied by this building, the Canadian Navy, Army and Air Force will set up shop to display what's new in tools for Canada's arsenal.

Tenants in the Hydro Building for many years, the Ontario Hydro has moved to the Better Living Centre. This year the Hydro Building will house "Vetescope '62", an attraction presented by Canadian veterinary surgeons to familiarize the layman with the work done by animal doctors. Here actual operations will be performed on small animals and closed circuit television cameras will televise what is being done on the operating table.

TO SELL IMPORTS

An innovation which has long been sought by thousands attending the annual exhibition will be an International Shoppers' Market where products from 18 foreign countries will be offered for sale. Previously, hungry buyers who sought products with a foreign flavor could not make a purchase at the Ex. Now such products will be made available. The market will be set up in the West Annex of the Coliseum.

While some exhibitors are moving from their former quarters, the flower show is moving back home to the Horticultural Building. Here the display will be all new in concept. Centre islands of floral display and landscaping which will permit all-around viewing make an attractive change from the previous floor plan in the flower show.

Switches have been made in the agricultural exhibits. In times past, cattle moved into the barns after the Exhibition got underway and moved out before its conclusion. This year, the cattle barns will be in continuous operation, filled during the first half with dairy cattle and later with beef cattle. Champions and Reserve Champions will remain on the grounds for the duration of the exhibition.

Says Males Should Avoid Use of Milk

ADELAIDE (Reuters) — Percy Cerutty, the track coach who trained miler Herb Elliott, said today milk has a "psychologically terrible effect" on males and should be banned early in life.

He told Australian University students here:

"Addiction to milk makes a boy mother - drawn. Deep parts of his consciousness retain a link with his mother.

"Once he has the taste for milk he will never develop property as an individual."

Cerutty added: "We are approaching something like a matriarchal society. The fact that the Commonwealth can accept a queen as its head is evidence of this."

Victor Moore, Comedian, Dies

He started making motion pictures in 1916, almost always playing gentle and retiring comedians with a round-faced jovial smile.

PIONEER PULLER

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Mr. and Mrs. Ted Evans and family are holidaying for a week at a cottage, Oak Lake.

Sunday being an ideal day, many cars were seen going to the beach where swimming was enjoyed. Several took their lunch to spend the day.

Mrs. Harold Garrison spent a day last week with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Don Garrison, at Prescott.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spencer called on Mr. and Mrs. Townes of Frankford on Thursday afternoon.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. F. G. Dovey and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris were weekend guests, recently, of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Belch, at their lodge, Bird's Creek.

Foxboro canning factory has finished the pea canning for another season. Owing to the dry weather, they came along fast, hoping the rain will come to help the corn as the garden and raspberries are in need of rain also.

Suggests Bounty On Rattlers

TORONTO (CP) — Vernon Singer, Liberal member of the legislature, has suggested a government bounty on Massasauga rattlesnakes similar to the $25 bounty on wolves.

Suggesting a payment of as high as $30 a snake, the member for York South said the rattlers "have been hurting the tourist trade and are a menace to the community."

A 10-year-old Michigan girl died last week, a day after she was bitten by a Massasauga rattler 12 miles northeast of Penetanguishene on the east coast of Georgian Bay.

Lands and Forests Minister Spooner opposed the suggestion. He said many persons can not tell rattlers from other snakes.

TWEED — Mr. Arthur Courneyea, Belphide, has received notice of a promotion and with it a transfer to the accounting department of Brunner Mond Canada Ltd. at Amherstburg. Mr. Courneyea has served in the office at the Nichols' Chemical Co. plant at Belphide for over 20 years. He will take over his new duties at Amherstburg during the first week of August.

While in Belphide, Mr. Courneyea has been an active member of the Tweed Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion serving as secretary for several years and president for three and a half years. He was president for this year and, due to his transfer, was forced to resign at the regular monthly meeting on Wednesday night.

He will be succeeded by Mr. Bruce Price for the balance of the year.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — Mrs. J. Seekings, Sr., who had been a patient in Belleville Hospital since last accident, a couple of months ago, in which she suffered a fractured hip and arm, has returned at the home of her son, James and Mrs. Seekings, but is still confined to bed with the exception of an hour or two each day.

The condition of Mr. R. L. Carleton, who has been in Belleville Hospital for the past month is still considered serious.

Thomasburg softball team after winning all seven games played so far in the series, were defeated on the night of July 18, by Lonsmark of Tweed by a score of 5-4. However, Thomasburg still leads the league.

The Rev. L. Black, rector of Roslin parish, made several calls on parishioners around the village on Thursday last.

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. E. Porter and Mr. and Mrs Clayton Porter at the Porter home were Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Tice and Mrs. Hugh Cheney of Ottawa; Mr. Fred Coulter, of Roslin: Mrs. A. C. Porter and Miss Lois Geen of Plainfield; Mrs. W. A. Morton of Thomasburg, as well as relatives from Montreal and Campbell.

The rain which came on Friday night was most welcome, as there has been practically no rain at all during July.

Says Strike Not Reason For Transfer

PICTON—Officials of Teamsters Local 91 yesterday stated that the decision of Argosy Carriers Ltd. to move their business premises to Belleville, was not arrived at as a result of the present strike of drivers.

Secretary-treasurer of the Local, Gerry Miles stated, "This move by the company was contemplated before the strike occurred, in fact it had been considered for the past 18 months, but action was delayed until the new contract was signed so it means a good deal to the benefit of the Picton employees who will now operate out of Belleville."

Earlier, a Company spokesman told the reporter that the move was a direct result of the strike and the increased costs resulting, but denied by the Union that such a claim was made.

Clubs Discuss Building Curling Rink

PICTON — Picton Curling Club continues to study further the possibility of building its own club. Since its inception three years ago, it has used the ice and facilities at the County Agricultural and Recreation Centre at the Fair Grounds. Ice has been available for two days a week.

Under consideration has been the building of a club adjacent to the Centre, using the ice facilities there. However, there has not been keen in the summer and planning plans are somewhat delayed. Monday night some of the club directors met with the directors of the Golf and Country Club to see if they were interested in a building that might be used as a clubhouse and also for curling. Cost was estimated at $80,000. It was decided the executives of both clubs would meet later and discuss the possibility in more detail.

Police Probe Series of Minor Accidents

PICTON — Provincial Police are investigating a series of minor accidents which have occurred during the past few days. Though property damage was considerable no one was injured.

On the Waupoos Road, a car driven by Miss Carol Hughes of Waupoos left the road and overturned.

Maureen Cooper, 20 of Belleville escaped with a shaking up when her car overturned on County Road No. 4 about two miles west of Carrying Place. Damage to car was around $500.

Mr. Skidmore gave an illustrated talk on a recent trip to New Zealand. He was introduced by Mr. Harold McCaul, Director of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada and Graham Allan Baxter, vice-president of the Prince Edward County Club. C. E. Nelson, Fieldman, Holstein Friesian Association conducted a judging competition on two classes of cows. A halter production by the club for the 4-H club member who obtained the most points in the competition was won by Kathy Alexander, Hillier. There were approximately 250 holstein breeders and their families, friends and 4-H club members in attendance.

Walloping Willie Hits Homers 30-31

Giants Game Off Pace

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It took only one pitch for Robert G. Miller to prove he's a true New York Met.

Robert G. Miller is a left-handed pitcher. The Mets also have a Robert L. Miller, who is right-handed, and thereby lead the National League in Robert Millers.

Robert L's record is 0-3. Robert G. had never thrown a ball for the Mets before Tuesday night.

Then he threw one. Now he is 0-1.

Del Crandall hit the pitch for a home run in the bottom of the 12th inning to give Milwaukee Braves a 5-4 victory over the Mets. It was the ninth straight loss for the Mets, who are only one game over the .350 mark.

HITS TWO HOMERS

At the other end of the league, Willie Mays continued his batting rampage with homers No. 30 and 31 to lead San Francisco Giants to a 7-3 victory over Houston Colts. The win moved the Giants within a game of the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, edged 5-2 by St. Louis Cardinals.

Joey Jay got his 14th victory for Cincinnati Reds beat Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2, and Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia Phillies 5-3.

Houston righthander Dick Farrell, who admitted last Saturday that he is emotional, trimmed a wet pitch into his repertoire, and he'll find any way to stop Mays until it was too late. He served up solo homers to the majors' home run leader in the first and fourth innings.

In the sixth he hit Willie with a pitch. That didn't work, either, since Mays went on to score the Giants' final run on Orlando Cepeda's single and Felipe Alou's sacrifice fly.

WINS SEVEN STRAIGHT

Jack Sanford got his 12th win —and seventh in a row—for the Giants with help from Don Larsen, who came in the seventh inning after the Colts scored their only run.

The Dodgers, who meet the Giants in a three-game series in Los Angeles starting Friday, again received power hitting from Frank Howard but their vaunted baseline speed was missing.

The Cardinals twice threw out Ron Fairly at the plate as he tried to score first on doubles by Howard. Fairly was first erased in the fourth inning with the Dodgers trailing 2-1, and again in the ninth to end the game.

Stan Musial doubled home a run to tie the score in the fifth inning. It gave him 1,862 runs batted in to tie Mel Ott's National League record.

The Cards got the tie-breaker in the sixth when catcher John Roseboro threw a two-base error on Ernie Broglio's bunt and Curt Flood doubled him home. Broglio held the Dodgers to four hits. The win gave the Cards a 6-5 edge on the Dodgers for the season. Stan Williams is 1-1.

Musial also singled to boost his batting average to .301, tops in the league. Tommy Davis of the Dodgers slipped to .346.

SNAP LOSING STREAK

The Colts snapped their third seven-game losing streak of the season in beating the Phillies. Workhorse Art Mahaffey had a 9-1 lead for the Phils in the sixth inning when his right shoulder stiffened and he had to leave. The Colts got three runs in the seventh inning off Billy Smith and Jack Baldschun, DH Ron Santo's double the big blow.

Manager Casey Stengel left the Mets in the hands of coach Cookie Lavagetto as he went to an hour.

Kansas City to attend the funeral of his brother, but the story was the same.

The Mets picked up three runs in the first inning on a two-run homer by Felix Mantilla and a round-tripper by Frank Thomas. The Braves got two back in the same inning off starter Jay Hook, who also held Milwaukee in check until he left with a pulled side muscle in the sixth.

Jim Pickman made it 4-2 with a homer in the fourth inning. The Braves scored a run in the sixth and tied it in the ninth on Eddie Mathews' single after Lee Maye's double.

It stayed that way until the 12th when Miller came on to make his Met debut. The lefthander had worked 5 1-3 innings earlier in the year for Cincinnati Reds, compiling an earned run average of 23.40. After the pitch to Crandall it was 25.20.

Bob Shaw, who relieved Lew Burdette when he was lifted for pinch hitter in the eighth inning, won.

Leafs Whip Suns 6-2, Wings Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The old farm system trumps about "first in the majors, first in the minors" apparently is working in reverse for New York Mets and Washington Senators.

It took a good portion of the International League season to do it, but Syracuse Chiefs, with whom the Mets and Senators have a joint working agreement, have locked themselves in last place.

Richmond Virginians, who have had occupied the spot for a long stretch, downed the Chiefs 2-1 Monday night in the basement finale, Tuesday night by sweeping a doubleheader from Syracuse 3-2 and 5-1.

The Virginians won the opener in the seventh inning on a home run by Jack Hamilton and a throwing error by Jackie Waters, then beat Carl Mathias in the second game with a nine-hit attack.

GAME RAINED OUT.

The doubleheader formed half of a league program that also saw Toronto Maple Leafs capture a five-run victory over league - leading Jacksonville Suns, Columbus Jets defeat Rochester Red Wings 8-6, snapping the Red Wings' seven-game winning streak. The Buffalo-at-Atlanta game was rained out and was rescheduled as part of a twi-night header tonight.

Toronto scored runs in the fourth and fifth innings got Tortorello in control at Jacksonville and held Jacksonville Suns to five singles for the victory over league - leading Jacksonville Suns. Columbus Jets defeated Rochester Red Wings 8-6, snapping the Red Wings' seven-game winning streak. The Buffalo-at-Atlanta game was rained out and was rescheduled as part of a twi-night header tonight.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tonight isn't an exactly do-or-die evening for the Kenmore—but it can come awfully close—if they lose.

They meet the high-flying league-leading Kingston nine in the club's final scheduled clash of the season. It should be a thriller.

And if they want to assure themselves of a play-off berth in the Lakeshore League senior division, they had better get out there and get themselves a win.

A defeat won't exactly send them to the permanent showers, but a win bird-in-the-hand is worth more than a defeat chance of playing off with Peterborough.

Because if it so happens that the pesky pennant-led Canons come back them back on their haunches tonight, and the Foxs clip Port Hope and Kingston in turn, they will face a playoff situation with Bill Crowley's Littlechaps.

And the Crowley crew are ball-bent to make a play-off spot. They were supposed to play the Hopers Monday night but were rained out. However, they are riding high after winning four games in a row, having beaten our old-timers times and 'Quinte.

But let's not cross that bridge until it looms in sight. The big effort comes tonight. The Kenmies have to hitch up their best baseball britches and show this Compeau gang they want that playoff spot.

This Pester, starry all-rounder that he is, has had the whammy on our side the last couple of times out. It seems to be the Kingston strategy to have another hurler soften the other side up, and if he goes well, leave him there.

If not they yank him before too much damage is done and "Pommer" Foster is thrown into the breach. Usually he does a helluva good mound job and likes to check in a home-run for good measure.

But Pester can be beaten—and has been beaten by the Kenmore. If memory is correct they pounded him for fifteen clouts in an early-season game. And I think the Foxs took his measure in one of their fun-fests.

However, the Kenmore should forget any individual antagonists tonight and concentrate on a team effort. Their best power-swinging are too lumpy the last few times against the Foxs and Kingston. Gary Geyer is the only hitsmith to connect with any degree of consistency.

Kingston will be going all out tonight to keep a defeat on it. Kenmore not because they need the points but rather, if possible, the Foxs and Kingston into a playoff with the Foxs. You know, wear and tear on pitchers is a fall series.

The Littlekers will likely take the measure of the Port Hope Ontarios when they meet and that leaves their final schedule battle with Kingston next Saturday night. And the playoff chances of the Kenmore, if they lose tonight, will depend to a large extent on the outcome of the Kingston-Foxs tilt.

Almost anything can happen in this "If" series between tonight and Saturday. Of course if Port Hope goes up on its haunches and slaps the Foxs down—that's it, as far as Kenmore are concerned. They will step into the Foxs' playoffs next Monday night against Kingston.

So all-in-all to eliminate any further worry all the Kenmore have to do is go out there tonight and make Compeau's crew say "uncle." They can do it if they go for the game. Game time, 8.15 at the Fair Grounds.

The Lakeshore League senior division championship playoffs begin, as we said, next Monday night, presumably at Kingston, unless a second-third team playoff is necessary.

The finalists will meet in a three-of-five series, the winner to meet the winner of the western (intermediate) division for the league champion ship in a 5-5 or 4-7 series, as the team managements decide.

After the league championships are over the various' teams will go on into OBA playdowns, according to their particular classifications.

MAY CHANGE SYSTEM

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football League say they will consider joining the rest of the Canadian Football Conference in making exhibition game ticket purchases compulsory for season ticket buyers.

Commenting Tuesday after a crowd of only 4,500 watched British Columbia Lions defeat the Cats 30-20 Monday night, general manager J. G. Gardeur said: "We're the only club that doesn't include exhibition games in the season ticket package.

"Personally, I'm opposed, but the crowds like that put us at an economic disadvantage with other clubs in this country."

156 Eligibles Tee Off Tomorrow

MONTREAL (CP)—The big game, big-time pros take over today at the Canadian open golf championship for some practice with plenty of indications that they could rip par to shreds when the firing starts in earnest Thursday.

Par over the shaded Laval-sur-le-Lac course is 36-36—72 but the 6,555 yards are not rated as among the most difficult in Canada. On the basis of the performances turned in Tuesday by a flock of golf's season lights in a qualifying round many observers were tabbing it in terms of a final score of 10 under par to take the first-place $4,300 of the $30,000 prize money.

Although only six of the qualifiers broke par Tuesday, the observers were betting that the long-hitting pros who were eligible automatically on the basis of their previous performances would find the course to their liking.

A total of 89 players of Tuesday's field of 140 qualified to join the 57 automatically eligible for Thursday's starting field of 156. That field will be cut to the first 100 and ties Saturday and then to the first 70 and ties for Sunday's final round.

U.S. PROS LEAD

Six U.S. pros led the qualifying attack, three coming in with two-under-par 70s and three at one under par.

Chopping two strokes off the regulation total were Ed Fiddle of Chicopee Falls, Mass., Jay Dolan of Worcester, Mass., and Larry Mowry, Berkeley, Calif. At 71 were Don Byrd of Lake Wawasee, Ind., Tommy Wulff of New Orleans and Jack Rule Jr., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

World Series Golf

Reduce Field To Three

NEW YORK (AP)—The $75,000 World Series of Golf champions in September will be limited to Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

Original plans for the 36-hole medal-play competition, scheduled Sept. 8-9 at Akron, Ohio, were to match the champs of the four major world championship tournaments — the U.S. Open, Masters and British Open of the British Open. Since Palmer won both the Masters and the British tournament, there was speculation that another top pro would be invited to join the three.

But Walter Schwimmer, Chicago television producer and the PGA announced Tuesday that they and Nicklaus had decided to stick to the competition limited to champs participating in the new challenge match.

Player qualified by winning the PGA Sunday, Nicklaus by beating Palmer in a playoff for the U.S. Open last month.

PLAN OLD TIMERS' DAY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Six members of baseball's Hall of Fame—Joe DiMaggio, Joe Cronin, Carl Hubbell, Bill Terry, Frank Frisch and Paul Waner —are scheduled to participate in Old Timers' Day at Candlestick Park. More than 100 great players of the past will be represented.

CANADA IS SIXTH

FREDRIKSTAD, Norway (CP) — Canada's entry in the world championship Gold Cup races for dragon class yachts ended sixth Tuesday in a field of 58 crafts from 17 countries. This was the first in the five-race series. The winner was the yacht Carcoline, skipped by Henning Jensen of Denmark.

Blanks Nats For Shutout 49

Wynn Threw Rare '300'

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

If it had been anyone else, he might have smiled. But not Early Wynn.

The veteran Chicago White Sox righthander had things going all his own way. He had a four-hit shutout and was just three outs away from his 297th major league victory.

But Wynn's scowl—as much a trademark as his smooth pitching motion — darked his broad face as usual as he pitched to Bob Johnson, leading off the last of the ninth inning in Washington.

Johnson, who was only one when the 42 - year - old Wynn broke into organized baseball, hit a single.

Wynn bore down. Harry Bright grounded into a double play and Chuck Hinton flied to centre. This wrapped up a 6-0 decision over the Senators for Early, the 49th shutout of his career and three victories shy of the 300 circley which has been neared only 13 times.

Wynn's shutout, the best pitching performance in the American league Tuesday night, was the third straight victory for the White Sox and pulled them into a tie for fifth with Baltimore Orioles, who split a doubleheader with Los Angles Angels.

The Orioles won the first game 3-2 but the Angels recovered for an 8-5 decision in the nightcap. Lefthander Ted Bowsfield of Penticton, B.C., got credit for the Angels' triumph. The split cost the Angels half a game and left them three games behind the league-leading New York Yankees, who beat Boston Red Sox 3-2. Cleveland Indians edged Kansas City Athletics 5-4 and Detroit Tigers defeated Minnesota Twins 4-3.

Wynn struck out four men, walked only one and didn't allow more than one runner an inning in his effort against Washington. Joe Cunningham, Mike Hershberger and Al Smith hit home runs for Chicago.

The Yankees' Whitey Ford got credit for his 10th victory against five losses but needed help when Boston filled the bases in the ninth inning with one out. Bill Skowron drove in two runs with a double and a triple as the Yanks beat Boston for the seventh time in eight starts.

Steve Barber and Baltimore had a 3-1 lead going into the ninth inning of the opener at Los Angeles. The Angels got runners on second and third with one out and Hoyt Wilhelm had to come in to cut off the fire. He allowed a run-scoring single to Steve Bilko, then struck out the next two batters.

The Angels salvaged a split by ripping into Chuck Estrada for five runs in the third inning of the second game. Albie Pearson drove in three runs and scored another for Los Angeles.

Bowsfield took over in the second inning and went seven frames, giving up five runs off nine hits. He also had a two-hitter record to 6-4.

Rocky Colavito's run-scoring single in the ninth broke a 4-4 tie and gave Detroit its first victory over Minnesota in seven tries this season. Norm Cash's 27th homer tied it in the eighth inning. The Twins' Jim Kaat lost two teeth when hit in the mouth by a ground ball in the seventh frame.

Dick Donovan of the Indians won his 13th against four losses but had to have help when Kansas City added to one run with a two-run rally in the ninth. Mickey Kirkland's three-run homer in the first inning staked him to an early lead.

'Nine Possible Entries'

Senior 'A' To Try Again!

KITCHENER (CP) — Hockey fever from eight centres—representatives of which gathered earlier in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A conference—is expected to meet here Thursday night to attempt to set up a senior circuit with a modified salary scale.

Invited are team representatives from Windsor, Sarnia, Chatham, Woodstock, Kitchener-Waterloo, Galt, Toronto and Belleville. Representatives from Toronto Marlboros—Metropolitan and G and H Steel—have been invited.

Sam Fox of Windsor Bulldogs and Tom Jacquace of Chatham Maroons have been working to set up the new league.

Fox announced recently that Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League would not waive territorial rights for Windsor and there was no possibility of the Eastern Professional Hockey League club operating there. However, there was hope Detroit would send players help.

The league situation was clouded for Woodstock Athletics by the announcement of OHA President Lloyd Pollock that the club has been suspended by the Association for not forwarding $300 cheque from playoff games.

Athletics may send delegates to the Thursday meeting, but will have no vote.

Besides the tangled hockey situation in the Kitchener-Waterloo area has resulted in a re-drawing of schedules. Three clubs are in the running to occupy Kitchener-Waterloo Auditorium, Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers of the EPHL; Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers and Galt Terriers of the OHA senior division.

Position of the Beavers is expected to be cleared up by Friday, said Art Gallina, of Tim Mallock. The club, which lost $35,000 in one season, may be moved unless a local group is prepared to guarantee substantial cash to cover part of any deficit.

The sponsoring New York Rangers have offered to pay any losses up to $35,000, with Mallock said if Beavers returned it was unlikely any senior club would be permitted to play in the auditorium.

Koufax May Have Blood Clot

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southpaw Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles Dodgers, out of action because of a hand injury, says specialists think he may have a blood clot.

"But they tell me I have started to get some blood circulation back under finger," Koufax, who had won 14 games when forced to the sidelines recently, said Tuesday. "The pain is severe, however, and I can't do much anything."

"I just don't know what happened. I must have been gripping the ball too tightly.

"The doctors say the pain and sensitivity will last until full circulation is restored."

Doctors have estimated Koufax may be sidelined six weeks.

Names Berra, Runnels

Houk Bolsters All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — American League all-star manager Ralph Houk, bent on strengthening his lineup for the second inter-league test next Monday at Chicago, today picked Pete Runnels, the circuit's leading batter, and his own Yogi Berra as an all-star standby for more than a decade.

In a further bid to stem the rising National League tide, the Yankees skipper added Los Angeles's Ken Hubbs, the league's hottest pitcher, and lefthander Jim Kaat of Minnesota to his staff. Dropped was Boston's Bill Monbouquette, who hasn't hurled a complete game in nearly a month.

A 3-1 winner at Washington earlier this month, the Nationals go into the second all-star meeting with five victories and a tie in their last seven meetings with the rival circuit. Another victory would even the over-all series at 16 games apiece. At one point the Americans led 12 games to four.

This marks the 14th time that Berra has been picked on an all-star squad. The veteran, who has played a majority of the 14 games as a catcher, will be a spare outfielder while Runnels currently batting .337 for Boston Red Sox, is an added infielder.

McBride, winner of his last 10 decisions, has an 11-3 record and has blanked the opposition in his last 21 innings.

Houk also named Milt Pappas from Baltimore to his mound staff, replacing Hoyt Wilhelm. The Orioles knuckleballer has been picked for the first game but had to be replaced by Pappas at the last minute when he developed a sore shoulder.

Hitting—Willie Mays, Giants, hit his 30th and 31st home runs and led San Francisco to a 3-1 victory over Houston; pulling the Giants within one game of the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

Pitching—Early Wynn, White Sox, stopped Washington on five singles in Chicago's 6-0 victory, the 297th of his career and the 49th career shutout for the aging righthander.

Hook also named Milt Pappas from Baltimore to his mound staff, replacing Hoyt Wilhelm. The Orioles knuckleballer has been picked for the first game but had to be replaced by Pappas at the last minute when he developed a sore shoulder.

Delegates to the CAAO annual convention today read aloud a letter from Kenneth Farmer, chairman of the federal council, made request.

The CAAO had asked for a minimum of $1,000 to pay part of the travelling expenses for crews and scullers coming to next week's British Empire Games trials here.

CAAO officials said the request was made largely on behalf of the University of British Columbia crew, which is raising its expenses for travelling and housing during the trials at $8,000.

Meet Bobcats In Playoffs

Flyers Oust Juniors

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Rolling Construction Juniors bowed out of the B. and D. softball league playoff picture here last night when they dropped a 9-2 decision to a bustling RCAF Flyer squad.

The loss left Rollins in the league basement at the end of the schedule. Bobcats finished in third position at the end of the semi-final, round-robin playoffs against the Flyer in Trenton tonight at eight o'clock. All semi-final gates admission charges on these sports pages.

RCAF, led by "Corky" Corcoddean came up with one of their best fielding games of the year, got base hits when they counted most and got a five run first pitching chore from Mike Ratushniak.

Rollins scored the first run in the third inning on G. Duggan's double and Weston's infield hit. Then the Flyers took over. Alexander singled and Rode in on Mittz' base knock in the fourth and before the inning was over D. Cole and Corscoddean had also singled, the latter driving in two runs and to make it 3-1.

Drake and Alexander singled in the fifth and scored on outs by Mittz and D. Cole for a 5-1 count. Flyer starter Howie Cole walked four men in the bottom of the inning but Rollinsers got their final run. He gave way to Ratushniak with two outs and the bases loaded. Ratushniak got out of the inning unscathed, scattering three hits over the remainder to get the win. He struck out three and walked one. Cole allowed just two hits, whiffed seven but issued nine walks.

The Flyers scored it up with a trio in the seventh. Alexander and Mittz singled and both came on Kennedy's two-base double. Corscadden singled him home and Carter, error and Corscadden's ground out ended the scoring.

Scotty Holoway was the losing moundsman, giving way to brother Don in the seventh. Scotty was up ten of the winners' 11 hits, fanning four and walking four. Don struck out two and walked one.

Doug Alexander and Billy Mittz poked three singles each while Corky Corscadden had a pair to pace the RCAF. Wilf Kennedy doubled while Don Cole and Roger' Drake added singles.

Gery Duggan, with a double and single, Pete Weston, with two singles, and Joe Robitaille, with one, accounted for the Rollins hits.

While Rollins are out of the league playoffs, they will take part in the OASA Junior playdowns commencing in August.

Lightfoot Construction and Trudeau Motors, the teams that are battling for the lead and who will meet later for the right to represent Belleville in OASA Intermediate "AA" playdowns, met last night with Lightfoots trouncing Trudeaus 12-3.

Lightfoots, who have trailed Trudeaus by a few points all season, scored eight runs in the fourth inning last night and were never threatened.

Harry Powers, Junior Day in the fourth and Bob Brooks in the seventh, pitched for Trudeaus. They gave up 11 hits, fanned three and walked half a dozen.

Percy Long, with a homer and single, Don Wood, Don Smith and Doug Morsau, with two singles apiece, sparked the Lightfoot attack. Other hits went to Chuck Rowbotham, Tom Tyrrell and Don Dolan.

Canada's Bill Crothers

Faces Big Decision!

TORONTO (CP) — The risk of reinjuring a back thigh muscle has become the dominating factor in deciding what events top athlete Bill Crothers will try for in Canada's British Empire Games trials here Aug. 4 and 6.

Crothers, United States indoor 500-yard champion, this week will make a crucial decision, one which could keep him out of the 16-man team for the Games in Australia in November: Whether he should run his specialties, the 440 and 880, and risk reinjuring the muscle which kept him out of the U.S. championships in the speed bursts; or concentrate on the mile, an event which he's run only once, but which would pose less strain on his leg.

"We want to make sure he qualifies—the events don't matter," said Fred Foot, East York Track Club coach, said Tuesday. "Once he's on the team he can run whatever he chooses in Australia."

Crothers, who posted a 4:07 in his first mile after only a week of serious training following a two-week lay-off with his leg injury, may have to face wonderboy Bruce Kidd, who ran 4:01.4 Saturday, if he tries for the mile.

Willard Sues for Million!

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jess Willard, world heavyweight boxing champion from 1915 to 1919, is seeking more than $1,000,000 in damages on grounds that 47-year-old fight films were shown on network television without his consent.

Willard, 80, of suburban La Crescenta, filed two lawsuits in superior court Tuesday.

The films are those of Willard's historic 26th - round knockout of Jack Johnson by which the famous "white hope" captured the heavyweight crown. Willard lost it in 1919 by a knockout to Jack Dempsey.

Defendants in the suit allegding invasion of privacy and infringement of the right of publicity are the Columbia Broadcasting System and the Schlitz Brewing Company. Jimmy Jacobs and Turn of the Century Fights, Incorporated.

Will Hit Players In Wallet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The president of Baltimore Orioles threatens to hit his players where it really hurts—in their pocketbooks — unless the club shows more aggressiveness and spirit.

"There are going to be some sharp revisions in Baltimore's 1963 salary scale if this does not soon become evident," Lee MacPhail said Tuesday.

He expressed no dissatisfaction with the work of field manager Billy Hitchcock. On the contrary, he said, "it is my conviction that Billy has done a good job under difficult conditions."

Peterborough's Pam to Leave YWCA for Chicago Playboy Club

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Freckled Pamela Ann Gordon, 19, whose promenade in a bikini and an open shirt stopped traffic in downtown Peterborough, is taking her 39-23-35 talents to Chicago.

Vancouver-born Pam, now ensconced in the local YWCA while she awaits her visa, startled the folks back home when she appeared in nude spread across the pages of Playboy magazine.

As a result of the pin-up appearance, Pam was offered a job as a hostess at one of the magazine publisher's "men only" clubs.

Pamela's manager, R. A. Ferris, brought her to Peterborough from her home in Vancouver recently and it wasn't long before she stirred up the local population.

In her bikini and unbuttoned man's shirt, she stepped out of a car and walked across the street. Car horns started honking and pedestrians stopped to stare. Police didn't care for the idea but they didn't bring any charges.

Pam, who is paid such backhanded compliments as "I certainly wouldn't let my son go out with you," thanks a photographer she met in Vancouver for the break that led to her magazine appearance.

WENT TO HOLLYWOOD . .

Te photographer persuaded her to model in the nude, then submitted his black-and-white photographs to the magazine. Publisher Hugh Heffner called her and said he wanted her to go to Hollywood for te full series. 23-23.

Pam didn't get along with the Hollywood photographer and she flatted twice in the 10-degree heat. Then the magazine editors rejected the first batch of pictures because they didn't like the poses. Pam's dyed blonde hair or her dusting of freckles. 75.

The result was that Pam was in Hollywood for three weeks. The final session under the lights lasted seven hours.

The spread in Playboy cost Pam at least two friends in Vancouver—girls, who have decided 11. not to speak to her anymore. But whatever it did for her social standing, it was good for the publishers. The edition sold out four times in Vancouver.

The Chicago club job may be only another stepping stone for Pam. She's taking singing, dancing and acting lessons and will pay for them with the money she earns.

Actor, 2 Years' Experience, May Be in Line For Oscar

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It is not given to many men to find a totally new career at age 35 and to make a whopping success of it.

Just that has happened to Telly Savalas, a man with an improbable name and a face to match. He has worked steadily in the 2½ years since he turned actor, and he may well be the favorite for next year's Oscar for supporting actor.

Who says so? Burt Lancaster says so. And so do I. It's the first time we've agreed on anything in years.

You have only to see Birdman of Alcatraz to see what we've talking about. Telly (short for the Greek version of Aristotle) plays the con in the next cell, and his comedy brightens the otherwise stolid theme.

Born to Greek immigrants, he spoke Greek well, understood Turkish and other Middle East cultures. His work prompted a job as a news producer at ABC, then he resigned to take a role for a little theatre project in Stamford, Conn.

FOUND HE HAD TALENT ,

"I discovered I had an amazing talent for raising money," he said.

Raising the cash was easy, making the theatre go wasn't. The enterprise ended in disaster, and Telly retired to the home of an aunt to hide from his creditors.

Then day a phone call came out of the blue. A television casting agent said she knew he had worked with fortitude; could he find an old man with heavy accent to play a small role as a judge? He said he could and he enlisted a friend.

Next day the agent called to complain that the man hadn't shown up. Telly said he would take care of it. He couldn't reach his friend, so he appeared for the interview himself, faking a heavy accent. He was hastily accepted, and makeup gave him the proper aging.

And he has worked ever since, in television and then in films like Young Savages, Birdman and now The Man From the Diner's Club with Danny Kaye.

WESTERNS POPULAR

The TV western "The Riddleman" starring Jack Cassidy is among top-rated shows from Canada to Mexico, Australia and Japan.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN— Donald O'Connor stars in the title role of Joseph Lerner's "The Wonders of Aladdin", opening Thursday at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. The M.G.M. release was filmed in Eastman Color and CinemaScope. 2nd screnium-packed feature also in color is "Journey to the Seventh Planet", and stars John Agar.

Astrological Forecast

For July 26
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Curb tendency to make hasty decisions. Ideas are presented at fast clip. Take time to analyze. Temptation is to "get away." But too much hurrying proves costly.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Emphasis on material. You want to show love, appreciation through gift, entertainment. But others could misinterpret motives. Stick to simplicity. Say what you mean. Avoid parables, analogies.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Your day to shine! Cycle up. Indications are that you meet stimulating people. Be dynamic. Transform Gemini restlessness into creative activity. Good for romance, business, writing.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Time to "take inventory." Realize what it is you need and what should be discarded. Face secret fears. By so doing, those fears vanish. Tonight excellent for entertainment, dinner party.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21): Natural for you to want to be out among people now. Just avoid trap of spending for things you do not need. Extravagance can cause misunderstandings in your contacts with friends.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Trying to "top" associates could prove costly mistake. Instead, be diplomatic, willing to learn. Stress is on advancement, improvement. This is best accomplished by co-operative attitude.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Favorable lunar aspect today means you can receive needs, desires of others, including loved ones. Let intuitive intellect have full play. Trust hunches. Permit Libra charm to flower!

Scorpio (Oct. 2 to Nov. 21): Investigate recent actions of business associates. There could be minor misunderstanding. Today would be excellent for put-cards on table. If you do so, all is favorable.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Strive to achieve basic needs. Avoid superficial action. One who attempts to guide you may be well-meaning, but ill-informed. Best to take second look. Avoid actions based on impulse.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) Like Aries, fight temptation to decide on spur of moment. Fellow workers may come to you with suggestions. All sound good, and could be well-intentioned. But best course is to take your time.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Sparkling day ahead if you share interests, hobbies. Especially good for romance, for permitting expansive, Aquarian personality to "give off sparks." In business affairs, stick to your guns.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Like Gemini, stress is on communication. Make wishes clear. Do so, through conversation, writing, personal contacts. Especially good for planning future security. Important: Face issues squarely.

* * *

If today is your birthday . . . year is one which could see you improving conditions. Month of November is highlighted as one of most significant. You are natural showman. And you are in process of building for future.

* * *

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Wednesday, July 25, 1962 23

150 Million Are Infected By Skin-Boring Parasite

ROME (CP)—A minute parasite that bores through the skin and makes its home in the human body is responsible for chronic illness in 150,000,000 people in Asia, South America, the Middle East, Africa and the Philippines.

The disease, called bilharziasis or schistosomiasis or, more commonly, snail fever has been known for centuries.

Victims are debilitated by it. They grow sluggish in their movements, suffer chronic tiredness and are unable to think and act quickly.

It is estimated that about 300,000 Filipinos are afflicted by it and that it is responsible through illness for loss of $6,000,000 worth of agricultural production annually to the islands.

Only comparatively recently has the cycle of snail fever become known. The adult parasitic worms in the blood of a mature human belng live 30 years, with the female continuously producing eggs. These eggs are ejected from the body in urine and faeces and, on contact with water, become free-swimming larvae.

After about six weeks a worm, no small it is invisible to the naked eye, emerges and swims around until it finds a snail or human victim, upon which it bores through the skin.

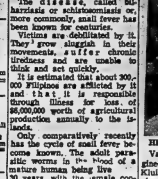
CONTROL EFFORT

United Nations experts from the Food and Agricultural Organization have been working with the Philippines government and the World Health Organization in an effort to eliminate the snails by destroying the weeds that harbor the snail colonies.

Following a pilot project, a Canadian expert, parasitologist Ludovicus Tempelman - Kluit, Confidential Report published by the FAO late in 1960 to advise on methods of tackling the job, Tempelman-Kluit was at the Rome headquarters of FAO after completing his assignment before returning home to join a firm of consulting engineers in Vancouver.

"I found that agricultural practices could certainly be improved," he said. "The land is kept permanently covered by weeds and little is rarely carried out, while few farmers bother to level up the land or to rotate the crops.

"It was therefore quite obvious that major changes would have to be corrected before any improvement results take place. I recommended proper water control, which would involve the building of dykes and drain, with proper attention to the quality of the water and avoidance of excess water on the land. Then, of course, regular weeding, crop rotation and correct preparation of the land, levelling it off before the plants are put in."



FOUND RESISTANCE

Tempelman-Kluit, a native of The Netherlands who went to Canada in 1954, added that the major problem was to get across to the farmers the idea that attempts to eliminate the disease would not also eliminate the crop.

A demonstration area was set up to show that these two aims could be achieved fairly simply. But mass education must be undertaken, he said.

When he created a small demonstration farm, the snail count was cut by 90 per cent per square yard. The terraces were rearranged and the land levelled off. Ditches were dug. Weeding was carried out constantly. After 12 months only two snails could be found in the entire area.

He emphasized that the eradication of the disease is a long-term problem. It has been estimated it would take 177 years and the full expenditure of $10,000,000 to complete all the needed control work.

HELPED FIGHT SNAILS

Vancouver agricultural engineer Ludovicus Tempelman-Kluit worked in the Philippines for the United Nations in a project to eliminate disease-producing snails. He was sent there in 1960 by the Food and Agricultural Organization. Tempelman-Kluit, a native of The Netherlands, has since joined a firm of consulting engineers in Vancouver. — (CP Photo).

Algiers Ready To Resist Army Of Vice-Premier

Danger of Civil War Said to Be Real

BULL-HEADED BULL—This 2-year-old registered Angus bull was gored and fractured foreleg after he and another bull on a farm in Alabama, bull-headedly refused to settle a dispute peacefully. So he'll sit on the sidelines four to six weeks with his leg in a splint rigged by a local veterinarian. — (AP Wirephoto).

ALGIERS (AP)—Algiers and the mountain area of Kabylia prepared today to resist the victorious advance of troops of dissident vice-premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

Most 7½ years of rebellion against the French and three weeks of independence, the new nation of Algeria found itself at the threshold of civil war.

Soldiers of the Algerian "autonomous zone" took up positions Wednesday on the approaches to the white-washed city. From the Moorish-style summer palace, Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda warned that the danger of civil war was real and pleaded for unity.

A group of ministers of Ben Khedda's government left the capital and set up headquarters in the Kabylie mountains, 65 miles east of Algiers, amid several Berger guerrillas of Wilaya 3 (Zone) III. They called on the population and on the guerrillas who fought for independence to organize resistance to Ben Bella "in every town, village, and hamlet."

BELLA CLAIMS POWER

Regular army troops and gendarmerie units in Algiers appeared to control three fourths of the country, with Kabylia the only area where centers of organized resistance in the hands of the opposition were reported.

Shots rang out and blood flowed in the streets of Algiers capital of Constantine when troops loyal to Ben Khedda tried to resist the advance of the force by the opposing faction.

Both Algiers and Constantine and the Mediterranean seaport of Bone were in the hands of Ben Bella troops who moved up from the Tunisian frontier region.

Ben Bella's forces were in Bone, but authorities in Algiers reported there were "many dead and wounded" in Constantine.

Reuters news agency said a communique issued by anti-Ben Bellists reported that about 20 persons were killed and several dozen wounded in Constantine.

Ben Bella's Press release reported some guerrilla forces opposing Ben Khedda were still holding out in Constantine, but that three battalions of Willaya 3 were arriving to reinforce them eastward from the Kabylie to defend the city.

TROOPS ROLL EASTWARD

Ben Khedda, in a newspaper-ran ing revolutionary, appeared to be wasting time taking the power he dreamed of during the first years in French prisons.

Belkacem Krim and Mohammed Khider, two other leaders in efforts "until the last drop of blood."

Behind them were tough guerrillas of Col. Mohand Ould Hadj, who broke away from Algiers. They set up roadblocks and began to fortify towns and villages dotting the green mountains rising sharply off the Mediterranean.

The Kabylie force numbered 10,000 when they formed. Each cease-fire ended the French-Algerian fighting. But, it is believed they have been considerably bolstered by recruits and Moslems from the French units.

DAIRY COUNCIL WELCOMES RISE IN BUTTER USE

Denies That Subsidy Not Aiding Farmers

OTTAWA (CP) — Increased consumption of dairy products indicates a strong position and excellent prospects for the trade, the National Dairy Council of Canada says in a statement on behalf of its processors and manufacturers.

The statement Wednesday denied claims that manufacturers rather than dairy farmers are getting the benefit from government subsidies.

It followed bureau of statistics figures showing that consumption has picked up in the past year after declining for several years.

As of May 1, the government implemented a $42,000,000 a-year subsidy program designed to cut prices 12 cents a pound while farmers continued to get a support price of 46 cents a pound for top grades.

"The industry is very encouraged by the increases in consumption of butter," said President Pierre Cote of the dairy council. "In the last three months (April, May and June) as a result of the lower retail price, consumption of this product has increased by 15 per cent or 9,000,000 pounds compared to the same period of last year."

MILK SALES UP

Sales also were up for fluid milk and cream by three per cent over 1961. He said ice cream sales are a record six per cent higher for the first half of the year and those of cottage cheese, cheese, skim milk powder and evaporated milk also are higher.

Mr. Cote said he was concentrating in view of a proposal by the Institute of Edible Oil Foods, representing competitive margarines, butter substitutes and other dairy product rivals, that the government withdraw the 15-cent-a-pound butter subsidy because manufacturers rather than farmers are benefitting.

Mr. Cote said farmers receive 100 per cent of all government subsidies on dairy products, which he reckoned at $50,000,000 or more a year.

Latest bureau of statistics dairy figures show government stocks of creamery butter and butter oil—a reduced form with better long shelf-life — totalled 182,604,000 pounds, July 1 — a big cut with 167,210,000 pounds a year earlier. The main increase was in butter oil—up to 26,373,000 pounds against 27,625,000 last year.

The bureau said Wednesday the decline in stocks of butter and butter oil in May totalled 35,100,000 pounds — a 15 per cent more than a year earlier. June figures unofficially indicate another increase in consumption of about 4,500,000 pounds compared with June, 1961. But only about 1,500,000 pounds of this may be distributed to housewives taking advantage of the cheaper butter price, informants said. The rest would be due to increased use by processors and manufacturers.

Macmillan Ready to Defend His Government

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan today prepared to defend his government against an opposition censure motion. He was confident of the support of his Conservative party backbenchers.

Macmillan was to open the debate on the censure motion, laid down last week after the prime minister's sweeping cabinet changes, which brought him under fire from his own party ranks.

But any chance of the massive Conservative defections needed to pass the censure motion and topple the government was apparently quashed Wednesday when Macmillan was reported to have consolidated the allegiance of the rank and file with a rousing speech at a private luncheon given for the prime minister annually by Conservative members.

Most reports from the luncheon, closed to outsiders, said Macmillan was given a "considerable ovation."

After the luncheon, Conservative whips said they were convinced the opposition's "no confidence" motion would end in triumph for the prime minister. The opposition has an overall majority of 94 in the Commons.

The censure motion calls for the government to dissolve Parliament and call a general election.

Reliable sources said Macmillan had told Conservative members that the government's policy would be keynoted by "efficiency and growth" and told them the Conservatives could win the next election.

Rusk Will Tell Kennedy Reds Toughen Berlin Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and State Secretary Rusk face today the task of mapping a new move in the diplomatic dispute with Russia over Berlin.

Rusk returned Wednesday from Geneva and was rushed off to meetings with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko. He was expected to tell Gromyko that the Russian attitude on Berlin seems to be toughening, but that there is no indication of imminent crisis.

During the next few days Kennedy, Rusk and other administration policymakers will be occupied with another issue of great urgency — deciding what new proposals the United States may make for reducing inspection requirements for a nuclear test ban treaty with Russia.

Rusk and other cabinet members meet today for a discussion of this problem based on new scientific information recently announced by the defence department. Kennedy Friday will meet at the White House with 10 or 12 key advisers in the hope that a final decision can be reached quickly.

In London, British officials said that the new proposals will be presented to the Geneva disarmament conference within the two weeks. U.S. officials thought the action might be taken even more quickly.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home told the British Parliament the terms for a nuclear test-ban accord may be eased, but he said on-site inspections still will be needed.

Meanwhile, the U.S. disarmament chief, William C. Foster, discussed atomic test-ban safeguards at a closed session of the Senate disarmament subcommittee. The chairman, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat, reported that Foster had said the United States has not yet decided whether to modify the safeguard proposals and still believes the on-site inspections are needed to prevent cheating.

Foreign Ministers Leave, Parley Gets Back to Work

GENEVA (Reuters)—The 17-Nation disarmament conference got back to work without the long three foreign ministers today after adopting procedures that may compromise similar to that which brought the Laos conference to a successful end.

The deadlock-breaking procedural agreement was a U.S. - State Secretary Rusk returned to Washington, Russian Foreign Minister Gromyko left for Moscow today, and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home returned to London Tuesday.

The foreign ministers were here to sign the declaration of Laotian neutrality adopted by the 14-power Laos conference.

Jury Vindicates Doctor In Muskoka Snakebite Case

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)— A coroner's jury has vindicated a doctor who passed up the use of snakebite serum for a girl who died of rattlesnake venom because he doubted that she had been bitten.

But the five-man jury recommended the use of antivenene serum in similar future cases even when such doubts exist.

The inquest found that Dr. Gerald William Murphy of Rochester, N.Y., acted in the best interest of 10-year-old Nora Jean Armitage of Grosse Pointe, Mich., "as he diagnosed her condition."

Dr. Murphy testified during the nine-hour hearing that he was not convinced the girl had been bitten by a rattler although her seven-year-old sister said so. He feared an injection of antivenene, obtained by the girl's mother at a nearby medical centre, might have been dangerous.

Nora Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Armitage of Grosse Pointe, a suburb of Detroit, died 10 hours after she was bitten July 17 near the family cottage at the Georgian Bay island resort of Cognashene.

Dr. Murphy, vacationing nearby, examined the girl twice during the day but said he felt her upset stomach and semi-conscious state might have been the result of a fall. In the evening, he noticed a blueness around the girl's head and

Believe Mosquitoes May Cause Cancer Among African Children

MOSCOW (AP)—The odd distribution of a form of cancer among children in a mosquito belt of tropical Africa supports the theory that at least some human cancers are caused by mosquitoes, a Soviet doctor says.

This cancer in Africa occurs almost exclusively in a broad belt that stretches across the tropics from the Atlantic to the west coast of the continent—the belt that is the haunt of certain mosquitoes and of other insects called "tabonids," a Uganda doctor reported to the eighth international cancer congress now in session here.

Dr. D. H. Wright of Kampala said he believes the disease is caused by some still unidentified virus which may be carried by insects in the area.

He described the tumor as a lymphoma, a cancerous process involving the lymph system.

It's a disease found most often in children three to six years old.

In most victims, the cancer primarily affects the jaw, but also may affect the kidneys, adrenal glands, liver, ovaries, testicles, thyroid and part of the abdomen.

"The tumor is not confined to African children," the doctor said, explaining that Asians and Europeans are affected.

GREEN HOPEFUL BAN AGREEMENT WILL WORK OUT

Public Opinion Is Big Factor

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green arrived from Geneva early today and said he is "very hopeful" an agreement on ending nuclear weapons tests will be worked out at the 17-nation disarmament conference.

Despite the Soviet Union's announcement it will resume tests, Mr. Green said in an interview this is the area in which agreement is likely to come first" at the Geneva talks.

"It becomes more difficult for the great powers to resist public opinion every time they conduct these tests," he said.

His speech Tuesday at Geneva had been designed to encourage the eight neutral members of the disarmament body in their opposition to tests. It also "put the nuclear powers on warning that people are very upset about all this."

DIFFERENCES STRESSED

Requirements for policing an agreement are not as extensive as the West contends, he believed, Mr. Green noted. He replied "yes, I do" when asked whether he foresees the United States and Russia have overcome differences on the inspection point.

"The great difficulty in this whole affair is confidence. I think that there is so much distrust and suspicion between the two great countries.

"When one makes a suggestion the other immediately suspects there is something wrong or not right about that suggestion. I think that public opinion generally are the big hurdler to get over in the disarmament negotiations."

Canada regarded as a "very good idea" suggestion at the conference that it adjourn when the United Nations General assembly opens in New York in mid-September.

POLICE CALLED

All available Hamilton police then were called out to guard fallen power lines and clear traffic from streets blocked with trees.

Harbor police said winds picked up from the south to west to between 55 and 65 and the temperature dropped within minutes from 77 degrees to 60.

Fire department officials said several fires started by lightning were quickly extinguished by heavy rain.

At London, three buildings were hit by lightning and three tents at an army camp were blown down. About 400 millimeters at Crumlin, Ont., workmen struggled to keep 120 tents from being set afire by lightning and rain for a half hour.

KITCHEN BURNS

A kitchen wall burst into flames at the Lorne home of Mr. and Mrs. David Ruiz. They were sitting outside the small but weren't hurt. Damage was confined to the kitchen.

Lightning struck the Redfit Wood Specialties plant at Ajax, causing a fire police said was estimated $50,000 damage. No one was injured.

An 11-year-old Toronto boy suffered stomach burns when lightning struck a tree where he, boy, David Cole, apparently had been holding a steel pole which supported the garage roof.

Lightning Tips Canoe, Believe Boy Drowned

TIMAGAMI, Ont. (CP)—Provincial Police today were investigating nearby Net Lake for the body of a 16-year-old Toronto boy presumed to have drowned during an electrical storm.

The boy, Ernest Hall, was in a canoeing party from Camp Kitchi Kiwa in the Parry Sound district.

Police said the boy's canoe capsized Tuesday night or by a bolt of lightning. Another boy in the canoe, who managed to swim to shore said Hall, a strong swimmer, disappeared under the water. Search unsuccessful and was now seen again.

Republican Chairman Is Exposed As Man Leading a Double Life

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — William E. Cobb, North Carolina's 44-year-old Republican state chairman, was exposed Wednesday night as a man who has been leading a double life.

The Charlotte Observer and the Knoxville News-Sentinel revealed in copyrighted stories that Cobb, a Morganton, N.C., lumber dealer, maintains a home in Roanoke for a common-law wife and two children, while living in Morganton with his legal wife and adopted son.

Cobb dictated a statement to Observer reporter Jim McKnight in, which he admitted the double life he had and he would resign his party post immediately and withdraw as a candidate for the governorship.

Cobb told the Observer:

"All men make mistakes. I guess it would be unnatural if this didn't happen . . . I made my mistake and I'm responsible."

Investigation by the two newspapers showed Cobb maintained a home in Roanoke under the name of W. Edward Cobb. There, he kept a girl identified only as Linda and two sons by her.

The two newspapers began their investigation after Cobb's picture appeared in a national weekly magazine, along with three other young southern Republican leaders.

Neighbors of W. Edward Cobb in Roanoke noticed the resemblance of William Cobb to their friend, who travelled frequently. They provided the evidence to the Roanoke Times.

Their investigation almost closed that William E. Cobb made frequent trips by private plane to Morganton and to Roanoke, and while there drove an automobile registered to his Morganton firm, Morganton Hardwoods Incorporated.

Armed with these "coincidences," Observer reporters visited Cobb at Morganton Wednesday night. Leaving a political meeting, Cobb invited the reporters into his station wagon.

"Let's stop kidding around. You fellows know the truth," he was quoted as saying. "I'm not innocent, but that girl up there (in Roanoke) is almost innocent, and there are children and others who are innocent."

Margaret Water-Skis In Tight Suit

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret has taken up water skiing.

But the princess does it differently than Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

The difference between Britain's cooler summer weather and the torrid temperatures in the United States probably account for the difference in garb.

With the temperature hovering in the low 70s most of the time, Margaret wore a body-hugging rubber suit to protect her legs.

Margaret also showed a flowered French bathing cap.

Social Credit, Liberals Will Oppose Douglas

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Liberal and Social Credit parties say they will run candidates in Burnaby-Coquitlam riding when a byelection is called to allow Tommy Douglas to return leader of the New Democratic Party, to bid about a seat in the House of Commons.

The constituency's Liberal association decided Wednesday night it will place a candidate—not yet nominated—in the riding. The decision came a few hours after Martin Kelln, new president of the Social Credit Association, said idle party will definitely have a candidate in the byelection.

New Democrat Erhart Regier said he'll handily be the June 18 federal election and re-elected earlier this month to represent Burnaby to seek election.

The NDP leader was defeated there in the Skeena constituency.

Premier Diefenbaker has given no indication when a byelection will be held.

Intoxication, Having Knife Costs $26

A birthday party celebration resulted in a $26 fine for 32-year-old Murray Whitmore when he appeared before Magistrate T. V. Wills this morning, charged with being intoxicated in a public place and for having an offensive weapon, namely, a hunting knife, in his possession.

Constable Howard Adamson of the Ontario Provincial Police, told the court that on July 21 he received a call to the residence of a Mr. Milligan at Glenn Ross. On his arrival he said he found a vehicle on the side of the road near the Milligan home, with two people sitting in it.

Constable Adamson said as he approached the vehicle he opened the door and a man who was later identified as the accused, stepped from the car. He said as Whitmore passed him he observed a knife, with a four-inch blade, protruding from the top of his belt. The constable said the man was "too far gone" to tell him what he was doing with the knife.

Whitmore was fined $100 and costs for being intoxicated and $10 and costs for carrying an offensive weapon.

Common Market Negotiators Make Progress

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — British and Common Market negotiators today agreed on the procedure to be adopted to safeguard Commonwealth interests if world commodity agreements have not been signed by 1970.

The ministers agreed that if there were no world agreements by 1970, there would be consultations with Commonwealth and any other countries prepared to participate and each worked out on a narrow, geographical basis, sources close to the negotiations said.

No further details were avail.

Meanwhile, Duncan Sandys, Britain's minister for Commonwealth relations and colonial secretary, flew here from London today to participate in the negotiations on Britain's application for membership in the six-nation West European trade bloc.

Viet Nam Reds Expected to Up Offensive

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials anticipate a mounting Communist guerrilla offensive in South Viet Nam in the next 60 to 90 days.

Informed sources said today Defence Secretary McNamara was told at his Honolulu conferences that it is highly possible the Communist Viet Cong will step up their attacks to counter increasing pressure from U.S. - supported government forces.

American authorities, it was learned, also believe the Communists may become more aggressive as part of a drive to establish a rump regime in South Viet Nam.

High U.S. officials are worried that the Communist North Viet Namese may try to follow the pattern that worked so well in neighboring Laos.

There, the Communist Pathet Lao rebels seized control of a portion of the country and organized a regime that challenged the rightist government in Vientiane. Ironically, the rightists were unseated and replaced by a neutralist regime.

Farm Problem Palliatives Are Ruled Out

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Lesage says the Quebec government doesn't intend to use short-term artificial measures to bolster a declinging agriculture industry.

"In agriculture, just as in many other spheres, the age of palliatives is definitely over," the premier told a meeting Wednesday of agricultural ministers from the 10 Canadian provinces. "Proper action must be based on deep and enlightened thinking."

Mr. Lesage said Quebec farms are generally small and must be consolidated to allow economic investment in agricultural machinery.

Through the Farm Credit Act, the government was helping farmers mechanize and improve their farmlands and livestock.

"The government does not have the slightest intention of evading its responsibilities as far as agriculture is concerned but at the same time, will not put it into an artificial framework to which it would only end in stagnation," he said.

Mr. Fine stepped into the situation Tuesday, three days after 1,000 brewery workers in the Toronto local voted their executive authority to strike at any time to back up wage demands.

NEW OFFER

The last package offer made by industry to the union tendered a six-cent-an-hour increase effective Aug. 1 with a further wage guarantee for unemployed union members. The union seeks a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase and $75 guaranteed weekly wage for non-working employees.

The 10-cent pay hike would see the lowest-paid brewery worker earning $104.40 a week in 1964.

The union could call a strike at any time which would cut off beer across the province within a few days but Mr. Fine said it is unlikely a strike will take place as long as the talks are going smoothly.

East German Agent Blows Berlin Wall

BERLIN (Reuters) — A 25-year-old youth who admitted causing the explosion which tore holes in the Berlin border wall Wednesday said he built West Berlin police that he is an agent of the East German secret service, Vopo Wall Watch said today.

But a police spokesman said the youth denied having set off the blast on orders of the East Germans.

The youth claimed he wanted to help the Communists build the wall because East German police were shooting at escaping East German refugees there.

The youth, whose name was not revealed, was found near the scene of the explosion with arm injuries Wednesday night.

Says Economy Needs Early Cut in Taxes

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy has decided that the United States economy needs an early cut in corporate and personal income taxes, according to well-placed sources in Washington, the New York Times says.

The president will propose a reduction next month if key members of Congress give him reasonable assurance of speedy action, a Washington dispatch to The Times adds.

Ratepayers' Association Asks Township's Assistance In Fighting Annexation

TRENTON — The Trenton Ratepayers' Association, president, Mr. Alfred Vaughan, has pledged to assist the Township of Murray in any fight against annexation of parts of the township by the Town of Trenton.

Mr. Vaughan and Douglas Hyde, vice-president of the ratepayers' group, appeared before Murray Township council last night, and at the end of the meeting, asked for township assistance in fighting the annexation move.

"I think if anything, you should be backing us", said Reeve Douglas McMaster of Murray.

"We're not against progress", said Mr. Vaughan, official spokesman for the 90-odd member organization, "but we think the town should be built up before any annexation is carried out".

When informed that the town had three annexation applications before the Ontario Municipal Board for property, separate by-laws for two different Murray Township areas and one section of Sidney Township, Mr. Vaughan promised the Ratepayers' Association would be present at any hearing. He said that at that time, the association would register protest against the annexation to the OMB representatives.

ASK QUESTIONS

Before they left, Councilor for association support in any township fight against annexation, Mr. Vaughan told Mr. Hyde they had some searching questions to ask of the township council concerning:

"Does Murray intend to fight annexation?"

"We intend to get the best deal possible for the township," the reeve replied.

"If annexation goes through, would the resulting taxes carry such things as servicing, or would the people of Trenton have to keep on the street?" asked Mr. Vaughan.

"When I went at a meeting of the Good Roads' Association this year," said Murray councillor Jean Bullock, "I had a planning expert tell me that taxes in the city of London were doubled after the annexation of 5400 acres. Something similar took place in St. Catharines and Peterborough."

"If part of your township is annexed, what will the township derive for the loss of assessment?" asked Mr. Hyde.

"Well, we're not going to sustain a loss without compensation," Mr. McAuley assured him.

"When the town took over the Champlain Heights area, we were paid rent for ten years," Reeve Bullock pointed out.

"Has Murray a planning board, and if not, why not, and what do you intend to get one?" was the next ratepayers' question.

"Murray has been included in the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board," Reeve McMaster told the two men, "but Murray had only one representative on the board, while Trenton had six. We have asked for a release from the Planning board and will form a planning board as soon as that release comes through."

HAVE LAWYER

Other questions were: "Does Murray have a lawyer to fight annexation?" Answer: "one of the top ones in Canada"; "Is anyone purchasing property in the Sidney sub-division (west of Trenton, in Murray) required to sign an agreement that he won't oppose annexation?" answer: "We are led to believe that this is the case".

Mr. McAuley had a question to ask the Ratepayers' representatives.

"If Trenton gets a second bridge, will it be an 'overhead' bridge or a swing bridge?" (Nobody knew).

"I think a bridge under which boats could pass is indicated by the present traffic on the water", said Mr. McAuley, "and for that matter, I think that the town would do well to work towards getting a second bridge before it thinks about annexation."

Several of the meeting were the reeve deputy reeve Fred Bruyea and councillors Norman Cleveland, Leo McAuley and Ron Webb; township clerk, Angus Gardiner, Mr. Vaughan and Mr. Hyde.

Prepare Plans For Winter Jobs

TRENTON — With the announcement from Ottawa that the federal government will continue the winter works' assistance program this year, (from Oct. 15 to April 15, 1963), Trenton municipal heads are lining up programs which will come under the subsidy.

Two by-laws for the sale of debentures to meet costs of projects are before the Ontario Municipal Board for approval. One is for a $35,000 project for road repairs and resurfacing and one for road work, coupled with a curbing program to the tune of $21,000. Approximately $45,000 of the last - named amount would be spent this fall.

IN MEMORIAM

MARACLE. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Anna Betty Joyce, who passed away July 26th, 1953.

Yes, she sleeps but not forever,
There is a land and shore
Blessed promises she shall waken,
Where to break no more.
In the dawning of the morning,
When the trumpet shall sound,
We'll be lined in beauty blooming,
Where the flowers never fade.
Memory keeps remembered by Mother.

MARACLE. — In ever loving memory of a dear mother and mother, Anna Betty Joyce, who passed away July 26th, 1953.

We are and within our memory,
Nobody are ever better.
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has gone and left us all away.
We think of you in silence,
No eye may see the tear,
But many silent tears are shed,
When others are asleep.
Sadly missed by husband Leonard and children.

IN THE SWIM—Young water nymphs pay close attention to instructor Lynda Ross as she explains how they should do a stroke during a Red Cross beginners' swimming class at the Kinsmen pool. Classes are kept fairly small so that each student may receive individual attention where required. The next series of classes begins on August 1st.

Bogota's Homeless Kiddies Begin to Protest Plight

BOGOTA, Colomba (AP) — Bogota's "gamines" — homeless children who roam the city by day and night in complete abandonment — are beginning to protest their plight.

Headed by 13-year-old Benjamin Zabala, a group of these ragged urchins paraded through the city's downtown streets banging on garbage can covers and blowing homemade horns to attract attention.

They carried signs reading: "We are hungry." "We suffer from cold." "We want to work." "G a m i n e s' also are Colombians."

Police broke up the demonstration.

JUST WANT WORK

"It wasn't a demonstration and it wasn't a strike," said Benjamin. "It was a protest. We want to work. There isn't much we can do. But we could shine shoes, wash cars, sell newspapers and do other things that aren't too difficult."

The children are the victims of the country's recent era of violence, parental cruelty and outdated social welfare code.

A priest who runs a refuge for the homeless children estimated 600 boys and girls from eight to 16 years were still on the streets.

He problem is long standing in Bogota and little is done by the government to solve it.

ORPHANAGES JAMMED

There are private and public orphanages. However, the public institutions are jammed and funds for their upkeep are limited. Then too, there are legal problems of state jurisdiction arising from the way the country's social welfare laws are written.

Benjamin said his gamines friends got 40 pesos during their protest march. "But 40 pesos will buy only two shoe shine kits and we need more than 40."

The gamines make their way as best they can.

Half-naked and shivering in the night rain they beg outside theatres. In the traffic jam of rush-hour Bogota they dart in among the stalled cars and wipe windshields in the hope of a tip from the driver.

At night they wrap themselves in old newspapers and sleep huddled in doorways in Bogota's chill 40 - degree temperature.

Essex Tomato Crop Is Large

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Processing plants are expected to open earlier this year for one of the most promising tomato crops ever grown in Essex County.

Growers and field men say there will be sufficient ripe tomatoes, if the weather stays good, for some of the smaller plants in the county to start operating next week.

Larger processing plants require large daily tonnages to keep in operation and will open some time later, but still earlier than last year.

Glenn Joins Senators in Flouting '13'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John Glenn Jr. demonstrated Wednesday he can thumb his nose at superstitions and go along with a gag as well as anybody.

He did so at a meeting of 13 senators to give him a watch inscribed "13" for his history-making flight in the 13th space capsule.

The proceedings started promptly at 10:13 a.m. when Senator Everett M. Dirksen, Illinois Republican, smashed a mirror into at least 1,300 pieces with a mighty hammer blow.

Dirksen said the Anti-Superstition Society of Chicago, at its last meeting on Friday, April 13, deputized him to present the watch for Glenn's achievement in space.

Dirksen suggested the astronaut acknowledge with a 13-second speech to the 13 senators.

Glenn came back with a crack aimed at the Senate's rule of unlimited debate:

"I thought you were going to say if I talked for 13 hours, I'd be in good company here."

Bennett Says BC Finances In Fine Shape

VICTORIA (CP) — The finances of British Columbia are in the soundest position in the province's history, says Premier Bennett, apparently in answer to recent questioning of B.C.'s financial status.

"Critics are prevalent today as they have been over the entire 10 years of Social Credit administration in B.C., and they are as wrong today as they were in 1952," Mr. Bennett said Wednesday.

"The province has no direct debt, does not owe a single cent to any chartered bank and has millions of dollars on hand.

"The Crown corporations are also in good financial position. The Pacific Great Eastern Railway and the B.C. Tll Highways and Bridges Authority do not owe any money to any chartered bank."

Mr. Bennett, holidaying at his home in Kelowna, issued the statement to his office here by telephone.

A Vancouver newspaper, The Province, is currently carrying a series of articles on B.C.'s financial status.

The premier said unparalelled development in B.C. in the last 10 years was secret on a pay-as-you-go policy with complete abolition of the direct debt of the province.

Full Program Swim Classes Under Way at City Pool

A full program of Red Cross swimming classes is being conducted a the Kinsmen Community swimming pool each day throughout the summer this season. This is the first year that the Red Cross agenda has been taught here. Each phase of swimming from the beginner's to the expert's is covered by instructor Glenys Dickey and her two assistants Mildred Gray and Lynda Ross.

In the morning two sessions, composed of three classes each, are held for the beginners with each individual being placed in the class most suited to his own ability. Classes are kept to a reasonable number so that each member can receive close attention by the instructor in charge if he so requires it.

The beginners' course includes such preliminary and fundamental techniques as bobbing and floating and through the use of games, he is made used to the water both above and below the surface. Several styles of floating, treading water, water safety, reach and assist are taught as well as how to swim.

During their tests to pass out of the beginners' category a child is required to demonstrate all of the above and to swim 20 feet on his back and 40 feet on his stomach.

Fifty local lads and lasses over six years of age are currently taking part in the beginners' classes of the first of two courses being held this summer. The second course will be conducted during August, commencing on August 1st.

In the afternoons the more advanced swimmers get a chance to extend their knowledge and ability and to try out for their junior, immediate and senior certificates in the Red Cross system. Currently there are seven members of this combined class. Advanced swimming strokes, artificial respiration and rescue techniques provide an interesting agenda for the older lads and lasses.

The candidates for the advanced certificates are examined by a qualified Red Cross examiner from out of town at the conclusion of their courses. Beginners are examined by Miss Dickey and her staff.

Any person interested in getting in to any of the Red Cross classes can obtain further information by calling the Kinsmen pool at WO 2-6376 or, if interested in the beginners' classes by being on hand to register on August 1st.

The 12-point program includes the questions of international verification and time limits of disarmament, nuclear delivery vehicles, conventional armaments, foreign military bases, peaceful uses of outer space, reduction of risk of war and establishment of an international disarmament organization.

Daily Trains From Rome Carry Migrants To North

Bishop's Son Has His Dad Selling Rabbits

THIRSK, England (AP)—The bishop of Whitby, Rt. Rev. George D'Oyley Snow, Wednesday explained a rabbits-for-sale sign outside his home.

Actually, it's my 17-year-old son Thomas who breeds and sells rabbits—not me," the Church of England prelate said.

"We've had quite a few callers in the last few days and everyone seems to think I'm in the rabbit business."

Asked what he'd happened when his son was at school, the bishop replied:

"Ah, yes. On those occasions I deal with the callers."

They watch the women in bright silk suits, and think of their own women in the south with their long, formless, black dresses.

They scrutinize the sleek, extra-fare streamlined train on the next track. Every passenger has a big sweatstained arm chair. What a difference from the crowded second-class train carrying them to the promised land of the north!

NORTH BOOMING

South Italy is struggling to pull itself out of centuries of poverty. A few new industries are opening, but its agriculture remains depressed. Its unemployed still number hundreds of thousands.

Turin, home of the giant Fiat works, has twice as many automobiles as Naples in the south. Yet Naples has more people.

Somewhere between Naples and Rome the migrants cross an invisible line between the two Italys.

The migratio is accelerating. In 10 years, 1951-60, 718,000 persons moved to Turin from southern Italy and the islands of Sicily and Sardinia—an average of 11,600 a year. In 1961 alone, 64,000 migrated to Turin. Thousands more have gone to Milan, Genoa and other industrial cities.

In Japan and Germany, government officials may worry that there is too much boom.

Not in Italy.

Any government official cannot help casting a concerned eye south and worrying about the lack of boom there.

Premier Amintore Fanfan's government launched Italy's first five-year plan, giving priority to capital development to help the south. But government officials say they will do nothing to stifle the north's boom.

New Skyphone Service is Inaugurated

NEW YORK (AP)—"One moment, please," said the telephone operator. "American Airlines Flight 941 is calling."

"Hello," came a female voice a few seconds later. "This is stewardess Hope Patterson. We're at 28,000 feet over Lakehurst, N.J., on a jet flight from New York to Cincinnati. Can you hear me?"

With those words, Miss Patterson officially inaugurated American airlines air-to-ground radio telephone service "Skyphone"—service with a call to The Associated Press office in New York.

American has only the one plane with a phone but plans to equip more. Trans World Airlines expects to inaugurate a similar service Saturday.

Calls to and from airliners now are limited to the New York-Chicago-St. Louis triangular area because there are no ground receiving stations elsewhere.

Medicare to Get Trial

The Saskatchewan Medicare dispute has been settled. Neither side won a clear-cut victory. The settlement terms represent a compromise. This is likely to displease both those who pictured the doctors as the gallant defenders of the principles of freedom and those who considered them as rebels against the principles of democracy. No matter. The important thing is that the terms of the agreement are such that Canadians will have an opportunity of observing how the compromise conditions will work out. It is impossible at this distance to judge whether the parties to the dispute will let bygones be bygones and work in harmony to make the terms on which they have agreed produce the best possible results.

It is to be hoped that the government and the doctors will co-operate not merely in the interests of peaceful settlement but also for the recovery of their own tattered prestige. For there can be no doubt but that both the government and the doctors lost much face—whether they deserved to do so is beside the point. The effect of the controversy has been to lower the esteem in which many Saskatchewan residents hold their government and to crack the pedestal on which the large portions of the public had placed the medical profession.

In the outcome, the doctors can advance substantial claims of victory, for the terms of the agreement vary greatly from the terms of the original Medicare bill. The Government's reverses have been embarrassing and a well-deserved rebuke has been given those legislators, all too numerous, who in order to plug every loophole against deliberate evasion of the spirit of the law are increasingly making the law excessively stringent, usurping for the authorities arbitrary powers which they do not expect to use. The Government has won its main point, which is that every citizen of Saskatchewan will now have an opportunity to receive medical care covered by a compulsory insurance plan.

With both patients and doctors having four distinct choices under the Act as it will be amended, there will be some who will maintain that this insurance coverage will exist more in theory than in fact. But, as the Toronto Globe and Mail observes, "it will be the people of Saskatchewan who determine how the plan will operate, and whether or not the doctors will practise inside or outside the plan." There are certain to be there have been, some doctors willing to practise within the plan. If the public prefers the plan to the former system of private practice, the number of these doctors will gradually increase, and the number of doctors practising outside the plan will decrease. If, on the other hand, the public prefers not to share with the majority of doctors a dislike of the plan, then it will wither away, instead of thriving.

Victim of Ill Chance

The death of a child is always a personal tragedy to someone—or if it is not, then this very fact suggests circumstances which must have been truly tragic for the child itself.

For some reason, though, the impact of a death always seems to depend largely on its nature. The more unlikely and unusual the cause, the greater is the likelihood that the general public's sympathies will be touched. The death of Nora Armitage, 10-year-old vacationist in the Penetanguishene area from Grasse Point, Mich., has attracted wide attention, by reason of the fact that her nemesis was a small grey snake, one of the rare Massassauga rattlers. Additional poignancy was provided when we learned that two U.S. doctors visiting in the district could have saved her life with anti-venom serum, but were afraid to administer it because they did not know whether she had been bitten and if she had not the serum would have killed her. Now the final touch of ironic mischance and miscalculation is provided by the revelation by Dr. W. G. Brown, Ontario deputy minister of health, that the anti-venom serum will not harm any person, whether they have been bitten by a snake or not, unless they are subject to allergies. Little Nora was the victim of a run of bad luck such as would be held unbelievable if encountered in a work of fiction.

Ottawa Offbeat

Five Outside Government Know Where Cuts Likely

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — It has been a month now since Prime Minister John Diefenbaker announced what has come to be known as his "austerity plan" to cut government spending.

It is supposed to reduce expenditures in a normal fiscal year by $500,000,000 and to the current fiscal year which ends next March 31 — by $200,000,000.

In the past month Cabinet has met several times on the subject and the Treasury Board has been going over departmental spending estimates. Government personnel have been ordered to find corners capable of being cut.

But, so far, few people outside the government have much idea of where the $200,000,000 slicing job is taking place.

In government there are really only three categories of spending — personnel (wages and salaries), capital construction and maintenance.

What we have, we have, so there can be little cutting done in the personnel or maintenance categories. Capital construction is the field of saving.

This item, of course, covers a broad field . . . everything from new motor scooters for the post office department to new ships for the navy to new headquarters buildings for the various government departments.

HOME GOOFS

The average taxpayer would be little affected by an end to spending here. He has such as those . . . but he would be affected by an end to spending on new post offices, armories and the like.

The taxpayer is going to be affected, because all of these things are part of the freight rating passed down by the government.

No new construction is to take place in any case where there is room for construction has been let.

The rule went in so hard and fast that projects already in it were not even considered. It turned out that exceptions had to be made.

Nine harbor jobs (eight in the Maritimes, one in Ontario) for such things as wharves and breakwaters, were hurriedly cancelled and then hurriedly reinstated in the first and second week of the austerity program.

They had reached the stage where tenders had been called and contracts were to be awarded shortly. Cancellation of the call for tenders would have proved embarrassing and a new call was made. The jobs are going ahead.

Also going hard is construction of the new CNR headquarters in Ottawa, because needed for automobile body panels. Steel fore is one area, at least, in which Canadians can have an advantage to offset the criticism that Canadian cars are too cautious with their money, and want a car with only its ultra-safe investments.

If Algoma and Stelco are winners in the big government gambles they are taking, on a new rolling mill for sheet, Canadians become winners, by cutting at one of the biggest sources of Canadian dollars to industry outside Canada.

* * *

There is some hint that the big risk involved in the big investments by Algoma and Stelco may possibly accomplish even more than getting Canadian dollars for Canadian automobiles. Volkswagen in Germany, and Renault in France, are reported to have orders for million shipments of Canadian steel. If Algoma and Stelco can satisfy customers like that, we might reverse the negative changed to positive, on the Canadian scoresheet for the automobile body industry.

To Roll Our Own Steel

Stratford Beacon-Herald

We can't grow pineapples in Canada, except at prohibitive cost, and we don't have any tin mines worth mentioning. Pineapples and tin are examples of things we must import, if we are going to have them.

Steel is something else. We have iron in the right quantity and we have big steel mills to put the two together, and mix in the other ingredients to make steel. Most readers, we think, would likely assume that the steel bodies of their made-in-Canada automobiles were made of Canadian steel.

Not so. Every main body panel on every Canadian-made car or truck that is now on the roads or highways of Canada, represents tonnage sent out of Canada, to buy the steel steel; almost all of the finished sheet steel for automobile bodies has been going to the United States.

* * *

This is a loose business for the Canadian economy. We have the anomaly of Canadians not making automobiles of steel, but in the middle of the process, raw steel or the new semi-finished steel, have been going across the border at the top-level politicians talk vaguely about imbalance in international trade, and downward pressure on the value of the Canadian dollar, this is the kind of thing they are talking about. As good a specific example as any is the practice of sending Canadian dollars to pay American wages, so steel can be rolled in steels for Canadian automobiles.

The amounts of money involved are not small. Over the six-year period, 1956-60, we sent an average of $120,000,000 Canadian dollars out of the country every year, to pay people in the United States and elsewhere to roll steel for us.

* * *

The good news is that a couple of big chemical Canadian industry are now doing something to end this particular kind of economic nonsense. Algoma Steel Corporation, at Sault Ste. Marie, and Steel Co. of Canada, at Hamilton, each have decided to gamble $15,000,000 or more of capital investment, in building rolling mills that can roll the wide strips

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 28th, 1942.

The rattle of steel-shod hoofs and wagon wheels resounded on Bridge Street today, giving pedestrians and motorists perhaps a vision of things to come. Two exceptionally fine horses were hitched to an express wagon operated by Smith and Son. Their appearance drew the attention of early morning shoppers, not to mention those people still using gasoline and rubber.

A conclusive argument against those people who persist in spreading rumors that the giving of blood is harmful, is seen in the fact that a Belleville resident, has given upwards of twelve pints during the past ten years; and at present he is in the pink of condition, has left no ill effects and is going way from being dead, but very much alive.

Following a running gun battle with police along Toronto streets early yesterday, two Ottawa youths were arrested and charged with theft of an automobile owned by Mr. Thomas Hutchinson of Belleville, Ontario, a visitor to the city. Mr. Hutchinson reported his motor car stolen from the parking position on Front St. here. In the car were the ignition keys and Mr. Hutchinson's gasoline ration card.

Two motorist brooms will not be so gay as of old. It is estimated that it took 2,000,000 brooms to keep the Canadian homes clean last year and 300 tyres will soon be manufactured, but now the variety will be cut down.

Man's Actions Are Motivated Mysteriously

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Ninety percent of what passes for "conversation" is not communication as much as meditation — it is used to make the speaker feel better, either by depreciating others or by inflating himself.

A century ago, Frederick Accum observed that "there is no curing a sick man, even by a chubby youngster is under compulsion to join a vicious circle. Self-conscious, such a child does not play with other youngsters and is likely to be left "left out" and takes solace in eating.

In a family where both parents work and an older sister is all caring (three "mothers," for they are scrupulously careful to keep their equipment, driving conditions, and all safety measures: it is the ordinary motorist who is a foolish daredevil, driving too fast in an overpowered car under bad conditions, and surrounded by thousands of lunatics like himself.

No other word so perfectly expresses the emotion it designates as "self-righteousness."

Love is a form of understanding, more than an emotion; and more damage is done in the world by love without understanding, than by hate.

Youth is most attractive when its basic need is for acceptance; impatience; and old age is most attractive when its basic need is humorous resignation; while least attractive of all is youth whose impatience is rebellion, and old age whose resignation is bitter.

I have yet to see more to preserve his image of himself — no matter how distorted than for his country, his religion, or his family.

The recent slogan of all reformers is really "Let's find out what people think we are doing, and stop them!"

A celebrity is comfortable only when he is in the company of other celebrities, so that they can relax and pretend to be non-celebrities together; this is why a hostess who invites a "lion" to a dinner party usually finds it an unsuccessful venture, for no lion likes to be trapped in a den of Daniels.

The ultimate in fact is the ability to find humor in one's being offensive and not one offensive thing; and Shakespeare had this fact. Efficiency, somehow, is usually accompanied by no sense of self-righteousness, combined with the uneasy feeling that the inefficient are more charming, and should be punished for it.

Fatigue always brings on regression; as Nietzsche shrewdly knew, long before Freud. "When we are tired, we are attacked by ideas we conquered long ago."

To Your Good Health

Overweight in Children Is Due to Over-Eating

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our nine-year-old daughter is considerably overweight and seems to be gaining steadily. All our admonitions to cut down on food are to no avail since we both work and her older sister is able to control her 'snacks.' Is there anything we can do to help reduce her food intake without sacrificing the things necessary for health? — E.P."

Overweight in children is due to over-eating and lack of enough exercise. Once in a great many cases some glandular defect may be involved, but as a rule we are just kidding ourselves when we use "glands" as an excuse. So let's just look at the obvious, likely factors. If some rarer elements are present, they'll show up in time.

One clue to today's problem may be that "we both work." A child needs (or any other age) just might have a feeling of being "neglected" or "left out" or some such thing. It happened.

Children, just like adults, can over-eat for want of something else to do. This is, as a matter of fact, a common psychological factor at any age. In today's case, there is no mention to the parents working, there may be some resentment at the older sister ruling the roost. I don't say this is; just say it may be. It's worth thinking about, at least.

Another thing that deserves an honest appraisal is the family's eating habits. Are the parents a bit gluttonous? And the other child? Or the neighborhood girl the only one? If the regular meals are light in calories, with lots of starches and fats and sweets, the family may be a plump. But if the little girl is eating snacks besides, she's got plenty "dope" to feed on.

It's that's the case, let's just face it. Let's substitute a few low-calorie things for the high-calorie dishes in the daily routine.

And that's not all, of course. Let's also see what we can do about normalizing appetite. The chubby youngster is under compulsion to join a vicious circle. Self-conscious, such a child does not play with other youngsters and is likely to be "left out" and takes solace in eating.

In a family where both parents work and an older sister is all caring (three "mothers," for they are scrupulously careful to keep their equipment, driving conditions, and all safety measures: it is the ordinary motorist who is a foolish daredevil, driving too fast in an overpowered car under bad conditions, and surrounded by thousands of lunatics like himself.

Electronic Canary Used

BBC London Letter

An electronic canary recently made a grim test in the laboratories of the British Coal Board in a safety competition sponsored by the European Coal and Steel Community. Reporting on the competition in the Community's industry' program broadcast weekly in the BBC General Overseas Service, industry correspondent Nick Lloyd said that the canary's job was to act as the live canaries which miners had been taking down the pits for decades as a warning of dangerous concentrations of carbon monoxide were forming. The electronic canary weighs only twenty-one pounds. And not only detects the presence of gas, but records the concentration on a meter. Flashes a red light when a danger level is reached and gives audible warning.

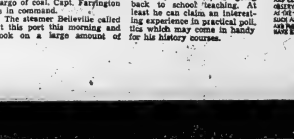
"It has already been tried out in the pits after a stringent series of tests," said Lloyd. "And several firms have now the home, licensed by the Coal Board, to make the electronic canary should have outside the mines to detecting carbon monoxide — for instance, in the gas, petroleum, iron and Steel industries and in aircraft, submarines and military vehicles." Unfortunately, the electronic canary is not a real canary. It can't sing like a real canary.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It will take the Canadian and United States restaurants, unless a long time to learn the secret of French and other high class European cooking. The secret, of course, is small helpings, and variety.

The reason helpings are small in the great restaurants of the world is that the cooking is superb. It is quality, not quantity, that rules the roost.



In North America generally the tradition has been that to make up for the bad cooking the helpings have been large, plentiful, rather than delicious. Thus, over several generations, we have failed to produce a tradition of food that pleases the public with experience of good cooking to demand better. In a very large number of Canadians and Americans a restaurant is a filling station. Get in, get out, get your tank filled. Filler-up is the attitude of too many of us.

There is no use protesting this situation. As one hotel man remarked to me, in any city in America, you could put all the customers of the few really great restaurants in one taxicab with room to spare.

I wonder if the same is true in France? Maybe most Frenchmen like a good big heaped plate of beans or stew, too. Maybe all the gourmets of France could be put into, say, a twelve-coach railroad train.

Montreal Surgeon Trying To Make Stomach 'Apron' Grow New Heart Arteries

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal heart surgeon who pioneered and developed two successful operations for sufferers from coronary artery disease is working on a third. It is in the experimental stages yet but looks promising.

The latest technique of Dr. Arthur M. Vineberg is aimed at giving the heart entirely new coronary arteries.

Briefly, the surgeon, Dr. Vineberg began utilizing for humans his implant operation, whereby chest artery is transplanted directly into the heart muscle.

Then two years ago he has also been using the "sponge operation" — placing a special-type plastic sponge against the heart to encourage blood vessels to grow through it from the heart's membraneous layer.

Now, as with his first-developed operation, Dr. Vineberg is calling on another part of the body for an extra pipeline — greater omentum.

The greater omentum has often been called "the policeman of the abdomen" because of its readiness to move to trouble spots within its own area.

It is an apron-like structure of fat and blood vessels that is attached to the stomach and to the bowel, with three free sides.

NEW BLOOD VESSELS

In his experiments with the omental-graft operation upon animals, Dr. Vineberg first opens the pericardium—the fibrous outer covering of the heart. He then removes the epicardium, the inner covering, and also removes the scrough—filmy—layer from the pericardium.

A piece of the greater omentum is detached and wrapped completely about the bared myocardium, or heart muscle, and an end is fixed to the aorta—the main artery. The pericardium is then closed.

From this procedure Dr. Vineberg has found new blood vessels subsequently growing and delivering blood to the heart.

The experiments were reported on by Dr. Vineberg and two associates, Dr. Roque Pifarre and Dr. Claude Mercier, in the June issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

The human greater omentum has shown a marked affinity for inflamed surfaces and an ability to move to diseased spots—such as an area suddenly cut off within its reach. It also has the ability to wall off inflamed areas.

Not known is the mechanism whereby it acts on these journeys to trouble areas or how it is able to supply references and introduce blood vessels to the areas.

Because of how these things, however, Dr. Vineberg began wondering whether a detached piece of the greater omentum could also do its job away from its abdominal home.

As with the experiments and the proven earlier — developed operations, Dr. Vineberg's purpose is to get a needed blood supply to the heart in cases of coronary artery disease.

Because of the general condition the blood supply dwindles. The heart can't do its job because of narrowed or blocked arteries, and the diseased state frequently manifests itself in angina pectoris.

Both the implant and sponge operations have been being used in a number of hospitals in the United States as well as in Montreal.

There have been nearly 100 implant operations to date. Results have been classed good in 70 per cent. Operational mortality has been three per cent or less.

In this surgical procedure the internal mammary artery, a fully functioning chest tube with good blood supply, is placed within the blood-starved heart.

The sponge operation, promoting growth of blood vessels from the heart from just outside, has been performed here on 30 persons. It has been used chiefly for the more severe cases and for people over 60 years old. Some of the cases were extreme and the over-all mortality has been about 10 per cent. Otherwise, results have again been classed as good in 70 per cent.

Industrial Expansion Parley Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans for an "industrial expansion conference" here Sept. 7, bringing together more than 200 top Canadian businessmen to discuss how to boost production and efficiency, have been unveiled by Trade Minister Hees.

The one-day conference is expected to be a high-level bull session generating plenty of heat and some strong suggestions for government action.

The conference will concentrate on secondary industry — manufacturing and processing in Canadian plants for domestic and export markets. Mr. Hees described it Wednesday both as a follow-up to 12 regional trade and industrial promotion conferences held in all 10 provinces during the year ending last February.

Conference planners say they expect to get proposals ranging from new tax measures to methods of promoting more research and increased industrial procurement in Canada.

One likely outcome, if the conference agrees, would be creation of committees of senior industrialists to present industry's problems and proposals to the government on a continuing basis.

Attendance at the conference will be by invitation. Among discussion leaders will be Carl A. Pollock of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and president of Dominion Electrohome Industries Limited.

Frozen Depth Arctic Ground 1,475 Feet

RESOLUTE, N.W.T. (CP)—The Jacobsen-McGill University arctic expedition today reported the deepest permafrost measurement ever made in North America.

A temperature-measuring cable installed in a dry hole drilled by an oil company showed that the arctic ground at Winter Harbor on Melville Island is frozen to a depth of 1,475 feet.

The scientific team, which included two experts from the United States department of the interior, installed a 2,000-foot cable in the 2¼-mile deep hole July 24.

They said they believe the permafrost extends even deeper than measurements indicate, but that will be known only after next June the drilling operation dissipates.

The expedition was under the chairmanship of Dr. George Jacobsen, arctic construction engineer and geographer at McGill University of the expedition.

Picton News

Will Increase Seating Capacity Of County Recreation Building

PICTON — Seating capacity of the County Agricultural and Recreation Centre at the fair grounds will be increased from 800 to 1350. This is being accomplished by building another tier of seats along both sides. This addition also increases the amount of standing space so that at capacity it is likely close to 2000 can be accommodated.

When the present fine all-steel structure was erected it was built over most of the former grandstand which was torn down. As a result it is several feet wider and made space for the extra tier of seats.

The seating capacity can be further enlarged by erection of tiered seats in one-half of the north end, but this awaits the need of more seating. Each year profits from the Centre go back into the building in improvements after part is put into a trust fund for replacement of artificial ice equipment.

Though seating has been adequate for regular hockey games, the end-off fever usually resulted in a shortage and the expansion will help remedy this problem.

In addition to making more seats available the latest improvements adds greatly to the appearance of the Centre, which fills a great need in the county.

Facilities of the Centre are being offered by Prince Edward Agricultural Society and the Centre commission if a Recreation Commission is created, as it offers accommodation for a wide variety of activities and the surrounding countryside fair grounds are ideal for a variety of sport events.

Fire Destroys House, Barn

PCTON — A vacant house and a small barn filled with hay near Demorestville were destroyed by fire late Tuesday afternoon They were the property of Mrs. Bertis Carter. Origin of the blaze is not known. Both were old buildings but made useful as secondary storage structures on the farm. Part of the house had been torn out to store equipment and this was carried out before the blaze spread from the barn. Many neighbors responded to the alarm and prevented the fire spreading in the pasture.

Lightning Hits Picton House, Causing Fire

PICTON — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dainard, located two miles west of here, was set on fire by flames early evening with all contents lost. Believed to have started from lightning, the house was a mass of flames when the Bloomfield Fire Department arrived and nothing could be saved. The loss was estimated at $4,000.

Mr. Dainard, an employee of the Prince Edward roads department and his wife were also sent from the house when the incident occurred. They returned in time to see the home fire burning. The house was covered by insurance.

Boy, 8, Hurt In Collision

PICTON — Brian Jewell, 8, escaped with an inch laceration on the forehead and abrasions when he was knocked from his bicycle when it collided with a car on Main Street East. The boy, residing at 12 Maple Ave. rode the bicycle out of Johnson St. to Main, a car proceeding west, driven by Joseph Neil Hicks, R.R. 4, Picton, struck the rear wheel of the bike with the left front fender and the boy was thrown off. Constable George Wright investigated.

New Tenders Called for School Wing

PICTON — New tenders are being called for the proposed addition of the technical wing at Prince Edward Collegiate, following the defeat of the first tenders at the Aug. 24 meeting. The new tenders will meet to open tenders.

When the first tenders were called, board officials said that the contracts in some cases were high and there was little interest in bidding on the work as laid down by the architects, Mills and Mills of Barrie and the Federal and Provincial governments.

Chicken For Eight or Ten In One Hour Flat

by Mary Moore

We did this so we know — my sister Peady and I.

By surprise six big eaters were coming for dinner at 6.00. We knew this at 4.30 p.m. By 5 we had been to the store and brought back chicken, corn on the cob, a baker's chiffon cake and whipping cream. We had on hand salad stuff, macaroni shells and two quarts of berries.

THURSDAY

Dinner Menu

Mixed Vegetable Juice; Potato-Meat Patties (see Wednesday); Broccoli with Mock Hollandaise; Sliced Young Vegetable Marrow; Chocolate Chiffon Pie; Tea.

At 3.00 p.m. we turned the oven on to 400 deg. Fahr. Into a big heavy paper bag we dumped 1 cup flour, 1 tablespoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. In this we shook 7 legs, 7 thighs and 7 breasts of chicken. In the big roasting pan we arranged this in one layer and pushed it into the heating oven. We heated together 1½ cups milk and ¼ pound (½ cup) butter, until nearly boiling. Then we poured this over the chicken and let it bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. We took it out of the oven and turned over each piece, sprinkled it all with paprika and returned it to the oven for another 20 minutes. We reduced the heat to 300 deg. Fahr. for another 5 minutes while we greeted the guests and rang the dinner bell.

This yields a large platterful of moist rich chicken, covered with lovely mushroomy which becomes thickened with the flour coating the chicken.

Clip this method of baking chicken against the day when your phone rings and loved ones say "We're at the city limits — how do you get to your house?"

There are several items (that ships' menus list as "farinaceous") which could be served with this baked chicken. We served macaroni shells and corn on the cob because we had one on hand and the other was easy. But if I had had the time I would have made

CORN PUDDING:

2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ teaspoon mustard, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 cups fresh corn pulp (or drained canned kernel corn), 1 egg, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, buttered crumbs.

Make a white sauce by blending together the butter or margarine and flour, then stirring in the milk until thick. Add salt, mustard, paprika and Worcestershire sauce. Beat in the egg, then the corn. Turn into a buttered baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and bake at 350 or 400 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 20 minutes.

LONDON (CP)—A new drug which, if effective, will speed up the learning process of backward children, has been produced by a British firm. The drug, dimethylaminoethanol, is being tried out at a school for mentally retarded children.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mr. F.C. — Why kid ourselves? He'll never be able to have his bed.

Mrs. F.C. — Don't discourage him. Nowadays handicapped people can do almost anything.

* * *

Mr. F.C. — Eight weeks ago our son, age 21, was in an automobile accident. At first his life was in the balance, but now that he is out of danger we have the sad verdict of the doctors: his back is broken and he will never walk again.

I'm resigned to this situation. I'm grateful enough to have him alive and I believe we can work out a way of life for Roy that will help him get some joy out of life, even though he must spend it on his back. There are plenty of new gadgets.

But my wife wants to put him through the agony of mastering some complicated machinery so he can move around and even hold various jobs. I doubt that it will make any difference, I'd rather bring him home now.

* * *

Mrs. F.C. — What good is life to an ambitious young man of 21, when all he can see in the long road ahead is helplessness? My husband is only thinking of himself when he says he's willing to wait on Roy and keep him company. He isn't taking into account how Roy will feel as time goes on and he's tied to his bed.

While Roy is still under treatment, I'd like to have him try everything they have on tap in the rehabilitation centre. Even if he can never walk again, he may be helped to move around the room somehow, or even to get in and out of bed. Once he knows the absolute limits of his remaining powers, we can make better plans.

I wish my husband acted more encouraging and hopeful. Roy is still dazed and crushed by this calamity and needs every "lift" he can get.

* * *

The Council: We won't repeat here what every sensible mother has been proclaiming from the housetops down to the small print in the newspapers: that the disabled and handicapped are now viewed in terms of what they can do, rather than what they can't do, and that — thanks to organizations which specialize in putting them back on their "feet" again (even on rolling feet!) — much can be done to compensate for lost abilities.

Inspiring names spring to mind — names of men who have "gotten around" despite paralysis, games of centres which welcome trails and find employment for those who, facing the new agony which is Roy's, decide to "sweat it out" and fight it through. At the crossroads, Mr. C.'s abject acceptance of total invalidism for Roy is both premature and dispiriting. We agree with Roy's mother that the key to improvement must be waved above the young man's bed like a banner by both parents.

Resignation is a healthy attitude only when all alternatives have failed. Granted that trying out complex equipment and exercises will be painful, so is trying them would be even more painful. Giving up too soon might be more comfortable physically, but it would bring emotional torture. There'd be the constant nagging questions: "Could I have been rendered less helpless? Was I really beyond rewinning?"

Forgettable Styling Seen As Big Asset

PARIS (AP) — Although obsolescence keeps the fashion industry in business, designer Jacques Griffe introduced a fall collection that will take its time about going out of style.

Some veteran buyers said so.

Godemi pleats stitched on top added a little or a lot of flare to some jackets and to the backs or fronts of skirts. What Griffe called a fake redingote was the same silhouette created by stitching together makeshaped sections.

Griffe used no belts. His collars stopped at the chin.

Although he didn't overlook the beauty of strapless dinner gowns, he didn't drop necklines too far. But he did scoop backs out wide and beautiful.

LATHEM—JENKINS

MARMORA — A lovely wedding took place recently in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Halleybury, Ont., when Caroline Jean Jenkins (Carol), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Jenkins of Marmora, (formerly of Haileybury) became the bride of Keith Willis Lathem, of North Cobalt, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Lathem of North Cobalt.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a redingote of white organza over taffeta hand-embroidered with Swiss lace. The bodice featured a a wide neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, and was enhanced with small buttons at waistline. The skirt cascaded into a chapel train. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was caught by a crystal crown and she carried white carnations with stepanotis.

The maid of honor was Miss Sandra Meiklejohn of Marmora, and bridesmaids were: Mrs. J. Doran, Miss Shirley McCauley and Miss Barbara Jenkins, all four were identically dressed in gowns of taffeta with sapphire blue yokes and a white background, short petal skirts and fitted bodices, matching open crown pillboxes caught in a crescent rose vella, and they carried crescent bouquets of white baby 'mums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Anthony Doran of North Bay, and the ushers were: Messrs Robert Jenkins of Marmora, brother of the bride; Stephen Boal of Copreol and James Lathem of Cobalt.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roy Moore of Haileybury, assisted by Rev. R. G. Fleming of St. Paul's, Marmora.

Mrs. A. Wilson was organist for the occasion.

Haileybury Golf Course club room was the setting for the reception, where Mrs. Jenkins, mother of the bride, assisted by Mrs. Lathem, mother of the bridegroom, received the guests. Mrs. Jenkins was wearing a sparkle pink chiffon dress with white organza hat and white accessories, with a corsage of white baby 'mums.

Mrs. Lathem wore a blue silk shantung, white hat and accessories and a corsage of pink baby 'mums.

Guests were present from Cleveland, Cobalt, Hamilton, Marmora, North Bay, Timmins, Toronto, Sturgeon Falls and Sudbury.

The bride was the recipient of several showers, by Miss S. Meiklejohn, Marmora, and Messrs W. Sulinski, H. Smith, J. Lathem, W. Mallett and D. Davidson in Haileybury.

Low-Heeled Pumps

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Many of the smartest of this season's shoes are low-heeled, which is a break for the dedicated walker who still likes her feet to be prettily shod.

The patent pump is doubly tied with black laces over the instep and has an inch and a half spool heel.

The square-toed navy open pump has a mid-heel, and a small tab that appears to turn back from the toe is of dull calf.

Natural color baby lizard is used for the back and heel of a daytime pump that is available in black, navy or red smooth leather.

Horticultural Society Visits Parkwood

STIRLING — Last Wednesday the Stirling Horticultural Society, under the direction of the president, Mrs. Floyd Armstrong, joined with district No. 3 and attended a district annual meeting at Oshawa. There were 25 people from Stirling and nine from Belleville, who went by chartered bus, leaving Stirling about 9.30 a.m. and arrived home again around ten p.m.

The group visited Lakeview Park, Oshawa, and enjoyed a box lunch at the noon hour.

There was a total of six chartered buses and the district was well represented from Belleville, Brockville; Napanee; Gananoque; Kingston, Collins Bay; Picton and Stirling.

Mrs. J. S. Shephardson, district director for district 2, 3, who has served in this capacity for the past ten years is retiring and the newly appointed D.D. is Phil Dodds of Picton.

BRIEF ADDRESSES

There were several brief addresses given at the park and this included a message by Russell Gomme, secretary of the Ontario Horticultural Society. The speaker told of the vast improvement made by the Ontario group in the lovely public flower beds and berry planted around the public buildings.

There are over 40,000 members in Ontario, and some 200 societies across the province. The highlight of the trip was a visit to Parkwood, the home of Col. R. S. McLaughlin, Simcoe Street, Oshawa. The gardens were a glorious mass of beauty and the greenhouses were filled with a wide array of lovely flowers gathered from various places in the world.

The group then visited Oshawa shopping Centre for two hours and enjoyed a fine dinner at one of the restaurants.

A second visit was paid to Parkwood to view the gardens which were beautifully illuminated and those who viewed the scene say it was a breath-taking sight, of marvellous beauty. The Stirling folk were loud in their praise of such a wonderful trip.

IVANHOE — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. and Ladies' Auxiliary was held in the home of Mrs. David Fargey on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. David Fargey presided. The program was opened by the singing of hymn "Come Let Us Sing of a Wonderful Love". There were 13 members present and three visitors.

Members were reminded to bring clothing for the bale in August.

The meeting was turned over to C.O.C. leader, Mrs. H. Thompson and Mrs. H. Beason. Mrs. Thompson told of the study book "Three Children of Chile," and also the activities of the group. Mrs. Beason is musical director. The following program was given by the children: opening prayer in unison; songs, "Jesus Tender Shepherd," and "Children of the Father"; piano solo, Jack Sills; prayer for missionaries, James Fargey; piano solo, Barbara Hassall; solo, "Icky Spirit, Hear Us"; Patsy Beason; poem, "Butter Cups," Russell Duncan; piano solo, Margaret Sills and Janet Duncan; duet, "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross," Anna and Gena Thurman; song, "Thou Art With Us," and "We Got The Love of Jesus Down In My Heart".

A lovely children's story was read by Mrs. Thomas Dodds, based on the parable of the talents.

FINE GROVE W. I.

MARSH HILL — The July meeting of Pine Grove Women's Institute was held at the home of Miss Jane Gay with 16 members present.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

How do you know when you are getting old — very old, indeed?

Here's a handy check-list:

1. Do you find yourself unwilling to give up your smallest possessions, your petty rights, or your "last-word authority," fearing that without them you've lost your hold on the world?

2. Do you find yourself urged on, as if by some demonic force, to defend yourself against any possible loss of power or face, never admitting openly that the "other party" may be right?

3. Do you persistently refuse to make any plans whatever — even for tomorrow — resigning yourself to bland indifference to the world, withdrawing from its treats as well as its trials?

4. Do you feel sorry for yourself — unwilling or unable to be yourself, in the hopeless wish to turn your back on the face of reality?

5. Do you reject everything that is new and untried, in the cosy but false belief that "you've heard it before?" ,

6. Do you stand on ceremonies — particularly with younger people — not because you really have a leg to stand on, but simply for the sake of some abstracts "principle." A "principle," which when finally analyzed, turns out to be little else but self-defeating pride and vanity.

Everybody grows older. Some however, are just old — they've stopped growing. Growing older can provide us with great and new joys. Being old, however, is a less pleasant matter.

The difficulty can be located in our earlier years when we imagined that we could forever continue to get something out of life without putting anything into it. Instead of investing time and effort in ourselves sowing the seeds of future growth while there is yet time to nature and to cultivate them, we cut down or are blind to our own natural resources.

Ultimately, the degrading poverty of our later years — poverty of mind and spirit — is the obvious result of our past neglect: we refused to make regular deposits in our own spiritual account.

Hobbies are often suggested to older folk because they are, it is said, good past-times. Some, perhaps, are; they may even be "kill-times." But this is precisely what already old so many "old" people — those who are old long before their time: they are examples of a living-death, because, instead of using time, they are abused by it. Instead of growing with time, they have become time-worn.

A true hobby is a personal undertaking that deepens character, provides constructive outlets for healthy energy and releases the egoistic inhibited growth and creative development. A true hobby cannot, therefore, get lacked on to our lives artificially, like some cultflower pinned to our lapels.

It has to have cultivated soil in which to grow, room in our interior to put down deep-root — and time in order to blossom and flower.

From the day we are born one thing is quite inevitable: like we are to live we must get older.

The question which many will have to face squarely is unavoidable: Will we just get old, or will we consciously and creatively grow older?

The time to begin to find the answer is now, while we still have time.

bands. She died in a boat on the way to Penetanguishene hospital, about 10 miles away.

The jury deliberated 45 minutes before deciding that Nora Jean died "due to the effects of a toxic poison contingent with the effects of those sustained by the bite of a Massasauga rattlesnake."

The jury expressed the view that Dr. Murphy's "every action was taken in the best interest of the patient as he diagnosed her condition."

Dr. H. B. Cosens, supervising coroner for Ontario, ordered the inquest in a decision that overruled Penetanguishene coroner Alec MacKenzie. Dr. Cosens assisted Dr. F. I. Boughner of Gravenhurst at the hearings.

The jury was told that an authority on snakebite was vacationing only three miles from where Nora Jean received the fatal bite.

Toronto surgeon R. I. Harris, author of an authoritative paper on rattlesnake bites, testified that although he case would have been difficult to diagnose he would have administered antivenene, but other medical witnesscess agreed.

Among a series of recommendations, the jury said the serum should be used in suspect cases.

"The serum is not necessarily fatal and should be used in the event of a doubtful case," the jury said.

Dr. Murphy had testified that he believed "hyper - sensitive people could die from a dose" of the serum.

The jury said it felt that the attention given by the press to the item posed by he Massasauga rattler was "out of proportion to statistics" on cases of snakebite.

Ontario health department statistics presented listed 30 cases of snakebite in Ontario during the last five years and said 18 antivenene kits were used at hospitals in the province in the same period.

On the other hand, the jury said, the inquest brought out the need for education of the public about the rattler three. The hearing showed that rattlers are indigenous to an area stretching from Niagara o Georgian Bay.

"The public should not be unduly alarmed, but should be alerted," the jury said.

School children, campers, cottagers, doctors and police should be informed of what to do in the event of snakebite.

Ontario Provincial Police should be informed where the nearest supply of antivenene is located and the public should be instructed to make contact with the police when faced with a snakebite case.

The Ontario health department could continue supplying county hospitals with antivenene serum under a program instituted following the 1956 death of Mrs. Helen Hay of Toronto after receiving a rattler bite at Honey Harbour, about 10 miles from the Armitage cottage.

Practical Nursing Pays Well

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—Regarding your reply to Sally: There is a two-year Canadian Practical Nurses' Course which she may take. There are 46 lessons, five comprehensive tests and a practical training of ten days, at the end of every ten lessons.

In addition to the exams, you are marked on the end of each lesson (which is on your honor system). It is a very thorough course.

Graduate Practical Nurses receive as much as $10.00 a day. And I was told by a lady who runs a nursing home that she couldn't run her home without them.—MRS. M. N.

* * *

DEAR MRS. M. N.—Sally and others will be delighted with this information. I will supply name and address of school to anyone who writes requesting it.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—As my husband would like to take a short course next winter but is undecided what in, I wondered if you could tell him where to write to get some information concerning courses, qualifications, etc.

He is in his forties and would like to take something more or less as a hobby.—WONDERING WIFE.

* * *

DEAR WIFE—The Queen's Printer, at Ottawa, will send him a booklet entitled "Canadian Vocational Correspondence Courses."

There are other ways to launch into a new field, such as taking an evening course at your technical school or joining a church group, Camera clubs, woodworking classes, public speaking groups, dog breeding groups, all lead into absorbing hobbies. And there are dozens of others.

Hobbies mean fun and insure mental health. Let's know what he picks so we can share the idea.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—Another girl in my room likes the same boy I do, and he thinks he likes her, but my friends say he doesn't. She also does everything to make me jealous.

I don't listen to her but sometimes I could slap her in the face. I am tired of this; what should I do?—GERRY.

* * *

DEAR GERRY—Put up with her but don't listen to her. Don't slap her in the face. This is a test of your own sweet disposition. (Actually, she is the jealous one.)

MORE PARLOR PESTS

Having seen a few in action during the past few weeks, I think it's time for another roll-call of Parlor Pests:

THE SURVEYOR: Knows all the straight lines and angles — when the gal being surveyed watch the bottom fall out of his inn...cently accepts his invitation to share a breath of fresh air on the terrace. His sunlit and knowing smile is the tipoff as he inspects the female terrain all around him. He's the most dangerous of all party-poopers because his roving eye often fails to take in the lady's wedding band or her resentful and unsympathetic escort. Just as often he fails to notice the embarrassed redhead in the corner, toying knife-like glances at his shoulder blades. Naturally, it's all in his wife.

THE MECHANIC: He has only one thing on his mind, and only one subject on his tongue — and it's all business. Serve him the finest of wines and he'll wonder how many cases the company sells each month. From his viewpoint, the financial page is the only section of the newspapers are printed. The rest of the paper is interesting this only in the way that news affects the stock market. At any social gathering, he can't be all know within an hour what every man in the room is worth.

THE SHYSTER: He does not care for a living. Therefore, he will bother only with those whose work interests him or whose probable salary commands his fiscal respect. If you don't want to be bored by his money policy, give him "the wolf wistle is muted in the business" by talking about art or your new recordings, and when the gal being surveyed watch the bottom fall out of his inn...cently accepts his invitation to share a breath of fresh air on the terrace. Hubble Clan Holds Reunion Lists Officers

RAWDON — One hundred descendants of the Hubble clan gathered on Sunday, July 22nd, at Little Lake, south of 401 on Highway 30, for the 13 annual reunion.

The first reunion dinner was held in July, 1949 at Presqu'ile and the founder of these picnics was the late Lorne Hubble, of Frankford.

FIRST SETTLER

Nehemiah Hubble travelled with a group of United Empire Loyalists from the United States to Adolphustown and from there he trekked to Hubble Hill, now known as Mount Pleasant-Rawdon in 1784. He built a log cabin in the wilderness and later returned to the United States and brought his wife, the former Lucinda Walton, and family to Canada. Members of the clan were in attendance from Montreal; Orillia; Weston; Port Credit; Kingston; Bellevillet; Campbellford; Marmora; Foxboro; Frankford; Stockdale; Ivanhoe; Stirling and other points.

Several of the group enjoyed picnic meals at the park while others were there for dinner and the afternoon proceedings.

The children enjoyed the water, the beach and several also had a boat ride. Races were held on a nearby stretch of lawn and all who took part received a ticket which they could exchange at the booth for their choice of ice cream or candy.

The president, Burton Hubble, presided over the business meeting and the secretary, Mrs. Russell Pyear, distributed the prizes as follows: youngest baby, Margaret Hubble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hubble; oldest person in attendance, Joe Hubble of Weston, Ontario, born in 1889; youngest married couple, M. and Mrs. Glen Hubble, of Stirling R.R. 3, married nine years; oldest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hubble, of Stockdale, who recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary; largest family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hubble, of Glen Ross, with 21 members of their family; travelled the farthest distance that day to attend, Harvey Hubble of Orillia.

All those from a distance were heartily welcomed and each one was asked to sign the register. The group also placed their signatures on cards which the secretary will forward to Mrs. Lorne Hubble, of Cobourg, to Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Hubble and Edward Montgomery, of Belleville.

The election of officers was as follows, most of whom were re-appointed: president, Burton Hubble; vice-president, Mrs. Percy MacMullen; secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Russell Pyear; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Pyear.

It was decided to hold the 1963 picnic on the 4th Sunday in July at the same beach.

Following the business period, the group enjoyed reminiscing and visiting.

Those who came the farthest were: Selbourne Meed of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hubble of Weston; Harvey Hubble and family of Orillia.

Government Booklet Gives Plans for Blast Shelters

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has issued a new booklet in its Blueprint for Survival series to help Canadians stay alive in the event of nuclear war.

The 16-page brochure deals with blast shelters and is aimed mainly at city dwellers, the most likely victims in an attack.

In it, the Emergency Measures Organization offers detailed plans of three types of blast shelters. Blueprints are available to the public by writing to EMO offices in the provincial capitals.

Although EMO puts no official price tag on the shelters, a spokesman said prototype models built at the Civil Defence College at Arnprior, Ont., cost $4,000, $5,000 and $15,000 respectively. Prices would vary across Canada.

KEEP SIX SAFE

The least expensive model is designed to keep a family of six safe for the critical seven hours following a nuclear blast if it is situated at least five miles away from the centre of the explosion.

Two more complex models, one for six and another for 30 persons are designed to give the same protection at two miles from "ground zero."

These calculations are based on the assumption that a five-megaton bomb—equal in explosive force to 5,000,000 tons of TNT—would be used. This weapon would destroy all unprotected life for about 15 miles in any direction from the centre of the blast.

The shelters suggested by EMO offer protection against the shock and heat waves and radioactive rays immediately following the explosion. All are made of reinforced concrete.

Key items inside are pressure valves to prevent a rise in air pressure, and a forced-air system to keep the air inside fresh and free from carbon dioxide.

These systems are designed to protect the occupants for about seven hours following a blast. After that, they are supposed to venture outside for half an hour to put out nearby fires and administer first aid to the less fortunate.

Then, says the booklet, they should return to the shelter before the radioactive fallout starts dropping back to earth.

Confused Gull Dislikes Sea But Loves Beer

BROADSTAIRS, England (AP)—Leslie Forrest reported Tuesday he has been adopted by a confused seagull named Donald who hates the sea.

Donald can't stand fresh water either, but loves beer —he drinks and bathes in it.

Forrest runs a pub known as the Tartar Frigate Inn. A customer brought the young bird in a couple of months ago after seeing it fall from a nest.

"Donald obviously likes it here," said Forrest. "He follows me on my walks to the seashore — and then follows me right back again. He walks, too. He seems to take the view that if I don't fly he won't either.

"He insists on a pint of beer each morning. He sips all he can hold and wallows in what remains."

Indians' Vote On Oil Rights Is Inconclusive

WALPOLE ISLAND, Ont. (CP)—Residents of the Indian reserve voted 171-40-22 in favor of surrendering their oil and gas rights to the Crown, but the turnout of voters was insufficient. A vote by 75 per cent of the 477 eligible residents was needed to hand over the rights. Indian Agent F. L. Hall said a second vote, which would require only a majority, can be held if the band wants one.

Rock formations on the island, 25 miles south of Sarnia, are believed to warrant exploration. If the vote had been successful, the Crown would have asked oil companies to bid for exploration.

Flaming Propane Is Thrown Half Mile by Truck Blast In Quiet New York Hamlet

BERLIN, N.Y. (AP) — At 5:30 p.m. in the picturesque hamlet of Berlin in eastern New York, dinner was on the stove, its men were returning from work, and Gene Merrillas was standing beside a barnyard.

"God, it was like a clap of thunder . . . a bomb . . . everything lit up red," Merrillas said.

A load of propane gas on a tractor-trailer exploded Wednesday, spurting the flaming liquid as far as a half-mile within this community of 400. The truck driver was injured fatally and 16 men, women and children were taken to hospital. A dozen homes and the 179-year-old Baptist Church were in ruins.

Thunderheads were gathering as Robert J. McGraw, 30, of Pomeroy, Pa., took his big truck down the twisting two-mile hill leading into this community, folded into a valley between the Grafton Mountains and the Berkshires near the intersection of the New York-Massachusetts - Vermont state lines.

At some point, the brakes apparently failed, state police said, and McGraw leaned on his horn in warning as the truck hicle picked up speed. Some witnesses said the brakes appeared to be on fire.

About half way from the village square with its Memorial Civil War statue, the truck reached level near the bottom of the hill. It jackknifed the trailer broke off, upset and . . .

"There was a patsee, then a pop, then a bam. The flames must have gone 150 to 200 feet in the air . . . bright orange," Merrillas said. The account of Holden Gutsenoth, 46, who escaped it from a field.

McGraw was blown 200 feet. He died about two hours later.

Postmaster Robert Moses was closing up for the day. He looked at the house he had built himself. "It was terrible . . . it was a mess of fire." His wife was inside.

Held by the searing heat, Moses watched as his wife ran from the fire, then screamed through the garage, over the car and through a window, She was critically burned.

Three houses were smoldering when firemen got there and hunks of fire soared off to settle in a crew-cpuit pattern among her dens, while clapboard homes in Berlin and Grafton charred. A barn a half-mile away housing two school buses was ignited. A man pointing his house a quarter-mile away was blown from his ladder.

Fire Chief Frank Jones responded to the alarm and found his own home burning. What he could not find that his wife, . . .

"He's in terrible shape," the Rensselaer county fire co-ordinator told a reporter, "He couldn't find his wife. He's just in a daze."

But Mrs. Jones was found unharmed in a neighbor's home.

Propane is a liquified petroleum gas commonly used for heating and cooking in the home, as well as for motor fuel and for chemical and industrial purposes.

High Altitude Test Attempt Again Failure

HONOLULU (AP) — A Thor missile blew up and burned on its launch pad as the United States failed for the third time in four tries to explode a high altitude nuclear device over Johnston Island.

Cause of the missile failure was not known and there was no immediate word whether the Thor was deliberately destroyed.

The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington made the following announcement.

"The Thor booster designed to carry aloft a nuclear device for a high altitude test in the current U.S. nuclear test series in the Pacific was destroyed and burned on the launch pad last night at about 10:15 p.m. HST (8:45 a.m. EDT today).

"There was no nuclear detonation. There was no immediate report of injury to personnel. Further details will be furnished as soon as possible."

TESTS NEAR END

The shot was to have been launched from an airfield 40 miles high with a force equal to 20,000 to 1,000,000 tons of TNT. Johnston Island is about 700 miles southwest of Honolulu.

It was not to have been a thermonuclear missile. It was to have been one of the last of the current Pacific test series which began June 25 months ago. The two previous failures were blamed on the booster.

The only successful shot in the high altitude series was the biggest and highest July 9. Its explosion of a termonuclear device was detonated 210 miles over Johnston Island and lit up the Pacific from New Zealand to Hawaii. Scientists said it packed power estimated at between one and 10 megatons. A megaton is equal to a million tons of TNT.

CLEAR HOSPITAL DEBRIS—New York firemen and hospital employees clear debris from a fifth floor ward of St. Mary's Hospital in Brogan after fire razed the top two of the five storey 77-year-old structure. All of the hospital's 199 patients were evacuated safely. Two firemen were injured. The hospital is operated by the Sisters of Joseph, a Franciscan order of the Roman Catholic Church. Change From Emergency To Normal Now Complete For Saskatchewan People

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan residents can again call on normal medical treatment instead of depending on hospital-based emergency service.

The transition from emergency to normal service following settlement of the doctors' government dispute over the Medical Care Insurance Act was virtually completed Wednesday. The dispute, involving comprehensive, prepaid medical care insurance in the province, was settled Monday.

Dr. Clayton Crosby, emergency service co-ordinator for Regina, said the city's two hospitals, Grey Nuns and General, would be operating on a normal basis today. The last of the patients admitted under the emergency program were turned over to their own doctors Wednesday.

In Saskatoon, hospitals said service will be virtually normal by the weekend. The University Hospital reported that operations were building up again to the level before the July 1 start of the doctors' boycott of the medical care plan started.

REPORT NO DIFFICULTIES

Hospitals in other centres reported no difficulties in the return to normal service.

Doctors' offices continued to be busy Wednesday. However, the number of physicians available will be lower than prior to the boycott. Medical practitioners have said this will be accounted for partly by the number of doctors who left the province, permanently or temporarily, during the dispute and partly by those on holiday.

There were also reports many doctors will work outside the Medical Care Act, as provided for by the agreement signed by the CCF government and the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons.

More than 100 doctors in the Regina and Saskatoon Medical Society decided at a meeting Tuesday to practice outside the act and urge their patients to retain medical insurance coverage with private companies.

Dr. J. B. Mesbur, society president, explained that by doing so patients would save an estimated 15 per cent on medical bills. The action would, in effect, represent the amount the Medical Care Act would pay out of his own pocket if he practised medicine within the Medical Care Commission's rates for reimbursement.

REMEMBER PATIENTS

The commission, set up to administer the Medical Care Act, set rates Wednesday which are 85 per cent of the fee schedule established by the College of Physicians and Surgeons. However, patients joining private plans would have to pay an extra 15 per cent of the commission's fee, plus any additional premiums for extra benefits.

A few doctors in various areas of the province have indicated they will work under the medical care plan and accept payment directly from the commission. Some centres have set up, or plan to set up, cooperative clinics employing doctors who will work under the plan.

The provincial Keep Our Doctors Committee, which campaigned for suspension of the Medical Care Act until doctors and government agreed on a medical care plan, decided Wednesday to stay in operation. As a result, it has left mapped out a program of future activities.

Rodney Thompson, acting chairman of the group, said the program includes proposals "to create an atmosphere conducive to keeping doctors in Saskatchewan" to urge doctors who have left the province to return; to make it possible for more doctors off high calibre to fill the void created by the departure of doctors; and to work over legislation to be brought before a special session of the legislature to amend the Medical Care Act and to keep the "utmost vigilance" to see that all citizens on their right to receive this kind of medical care they want.

Husband, Wife Seek Same Seat In Legislature

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—The Schultz family has an excellent chance to win the seat in the state legislature representing the city's 10th ward.

Both Edward G. Schultz and his wife, Mildred, are seeking nomination for the seat—he as a Democrat and she as a Republican.

Schultz said he and his wife agree on most things, even in politics.

Flow of Seaborne Refugees Into Hong Kong Triples

HONG KONG (AP) — Government officials report a steadily increasing flow of seaborne refugees from Communist China is presenting this overcrowded British colony with a new crisis.

They estimated Wednesday the human flow at sea has tripled in the last six months from a mere trickle to a day, or 10,000 a month.

The problem is more critical than the mass exodus of last May," one top official said.

Hong Kong authorities have cracked down with stiff jail sentences on the refugee smugglers. It is considering the confiscation of junks and other vessels used in the thriving human cargo trade.

MANY INTERCEPTED

Almost 100,000 refugees from flood- and famine-stricken China stormed barbed wire barricades to seek asylum in Hong Kong in the first May and June days. But about 65,000 were later intercepted by Hong Kong police and British troops and sent back.

A police official here said the present problem is more difficult because refugees are coming over water and at night. The refugees are smuggled at rates ranging from $5 to $20 each. Relative, in junks and other vessels, are dispatched with thousands of fishing craft in the waters separating Hong Kong and China.

It would be physically impossible, police said, for them to check every fishing boat even if the colony patrolled every mile for hundreds of miles up and down the coast," one official said.

The new water escape routes to Hong Kong with another problem, immigration authorities will not take back refugees caught at sea.

Will Appeal Acquittal of Army Driver

TORONTO (CP) Attorney-General Roberts says he will appeal the acquittal in Brampton Tuesday of an army driver on a careless driving charge.

Magistrate H. T. G. Andrews dismissed a charge against Cpl. Donald Hamilton, of suburban Long Branch after defence counsel T. G. Fellows argued that a member of the armed forces driving an armed forces vehicle under orders from his superiors is not subject to the Ontario Highway Traffic Act.

"Theoretically we could have army drivers going wild on our highways," Mr. Roberts said.

"There are qualifications to all things but in this instance we think the traffic act does apply . . ."

Cpl. McInnis was charged June 3 after two motorists complained that an army bus on Highway 10 carrying members of the Lorne Scots band from Brampton to Toronto was straying from lane to lane at 75 miles an hour.

In making the ruling, Magistrate Andrews said the Crown is not bound by a statue unless the Crown is specifically mentioned in it.

Cabinet Silent After Meeting

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet met for 4½ hours Wednesday at Prime Minister Diefenbaker's official Ottawa residence but there were no announcements.

Mr. Diefenbaker called the regular weekly meeting at his home because he is confined to his residence with a broken ankle.

The cabinet met for 2½ hours in the morning and two hours in the afternoon.

India Will Buy, Make Red Fighter Planes

NEW DELHI (AP) — India has decided to open formal government talks with Russia to buy and manufacture the MiG-21 jet fighter, U.S. and Indian authoritative sources said today.

Reports of the Indian negotiating team in Moscow reviewed by Prime Minister Nehru's cabinet before a final decision is made to clinch the deal, the sources added.

The negotiations will involve the possible purchase of two squadrons of the supersonic fighters and licensing to build more in India.

The sources said the government has decided to send representatives to Moscow in August to discuss technical and financial aspects of the proposed deal.

Nehru and his chief ministers have apparently also decided to open negotiations with the Russians after another team headed by Defence Minister Krishnamenon left fighters offered for sale by Britain in an effort to block an Indian-Russian deal. The British fighter was considered unsuitable.

Crop Prospects Of the Nation

OTTAWA (CP)—Prairie crop prospects are fair to excellent except for large areas of southeastern Alberta and some parts of southwestern Saskatchewan that are beyond help, the bureau of statistics reports.

Practically all Prairie areas got fair to good rain in the last two weeks, excluding southwestern Alberta. Further, greatly needed rain will be needed to maintain heavy growth in many districts, the report said Wednesday.

Improved prospects for most Ontario crops followed recent rains. Winter wheat combining is finished in the southwestern areas, with above-average yields and good quality. Spring-sown cereals in many districts needed short and began maturing. Pasture and hay crop quality is improving with the rain.

Quebec and other fall-sown crops in southwestern Ontario have been making rapid growth.

A below-average hay cut is nearly harvested in southern Ontario and in western Quebec and is of little less advanced eastward. Some northern regions report too much rain. The dry spell caused pastures to deteriorate and forced some supplementary of 12 other deformed babies in feeding before the rains came. B.C.

Doctors Finish Surgery In Flame-Encircled Room

NEW YORK (AP) — The everyday drama of life and death was going on as usual at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Hospital in Brooklyn. But the drama deepened when the fire broke out.

"Everybody knew what to do, and they did it with cool heads," said the hospital's fire safety chief, Charles Bostwick, in explaining Wednesday's successful evacuation of some 200 patients. They and the hospital's 300 employees were all unscathed.

The evacuation wasn't as simple as it might sound.

One man was on an operating table, having part of his stomach removed. The doctors who were completing the surgery hardly needed 20 minutes more. They feared for the patient's life if they stopped. But the fires of flames they completed their work while two firemen with hoses stood outside the closed operating room door.

DELIVER BABY

A woman was in labor when the alarm sounded. She was wheeled to a basement and while firemen fought the flames on the floors just above, doctors delivered her baby.

Another woman, just out of surgery, was unconscious from anesthesia in a recovery room. She was taken to the hospital lawn while doctors administered plasma and glucose to her via the veins.

"I can attribute this wonderful discipline to our fire safety program," said Bostwick.

Sister Mary Emil, an administrator of the hospital, also credited frequent fire drills for the orderly emptying of the five-storey building.

Cause of the blaze was not determined immediately.

All patients were back inside within two hours after the first alarm.

Gravel Shower Damages Cars

BROOKLIN, Ont. (CP)—The tailgate of a gravel truck on Highway 12 between here and Whitby opened Wednesday and flying stones hit 11 cars, causing an estimated $2,000 damage in cracked windshields, dam aged fenders, headlights and grills.

Police said driver Frederick Neil Ball of Holland Landing, Ont., didn't notice the open tailgate. The motorist turned around to stop the truck in Brooklin, six miles northwest of Oshawa.

DEFORMITY REPORTED

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver island mother who took the drug thalidomide during pregnancy has given birth to a deformed baby, Deputy provincial health officer Dr. J. A. Taylor said Tuesday the drug is suspected in the recent births of 12 other deformed babies in Canada.

Pickpocket Did Canadian Big Favor

Stoutenburg, 26, was waiting for a bus home Tuesday night and suddenly discovered a pickpocket had lifted his wallet containing $25 and his ticket.

He then called up bandleader Guy Lombardo. Stoutenburg and Lombardo have a couple of things in common. Both are musicians and both are from London.

Lombardo not only provided a loan to get Stoutenburg home, but invited him out to a dinner and a show.

Toronto Board Refuses to Ease Ban on Speaking

TORONTO (CP)—A motion to permit poetry reading at a park where pools have recently been set up was defeated Wednesday by board of control.

Controller Philip Givens, who requested the amendment to the parks bylaw to allow the readings at Allan Gardens—one of the Toronto parks where all but religious speakers require a licence — said freedom of expression is being denied people who are not seditious or slanderous.

Controller Herbert Orliffe, of the parks committee, said he did not interested in Allan Gardens, but in asserting a right to unrestricted freedom of speech and assembly.

"If we allow them to declaim in Allan Gardens they will just move over to the next park where they would be prohibited from speaking and say free speech again," he said. "Where are you going to stop?"

Can Them!

LORIENT, France (AP) — Citizens in this west coast French city went around with their noses in the air Wednesday.

They had good reason. Angry fishermen protesting abnormally low prices dumped the whole of their sardine catch in the streets.

Girl Guides Play Prank On Americans

BUTTON BAY, Vt. (CP-AP) A group of Canadian Girl Guides pulled wool over the eyes of American Girl Scouts at the 50th anniversary scouting roundup.

They found out soon after their arrival that American girls expected them to speak French. Deciding to go along with the idea, the Canadian girls elected a "guide and translator."

Heather Alexander, 17, of Sarnia reported Wednesday:

"When asked a question we would play dumb and let our so - called translator put the question to us in French. Then we would reply in French to her and she would translate it into English."

Constance Bothwell, 16, also of Sarnia, said:

"We had more fun with this act and no one could guess that we were only fooling."

TOOK RUNS

Maureen Lacey, 17, of Windsor, said the girls "all took turns being the translator and it was hard trying not to laugh."

The Canadian girls finally confessed their prank to the American scouts and started teaching them French, enlisting the help of some Quebec guides.

The Canadian and American girls have also been examining wildlife.

"We are having a wonderful time listening to the southern drawls and hayseed talk and we can girls think our accents are funny," said Marlee Blewett 15, of Toronto.

Phoenix Woman Asks Court For Abortion

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A young mother, her husband and their attorney have asked a court for a court ruling to allow the woman to have her three-month pregnancy aborted.

She has been advised by doctors that the baby may be born deformed.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Pinkston of suburban Scottsdale and the Good Samaritan Hospital filed suit Wednesday in Superior Court.

Mr. Pinkston, 29, mother of four healthy children, wants to end her pregnancy because she has taken a drug, thalidomide, blamed for the births of malformed babies in Europe and Canada.

TO SAVE LIFE'

The suit asks the court to rule the abortion necessary for the "saving and preservation" of the mother's life, and to declare the hospital's part in this operation legal. Arizona law allows abortion only in cases where the mother's life is in danger.

Pressure Cooker Explosion Kills Woman

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Rose Lapointe, 45, was killed Wednesday when a pressure cooker exploded in her home.

Toronto Street Director Quits

TORONTO (CP) — Grant E. Thayer, who has been a Wednesday-afternoon works commissioner Harold Bradley retired last September has been "sticking his nose" into works department operations and countermanding orders.

"I've never had so much trouble and interference in my years of operations as I did in the past two winters," he said. "Now I'm going to go to Florida to get away from the snow."

Mr. Bradley denied he has been interfering with the city's snow removal. From his home in Brockville Mr. Bradley said:

"I haven't been near those offices since I retired last September. I have been enjoying the fruits of a long successful career in quiet retirement here."

Farmers' Group Concludes Meet

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Agriculture concluded its semi-annual meeting Wednesday, covering the farm income problem and some common market issues.

E. H. Hannam, president of the CFA believes in the need for expanding world trade because all countries in the world recognizes the need for no sudden removal of protection from some industries while pursuing this policy."

Delegates agreed to recommend to the federal government that Ontario corn and soya beans should qualify for feed-freight assistance.

Mr. Hannam would this would mean that some Ontario grain would be sold, but he did not think it would reduce the volume of grain moving into Ontario from the Prairies.

The board soon will call a meeting of CFA feed and grain committee to study the question of grain storage in the province, particularly British Columbia.

The next annual meeting will be at Windsor during the last week in January, 1963.

Agricultural Ministers Plan Hog Cholera Study

QUEBEC (CP) — Plans for a joint study of hog cholera by cholera outbreak by Quebec, Ontario and the federal government has been set up by provincial ministers of agriculture.

The cholera outbreak was the main topic under discussion at the closing meeting Wednesday, it was announced by Jean Lesage on the transport of hogs be established since the disease travel weakened the animals and made them more susceptible to the disease.

Hogs were sometimes shipped on two or three carcasses of 200 or 300 miles each. No details of a proposed ruling were disclosed.

Also discussed was the proposed implementation of the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act. All provinces, except earlier ones, have signed with the federal government on the ARDA program.

STOP TESTING

Meanwhile, a Winnipeg report says the hog cholera outbreak in Quebec and Ontario has resulted in suspension of a federal brucellosis testing program in Western Canada.

Leaders of the federal veterinarians in the four Prairie provinces have been consulted. They are being rushed to control Canada to help combat the outbreak.

Dr. Ross Singleton, director of the federal health of animals branch in Winnipeg, said the directive cancelling leaves and the testing program come from the veterinary director-general in Ottawa a week ago.

VETS MOBILIZED

Seven Manitoba veterinarians are already reported working in the East.

Suspension of the brucellosis testing program on the Prairies ada.

Sarnia Mother's Baby Lacks Arms and Legs

SARNIA (CP) — A young mother, whose two-month-old baby was born without arms or legs, is facing a heart-breaking decision.

The 19-year-old girl said Wednesday the baby will be taken to Toronto this weekend for corrective surgery. She and her husband will have to decide by then whether to have it killed or place it in a special home.

It is their first baby.

The mother says she was given the drug thalidomide for backache shortly after she became pregnant. The drug was later blamed for causing deformities in newborn children and banned from use in Can-

Will Attempt to Connect Nerves Of Severed Arm Rejoined to Body

Tweed

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP)—The freckle-faced youngster whose severed right arm was restored to his shoulder is going back into the hospital for a series of new operations.

Dr. Ronald A. Malt said that 12 - year - old Everett Knowles Jr., will be admitted to Massachusetts General Hospital in a week or 10 days for the most crucial phase of the arm re-implantation.

Doctors will attempt to reconnect the numerous nerve fibres which were completely severed along with the bone, veins, flesh and skin—by the wheel of a freight train May 25.

Dr. Malt said the outcome of the nerve - connecting operations will determine whether the arm again will be a useful part of the boy's body—or whether it will be amputated as useless.

Three weeks after Everett was wheeled into the Massachusetts General Hospital operating room without his right arm, the youngster walked out with the limb restored to his shoulder.

Three separate operations were required with about 50 doctors, nurses and technicians participating.

First the veins and arteries were reconnected to restore blood circulation. Then the bone was joined with a stainless steel pin. Thirdly, the gaping hole around the shoulder was closed with skin grafts.

So far, Dr. Malt said, those efforts toward restoring the arm to use have been successful.

Now, he added, comes the most critical part of the precise semi-exciting surgery.

Doctors say that never before has a severed limb been successfully re - implanted to a body.

In the next series of operations, doctors will attempt to join the tiny nerve fibres in which every nerve must be connected to its counterpart.

Japan Leads In New Ships Now Building

LONDON (Reuters) — Japan has taken over from Britain as the world leader in shipping tonnage under construction.

Lloyd's Register of Shipbuilding returns for the quarter ending June 30, published today, says Japan now has 16.3 per cent of the world's shipping construction.

British shipyards had their smallest percentage of world shipping construction in their history, except for war years, with 14.1 per cent.

Of the world's total of 9,186,000 tons under construction, Japan has 1,490,877 tons, Britain 1,262,146 tons, West Germany 986,484 tons, Sweden 773,268 tons and France 672,725 tons.

A prominent British shipbuilding executive forecast Tuesday night that several British shipyards will close in the next five years.

John Rannie, shipyard director of John Brown and Company of Clydebank, builders of the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth liners, said in Glasgow the world's capacity to build ships is twice the world's demand for new tonnage. ....

Colorful 'Petticoat Lane' Liveliest Mart in World

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP) — Soft soap and hard sell share London's Petticoat Lane market.

"I wish I had a lorry-load of these genuine items" means "I have a suitcase full and want to get rid of them."

"Like to hold the monkey, sir?" means "put him on your shoulder beside the parrot while I photograph you and ask for seven shillings and six pence."

"I defy you to buy these anywhere else in Petticoat Lane" means "no one else has the gall to offer them."

Tourists and buyers flock to the east London zoo of stalls Sunday mornings and run the gauntlet of now-shrieking, now-whispering tradesmen who badger or cajole them into buying everything from leper bells to jellied eels.

There is no Petticoat Lane. The name's history is obscure but it is believed the area specialized in garments centuries ago. Now the market stretches along Middlesex Street and the environs in Stepney Borough. Early Sunday the stall - holders—licensed by the borough council at £13 12s a year—prepare to start haggling at 9 a.m. By 2 p.m. it is all over and many of the hoarse salesmen have made enough money to last out the week.

STOLEN WATCHES

Jack the Ripper once walked Stepney streets and it used to be said you could have your watch stolen at one end of Petticoat Lane and have it offered to you for sale at the other end. Visitors now forfeit more money to cunning salesmen than to thieves.

Mid - way along Middlesex street the "Corn King" peddles ointment that he alleges cures corns, bunions, warts and ingrown toenails. As he hands you the tin he advises quietly: "Don't pick 'em, luv."

Most of the hawkers like to play on what they have found to be buyers' innate dishonesty. "Genuine Swiss watches, all stolen or smuggled," one offers with a sly grin.

Beggars are highly professional. One wears an engraved brass plate: "My wife and I are totally blind. How could anything be worse than that?"

Policemen assigned to keep an eye on things spend most of their time answering questions like: "Where can I buy some men's pants, about size 38 please?"

It's noisy, confusing, crowded but a wonderful morning's entertainment and if you're especially shrewd you might even pick up a bargain.

Stock Lakes In Park With Speckled Trout

ALGONQUIN PARK — To provide immediate fishing for visitors to Algonquin, Ontario's oldest and largest provincial park (2,910 square miles), four lakes along Highway 60 have each been stocked with 800 yearling speckled trout, five to seven inches in length. The lakes are Peck, at Mile 12.2; Margaret, at Mile 17.2; New Lake, at Mile 19.8 and Coon Lake at Mile 26.6 (Rock Lake Rd.)

Peck, Margaret and Coon Lakes are being restocked every two weeks during the season.

Park officials point out that these waters are easily accessible and, in fact, special docks have been constructed at Peck, New and Margaret Lakes so that fishing in deeper water is afforded families without a boat. A $3.25 resident licence is required in provincial parks only.

"Until recently", officials explain, "the Department of Lands and Forests program for stocking hatchery-raised speckled trout required a waiting period of one year between the time the fish were stocked and the time the angler added them to his creel. In most instances, yearling fish, four to six inches in length, were stocked and fishermen preferred to wait a year until they reached nine to 11 inches.

"Many park visitors, however, fished for only a few hours while camping or while taking their families for a day's outing. In these cases, accessibility must be easy and the fishing good enough to warrant wetting a line. But past experience has illustrated that normal stocking of easily accessible lakes was not sufficient to meet the demands of increased fishing and most of the fish were removed early in the season, leaving little for summer fishermen. The summer angler will be in luck with this type of stocking initiated successfully last year".

'WALL' SHOWN LIVE

NEW YORK (AP) — A live telecast of the wall between East and West Berlin was transmitted to the United States from Europe Tuesday night for the first time via the communications satellite Telstar. The program was carried by NBC, one of three major U.S. networks offering the first intercontinental newscasts live from Europe.

Now He Hands Out Smiles On the Rocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Luis Hernandez-Nos, 27, a Cuban refugee, has a sparkling smile. There are two small diamonds set in his front teeth.

The diamonds are from a ring given him by his Cuban fiancee. When the young man fled his homeland seven months ago, he had the gems removed from the ring and placed where everyone could see them.

Hernandez-Nos's fortune of tender memories were still in his head when he arrived here Tuesday from Europe, where he jumped ship after a voyage from Cuba.

Leafs Whip Suns 8-3, Bisons Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Atlanta Crackers are making a late bid to get into the Richmond League's first division and the playoffs.

The Crackers, getting strong pitching performances from 5-7 Paul Toth and Bob Sadowski, swept Buffalo 5-2 and 3-0 Wednesday night for their seventh and eighth victories in their last 11 games. They're still 16½ games out of first place, but only four games behind the fourth place Bisons.

Columbus, in fifth place, pulled to within two games of Buffalo by whipping Rochester twice, 5-1 and 5-1. Atlanta, in sixth, is another two games back.

Toronto's 5-3 victory over Jacksonville, the league leader, was the only other action in the 14 Wednesday night. The Richmond at Syracuse game was rained out, causing rescheduling of a twi-night doubleheader tonight.

HIT TWO-RUN HOMER

Sadowski went the route for Atlanta in the first game and got his hitting support from Tim McCarver, who hit a two-run homer and Pil Gagliano, who drove in pair with a double. Toth pitched the shutout in the nightcap, although the Crackers only managed two hits off rookie Gary Kroll. One of the two was a seventh inning homer by Bob Burda.

Toronto, winning its second straight from Jacksonville, cut the Suns lead to a still-substantial 7½ games. Steve Demeter slammed a homer, triple and single and Russ Herman picked up the victory with 5 2-3 innings of shutout relief. Joe Schaffernoth (13-7) lost it. The Suns, for the second straight night, committed five errors.

Columbus pulled up to .500 (48 wins and 48 losses) with its sweep at Rochester, the second game of which was limited to five innings by rain.

Two runs in the seventh and last inning won the opener as reliefer Dick Luevke walked in the tying run and an infield out scored the second. Dick Gray's triple was the big blow of the second game. Ossie Virgil homered for Rochester's only run.

Koufax, Shaw Dropped

Join National All-Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Outfielders Frank Robinson of Cincinnati and Billy Williams of Chicago and third baseman Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee and pitcher Art Mahaffey of Philadelphia were added today to the National League all-star squad that will play a second game with American Leaguers at Chicago Monday.

Manager Fred Hutchinson, of the National League champion Cincinnati Reds, who will manage the National League team, made the selections.

Robinson, Williams and Mathews were the three outright additions to the squad, permitted under the rules. Mahaffey, a right-hander, was named to replace Bob Shaw of Milwaukee.

Hutchinson also dropped Los Angeles's Sandy Koufax who has been sidelined because of [illegible] numbness in the index finger of his pitching hand.

This will be Mathews's ninth appearance on the all - star squad. It will be the 16th for Robinson, currently in second in the league batting averages behind Dick Groat of Pittsburgh. It will be the first time for Mahaffey and the first for Williams.

Hutchinson also named managers Birdie Tebbetts of Milwaukee and Harry Craft of Houston as his coaches. They will replace Bruce Bome coaches Casey Stengel of New York and Johnny Keane of St. Louis.

Host Club Trails in Henley Race

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—St. Catharines Rowing Club is at the bottom of the Royal Canadian Henley standings, but not even its opposition expects it to last.

The host club at the four-day Henley won only two events Wednesday on a card that was delayed by winds and finished in a driving rainstorm. The wins, combined with lesser performances in other events, gave the club only 1.5 points.

On top of the standings is Detroit Boat Club, the United States rowing champions, with 11 points. Minnesota Boat Club of St. Paul, Minn., and Wyandotte (Mich.) Boat Club are tied for second with 10 points.

Hamilton's Leander Boat Club with five, Brockville Rowing Club with 2.5, Shrewsbury (Mass.) Rowing Association with 2.5, and Toronto Argonauts Rowing Club and Ottawa Boat Club with two each follow.

St. Catharines, defending Henley champions, have yet to show in crew events and record performances indicate the club will pick up points in those events. Last weekend St. Catharines was a surprise winner of the championship eights at the U.S. national amateur rowing championships at Buffalo, N.Y.

There were only three finals on Wednesday's program, taken up mostly with heats for final events today. A 17-year-old high school sculler from Wyandotte stole the spotlight by winning two of them.

The wins were the first at a Henley for Jeff Kreger, although he is no stranger to the Canadian rowing scene. He had easy victories in the high school and junior 135-pound singles.

'Hot Dog' Made Money For Owner

KITCHENER (CP) — A witness described an unusual method of money-making after John Baranski, 76, pleaded not guilty to a breach of the Vicious Dog Act.

Bruce McAdam, manager of the Rockway Golf Club which adjoins Mr. Baranski's property, said Wednesday the accused man collects golf balls that go onto his land and sells them back to the golfers.

The charge was laid after Peter Bullock, 14, of Toronto, was bitten when he climbed the fence.

The case was put over to Friday.

But She Won't Quit Her Codding

WEDGEPORT, N.S. (CP) — Fifteen - year - old Lucille Bauer of Staten Island, N.Y., landed a 44½ - pound codfish to set a world record for female anglers.

Miss Bauer boated the fish, 48½ inches long, in 10 minutes Wednesday on a 30-hour trip, line.

International fish and game statistics listed a 31½-pound fish as the biggest cod ever landed by a woman. It was caught Aug. 9, 1957, by Mrs. Julia Silvia of Dannaricotis, Ma.

Whats' This, Hockey In Summer?

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — The 1962-63 hockey season got under way Wednesday night, more or less, with Chicago Black Hawks' Reg Fleming and Toronto Maple Leafs' Eddie Litzenberger each scoring three goals.

But the two National League stars weren't playing for their NHL teams. It was an exhibition match between Byrnell Boys Camp and an NHL oldtimers' team.

Fleming and Litzenberger both played for Byrnell, which won 7-5. Former New York Ranger Red Sullivan got the other goal for the winners.

CANADA DISQUALIFIED

GREDRIKSTAD, Norway (CP) — Bamboo, Canada's entry in to the world championship Gold Cup races for dragon-class yachts, finished 12th Wednesday in the second of the five-race series.

However, the Canadian craft, under skipper Walter Windeyer of Toronto's Royal Canadian Yacht Club, was disqualified later for improperly rounding a buoy.

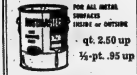
Hoak Sidelined

CINCINNATI (AP) — Veteran first baseman Don Hoak of Pittsburgh Pirates was sidelined by an arm injury Wednesday night in the second inning of a game with Cincinnati Reds.

Team spokesman said Hoak suffered a broken blood vessel in his right forearm on a hard-hit line single by Eddie Kasko that scored one run.



Manny Logan replaced Hoak at third.

'Damp Track' For Open Golfers

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP) — An international field of 156 golfers tees off today in the opening round of the $50,000 Canadian open golf championship over a course made soft by heavy rain.

The rain, which could affect pre - tournament predictions, started to fall early Wednesday evening while the last of the competing pros and amateurs were completing their practice rounds. The forecast for today was cloudy with a chance of showers.

The practice rounds held no special surprises, although South Africa's raisin - chewing Gary Player settled for a par 72 on a casual and experimental round and veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver took a three-over-par 75 after running into trouble on approach shots and putts.

NICKLAUS SHOOTS 68

Big, power-hitting Jack Nicklaus, winner of the U.S. Open, turned in a 68 practice round but said later he doesn't think his booming game will give him much of an edge over other stars during the tournament, at 40 to 50 knots.

But Player said the long-ball hitter is going to have a definite advantage and picked Nicklaus as the man to watch.

At Johnston of Montreal and Gerald Knudson of Toronto carded 70s in their practice rounds. Knudson said he is playing better than he has for some time.

Bob Goalby, who missed out to Gary Player on the PGA title by one stroke, carded a 73 in a round in which he disputed several of his caddy's estimates of distance. He got another caddy before going out on the practice fairway to hit some balls.

Gene Littler, the second-high money winner on the current pro tour, turned in a 71, despite missing several birdie putts. Art Wall Jr, winner of the 1959 Canadian Open, was working well on the greens but took a par 72.

The CBC will televise Saturday's and Sunday's rounds over its English network starting at 4:30 p.m.

FAST PATROLLER

A patrol craft of hydro-foil design being developed for the U.S. Navy will skim the water at 40 to 50 knots.

Drysdale Whips Cards For Win No 18

8 In Row Eyes 30

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers said this was the year for Don Drysdale to win 30 games. Nobody had said anything about 30, but they're saying it now.

Big Don won his 18th, and eighth in a row, Wednesday night as he beat St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 to keep the Dodgers a game on top of the National League standings. The runner-up San Francisco Giants kept pace with a 3-2 win over Houston Colts.

The victory, which brought Drysdale's mark to 18-4 on the year, improved his chances of becoming the first big leaguer to win 30 since Dizzy Dean in 1934. Dizzy was 30-7 that year.

With 39½ weeks left in the schedule, Drysdale can get 19 more starts if he goes twice a week. He must win 13 of them.

Bob Purkey of Cincinnati Reds notched Drysdale's eighth victory, a 13-6 decision over Pittsburgh Pirates. Right-hander must also be given an outside chance of recording 30 wins.

CRAIG LOSES 10TH

On the other end of the scale, Roger Craig, hard-working righthander with the hapless New York Mets, dropped his 16th of the year — he has won five — 11 - 5 to Milwaukee Braves. It didn't make the charmed circle in reverse. Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia Phillies 5-2.

Drysdale needed relief help in the eighth inning from Ron Perranoski and Ed Roebuck after he gave up a leadoff single.

Stan Musial tied the game 2-2

in the sixth inning and broke Mel Ott's league record of runs batted in. Musial smashed a homer off the right-field light tower some 85 feet above the playing field to give him 1,862 career RBI.

Shortstop Maury Wills, who also had a homer and a single, opened the seventh with a triple for the Dodgers and scored on Jim Gilliam's single. A single by Willie Davis and a sacrifice fly by Tommy Davis got Gilliam home.

LARSEN, MILLER HELP

Billy O'Dell gained his 12th victory for the Giants, with relief from Don Larsen and Stu Miller. Jim Davenport homered and Chuck Hiller and Tom Haller drove in the other runs for the Giants, who take a four-game winning streak into Friday night's opener of a three-game showdown series with the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

Purkey went all the way, although Pittsburgh catcher Smoky Burgess touched him for two homers. The Reds backed Purkey with a 20-hit barrage. Frank Robinson had three straight. The win was the eighth straight for the Reds.

Joe Adcock smashed a grand-slam homer and a solo four-bagger and Eddie Mathews had a pair of two-run homers as the Braves sent the Mets down in their 10th straight defeat. The victory was the fifth straight for the Braves.

Brilliant 'Squeeze' Turns Trick

Kenmors Snatch 9th-Inning Win

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Kenmors had a foot in the grave and the other on a banana skin here last night with Kingston poised to give them the fatal push.

But a brilliant life-saving squeeze play in the bottom of the ninth sent the run across the plate that gave them a 2-1 victory and ushered them a playoff berth in the Lakeshore senior baseball division finals.

Kingston led 1-0 going into the final frame behind the four-hit pitching of southpaw Doug McIlroy. He had stopped the Kenmors cold to this point whiffing ten and walking seven.

With the victory in his grasp, McIlroy walked pinch-hitter Gordie Vaughan. Duffy Follwell laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt and Larry Soden drove a towering fly to deep right field.

Kingston ace Charlie Pester had the ball in his glove and dropped it. Vaughn scored the tying run and Carr galloped all the way to third on the error.

Jackie Elliott rolled a bunt single toward third but Carr dashing for home as he set swung. He scored the winner before a surprised Kingston infield could make a play.

It wasn't the reliable Pester's night to howl. He struck out three times, grounded out and his error triggered the play that cost Kingston the ball game.

The teams battled in a 1-0 race down to the wire in what was the best baseball game of the season. It was hailed some

LARRY SODEN

25 minutes after the sixth as the rains fell.

Larry Soden and McIlroy duelled in a close mound battle, both coming through in the clutches in bases-loaded situations. Soden scattered seven hits, striking out ten and walking two.

Kingston scored its run in the second, Carry walking and going to third on Murphy's single. Bill McIlroy hoisted a long sacrifice fly to right field, Carty scoring after the catch.

Kingston loaded the bases in the eighth on singles by Senior, Tony Pettitt's single and Carty's walk. Soden struck out Pester and Lemmin and forced Senior at the plate.

The Kenmors filled the sacks in the second on Soden's double and two walks and singles in the seventh on singles by Carr and Moxon and a sacrifice. But they couldn't fathom McIlroy's clutch slants and no damage was done.

Umpire hassles again featured the tilt. Al. Kelleher at the plate leaving out catch fld Forster and Moe Hunter in the field for arguing a called third strike. Manager Ken Soden took over the third-base coaching and engineered the victory's squeeze play.

Senior with two, Tom and Tony Pettitt, Carty, Murphy and Lemmin were the Kingston hitters.

The Belleville victory eliminated Peterborough from the league playoffs. Kingston and the Kenmors are slated to open the best of seven championship series either here or Kingston next Wednesday.

After the game both ball clubs were guests of the El Rancho restaurant where they enjoyed a steak dinner.

KINGSTON — Tom Pettitt, Senior, Tony Pettitt, Pester, Carty, Murphy, Lemmin, R. McIlroy, D. McIlroy.

Defeat Argos, Stamps

Eskys, Riders Win Tilts

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos rallied from a 7-0 deficit to defeat Toronto Argonauts 20-7 Wednesday night in a Canadian Football League exhibition game before 9,000 fans.

The passing of Canadian quarterback Don Getty and the work of import rookie halfbacks Alan White, Bill McKenny and Bobbie Walden paced the Eskimos after they recovered from an opening-play touchdown by the Argos.

Edmonton's touchdowns came on a brilliant 106-yard return of the second half kick-off by White, a graduate of Wake Forest, and a 13-yard touchdown pass from Getty to end Tommy-Joe Coffey. Coffey converted both touchdowns and kicked two field goals.

Fullback Dick Shatto plunged 11 yards for Toronto's touchdown after halfback Joe Hernandez took the game's opening kickoff 42 yards to the Edmonton 14. Centre Bill Mitchell converted.

All of the touchdowns came in the second half of the exhibition match, with Riders taking a 3-3 halftime lead.

Dick Desmarais, injured late in the fourth quarter, scored the lone Ottawa touchdown and Bob Ptacek added the convert after they recovered from his quarter field goal for the Rider points.

Pat Hannigan Gets Fastball Life Ban

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — A life suspension from fastball for Pat Hannigan, who also plays for the National Hockey League New York Rangers, has been voted by the Red Deer Men's Fastball Association.

The unanimous vote Wednesday followed a Monday night game in which umpire Bill Scott suffered a broken jaw.

The suspension, to be reviewed in five years, applies to Hannigan as he's playing in the Red Deer City League.

Says Some Hunters Are Chisellers

WASHINGTON (AP) — An interior department official says there is petty chiseling by perhaps 10 per cent of the nation's duck hunters.

Charles H. Lawrence, acting chief of the migratory waterfowl enforcement division, also told a House merchant marine subcommittee Wednesday that the illegal take by duck hunters is greater than by commercial market hunters.

Walter P. Crissey, director of migratory bird population statistics, said the breeder population of ducks is down throughout the main breeding areas of North Dakota, Minnesota and Canadian provinces. He said this is due to drought in those areas during the last three years.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

They brought Taro Sakuro, a full-blooded Nipponese here last week under a nine-spelled name (it sounded like an Italian operatic aria when half sung over a telephone), and he made an immediate hit with the tough-guy section of the wrestling bleachers.

Taro is a topflight Japanese wrestler, one of the best of his class to come out of the Land of the Rising Sun. And he has all the color, artistry, tradition, ritual and whatnot of his race including a Mongol moustache.

And he has more than that. He has wits, cunning, strength, a double-hinged waistline, a beguiling big-toothed smile, plenty of ring savvy and a judo chop that would make his grandfather Kim a norken.

Yari makes a Ziegfeld Follies ring entry. He comes in, the toothy smile flashing, garbed in a rich full-length robe, wooden clogs on his feet, and the traditional mill. An attendant places a statue of Buddha in the ring and Taro goes into the ritual.

Like other wrestling sons of Nippon, Taro is short-fat and stocky, with a slight touch of embonpoint, a brush cut and the most beguiling smile that ever framed a set of pearly molars. He can change a snarl of frustration to his engaging smile while you're not believing your eyes.

Give him the advantage and you've got yourself a fighting, snarling tiger on your hands. His hands flick in and out at your throat in frictless judo chops like lightning. A few of these and your voice is being strained through the hair on the nape of your neck—if it is still there.

But get him at your mercy—hand him a few Occidental bumps, punches, or an assortment of locks, and this Jekyll-Hyde Japanese flips character before you see it.

He bows low from the waist, one, twice, thrice and extends the hand of friendship. The smile spreads over his face. You feel like answering the unasked question, "Oh, twenty will tide me over." But don't take the hand. If you do you'll be wondering within seconds what tribesmanner played "Yankee Doodle" on your adam's apple.

Taro teams up with another Oriental wrestler, "The Great Kudo," who comes to masked and garbed in karate or judo robes. He has appeared here before.

But lookit the opposition! Lined up on the far bank in massive formation are nine other than the fantastic "Mr. Kleen" and a new pusher, the lugubrious "Bruno" Sammartino. Now no performance, here's a pair who should be able to make a herd of Japanese wrestlers cowered by a squadron of Kamakazi pilots say "Sayonara" before pooling off a double header.

Bruno, a handsome 245-lb. Italian Apollo, made a big hit here in his debut last week when he defeated, Big Bob Stanlee, the strutting Texan. Later he propped up the ring with "Bulldog" Brower when he was pulverizing Whipper Watson in a post-bout attack.

This looks like the best tagteam potential seen here in a long while and the Double O's, Taro and Kudo, had better bring along their samurai swords just in case they need some extra protection.

And to fans who are wondering why that handsome hunks man from Honolulu, Sam Steamboat, has a strange surname, here's the answer.

Sam was born "Sam Mokuahi." Now "Mokuahi" in English means "steamboat." Sam figured that a lot of mainlanders couldn't cackle "Mokuahi" with any degree of accuracy so he decided to make it easier for them. Steamboat accepted his family name. He inherited the Sam part from his father.

Rain Halts Bobcats Flyers Tilt

The saying goes that the underdog never gets a break, and the Bobcats will vouch for that statement today.

Bobcats held a 6-4 lead over the RCAF Flyers in the opening game of the Belleville and District softball league round-robin semi-final series in Trenton last night when the rain ended it all.

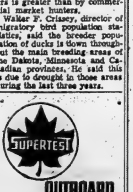
And just three outs away from a legal game as Umpire Hale umpire Tom Hulme halted the game after six and one half innings, the rain failed to let off after a 20 minute wait and it was called off.

The game will be replayed, Manby next Wednesday.

Bobcats scored one in the first on Jack Hughes' single and Crawford's dp ball. Trenton scored three unearned runs in the bottom of the frame on walks, two errors and Don Cole's double.

Three singles, hits, by Bob Green, Doug Soule and Roger Cole, the last driving in two runs, tied the score 3-3 in the second. "Shiner" Murray's single, Clegg's sacrifice and error, Doug Murray's triple and Bob Green's single made it 6-3 in the third. Corky Corncadden singled and scored later on Bob Mowatt's hit for RCAF in the fifth.

Bob Green threw good ball for Bobcats after a shaky start. He gave up four hits, struck out nine and walked four, three in the first.



Starter Bill McCluskey allowed all eight Bobcat hits while pitching the first three innings. Mike Manbaliz threw relief ball over the final four frames.

Green, with two singles, Doug Murray and Karl Clegg with triples, Jack Hughes, Frank "Shiner" Murray, Doug Soule and Roger Cole had the Bobcat hits.

Bobcats	120 000 0—4 8 2
RCAF	300 010 x—4 4 1

Game called after six and one-half innings, rain.

Twins Win, Indians Scalped

Bosox, Yanks Split; Angels Nip Lead

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

No runs. No hits. Four magic words — and then problems.

Earl Wilson, middle man of baseball's problem - plagued pork-bit trio, knocks his jinnx Wednesday night as Boston Red Sox whipped the league-leading New York Yankees 4-3 in the first game of an American League doubleheader before the Red Sox bowed 6-4 in the night-cap.

It was the first victory for the strapping Red Sox right-hander since he hurled his no-hitter June 26. It gave Wilson and no-hit colleagues Bo Belinsky and Sandy Koufax a combined 7-7 record since they hurled their masterful performances.

Belinsky, running into trouble since his May 5 no-hitter for Los Angeles Angels, is 3-5 in his last 15 appearances. Koufax, who posted his no-hitter for Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League June 30, won three for his next four but is now on the sidelines with a finger injury.

SURVIVES HRs

Wilson survived Yankee home runs by Mickey Mantle and Tom Tresh, got a solid relief stint from Dick Radatz and ended a winless streak that had lasted through five appearances.

The split left the Yankees 2½ games in front of the second-place Angels, who blanked Baltimore Orioles 5-0. The third-place Minnesota Twins edged Detroit Tigers 7-6, Kansas City Athletics knocked off the fourth-place Cleveland Indians 5-4 and Washington Senators nipped Chicago White Sox 4-3.

The Red Sox won the opener when Wilson (7-3) with three runs in the fourth inning after an error by Clete Boyer opened the door. Ed Bressoud and Dick Gardner drove in a run each with singles and Gary Geiger's sacrifice fly produced the return run off Ralph Terry (11-5).

The Yankees took the night-cap when Hector Lopez stroked a two-run, pinch-hit single off Mike Fornieles (2-4) with the score tied 4-4 in the last of the eighth. That gave the victory to reliever Malahai Bridges (4-0). Joe Koppe doubled in two runs for the Angels in the second inning and Earl Averill hit a three - run homer in the seventh to wrap things up against the Orioles. Averill pinch - hit for starter Don Lee (4-5), who held Baltimore to four hits before Dean Chance took over and finished up the shutout, allowing two hits. Jack Fisher (3-3) lost.

TIGERS MOVE AHEAD

A walk and singles by Len Green, Vic Power and Rich Rollins scored the tying and winning runs for the Twins in the last of the ninth frame after the Tigers had moved ahead with three runs in the top half.

Steve Boros' two-run homer was the key blow in the Detroit rampage. Chico Fernandez also homered for the Tigers, while Bob Allison and Power connected for the Twins. Ray Moore (6-3) picked up the victory in relief. Ron Nischwitz (3-4) lost.

Jim Negri (7-3) held the Indians to three hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning and the Athletics were hard pressed to hold on behind Danny McDevitt, John Wyatt and Bill Fischer, who got Jerry Kindall for the final out with the winning runs on base.

The Athletics scored four runs in the second inning against Sam McDowell (3-4) and came up with the eventual clincher in the fifth on singles by Ed Charles and Norm Siebern and a double by Manny Jimenez.

The Senators scored two runs in the first inning on Chuck Cottier's steal of home and a run-producing double by Chuck Hinton, then put the game out of reach with a pair of runs in the second on a homer by Don Lock and Cottier's run-scoring single. That tagged White Sox starter Juan Pizarro (9-9) with the loss.

Claude Osteen (5-7) won.

District Softball League

Maracle, Mitts Top Stars

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Billy Mitts, pepper-pot centre fielder of the RCAF Flyers, has captured the Belleville and District softball league batting championship for the 1962 season with a sparkling .366 average.

Mitts won the crown with a three-for-five performance in the final scheduled game, hoisting himself past teammate Roger Drake and Ricky Locke of the Juniors in the process.

Mitts had 22 hits in 57 official trips. He played in 14 of the club's games, scoring ten runs himself and driving in nine more.

Locke, of Rollins Juniors, who led most of the year, ended second with a .371 average. Drake, the loop's hit leader with 24, was third with a .358 average followed by Ted Batchelor of the pennant-winning Dove Real Estaters with .346.

Pat Maracle, of perfect-game fame, led the league's pitchers with a perfect 6-0 mark and .875 strikeouts, also top in the loop. Bob Butterfield, of Joyces, also pitched 1,000 with a 5-0 mark.

RCAF outfielder Donnie Cole took first place in three departments, leading the league in home runs with six, in runs-batted-in with 15, and in runs scored, with 18. Joyces' Bert Faulkner was second in homers with three and RBI, with 14.

Mitts, a veteran with Trenton district teams for some years, was the second RCAF centre fielder to win the batting crown in as many years. John Hughes, now stationed in Germany, took the title last year, hitting .356.

Following are the final batting and pitching lists for the 1962 season:

Call Hamner As Pitcher

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Former minor league shortstop Granny Hamner, now player-manager of the Class A Eastern League's Binghamton Triplets and the team's most consistent pitcher, has been called up by Kansas City Athletics of the American League for trial as a pitcher.

Hamner, 35, who played shortstop for Philadelphia Phillies when they won the National League pennant in 1950, may be added to the roster as a reliever. He also pitched briefly for the Phils in 1956. He appeared in three games and had an 0-1 record.

Dan Carnevale, manager of International and Eastern League teams in the past, will assume the managerial position at Binghamton.

Hamner, who said he will join the Athletics in Baltimore Friday, had a 5-4 pitching record with Portsmouth in the Sally League last year while serving his first term as a manager. This year with the Triplets, he has won 10 of 14 games, completing each game he has started. He has a 1.91 earned run average, allowing only 23 runs in 147 innings.

Earlier the Athletics announced they are adding rookie pitcher Roberto Pena to the roster and removing burler Gordon Jones. Toppin, a right-hander, was brought up from Albuquerque of the Texas League where he had a 5-5 record and a 3.74 earned run average.

Movieland's Wax Museum Is Shrine to Golden Era

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — While Hollywood itself works fitfully at creating a museum for its achievements, a Long Beach Calif. drug millionaire literally is operating a shrine to movieland's golden era.

It's the Movieland Wax Museum, located 30 miles south of Hollywood and Vine in Buena Park, of all places.

Why there

"Because it's the hub of the southern California tourist territory, and because we couldn't find enough room for parking space in Hollywood," explained Allen H. Parkinson, whose brainchild it is.

The museum is just a pie's throw from Knott's Berry Farm, which teems daily with visitors from far and wide. A few miles distant is a place called Disneyland.

Parkinson's place is smaller, but may give as much pleasure to those who recall those good old movie days with fondness and delight. It's pourquoi there to see the layout and meet the owner, a tall, friendly ex-salesman who made his fortune with a non-prescription sleeping tablet.

SURROUNDED BY GLAMOR

The museum is in a gleaming white building and its interior is glass throughout. Not only are the stars clothed in elegant costumes of their famous roles; they are surrounded by glamor trappings—Gloria Swanson and William Holden step from a gold Rolls Royce in Sunset Boulevard; Charles Laughton as Henry VIII is helped into a canopied bed by a covey of handmaidens.

Now about the likenesses. Most are good. A few miss the mark, as with Alan Ladd, Al Jolson and Tyrone Power. But many are startling realistic. The best are James Dean in a pose from Rebel Without a Cause and Ward Bond in his Wagon Train getup.

"Nearly all are made abroad, in Hong Kong, Mexico, Spain and France," said Parkinson. Average cost: $2,500 apiece.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)— Benedict, a two-year-old filly whose racing career was considered finished a week ago, won the $8,700 Boniface Stakes Wednesday at Fort Erie.

Ridden by Marion Dalloo and owned by Hugh A. Grant of Bradford, Penn., Benedict and stablemate My Bunny, owned by Larkin Maloney of Toronto, returned $4.70, $4.20 and $2.80 as favorites.

Benedict injured her right forefoot in the winning drive sprint. At the finish of Wednesday's 5½ - furlong spring, Benedict was one head in front of By Bunty. Two and three-quarter lengths back was Allegro.

Apprentice jockey Ron Turcotte won four of the eight races on the card. He won the first with Gay Pageant, with Chilly Filly in the fourth, Put-tender in the fifth and Moonlighter in the eighth.

To daily - double of Gay Pageant and Hala Roman paid $42. The quinella of Blondoll and Match Girl in the sixth returned $19.50.

WILL BUILD STADIUM

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Senate passed a bill Wednesday for creation of an authority to build a sports stadium in Boston, to seat a minimum of 60,000 spectators and to cost as much as $50,000,000. The bill calls for a roofed building so the stadium could be used all year.

Thinks Politicians, Movie Stars Hockey Pros Have Boring Jobs

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions and how many do you agree with?:

Nervous tension is one of the leading ailments of civilization. But eight out of 10 people would feel less tense if they'd simply get one more hour of sleep a night, walk a mile more a day in the open air—and worry a third as much about the other fellow's problems as they do their own.

All my life I've heard about kids earning their way into the circus by carrying water for the elephants but I've never met one who did.

The most boring job I can think of is being a driving a bus, or being a professional hockey player, politician or movie star.

Horlocks Blank Reides 4-0

Wayne Woods pitched a fine two-hitter at CNRA Park last night to lead the Woods-Horlock Juveniles to a 4-0 shutout over Reide's Excavating.

Meanwhile Woods' mates made him single runs in the first and third innings, sandwiched around two in the second, for the 4-0 score.

Don Malloy looked after the only run necessary with his first inning home run. He later added a double to spark all hitters. Norris collected two singles, while Jenkins and Turner one apiece for the other Woods Horlock hit.

Garry Wood, with a single, and Leigh, with a double, were the only Reide batters to hit safely off Wayne Woods. He struck out four and walked the same number.

J. Johnston hurled well in a losing effort, scattering seven hits also throwing shutout ball for the final three innings. He struck out three but walked six.

More Homers Less Runs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Home runs thrill the crowds but baseball records show that as home runs increase, runs scored decrease.

Poet - Dispatch sports editor Bob Broeg who checked records back to 1919 reports that "major league ball clubs scored less runs as a more rapid rate in the past when they were hitting fewer homers."

In 1920 American League teams scored 5,980 runs, getting only 370 homers. Two years ago, the last time it was an eight-team league, the American League scored 5,414 runs, but hit 1,086 homers.

National League teams a year ago scored 5,600 runs with 1,196 homers. In 1921 the league scored 307 fewer runs with 985 fewer homers.

The Etobicoke, for 2½-year-olds, was split into two divisions by an entry of colts staged as the third and fifth races. Lyndon Chief, in winning the second division, earned top honors with his time of 2:17.4.

The other division was won by the 1-to-4 favorite True Counsel, which covered the mile in 2:18.4 and was four lengths ahead of second-place Oro Lee Herbert.

Boxer Dies Following First Fight

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A young fighter, knocked out in his first professional match, became the world's seventh ring fatality of the year Wednesday. Sonny Nunez, 22, of Glendale, Calif., died on a hospital operating table less than three hours after he walked into the powerful right hand thrown by Rodrigo Contreras of Tucson, Ariz. Contreras also was making his pro debut.

They fought on even terms until the last round of the four-round featherweight bout. A single punch dropped Nunez and he was counted out. A doctor said he suffered severe brain damage.

Nunez, who was married, decided to enter pro fighting after doing well in an amateur show last month.

Mine-Mill Wins Battles In War With Steel Union But Big Issue Hangs Fire

TORONTO (CP) — The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Mine-Mill) won two battles, but its war with United Steelworkers of America (CLC) for the spoils of Sudbury area certification is still in doubt.

In separate courtrooms here Mine-Mill Wednesday wrested decertified control of its Sudbury local 598 and won by default a battle for certification rights for 2,241 employees of Falconbridge Nickel Mines Limited.

But the unions are waiting for an Ontario Labor Relations Board judgment on an application by Mine-Mill to invalidate a certification vote which gave Steel an edge of 15 votes in its bid for bargaining rights for 15,000 workers at International Nickel Company.

The battle for control of local 598 went on before Mr. Justice N. C. Fraser of the Ontario Supreme Court. An agreement between the factions supporting Mine-Mill and Steel places management of the local's day-to-day affairs in the hands of an interim executive headed by Thomas Taylor, a supporter of Mine-Mill's national office.

ASKS CO-OPERATION

However, the pact calls on the executive to co-operate with a three-men board representing the rival faction until a permanent executive is elected Aug. 22. The board will have access to all local records and auditors' reports and receive notice of all executive meetings.

The former 598 executive under Donald Gillis opposed the national office at the time it was locking horns with Steel. But the Gillis administration's term expired June 30 and the local's accounts have been frozen, since then by Guaranty Trust Company and the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

The agreement, worked out by lawyers from the two sides, arose from an action brought by local 598 to invalidate the election which took control of the interim executive and freeze the local's assets pending further court action.

These actions were adjourned sine die when the parties signed a ruling last week which gave the Taylor executive access to five union halls.

Under the pact Guaranty Trust will receive an order to release $40,000 from the local's accounts to the Taylor executive—$25,000 for day-to-day operating costs and $15,000 for the Aug. 21 election costs.

Any receipts before Aug. 21, including some $100,000 in union dues checked off by Inco, will go into the frozen accounts.

The agreement stipulates that the Ontario Labor Department will be asked to supervise the vote. One nomination meeting has been held and two more are scheduled before nominations close Aug. 10.

SAY CARDS FORGED

Steel in throwing in the towel at Falconbridge conceded that some of the membership cards it submitted in the Inco certification battle were forged.

Lloyd Walker, Canadian director of the union, said evidence of forgeries "establishes that our staff representatives had no connection with the practice."

However, Ken Smith, national Mine-Mill president, said later in an interview that Steel withdrawal showed it did not "want to cross-examination."

Mr. Smith said Steel had received many cards "under difficult circumstances" and it had accepted them in good value.

"It now is clear to us that some of the applications—membership cards—filed by our staff representatives were submitted signatures of employees."

Railways and Auto-Makers Sign Long-Haul Agreement

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario truckers have indicated that recently signed agreement between the railways and Canadian auto-makers could mean trucking there will lose a large chunk of long-haul business.

The Ford Motor Company of Canada and Chrysler Corporation of Canada have signed agreements with the CNR and CPR at reduced rates covering the almost-exclusive shipment of automobiles to major distribution points in Western Canada and the Maritimes.

The approximately 1,000 car transports operating in and out of Ontario will probably go after short-haul business now.

A spokesman for one firm said Wednesday some truckers will be put out of work.

The 15-year agreement, signed July 17, and the Ford agreement, effective May 22, put into effect reductions in freight rates ranging from 30 to 36 per cent.

General Motors of Canada is expected to start shipping cars to the Maritimes and Western Canada with the introduction of its 1963 line.

Chrysler has agreed to ship 50 per cent of its cars destined for Red Deer, Alta., Regina and Vancouver by rail. The company will also ship 85 per cent of its autos going to Bay Shore, Moncton and Saint John in New Brunswick and Halifax and Dartmouth in Nova Scotia by rail.

The Ford agreement calls for shipment of 60 per cent of its cars destined for Dartmouth, Halifax, Bay Shore and Saint John by rail. In all, 72 per cent of its cars bound for Quebec City, Ste. Foy, Que., and Montreal must go by rail to obtain the new rates. Ninety-five per cent of the cars destined for Winnipeg will go by rail.

Stanley Beacom, president of McCallum Transport Limited, largest auto transport firm in Canada, said Wednesday the company has taken 40 of its 250 trucks off the road.

"We had a profitable operation on long hauls, but the railroads almost cut us in half," he said. The company does not anticipate losing business to the railroads in Ontario, since highway carriers can beat rail speed and price within a 300-mile range.

H. H. Quinn, manager of Maria Transport Limited of Oakville, Ont., said he does not run the move to rail will put many truckers out of work.

J. D. Goodman, managing director of the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, said: "The monopoly the railroads once enjoyed in long-distance car-hauling is returning. The rates quoted (by the railways) are not to meet competition, but to eliminate competition."

He said trucking companies got started in the long-haul auto-transport business in 1950 when the Canadian railways were involved in a strike.

Offers Police Dog Tested As a Biter

"I'm sure he'll do a good job for you. He's already bitten three children in the neighborhood."

The dog was not accepted.

Want Big Fish? Spare Weeds Urges Minister

TORONTO — "If you want more and bigger fish, have a little patience with weeds," Ontario Lands and Forests Minister the Hon. J. W. Spooner suggests in his foreword to an attractive booklet called "Most Popular Game Fish" just published by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters. The minister points out:

"To survive and especially to grow big, a fish needs two things: food and shelter. In the shelter of the cold water plants such as Florida, Chara and Milfoil, the little trout hides and grows. In the shelter of the lilies and rushes, bass and muskinongs do the same, and may never, however big, feel quite secure away from the underwater forest.

"Today, there is a tendency to fight it or destroy beds of aquatic vegetation. Before we go too far, let us remember the needs of our fishes for spawning, food and shelter, and preserve the areas that mean good fishing. We have, of course, places where the fishing would be better if there were less vegetation but, too often, the clean-up comes where he can least afford it.

"Please, a little patience with weeds if you want more and bigger fish."

The booklet carries color plates of largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, muskinongs, yellow walleye, lake trout, rainbow trout and speckled trout and tells how to catch them as well as other information of interest to the angler, plus details of the Big Fish Contest for awards and cash prizes being conducted by Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters. The contest is open to all anglers from May 1 to October 1 for fish caught in the Province of Ontario.

Lawyer Charged After Battling Police Sergeant

Forcibly Restrained From Seeing Client

● ORILLIA (CP)—Lawyer Gerald Kelly, 35, faced with two counts of assault, said Thursday the charges were a lark after he was forcibly restrained from seeing a woman client in the Orillia police station Wednesday night.

Kelly said he was at the station to protect the interests of the unidentified client and was trying to obtain bail to advise her in private. He has been charged with assault occasioning bodily harm and with assaulting Const. Jack Keenan engaged in the lawful execution of his duties.

The lawyer said he was charged and held in custody for four hours after Sgt. William Quennell, a Metropolitan Toronto provincial morality squad officer, Staff Sgt. E. R. Lynn and a police cadet interviewed the woman.

Sgt. Quennell, who required six stitches to close a gash in his nose, was conducting an investigation of an alleged shoplifting.

Kelly said he forcefi his way into the room where the woman was being held because he would not let not to say anything until he had spoken to her. He said he wanted to speak to him but was restrained by a policeman.

"I felt that I was unreasonably large. But Minakakis was a man normally considered of good character, he said, therefore no jail sentence would be imposed if the fine is paid.

Magistrate Addison adjourned to Aug. 7 the hearing of three other charges of violating the immigration act against Minakakis.

Greek Is Fined For False Tale About Bribes

TORONTO (CP) — Travel agent Constantinos (Gus) Minakakis, 48, was fined $250 Thursday for telling Greek immigrants that money they paid him went to bribe immigration department workers.

Magistrate Joseph Addison, a veteran of more than 30 years in police courts, fined Elenal Kondilis that she paid Minakakis $150 so her husband into Canada. She said he told her the money would go to a lawyer who would fix it over to someone in the immigration department.

Both Crown Prosecutor John Hilton and Defence Counsel Arthur Maloney emphasized that he no official of the immigration department had accepted bribes.

Magistrate Addison said the professional lobbyist has become a way of life in Canada and that Minakakis had a right to act as agent between Greeks and the immigration department, provided that he stated the exact conditions of his services.

The magistrate said he felt the fee of $150 was unreasonably large. But Minakakis was a man normally considered of good character, he said, therefore no jail sentence would be imposed if the fine is paid.

Magistrate Addison adjourned to Aug. 7 the hearing of three other charges of violating the immigration act against Minakakis.

French Govt. Turns Down Belgian Plan

PARIS (Reuters) — A new Belgian plan for getting talks on European political union started again has failed to win the support of the French government, usually well-informed sources said today.

Foreign Minister Spaak of Belgium put the suggestions to Foreign Minister Couve de Murville of France when they met Wednesday and discussed them with Foreign Minister Schroeder of West Germany in Bonn Thursday.

In Bonn, a government spokesman said Spaak's proposal for a three-man commission to study political union brought the issue out of the stagnation in which it had been since last April.

"We cannot wait with the political work until Britain has accomplished entry into the Common Market," the spokesman added.

The talks bogged down over Belgium's and Holland's refusal to go further with a French plan for a "Europe of fatherlands" unless Britain, still negotiating entry into the European Common Market, was consulted.

Sources here said Spaak was willing now to pursue talks on union on condition nothing be done to embarrass Britain.

However, observers here felt Spaak's new compromise plan for union was hardly sufficient to bridge the gap between President de Gaulle's plan for a loose confederation of states and the Belgian and Dutch desire for a strong supranational union.

Resume Effort To Avert New Brewery Strike

TORONTO (CP)— Talks to prevent a repeat of the 1958 Ontario-wide beer strike were to resume today between brewery workers and Louis Fine, Ontario conciliation officer.

Mr. Fine, chief negotiator for the Ontario Board of labor has not commented on the two days of closed meetings, but it was understood the board hopes for a settlement have not been overcome.

Five major Ontario breweries will be affected if the International Brotherhood of United Brewer, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America (CLC) walk out in pressure its demand for a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase and five weekly unemployment wage.

The breweries have offered a six-cent-an-hour increase and a guaranteed maximum for unemployment benefits of $25.

KHEDDA FORCES NOT CERTAIN TO RESIST

Bella Prepares To Take Over City

ALGIERS, (AP) — Radical Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's forces prepared today to take over Algeria's capital and impose their authority on the Moslem nation.

Troops nominally loyal to moderate President Ben Youssef Ben Khedda's crumbling regime guarded the approaches to Algiers, but it was unknown whether they would resist the advance of the Ben Bella forces reported moving in from the west.

Former deputy premier Mohammed Khider was scheduled to arrive in Algiers today from Ben Bella's headquarters in Oran, to set up the National Liberation Front's seven - man political bureau, the Ben Bella dominated body which plans to take control of the government.

Ben Khedda was almost alone in the government building in Algiers, but he appeared calm. He said his arguments minister, Abdel Hafid Boussouf, expected to obtain that "everything will be arranged."

Boussouf left Algiers briefly Thursday morning for a peacemaking mission, and on his return he declared, "the crisis will soon be over."

SEE CONCILIATION

From Ben-Bella's side came the suggestion for a conciliatory move. State Minister Lakhdar Ben Tobbal, who is in Constantine when Ben Bella moves took over, met Ahmed Mezerna city Wednesday, was released and returned to Algiers.

Both Ben Khedda's ministers, backed by thousands of former guerrillas in the Kabyle mountain east of Algiers, continued to call for wide-spread resistance to Ben Bella.

Deputy premiers Belkacem Krim and Mohammed Boudiaf, who have vowed to fight Ben Bella "to the last drop of our blood," moved the Kabyle area to whip up support. They charged after the coup, Ben Bella plans to impose a personal dictatorship on all Algeria.

In Oran, Khider described the Krim-Boudiaf appeal as "a call for death and a reaction of despair and of a lost cause." He said steps eventually would be taken against the two deputy premiers.

READY TO FIGHT

Despite this threat of a clash, there were few signs of military activity around Algiers, the capital of Tizi Ouzou, But officers of the Kabyle command declared that if they were ordered to defend the legality (the Ben Khedda regime) "we will do it."

The odds looked overwhelmingly in favor of Ben Bella. He has the backing of Wilaya 5, 600 - man National Liberation Army guerrilla units, Ben Bella supporters control most of eastern and western Algeria and the Saharan interior.

Ben Bella's army apparently capable of blocking a Ben Bella takeover was the 600,000 - man Wilaya 4 force in the south, and for the moment at least it remained on the sidelines. Independent sources in Paris said the French Army would intervene only to protect French citizens who were endangered.

South Viet Nam Protests Reds Entering From Laos

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet Nam has lodged one of its strongest protests to date about Communist infiltration from Laos, the government disclosed today.

The protest, filed with the three-nation International Control Commission charged that groups of between 100 and 200 guerrillas from North Viet Nam have been crossing with increasing frequency into South Viet Nam from Laos, bringing ammunition made in Communist China.

The infiltrators have overwhelmed frontier outposts and attacked villages before moving into Communist-controlled areas of South Viet Nam, the government said.

Infiltration has increased since mid-May, the government said, in preparation for implementation of the new Geneva agreement on Laos, which calls for removal of all foreign troops within 75 days. Canada, India and Poland are members of the commission.

Aussie Minister Resigns, He Praised Common Market

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) Air Minister Leslie Bury resigned from the cabinet today in the latest of a series of crises involving Britain's negotiations for entry into the European Common Market.

The resignation has been accepted, Prime Minister Robert Menzies, it was announced in Canberra, the capital.

The political storm blew up Thursday over a statement by Bury praising British entry into the six-nation Common Market.

John McEwen, trade minister and deputy prime minister, said he was going to Britain for ministerial colleagues "should publicly undercut the strength of Australia's bargaining position by declaring that she had little fear from British entry."

His statement "will inevitably be quoted against us to weaken our negotiating position," McEwen added.

Bury had told an Australian Institute of Management meeting Wednesday that if Britain entered the Common Market "we on Australia would be "limited and minor." He reaffirmed this on Thursday in an address to the national committee of the Inter. national Chamber of Commerce in Melbourne.

Menzies said Thursday he wanted "no misunderstanding either at home or abroad."

"I want to make it quite clear that Mr. McEwen's work overseas and the recent visit both to the United Kingdom and the United States were clearly to consult.

based upon our conviction — a conviction shared by the cabinet — that the economic problems which would be presented to Australia by Britain's entry into the Common Market already protect our export trade and be on very serious ment."

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters)—Trade Minister John McEwen said today that pressures Thursday at the negotiations in Brussels for Britain's entry into the European Common Market should be regarded with great caution.

He was commenting on reports that Britain and the six Common Market nations had reached agreement that special arrangements would be made with Canada, Australia and New Zealand if world commodity agreements on wheat and sugar failed.

McEwen said the reports, in fact, contained not by Britain preferences and other special trading arrangements for Australia appear to Britain would be eliminated.

"Britain has put the elimination of these traditional and contractual arrangements as the only commitment reported on the part of the Common Market negotiators that they would consult with Australia with a view to arriving at a special arrangements if world agreements could not be negotiated by 1970. Britain said that existing firm contractual arrangements with Britain would be given up in return for a mere promise to consult.

Postal Workers' Slowdown Over Pay Demands Possible

KINGSTON (CP) — Canadian post office workers will consider adopting what amounts to a work slowdown to back their demands when they meet in national conference Sept. 19-21 in Windsor.

Dan Cross, national president of the Canadian Postal Employees Association, said Thursday the executive of the Kingston section of the association has prepared a resolution calling for "work-to-rule" action if the government fails to meet salary demands.

Mr. Cross explained that the resolution, if passed, would direct members to abide by the satisfactory salary increase we will conduct postal business according to the book."

"In other words, there will be no more short cuts. It will be done by the book."

Employees customarily sidestep time-consuming processes and take short cuts to expedite mail delivery in favor of more efficient work habits. Working to the letter of the regulations would slow down the processing and distribution of mail.

4-Pound Bass Leaps Into Racing Canoe

PORT CREDIT, Ont. (CP) Two Port Credit fishing enthusiasts got the biggest fish of their lives—a four-pound, 20-inch bass—and did it without rod, reel or fishing line.

Edgar Wise, 20, and Roderick Haney, 23, were paddling their canoe in the Credit in the Western Division trials of the Canadian Assn. of Canada canoeing championships when the fish jumped in to the canoe.

"We thought we had hit a rock. It made so much noise when it hit the boat," Ed said.

"It was almost over the side when Ed noticed it was a bass," Rod said. "We became so excited we almost tipped the canoe."

DOUBT EMBARGO TO BE PUT ON IMPORTED PORK

Cholera Outbreak Raised Question

OTTAWA (CP) — Doubt is expressed here that the government will slap an embargo on imported Danish raw pork because of the current hog cholera outbreak in central Canada.

So far, compensation for more than 10,000 Ontario and Quebec hogs slaughtered in the disease-control program has cost roughly $238,000 officials said Thursday.

So far, government compensation based on the current market value for each slain animal is a far cry from the $1,750,000 paid in the 1961-62 outbreak in Ontario and Quebec, when 57,000 animals were destroyed and a severe quarantine placed on Quebec country hogs.

That outbreak, like the current one, was blamed on raw imported pork products, and resulted in garbage to Canadian hogs. It was the worst since the early 1940s, although there were others in 1947 and 1953.

EARLIER EMBARGO

Thought has been given in the past to an embargo comparable to that imposed briefly but lifted early in 1960, for a different virus disease "foot-and-mouth" disease, which can cause vesicular exanthema and the hog cholera virus. Action ordered because the disease was difficult to diagnose and handle generally.

Canada already limits imports of live hogs, pork cuts, pork trickle of breeding stock, which has to go through 30-day quarantine.

An embargo on fresh pork cuts would be a powerful trade weapon. American pork prices have, a spokesman said, been rising in prices, and there might also be a question of reciprocal American action and general trade complications. Canada sold the United States 913,650 cwt. of pork last year and imported 29,265,000 worth.

Canada's policy for hog chorera is eradication by slaughter while United States authorities attempt to live with the disease.

Halfback Ron Stewart of the Riders, who also will continue his studies at Osgoode Hall this fall, has not signed.

Guards Ignore Escape Efforts But Committee Merely Stops TV

HALIFAX (CP)—If it isn't one crisis it's another for the ancient Halifax county jail, which now finds its foundations rocked by another controversy.

The latest stems from a report that security is so lax at the downtown jail that Jailer Joseph Anthony wants to fire four of his eight guards.

At a special meeting of the county police committee, which administers the jail, Mr. Anthony explained some recent examples of his problems:

Guards refused to attend security lectures by the deputy sheriff.

Guards neglected to keep records which show which prisoners are in jail and which ones are out on bail.

He also complained there was too much horseplay among the guards and prisoners, guards were buying clothes at cut-rate prices from prisoners being sent to penitentiary, some guards had liquor in the jail, and liquor two guards were living in the jail and getting free room and board, and guards refused invitations to stay up late to watch television.

He said many of his regulations are treated with contempt by guards who feel they can't be fired.

The committee decided to give the guards another chance, but ordered an end to TV-watching and free lodging plus a tightening of security.

The over-crowded and outdated jail, financially supported by the cities of Halifax and Dartmouth and Halifax County, is scheduled for replacement.

Two years ago the jail burning prominence with disclosures of sexual relations between male and female prisoners. A provincial royal commission report was given to the women's section were kept in the matron's living quarters, considered unsuitable to trustees.

The jailer was later dismissed and female prisoners quartered in the Halifax city prison.

Since then there have been frequent escapes. One escapee, jailer Anthony boasted it was possible to get anything in the jail, including files, hacksaws and liquor.

Macmillan Plans Are Ill-Formed Say Observers

Government Defeats Labor Censure Motion

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan's plans to lead Britain out of its economic difficulties were dismissed by most political observers today as ill-formed and feeble.

Even normally Conservative newspapers found it difficult to muster enthusiasm for Macmillan's projects, on which he entrusted an opposition Labor party censure motion in the House of Commons Thursday on strictly party-line voting.

Conservative legislators were cool to the proposals, foremost of which was the formation of a national labor commission that would have a purely advisory role—and hence no real power to enforce the wage restraint policy the government claims it the backbone of wise economic policy.

The powerful Trades Union Congress dismissed the commission idea as utterly useless even before Macmillan rose to speak.

The last, said the TUC general secretary, George Woodcock, it would have no effect at all, and would, actually, it would hinder action of national economic policy by muddling issues and arousing resentment. He called it "childish, arrogant, conceited and foolish."

MAC MAY RETIRE

A number of political observers, reasoning that Macmillan must have been aware of the reaction his proposals would give rise to, speculated that the prime minister might be planning to retire soon.

The proposals were put forth, in reality, to answer labor doubts about the ability of the entire government—so just that. The socialists had introduced a censure motion calling for Macmillan to resign and advise Queen Elizabeth to call general election.

There was never any question, however, that the Conservative majority would allow this motion to carry, and in fact they gave Macmillan the maximum vote possible—a majority of 98. The vote was 351 to 253.

ATTACKS SHUFFLE

Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell entered his attack on Macmillan's "cabinet shuffle" last week, in which Macmillan dumped Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd, charging with whom the public associates the "pay pause" policy.

Gaitskell said the drastic shuffle was "the most convincing confession of failure" that could have been offered by the government. It was "a panic act of a desperate man."

Macmillan replied that the pay pause had been accepted and that a new man was needed to carry it forward from this position.

He then raised the measures which he would help do this.

The national incomes commission, he said, would examine wage boosts deemed to pre-

Strange Things Occurred Aboard Ship

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Stories of a jinxed ship flew along the waterfront today following the departure of the West German freighter Lise Prinzess.

The master of the ship, ill and despondent, hanged himself in his cabin at San Pedro, Calif., 10 days ago.

The steward found him. Two days later the steward suffered a heart attack and had to be relieved.

Then the chief engineer died.

The boatswain suffered a heart attack.

A new master and chief engineer were flown from West Germany, and the steamship sailed for Portland. Then the second officer had to be relieved of his duties. And the case of the chief mate, there was no explanation.

By that time a new chief mate had arrived from West Germany. He joined the ship in Astoria and made the journey 100 miles upstream to Portland.

But Portland turned out to be the wrong port. By mistake they ate poisoned. The mistake was told to turn around and sail for Seattle. There the ship's 11,000-ton load of grain was waiting.

So the Carl Fritzen headed back out of Portland Thursday for Seattle.

They did not discuss a jinx.

"I'm here now; that's the way with a sailor," said the new chief mate, Gustaf P. W. Schmidt. "He's got to go when he's needed."

Agrees to Pay Seven Million In Damages

WASHINGTON (AP) by "General Electric Company has agreed to pay $7,470,000 to settle damage suits that followed conviction of the company in a price-fixing case, the U.S. justice department announced today.

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy said the settlement involves damage claims of $50,000 to the Tennessee Valley Authority in damages for inflated prices paid to General Electric as a result of the price-fixing conspiracy.

Another $1,000,000 will go to the government for purchases from utility and other government agencies, Kennedy said.

General Electric was one of 19 defendants in the civil damage suits filed in federal court here since March, 1961, Attorney-General Kennedy said. Eight pleaded guilty or nolo contendere to criminal charges.

Bill McKay's Second Disc Carries 13 Sea Chanties

Bill McKay, Belleville's most famous singer, has released his second recording on the Arc label. The LP, hi-fi disc, called "Sea Shanties," carries 13 of Bill's favorite songs, picked up during his 45-year wandering lifetime. Invitations are this record will sell as well as his previous "Popular Folks Songs," which did well enough to bring the Arc recording people back hammering on his door.

Bill first came to the attention of the recording company during 1953, when an Arc executive, driving past Belleville, tuned in to CJBQ on his car radio. The show at the time was Country Junction, the two-hour afternoon show which Bill presents five days a week, and Bill just happened to be playing a tape of his own singing at the time. Arc records asked Bill for more sample tapes, and Bill had a second career.

LEARNED FROM SAILORS

Folk songs and sea chanties come easily to Bill, since he has been able to pick some of them up from the people who sing them for pleasure, in the song's home area.

He was born near Regina, Sask. Soon, his sailor father moved him to Vancouver, and he began wandering the docks in his spare time, meeting with, and learning from, sailors from around the world.

Later wanderings, with the air force, during the war, brought him to Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia, where he learned the east coast songs.

Bill and his wife moved to Belleville four and a half years ago, to work for Radio CJBQ. He built his own house in Prince Edward County, and settled down permanently, with his wife and two sons, aged nine and four.

Bill's wife is another wanderer. She was born in British Guiana, of Scots-Canadian parents, and has lived in most parts of Canada. The couple met in Timmins, while they were both working there, and were married while Bill was working in Oshawa, about five and a half years ago. Like Bill, she is happy to settle down in Belleville.

With two fast selling recordings going for him, and a popular radio show of his own, Bill McKay is in a position to make definite plans for the future. They include mostly doing just what he is doing now, with the radio show and some recordings on the side. Bill likes his job, as Belleville's best known singer.

Propane Blast Toll Mounts To Three Dead

BERLIN, N.Y. (AP) — The death toll from the explosion of a truckload of propane gas that spread fire and flames over a broad area of this rural, eastern New York hamlet Wednesday night.

Nine other victims remained in critical condition in hospitals in Bennington, Vt., and Troy.

Thirteen homes and garages were levelled. About 30 persons were made homeless.

Mrs. Rosalie Lodge, 60, of Berlin, was among 19 persons in hospital with burns after the blast and fire, died early today. Two daughters and a son-in-law were among those in critical condition.

Mrs. Mabel H. Wager, 77, died of a heart attack after fleeing from her burning home.

The truck-driver, Clarence E. McLucas, 39, of Pomeroy, Pa., died shortly after the explosion, moaning: "Why did I go so far? Why did I go so far?"

His wife said he had been yet another indication that he was on the wrong road when the tractor-trailer raced out of control down a treacherous hill and crashed in the village. "I have meant that he should have crashed the truck before it reached such a heavily populated area.

County Museum Plans Special Art Display

A group of excellent historical oil paintings and a display of Indian artifacts dating back several thousand years will highlight the special exhibition to be opened August 1st at the Hastings County Museum.

The historical paintings by Rev. Bowen P. Squire of Consecon, are known to show highlights of the early years of settlement in the Quinte district. Among the paintings are several showing farm life and activities of the early settlers, the landing of the first French missionaries at the local Keeler Mission in the 17th century is brilliantly depicted; this mission is believed to have been located near Consecon.

Other paintings show the landing of the United Empire Loyalists at Adolphustown in 1784; the corduroy roads of the early years; the Weller Stage Coach in front of Finkle's Tavern at Bath about 1820; and perhaps the first saw mill in the Quinte District. Women particularly will be interested in the interior view of the pioneer log cabin.

Rev. Squire has spent many years on research for these paintings and they are as factual as possible.

Also on display at the Hastings County Museum commencing August 1 will be Indian artifacts from Rev. Squire's outstanding collection. These are all local in origin and show that this section of the province has been inhabited for many centuries.

The special displays will be opened at 2 p.m. next Wednesday, August 1, at the Hastings County Museum, 240 Church Street, Belleville. The museum will be open daily for display for a considerable time, however. The hotel and motel will be displayed for only six days, from August 1st to August 6th inclusive. Persons wishing to see these interesting reflects of early history should visit the museum on one of those days.

It is expected that a goodly attendance will be on hand for the opening and for each of the six days of the special Indian exhibit.

His Land Taken, Threatens Toll On Highway

PENOBSQUIS, N.B. (CP) — Construction of the Trans-Canada MacFarlane has threatened to set up a barricade and collect a toll from motorists on the highway 2 between nearby Sussex and Moncton.

The 39-year-old former farmer said Thursday he is unhappy with government compensation offers for about 17½ acres of his land four miles from this southeastern New Brunswick village. It was expropriated more than a year ago for the Trans-Canada Highway.

Mr. MacFarlane said the government made two offers both for under $2,000. He considers the property worth five times that.

"I gave them a price and I don't intend to back down from it," he said in an interview. Negotiations broke down possibly by next Sunday.

MacFarlane says he spent 26 years improving his land. His two-storey home lies in the fork between Highway 2 and the Trans-Canada.

He didn't know what he would charge motorists as a toll, but he said: "If it really have to do it I'll charge them plenty or they'll do some squealing to the government."

Swimmer Says 'Goofballs' Were Planted

QUEBEC (CP) — Yvan Cliche, 21, of Beauceville, Que., was drugged with barbiturates, possibly known as goofballs, while trying a 21-mile swim across Lac St. Jean, a medical report said Thursday.

Cliche collapsed on the shore of the lake Tuesday after swimming 17 miles. He was in the water 10 hours and 40 minutes.

He later discovered goofballs in a bottle supposed to contain glucose pills. Glucose is a harmless sugar pill commonly used by athletes for extra pep.

Cliche said the pills probably were placed there by somebody who didn't want him to accomplish the feat of crossing the lake.

Name Winners Historical Essay Contest

The winners have been announced in the essay contest sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society. The contest was open to high school secondary school pupils in the county and the essays were to be on the history of the county history.

Prizes will be awarded at a brief ceremony to be held in the County Museum, 240 Church Street, Belleville, at 2.30 on the afternoon of Wednesday, August 1, 1962.

First prize of fifteen dollars was won by Miss Grace Mollison, of Tweed, Ont. A student in grade 12 at the Quinte Secondary School, she titled her essay "Tweed, from a village ten miles north of Belleville to the town of today" a title little more than a memory.

Judges, headed by Mr. Thomas Sanson and Mr. T. G. Wrightmeyer, found Miss Mollison's essay, showing a real insight into the meaning of history.

An essay on the history of Melrose, written by Miss Barbara Reese of R.R. 1, Shannonville, received second prize of ten dollars. Miss Reese was a student in grade 13 at Quinte Secondary School.

Third prize of five dollars was taken by Betty Ann Porth of R.R. 6, Belleville. A grade 13 student at Belleville's Moira Secondary School she wrote on the history of Shannonville.

The judges felt that all winning entries were of a high standard, and were to thank the other competitors whose essays also showed evidence of much work.

It is hoped to publish the winning essay in a pamphlet form.

The presentation of awards coincides with the opening of the special displays at the county museum on Wednesday afternoon. Making the presentations will be Reg Bateman, the County clerk-treasurer.

Three Britons Reach Safety, Companion Dies

KLEINE SCHEIDEGG, Switzerland (Reuters) — Three British mountaineers reached safety at the foot of Eiger Mountain Thursday night, but one of their comrades, already injured, fell and died, police said.

Hog Cholera Situation Said Improved

MONTREAL (CP)—The hog cholera situation has improved in Quebec but much work remains to be done in Ontario, Dr. Henri Trudeau, district veterinarian, reported today.

The epidemic has spread from Ontario's eastern border as far west as Toronto, Dr. Trudeau said, and a diseased herd has been discovered 25 miles north of Toronto in Dufferin County.

In Montreal, 700 hogs were destroyed Thursday during Quebec's total since the epidemic began in mid - July to 6,500 hogs killed.

Doubt Zhivago To Be Printed In Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—Two Soviet literary figures expressed scepticism today toward a report that the government plans to lift the ban on the late Boris Pasternak's novel Dr. Zhivago.

Five Soviet reporters visiting Stockholm told a press conference the controversial book by the 1958 Nobel Prize winner would be taken off the blacklist in the Soviet Union this year.

But novelist Ilya Ehrenburg, who was a friend of Pasternak, said he knew nothing about such a plan and added: "It sounds like some kind of fantasy."

V. T. Lecyuchevsky, chief editor of the Moscow publishing house Soviet Writer, said a collection of Pasternak's verses is being prepared for publication but no one had proposed to him bringing out Dr. Zhivago in the Soviet Union.

Dr. Zhivago reflected Pasternak's disillusionment with communism and was severely criticized in the Soviet Union after it was smuggled abroad. The Russians charged politics were behind awarding him the Nobel Prize. Pasternak never went to Stockholm to receive the award. He died in 1960.

Taxi Driver Offers Bounty For Rattlers

TORONTO (CP) — David Franks, 41, a Toronto taxi driver who seeks the extinction of the Massasauga rattlesnake, is offering a $10 bounty for any of the snakes, alive or dead.

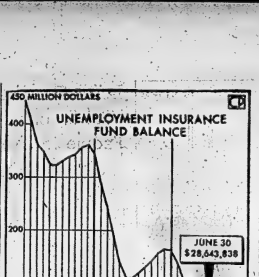
Franks, who has won several Metropolitan Toronto police citations and rewards totalling $1,000 for the capture of criminals during his six-year career as an independent cabbie, said Thursday night he is offering the bounty because the provincial government has not set one.

"When the lands and forestry minister said he wouldn't do it I thought I'd start a bounty on my own," said Franks.

He hopes his initiative may persuade the government to reconsider its refusal.

When Franks read about the death of a Hamilton girl bitten by a rattler July 11, he went to the Honey Harbor area and caught nine of the rattlers.

"I hoped to get a $25 bounty, so I had seven alive in the trunk of my cab until yesterday when I decided to kill them—one had died anyway," he said.



The Ontario lands and forests department said last week a bounty would not be put on snakes because this would require establishing special facilities to determine which species were rattlers and which were harmless.

Cheese Sales Drop Sharply

Cheese sales by the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board, in Belleville, dropped sharply this week. Most of the drop occurred in the large cheese: total sales of 16,781 being more than 1,000 fewer than last week. Specials took most of this drop, falling to 6,055, first grade white held nearly level at 7,403, and first grade colored dropped to 1,689. At the same time, prices in this group rose very slightly, by 1-16c to a maximum of 33 1-16c for first grade white, and by 1-8c to a maximum of 33 5-8c for colored.

Square cheese held the gains they had made in the past two weeks, with a total sale of 10,037, just two short of last week's figure. Of these 5,326 were white, a drop from last week, and 4,049 were colored, a gain of 1,000 in this category. The first grade white squared sold at a maximum of 32c, and the colored sold at prices up to 35 1-4. The next sale at the Belleville Cheese Exchange is planned for the first of August.

Denies Report He Aided Eichmann

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Joseph M. Kirschbaum, Toronto immunization executive, Thursday night denied a published report that he aided Adolf Eichmann in the persecution of Jews in Slovakia.

The report appeared in the Canadian Jewish News, a weekly newspaper published in Toronto.

Dr. Kirschbaum, who came to Canada about 10 years ago and now is a Canadian citizen, said allegations that he met Eichmann in 1938 with other Slovaks to plot against the Jews are "a pure lie."

"I never saw him (Eichmann)," Dr. Kirschbaum said. "I have never met him and never worked with him."

The newspaper said it learned that several weeks ago the Canadian Jewish Congress asked the RCMP to investigate the part Dr. Kirschbaum played in Czechoslovakia under the Nazi occupation.

NOT INTERESTED

RCMP in Toronto said they had no interest in Dr. Kirschbaum and had no request for information from anyone regarding him.

The paper printed excerpts from a document sent to it by "the Jewish Community Council in Toronto," which accused Dr. Kirschbaum "was secretary-general of "people's party" the Slovak Hlinka party, the political instrument of the Slovak building group, which published by the Nazis."

In it, Dr. Kirschbaum said he "was ousted from the Hlinka party in 1940 because I was opposed to Nazi methods."

He said a German directive at the time "demanded the expulsion of any Slovak publication that dare to print his name.

He said he had taken a leading part in anti-Communism organizations in Canada and was president of the Slovak liberation council has been attacked by the local Communist press.

"I didn't do anything about it, the time I considered taken is now that it has come out in the English press I am going to consult my lawyers and the government officials to see what I can do about it," Dr. Kirschbaum said. "I have children and a job and my name and honor to protect."

Disarmament Advisors Confer With Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy conferred with his top disarmament advisers today on plans for talks with the United States demands for anti-detection and verification of nuclear test - ban treaty with Russia.

State Secretary Rusk, Defence Secretary McNamara and other cabinet-level advisers reported recommending to Kennedy that the amount of inspection which the Soviets will agree to should be reduced substantially.

There was disagreement among the policymakers, however, on whether to ask congressional permission for a reduction in the number of on-site inspections in various parts of Russia where secret atomic tests might be held. Some administrators favor a Geneva, will interest the Soviet government in entering into serious negotiations once again for a ban on the testing of nuclear weapons.

If the RCAF ever names a "Miss Yukon," Cpl. "Mickey" McCormack will be a serious contender for the title. Mickey has flown 500 hours in Yukon aircraft, on in-training flights, as flight attendant aboard the Yukon allocated for the Queen Mother's visit and on the Yukon's Cross-Canada record flight.

Yukon and Mickey McCormack Just Naturally Go Together

TRENTON — Christened "Sheila," dubbiedoomed with the name "Mickey" by friends, Corporal S. St. McCormack has spent an interesting nine years in the RCAF and, according to Mickey, it gets more interesting all the time.

Last June, when the Queen Mother was in Canada, Mickey was named the Flight Attendant to attend Her Majesty. After the return flight to London, England, aboard the special "VIP Yukon" allocated for the Royal trip, the Queen Mother presented an engraved sterling silver comb to Mickey and thanked her personally for her excellent service. This was one of the highlights of Mickey's career with the air force.

Mickey has had other highlights too, with the RCAF. She was aboard the first Yukon to fly overseas, from Trenton to Marseille, France. She was flight attendant aboard the Yukon to make the first Cross-Canada trip, touching all ten provinces, in June.

Mickey is almost standard equipment aboard Yukons. She flew on in-training flights of the newest RCAF aircraft. Since April, 1961, she has put in 508 flying hours.

VISITED 12 COUNTRIES

Mickey, who calls 8 Port William her home town, joined the RCAF in 1953. After her farewell RCAF stations in Canada, she was posted to Metz, France where she served as a hospital medical clerk, with No. 1 Air Division. Mickey spent three years overseas. During leaves and long weekends, Mickey and her girl friend visited 12 different European countries. She visited Ireland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

In 1958, Mickey and a friend spent four wonderful days rattling around in a 500 roomed hotel, "Sands Hotel," in Agadir, French Morocco. They were the only two guests in the hotel. Fighting in the Sahara had "scared" off tourists. Mickey says and the hotel manager and other personnel had plenty of time to devote to the two paying guests. In 1960 Agadir was levelled by an earthquake. Mickey recalls seeing a television picture of the Sands Hotel in ruins with the famous minarets which had perched proudly atop the multi-storey building, lying in the dust of the city street.

"I often wonder what became of the manager and the others at the hotel who had been so nice to us," says Mickey.

Mickey's tour of duty with the RCAF will be over in 1964. Her plans:

"I think now that I'll get out of the air force," says Mickey, "I've had a wonderful experience, but I'd really like to get into something different."

Mickey hasn't any immediate plans to marry and settle down. She has a secret dream of becoming a newspaper woman some day.

"I've always thought I'd like to try my hand at writing," she confesses, "but who knows, I just might stay in the air force."

Convict Youths Of Looting Sale Machines

TRENTON — In magistrate's court at Brighton yesterday, four Trenton area youths were found guilty on a charge of looting vending machines in Carrying Place and Consecon last week. Sentence was postponed until Aug. 9, to give the magistrate time to study presentence reports.

The youths involved were 17-year-old Thomas McKeekan of Trenton, Raymond Desmarais of R. R. 1, Trenton and Edward Phillips and Wayne Mennie, both 16 and both of Trenton.

Fred Hennessey of Carrying Place was found guilty on a charge of driving while intoxicated and sentenced to 7 days in the county jail. His driving licence was suspended for three months and his vehicle will be impounded for six months.

Frederic Mullet of Trenton, charged with careless driving, was found guilty on the evidence fined $50 and ordered to pay court costs of $31.50. The accident which led to the charge, occurred on Highway 33, just south of the Murray Canal, on the evening of June 24, Mr. Mullet turned his vehicle to the left, into the opposite driveway and his car was struck by a car driven by Blake Harris of Port Hope.

Roger Stacey of Brighton, who was charged with careless found guilty and will be sentenced on Aug. 9.

Tunnel or Dig Decision Soon In Sewer Work

TRENTON — Yesterday, Lloyd Lumsden, engineering and Storrie consulting engineer, said that a decision whether to tunnel under Dundas Street West, in order to pass trunk sewer lines across the street, to the government dock area, or whether to dig an excavation for the sewer at this point, should be made within a few days. The decision hinges on the rock of rock encountered, said Mr. Lumsden. In this downtown area, the rock cannot be blasted out.

If the passage below the sewer is made by tunnelling, the workmen thus engaged are up against an arduous job. If an excavation is dug, it will necessitate closing off one side of the town bridge. The jumpers of motorists caught in a single line of traffic on the bridge are a serious consideration to town council.

Meantime, a Tatham Company spokesman said that the trunk sewer installation on Sidney Street was progressing faster than expected. The sewer has been installed in the College St. schoolground and the men are working on Princess St. Two additional work gangs are working at the installation at two points on Sidney St itself, near Gould St., and north of the subway in the North Murray St. area.

In a few days, Tatham will restore the front of the parking lot to its original state, repairing upheaval brought about by the sewer installation.

Nelson's Neighbors

Nelson was himself a bit of a rebel. Legend has it that in one battle, informed by an aide that a superior officer was signalling him ordering him to break off an engagement, he put his telescope to his blind eye and, reporting that he could see no such signal flags as described, continued with the battle until victorious. But the man who, in England's name, expected every man to do his duty would surely have looked with dismay at some of the scenes enacted at the foot of his statue in Trafalgar Square in recent months. He would not have comprehended such actions as aged peers squatting on the sidewalks or an angry mob silencing would-be speakers with bricks and tomatoes.

Some of his contemporaries find it almost as difficult to make up their minds about such events. The Ban-the-Bomb marchers, and their sit-down tactics, evoke conflicting reactions. But it is the latest riot, the man-handling of a party of British Fascists, which leaves most of us with mixed feelings.

In a land of free speech, it seems disgraceful that even a Fascist should be denied his right to mouth his nonsense by a brick-throwing mob. But then we have not, as had some of the brick throwers, personally experienced what these same Fascists can do when they have the power to act as well as speak. Nothing which happened to Mosley's admirers was any worse than that they would do to the lovers of free speech if they had the power. And there is something almost obscene about the thought of the aging Sir Oswald Mosley emerging from the shadows of what appeared well-deserved oblivion to regain a place on the front pages of the world's newspapers. He is such a nasty little man, so unworthy of the people he aspires to lead, that if a brick or two can discourage him and his ilk, we are almost inclined to forgive the brick tossers their understandable break with British tradition. The trouble is, of course, that bricks will not stop him and his Fascists, but will merely serve to build them a more conspicuous platform from which to spout inanities. The best answer to such men was given almost a quarter of a century ago when a whole nation chose blood, sweat and tears as a better alternative than the type of state of which Mosley dreams.

Free Speech Issue

Inter-Poet, a group of eight young Toronto poets, is crossing up the Toronto police by reading their works in public parks, contrary to a city by-law. Graciously accommodating, the Toronto police are issuing summonses.

There are some designated spots in Toronto parks where freedom of speech is a reality. In those spots, speakers can speak to as many people as will listen, on any subject. Anywhere in the public parks, religious speakers can hold meetings.

Inter-Poet members feel the right of free speech is unrecognized. They propose to prove it, they read their poetry aloud, usually where it is legal. Some of the poems are sufficiently written to insult the police.

Mayor Nathan Phillips, of Toronto, says he has no objection to poets reading their works aloud. But he also commented that there were portions of some parks in which public speaking is legal, and some parks where it is not. He feels the poets and other public speakers, should speak only where it is legal.

But Mayor Phillips, and others who support the laws as they stand, ignore one factor.

Free speech is not an artistic right, it is political. The poets and agitators who go to jail rather than conform to the law are looking at the matter from a more basic aspect. They can read poetry in Toronto, in selected places, as they could in a dictatorship. But if the chips were down, and if the political speaking that had to be done, selected places could be watched by goon squads. If a political emergency arose, the most effective way of fighting it would be through street corner speeches. This could only be accomplished if the right to speak on a street corner was so universal, and so unquestioned, that police could not interfere.

Free speech is now legal, in Toronto, and most other Canadian cities, at selected locations. Legalling public speaking throughout the city would not mean speakers everywhere, because the speakers would congregate where they could hope to attract listeners. For example, the speakers' corner at Hyde Park, in London. But the right of free public speech, with no limitations, is a tradition we may need some day. Let us hope it can be established.

Knowledge and timber shouldn't be much used till they are seasoned.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Think of Imagination

Montreal Gazette

In George Bernard Shaw's play "Saint Joan" is this passage:

Joan: "I hear voices telling me what to do. They come of God."

Robert: "They come from your imagination."

Joan: "Of course. That is how the messages of God come to us."

It is a striking passage. For there are always those who suspect the imagination, as something fanciful and deceptive. They wish to stick to the facts. And yet to imagine things may lead to a greater conception of reality than any plodding, narrow thought can ever reach. For it is the special function of the imagination to see the wider horizons, the larger possibilities.

If Sir Winston Churchill has, in our time, attained a place of his own, as few in many larger than other men, it is mostly because his imagination has enabled him to see things in the further perspective. Undoubtedly imagination has its dangers, and they have been present in some of his words and actions. But by accepting the guidance of the imagination he has brought to the people, in great times when too many others were limited by their dutiful bondage to the obvious.

Once when someone in the House of Commons suggested that some change should be made, because it would be more logical, Sir Winston replied: "Sir, we must beware of needless inconsistency — especially when guided by logic."

But Sir Winston has welcomed vast innovation, when inspired by the guidance of imagination. He faced, in 1940, a situation from which there was little or no escape. Britain had been left almost alone, almost without arms. If Mr. Churchill could not summarize the situation in an Aristotelian syllogism, he would have said:

No country without tanks and guns can escape defeat.

Britain is without tanks or guns.

Therefore Britain is defeated. Q.E.D.

There is nothing the matter with that logic. It is more impregnable than Britain was in 1940. But Churchill believed that logic should see no limitation upon the energies of the human spirit.

So while the logical Fetain was ceding France and the logical Mussolini was hastening to grasp the spoils of a victory that seemed inevitable, Churchill, with glorious imagination, was saying: "We shall fight them on the beaches, we shall fight them on the landing grounds," and "You ask, What is our aim? Our aim is victory!"

It didn't make sense. But it made history. . . .

But imagination is not only a resource in the hour of crisis. It can enrich and enlarge the life of the spirit, every day in the year. For it is only imagination that can bring us into the spaciousness that lies in life, that . . . sense sublime

Of something far more deeply interfused.

Those unfolding is the light of setting suns,

And the round ocean and the living air,

And the blue sky, and in the mind of man.

Imagination is the ultimate source of all belief, of the conviction of matters of the things that are finally cherished. Only imagination can give us enough, and subtle enough, to rise above analysis and secure the things of the soul. As Cardinal Newman once said: "No analytical or critical process can ough to represent adequately the state of mind under which we believe, or the subjects of belief as they are presented to our thoughts." . . .

This metallic quality of sheer intellectualism has its important place. But the faith by which men live and die is a repentance from what may be called the "dream" in life, from the desire of wonder, and the intangible influences of the heart. . . . Nothing that is someone's death" can advance beyond all reasoning.

In this abiding sense of wonder is the refuge and the hope. In Beecher's Creed, and in Ottawa is the grave of the Canadian poet, William Wilfred Campbell. And these lines from one of his poems are on his stone:

These flowers of dream will spring, eternal, sweet,
To speak for God and man.

Will Miss Michener

Montreal Star

There is one Tory who should not have been beaten — indeed, who should not have been exposed — in the election and that is Mr. Roland Michener, member for Toronto-St. Paul's and from 1957 to the dissolution of Parliament this year, Speaker of the House of Commons.

Two years ago Liberal leader Lester Pearson said in the House that it was a long time since there had been a Tory Speaker, and it is most unlikely that he has changed his mind since. It is a rather bitter irony that Mr. Michener should be defeated in a Liberal landslide, as Liberal, Mr. Ian G. Wahn, by just 61 votes.

If Parliament ever needed a strong and experienced Speaker it is at the coming session, at which the combination of a minority government and a hand-picked, inexperienced group of Quebec Social Credit elders is bound to lead to confusion and debate.

Mr. Michener will be missed — so much so that perhaps the parties will do what they should have done years ago: create at once an unwritten (as it must be) but binding agreement on the tenure of the Speaker's office.

In the Mother of Parliaments at Westminster such an agreement has long been embedded in tradition.

Since 1835 it has been customary for the Speaker to be re-elected by the chair at the start of each new Parliament, regardless of party, so long as he is willing and able to serve.

It has also been customary that, in a general election, he should be unopposed, in his riding, and in the one occasion when the Labor Party contested the Speaker's seat there was an uproar of indignation.

The Canadian case is complicated by the existence of two cultures. It is traditional that men representing each should alternate in the Speaker's chair.

But there is no reason why this should mean that the change must take place at the start of every new Parliament.

The Speaker not only presides over debates, in which his rulings are absolute, but he is the representative of the House of Commons and the guardian of its privileges. His office has been described as one of the greatest in the state. It is an office that relatively few men are qualified to fill.

It requires wisdom, great knowledge and, in particular, a profound understanding of, and love for, the immensely complex and subtle organism which is the parliamentary system.

That such a man, once found, should have to go out and contest the next election is absurd. The more so because he is needed to campaign with his hands tied: whatever party label he may wear he must, in fact, be totally free of partisanship.

One authority on parliamentary procedure has written: "Among the dominions the office is tending to follow the Westminster model, though there is considerable leeway to make up."

It is time that Canada made up that leeway.

Magnetic Pole Sought

Milwaukee Journal

That north magnetic pole is the object of a new search.

Canadian geophysicists and technicians will be looking for it this fall as part of a comprehensive world survey of the earth's crust and magnetism.

Maps show the pole at the northern end of Prince of Wales Island in the Canadian Arctic. But scientists say it has been moving around for a long time, about five miles a year. The movement is believed caused by changes in the molten core of the earth.

For years it was thought that the magnetic pole was a unique mathematical point — the spot where the magnetic needle points straight downward to-ward the center of the earth. But it has since been demonstrated that the pole is not a fixed point but an area that shifts as much as 200 miles.

The magnetic pole is not the same as the geographical one. In fact, they are more than 1,000 miles apart. Also, the south magnetic pole, located near Sydney, Australia, is not the same distance from the geographic south pole.

Environment Not Breeding Makes a Man

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Some dreams die hard — like the ghosts that haunt the "breeding" people, who for many centuries have believed that "breeding" could only mate together men and women of intelligence and character, that the human race would improve enormously.

The latest dreamer — who no doubt knows better — is Sir Julian Huxley, the biologist. In certain articles, Huxley has proposed that a few "enlightened" British couples choose "admirable" men to be the fathers of their children, through artificial insemination.

Apart from moral and social considerations, the basic flaw in such a proposal is that we still know so little about hereditary factors in human beings. When we breed dogs or horses, we breed them for specific characteristics; but what would be the goals of human breeding?

Intelligence? There is no reason to believe that intelligent people are more desirable than those less intelligent; and moreover, so-called intelligent people quite often proved inadequate or advantage children.

Character? There is absolutely no evidence that what we call "good character" is the product of hereditary factors. The more great and good men have had disappointing offspring for us to perpetuate this myth.

Indeed, modern science seems to be moving away from the biological and toward the environmental aspects of family life. For instance, we know now that environment influences mental endowment, so that children more than heredity does.

A recent report by Prof. Raymond B. Cattell of the University of Illinois Psychological Laboratory told the results of a study of 60 normal children. It was found that the most influences were of great importance in the development of neurotic tendencies. Cattell told the American Institute of Biological Sciences:

A few traits of courage, seem to have some hereditary basis — such as families in which mechanical aptitudes and talent courses through the generations. But no matter how much intelligence or character the parents seem to have, if they provide a poor home environment for their children, the children will grow up crippled in a moral or emotional way.

The human race will not improve in any biological manner, for our chief problems are environmental. The most intelligent people I have known have not often been conspicuous. or successful in managing their personal lives, in terms of marriage and child-rearing. If a child is given exactly the right kind of love, it will become a good human being; if not, all the brains and "character" in the parents will not make a whit of difference.

Vital Problem Getting People to Use Syphilis Test

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

A short time ago I mentioned some of the newer tests for syphilis, the so-called VDRL and RPCF tests. These, being rather new, are not familiar to people as the long-honored Kahn and Wasserman tests.

So here's a bit of explanation about how these tests are used — although, to be totally frank about the whole matter, I'm wholly convinced that if people would but use the old tests well, we could make more progress in stamping out syphilis than by devising new tests which people don't use.

It's a pretty sorry commentary on our society to know that, despite the best tests we have ever had, and the greatest knowledge we have ever had about treating syphilis, the disease is violently and dangerously on the upgrade right now!

However, the tests: Dr. Wasserman, in 1906, made a great step forward when he discovered that the blood of people with syphilis contained a protein substance which reacted with extracts taken from the easily be obtained from animals.

True, there were a few cases in which false positives were obtained from people who had had malaria or other diseases. However, by and large, it was accurate and a truly wonderful discovery.

Then came the Kahn test, along with other refinements of the Wasserman test, and for many years the former was the standard. It was, and it still is, an excellent test.

This test has been followed by a similar, but improved, test devised by the Venereal Disease Research Laboratory of the U.S. Public Health Service, and is called for the lab's initials the VDRL.

It is somewhat cheaper to perform, and can be done with a smaller blood sample, and for that reason has come to be largely adopted in many state and city laboratories. It's also helpful, of course, in mass uniform test.

However, all of these tests are based on the fact that blood of a syphilis victim (plus the bacteria that cause the disease) when exposed to animal tissue extracts.

It would be conclusive to make laboratory tests, in which the syphilis germ (called Treponema pallidum) could be used for comparison, but unfortunately this has been the problem since before Wasserman's time:. We couldn't then, and we still can't find a method of growing the germ artificially in a laboratory. (As with polio and some other diseases, solving this "laboratory problem" might conceivably be the missing link in finding a vaccine.)

Anyway, let's go on to that other new test, the RPCF, an abbreviation for "Reiter Protein Complement Fixation"). In that test, while we still lack supplies of the germ itself, it has been found that the "Reiter strain" of a colorless germ" is a similar enough to the syphilis germ so that it gives accurate tests.

This is a more laborious and expensive test, and is used to prevent some of the "false positives." Therefore the most modern procedure is to use the VDRL as a "screening test," and whenever a positive test results, then use the more costly RPCF to winnow out the "false positives."

The Kahn test is still a fine one, The VDRL is, essentially, just an improvement of it.

The important thing still is to use the tests we have.

It doesn't, but if you want reasons for not smoking, there are enough others that have been demonstrated.

How It Goes With Rich

Milwaukee Journal

What's the effect of the stock market drop on the very rich? Is the high-flying Paul Getty, Associated Press, writer, checked up on it the other day and concludes that in some areas they are.

The number of Rolls-Royce automobiles has softened. Not much, mind you. But some 8% in each litema are 235 a pound caviar, $2 an ounce pate de foie gras and $150 feed bunnies. There has been a noticeable sluggishness in the sales of $200,000 yachts and mansions have been cutting prices on $100,000 models. Even those who last year bought his wife $240,000 worth of jewelry at "laboratory prices" haven't had an annual purchase this year.

Mink and sable are holding well. But there is a tendency for some women in the $5,000 fur class and $10,000 class to cut back on the number of purchases. They're just getting along with fewer.

There's even a slump at the $20 per-pound windows at Belmont race track. But that doesn't necessarily mean that confidence is gone. Over-all betting, Pott finds, has increased 4% — the writer still has faith in the country.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The side-effects they talk about in medicine are legion. Even the new drugs constantly being devised by pharmaceutical science are also a problem in industry. Nobody can deny that the invention of cellophane was a boon to the food packaging and other marketing businesses. But the side effects of cellophane are the various nuisances the customers find in trying to finger open the packages, and in some extent the difficulty of disposing of this shiny substance which makes the most of its litter of all litter.

It is up to the aluminum foil industry to kindly advise us up!

Switch Brings Huge Contract To Corporation

HAMILTON (CP)—The switch by Canadian automobile manufacturers from highway carriers to railway transport for long distance shipments has brought a $2,200,000 contract to the National Steel Car Corporation.

The first triple-deck automobile carriers ever built in Canada, will come off National Steel Car's production line this fall.

Only top of orders already placed this year by Canadian railways, this contract means that the Hamilton plant's facilities are booked for the balance of the year, said James Pearson, vice-president and general manager.

National Steel Car's work force now totals 900, the highest for some time, and should be maintained at about 800 for the balance of 1962.

Tom's Dream Is Nightmare For Constable

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Tom's Dream grew Constable John Williams a nightmare, because as far as the horse was concerned, distant pastures really are greener.

When day broke Thursday on the Badlands of Peterborough County, Const. Williams was conducting a one-man rodeo, swinging his lasso from a city police cruiser.

He had been called in to assist in the capture of the black gelding pacer, owned by Peterborough racing man Percy Dunford. Tom's Dream had bolted from its stable and, according to the officer's report, was "spooked" by a thunder storm.

The horse was recaptured Thursday afternoon as it grazed in a pasture eight miles southeast of here.

Sprayed With Flaming Gasoline Family Escape Said Miracle

PICTON — Sprayed with flaming gasoline when a lamp exploded in the tent where they were sleeping, Mr. and Mrs. Larry VanNorman of Plainfield suffered severe burns to the hands. They were admitted to Prince Edward County Memorial hospital here shortly after two o'clock Thursday morning. It is expected that Mr. VanNorman will be released today while his wife will remain in hospital for a longer period.

Another camper at Frank Wally's Lakeview Park, at the north end of Outlet Beach, where the family was camping for two weeks, stated "It is a miracle that it was not a tragedy".

Te VanNorman's four children escaped injury. Two of them were sleeping in the same tent as their parents while two were asleep in a small tent near by.

Due to the storm which swept the area, the gasoline lamp had been left lighted in the tent. The four occupants were awakened by an explosion, followed by flames as the gasoline was sprayed some distance. Mr. and Mrs. VanNorman were able to carry the two children outside, before putting out the flames on their own hands. The nylon tent did not catch fire but many holes were burned in it and bedding was ignited. Dr. Gordon Caughey attended the injured at the hospital.

West Lake Yields Big Muskie

PICTON — First muskie of the season from Prince Edward County waters was reported on Wednesday. Andrea Pearson of Toronto was the lucky fisherman. He was fishing in West Lake when he had a strike and was able to land a specimen weighing 26 pounds. Mr. Pavelson is a guest at the Mayne Cottage at West Point.

Firemen Douse Stove Fire

PICTON — Town firemen were called to 39 Union St., Thursday morning when grease in a stove oven caught fire. Attempts of the householder to extinguish it failed as each time the oven door was opened, flames shot out. With the aid of chemicals the firemen were able to extinguish the outbreak with damage confined to smoke which filled the room.

Hog Sales Not Affected By Disease

PICTON — Though an outbreak of hog cholera has resulted in a number of livestock sales barns being forced to curtail handling of hogs, the Garrison Livestock Barns near Picton, have not received any advice leading to such action being taken here. The regular sale was held on Wednesday when little pigs and sows fetched $12.50 each. However, there was no shipping of hogs on Wednesday but this was not due to the disease.

Ira Davis, manager of the sales barn, stated that if the handling of hogs is eliminated, it would be impossible to carry on the business, as it plays an important role in the success of the operation.

Move Machines 500 Miles to Contract Area

PICTON — The McFarland Construction Co. is currently engaged in a large contract in northern Ontario to which heavy equipment was recently moved after completion of a job in Ottawa. Included were giant earth-moving machines worth $75,00 each and employees were able to overcome the difficult task of getting them to the scene — some 500 miles, much through rough terrain. The units units used for the construction of a 27-mile service road to link Ontario Hydro's Little Long Power Development, north of Kapuskasing, with the Pinard transformer station near the Ahlibi canyon generating station. The $800,000 construction project is scheduled for completion next summer.

Religion Personal Affair

By ROY L. SMITH

The prophet Jeremiah is, without a doubt, the greatest prophet the Hebrews ever produced, with the single exception of Isaiah. No small part of his greatness is to be explained by the difficulties of the times through which he lived. He was called to preach to a nation that was fast breaking up.

The Babylonian empire was on the march to kill. No one knows better than a preacher does what pressures such a situation produces. Jeremiah was well aware of the fact that the national government was rotten to the core. With the accession of one king after another he had hoped that there might be some reform, and occasionally there was sporadic efforts to correct some evil or other. But no king had either the strength or the understanding that the situation required and little by little the nation stumbled on to the inevitable end.

BECAME DISCOURAGED

At length Jeremiah became utterly discouraged. Isaiah, his great predecessor of a hundred years earlier, had believed the nation would never be destroyed, and had predicted that no enemy would ever take the city of Jerusalem. But in spite of political confusions, new and brave promises and changing fortunes, the situation worsened until Jeremiah could see no hope in it.

In the meantime, a generation of false prophets(perhaps for pay) kept reassuring the nation and the king. Fawning upon the monarch they assured him that the prophecies of Isaiah could be trusted, that the ancient covenant with Jehovah was still in force, and that there was nothing, really, to fear.

Nowhere, in any part of the world, was it possible for any man to escape the destinies forced upon him by the god of the land. If a man were a Babylonian, he was a child of Marduk and he could do nothing about it. If he was a citizen of Egypt, he was a subject of Isiker, and he could do nothing about it. Up until the time of Jeremiah if a man had been a citizen of Judah he would have been subject to the rule and judgment of Jehovah, and he could do nothing about it.

The new doctrine that Jeremiah introduced upset this whole theory of religion. Instead of becoming automatically, the beneficiary of Jehovah, he now was assured of God's favor as a purely personal matter.

This meant that the Hebrew who was personally rebellious against Jehovah was an alien and an outcast with no rights in the eyes of Jehovah. Each man's conscience was to be his personal guide. Jehovah, from that day forward, was to deal with each individual in a personal fashion.

The meaning of the new covenant was that of God proposed to make politics, blood relationships, temple sacrifices, and ancestral worship in choosing his 'chosen. The humblest citizen hoy became as easily a candidate for the favor of Jehovah, as the King upon his throne. Religion was to be a strictly personal intimate private affair between God and the individual.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 29: "JEREMIAH SEES HOPE BEYOND TRAGEDY," Kings 24:18-25; Jeremiah 29: 1-4; 30:18-24; 31: 32:36-42; 33: 14-26.

No nation or government is ever in great danger than it is when the forces of righteousness have come to terms with the forces of unrighteousness. The undoing of any people is in the hands of the religious leaders who never rebuke injustice, condemn licentiousness, protest drunkenness, or inspire reverence in the hearts of the people.

Opposed by the priestly class, ignored by the politicians, rejected and suspected by the people, Jeremiah became more and more vocal. The nation might die in his presence, but it was doomed to hear his protests to the end.

NEW COVENANT WITH GOD

The agreement that had been reached at Sinai, under the guidance and inspiration of Moses, had been the one sure anchor for the hopes and fortunes of the nation. Again and again it had been cited by the false prophets, and the betraying kings, as justification for their unholy confidence.

Under no circumstances could Jeremiah bring himself to doubt Jehovah, neither could he believe that a God like Jehovah could tolerate such sinning as that of which Judah was guilty.

Under the guidance of what he believed to be the direct and personal touch of God, he came before the nation with an entirely new doctrine.

Toasting at Weddings

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—What is the correct procedure that is followed at a wedding reception; that is: which toast comes first, who gives each, and who replies?

Would you also explain to me who in the immediate family get corsages and boutonnieres? If a sister gets a corsage, would her husband get a boutonnaire? In my opinion they should both get flowers. There seems to be a misunderstanding about this matter. Could you clarify this for me?—BEWILDERED.

DEAR BEWILDERED—Here's how it usually goes:

Toast to the Bride—proposed by the clergyman or a family friend; responded to by the groom.

Toast to the Bridesmaids—proposed by the groom; responded to by the best man or chief usher.

Toast to the Bride's Mother (or Bride's parents— I prefer the latter)—Proposed by a family friend; responded to by the bride's father.

Toast to the Groom's Mother (or Groom's Parents)—proposed by a close friend of the groom's family; responded to by the groom's father.

The M.C. may add others if the spirit moves him; and so may anyone else. The only essential one is the toast to the bride.

Bouquets, corsages, boutonnieres, are supplied to each member of the wedding party. If the wedding is informal, other guests do not wear flowers, as a rule.

But there are exceptions. If a sister is very close to the bride, the gesture of providing a corsage for her may be very much appreciated. Then you may or may not provide a boutonnaires for her husband. Is he a good friend too?

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I must congratulate you on the splendid answers you give your readers. I am a fan of Queen Elizabeth and would like to know where I can obtain pictures of her or her family.

When she visited Ontario in 1959 I collected pictures, but would appreciate any more that I could receive.—LOYAL FAN.

DEAR LOYAL FAN—Readers generously responded to a previous request of this kind. Anybody else have pictures of our Queen Bess they would like to pass on?

• • •

DEAR DORIS—There is a certain boy in my class whom I like very much. He sometimes talks to me and smiles at me, but I can't be sure if he likes me.

He sometimes comes up to my house but only occasionally. Can you please help me?—CONFUSED SUSAN.

DEAR CONFUSED SUSAN—If he talks to you, smiles at you and sometimes comes to your house; he likes you.

Be your nicest, friendliest self. Look your best and don't rush things. Time will tell.

Official Says One Reason India in Commonwealth Because Canada Is Member

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

NEW YORK (CP) — India's newly-appointed high commissioner to Canada says one of the reasons his country has remained in the Commonwealth is that Canada is a member.

The ambassador, Chandra Shekhar Jha, 53, isn't taking any diplomatic chances when he says Jha—he quotes no less an authority than Prime Minister Nehru.

Nehru, he recalls, spoke in this vein when Prime Minister Diefenbaker visited India in 1958 and thus the diplomat regards his new appointment as one of the most important in the Indian foreign service.

Jha, as India's ambassador to the United Nations for the last 3½ years, has been at the core of controversial happenings and there is little doubt he will be just as busy in Canada—it is a different way.

"We have no problems in our relations with Canada—our feelings are traditionally friendly—but there will be a great deal for me to assume from this that my job will be routine," Jha said.

The tall, handsome diplomat—he is stocky, his shock of hair is surrounding horn-rimmed spectacles—was interviewed at India House, where the relaxed courtesy of his staff was in striking contrast with the bustly-hurry of Manhattan life outside.

ECONOMIC CONCERN

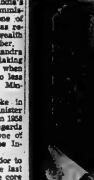
"We regard Canada as an important country," he said. "It will be my intention further to develop relations with her, perhaps especially in an economic way."

Jha said he could not yet speak of specifics in the sphere. He admitted the concrete action listed to such things as fund-fishing in Nova Scotia, the Calgary Stampede, trade exports to Stratford, the possibilities of manufacturing in Ontario and the beauties of British Columbia.

Jha, who has visited Canada only as a transient, met Lester Chakravarty, who comes to the UN.

A topic on which Jha sees eye-to-eye with the Canadian government is Britain's possible entry into the Common Market. As a result, there is no "close ness between Canada's and our views."

The Commonwealth is more or less a "club" and should trade arrangements, a tangible factor linking the diverse nations, fall apart the organization would be finished, he declared.



"In India I haven't noticed any feeling that we should get out of the Commonwealth because of the Common Market—but it would have a weakening effect on the Commonwealth."

Any Indian diplomat at the UN must fall to some extent under the shadow of his predecessor Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, a frequent visitor and ardent UN man. But Jha carried the ball last year—and showed his tenacity in debate—in defending his country from charges of aggression in taking over the Portuguese territory of Goa.

MIXED EDUCATION

Jha, born in 1902, was educated at Patna University and the School of Oriental Studies, London, where he earned a degree in science — chemistry — and a bachelor's degree in law "strange combination." But his first venture into science in his early days ended unfruitfully, with little promise of what was to come in that field, and he made the switch to law, important training in diplomacy. He joined the civil service in 1933.

In the interview, Jha warmly espoused the fairness of African countries at the UN, saying that fears of so-called white countries of steam — rolling tactics are groundless.

"There is no good ground for what has been said—that the Asian and African countries have tried to steam-roll," said Jha, "and to speak of the rapid growth of UN membership to date.

"What has happened is that the initiative passed to them—to the Asian and African countries—and the big powers found themselves in difficulty without our support.

READY TO HELP

Chairs, voluntary resolutions were passed with tremendous majorities, showing that the Asian and African countries are willing to go along and support measures they seem right."

Jha, former ambassador to Turkey and Japan, was chairman of the UN Security Council [illegible] when Canada now is a member—in 1961. He was also chairman of the committee on contributions to the UN, which had to do with assessments, and presided over a meeting of this group in Geneva while preparing for his Canadian assignment.

He is chairman of the UN special committee of 17 on the implementation of the UN declaration of independence for colonial countries. Jha said he will likely retain this position after becoming ambassador to Canada, returning to New York to preside over meetings at UN headquarters.

Jha is scheduled to take up his Ottawa appointment at the end of July, accompanied by his wife and his younger son, Prem, a recent graduate of Oxford. His other son is in the Indian foreign service, stationed in Rome.

Among Jha's pursuits are tennis, gold, bridge, theatre, hunting and travelling and—he said a bit wistfully—"perhaps in Ottawa I'll have a chance to do a bit of writing."

EARLY HUNTER

The finding confirms what they long had thought—that early man in the new world actually hunt the mastodons which roamed North America from 300,000 to 10,000 years ago.

Miss Cynthia Irwin, a Harvard graduate student, found the mastodon remains in excavating at El Horno in Mexico, and from geological evidence estimated the age as about 20,000 years. Other students are checking the age with radioactive carbon dating techniques.

The extinct mastodon and the modern elephant belong to the same animal family.

ATMOSPHERIC SECRETS

"In the next 10 years, U.S. research in the atmospheric sciences should be tripled, says a report published by the National Academy of Sciences - National Research Council.

It urges a bigger effort to understand atmospheric processes adequately, for therein lies the basis of sounder weather forecasts and potentials for control of weather and man's environment.

The report to the office of science and technology calls for a three-fold increase in scientific manpower and research funds, a four to five-fold increases in the universities' output of doctorates in the atmospheric sciences.

INSECT ENEMY

The black widow spider has dropped out of the list of the top 10 public enemies of the insect world, says the U.S. National Pest Control Association.

Some 25 years ago, this spider caused more human illness and deaths than now. The improvement is due largely to better sanitation and pest control methods, and advances in medical treatment. The bite is fatal in about five per cent of untreated cases.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I wonder if you would please send me some recipes for outdoor barbecue cooking. I have no recipes and apart from hotdogs we are at a standstill ... Mrs. J. B.

ANSWER:

I have mailed to you my column for June 29th which gives one method of serving sparerib partially barbecued. Directions for barbecuing chicken and ground beef follow:

Dinner Menus

FRIDAY

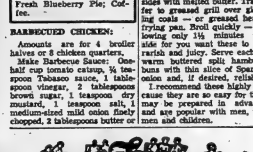
Melon Ball Fruit Cup; Cheese and Crabmeat Soufflé; Tomato Sauce; Carrots Vichy; Spinach; Cabbage and Pineapple Slaw; Orange Layer Cake; Coffee.

SUNDAY
(Guests)

Chilled Tomato and Clam Juice Cocktail; Baked Chicken in Milk (see Thursday); Corn Pudding (see Thursday); Eggplant Creole; Celery and Olives on Dish; Fresh Blueberry Pie; Coffee.

BARBECUED CHICKEN:

Amounts are for 4 broiler halves or 4 chicken quarters.



Make Barbecue Sauce: One-half cup tomato catsup, ¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauce, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 medium-sized mild onion finely chopped, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Simmer together for 5 minutes. Cool. Marinate chicken halves or quarters in this sauce for a few hours. (If you are in a hurry marinate them for at least ½ hour.) Turn 2 or 3 times. Have barbecue fire ready with glowing coals — no flames. Place marinated chicken pieces on grill and broil slowly, basting several times with remaining Barbecue Sauce and turning occasionally. Allow about 25 to 40 minutes — 30 minutes per side.

BARBECUED BEEF BURGERS:

This is easy and popular and not expensive. Personally I would settle for it often.

Buy minced round steak and flatten by hand on a wet pastry board to ¼" thickness, to do this with a wet rolling pin. Cut it into 4" squares or rounds. Sprinkle each with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Top each with a slice of process cheese to fit. Cover that with second square or round of minced beef. Pat to make them firm. If this is done before cooking time, life with bread spatula to heavy wax paper and refrigerate individually until mealtime arrives. Broil both sides with melted butter. Transfer to grease-proof paper during coals — or greased heavy frying pan. Broil quickly — allowing only 1½ minutes each side for you want these to be rare and juicy. Serve each in warm buttered split hamburg buns with thin slice of Spanish onion and, if desired, relish.

I recommend these highly because there are so easy by they may be prepared in advance and are popular with men, women and children.

Sidney F. — He thinks nothing of interrupting me.

Russell F. — Even "Hello" is an interruption to him.

• • •

Sidney F. — My brother Russ and I each have our own room at home. We live in Westchester and commute to college in New York. He's a junior, majoring in business, and I'm a sophomore, English is my major.

I want Russ to respect my closed door, my request for quiet. Instead he bursts in for any trivial reason and upsets my train of thought. And when he isn't home, he lets a never loose enough sound effects outside my door to delight in a producer of a TV horror film. It's all his way of saying he'll like me to think I'm doing and chew the fat with him.

In an out-of-town college he couldn't get away with that, disrupting kids' work. How can I make him see how selfish he is?

• • •

Russell F. — Tells about selfish. Only 364 shots himself in his room, the rest of the family could drop dead for all he cares. Telephones and doorbells ring. Does he ever answer them? No, not even when they're for him.

How does Sid think he can live with people, and still be a recluse? Either he's approachable and normal, or he's unapproachable and should build a wall around himself so people know. With his cranky disposition he shouldn't last long in an out-of-town college. From what I hear, the fellows tear in and out of each other's rooms unasked.

I try to get Sid to relax and act like a regular guy. Instead he hits the ceiling if somebody says Hello.

• • •

The Council: Russell should trip himself up at the threshold to Sidney's room. The "trip" is the welcome or unwelcome, depending upon how engrossed one is on what he's doing, and whether or not, Failure to consider this is the height of rudeness.

So a person wrapped in thought, or who prefers to have his attention is mayhem to his progress. Phyllis McGinley sometimes gets a glimpse of such a worm slips away from it, realizes if he can reach the mouth, fin, with a live hypothesis.

Russell appears to be an extrovert who resents his introvert brother's attempts at carving him for life away from home, he harasses him more than his wont. Sidney needs a dormitory, in an office, even in the army camp, to supply the quiet for privacy is often respected.

We must assume that Sidney is compassionable towards Russell at mealtimes and during periods of relaxation. We must also assume that he is receptive to interruptions when he is essential and cannot be postponed. So the objectionable interruption is the one which Russell perpetrates as an attention-getter for himself.

Sidney is right to resist his brother's assertion of his rights. Creative, industrious people have had to shut themselves up in attics and dungeons, to escape those who would rather destroy what someone else is doing than use their wits to devise something satisfying to do themselves.

Colleges were unable to finish his greatest poem, "Kubla Khan," because of interruptions. Genius or not, however, everyone has the right to protect needless disturbance.

Fur and Fabric

By TRACY ADRIAN

One of the highlights of the Marquise collection for summer is this chic costume that teams fur and fabric.

All in shades of taupe, the outfit combines a jacket of Alaskan haircalf with a two-piece dress of imported English wool.

The overblouse is collarless and has long, fitted sleeves and the jacket closes at the neckline with a button-on scarf.

Dior Makes Common Style High Fashion

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—The House of Dior has adopted for its luxury trade the style that women are currently wearing everywhere, with a natural waistline and no startling descent of the hem.

Dior's simple new "arrow" silhouette, with forward jutting skirt, unveiled Thursday, brought a basic change in skirt proportions. Previously fashion-making the Paris winter fashion season.

The House announced that "hems stay where they have been for the last two seasons." But in fact they appeared slightly longer and not a single timecap saw the light of day in the Dior salons.

Skirts were in conical shape, worked in wide gauze, seamed or pleated to stand out away from the body at the centre front. The impact of the fluid new silhouette was emphasized in profile by dail straight lines at the back contrasting with the swing-out in front.

WEARABLE OUTLINE

The over-all silhouette was on of the most restrained and wearable that Dior has shown for many seasons.

Designer Marc Bohan has not tried to upset the fashion applecart by an untimely departure from currently - accepted standards of fashion. Instead he has adapted a pretty new look that can be worn by women from 18 to 80.

Waistlines were marked at their natural place in daytime clothes, but sometimes had the effect of a rise, by wide encrusted cummerbunds, leather sashes or inset yokes that commenced at the hollow of the waist and reached up to touch the lower ribs.

Shoulders were rounded with straight-cut, set-in sleeves. The bosom was delicately outlined but not over-emphasized. High dress necklines were prettilandingly simple.

Most important coat was the redingote, shaped rather than fitted. It suggested a lifted waistline through the position of buttons or seaming. Roomy "weatherproof" coats cut on loose lines were comfrtingly lined with mohair.

Question: At a recent dinner party, asparagus was served and I noticed that a few people picked up the stalk one by one and ate them from their fingers. I was quite surprised, and wonder if this is now acceptable at table. — Mrs. H.A., Trenton, N.J.

Answer: It's acceptable, but there are a few provisos: If it's cooked al dente and doesn't droop over when picked up; if it's not coated with a drippy sauce; and if it's done in fairly informal surroundings. Generally, though, asparagus is easier to eat if the tender part is cut into bite-size pieces and eaten with a fork. Any tough ends should be left, untouched, on the plate.

Question: I need help — and fairly soon. My daughter has been studying music in Salzburg, Austria, for the past year. She is coming home soon. But in September, my husband, her sister and I will return with her for her marriage to a young Austrian. What I want to know is this: Should we send invitations to close relatives and to friends here, knowing that they won't be able to attend the wedding? Should we just send announcements to everyone, except those relatives of the groom in Austria? — Mrs. P. L., Sudbury, Ont.

Answer: Ordinarily, invitations are sent to far-off friends and relatives as a courtesy gesture and on the off-chance that someone might actually attend after all. This is done, of course, when the bride is being married in her own home town. But since the wedding in question will be in Salzburg and there's not a ghost of a chance that the bride's sister, except for the immediate family, would be able to attend, there's no need to send invitations. Naturally, relatives and close friends should be informed of the wedding in advance. While she's here, a party might be arranged for this purpose. Announcements can be made up in the states and mailed from Salzburg on the day of the wedding. They'll make a particularly warm memento for those near and dear who could not attend.

Question: When a hostess keeps her guests lingering too long over coffee at the dinner table, is it permissible for a guest to suggest continuing the conversation in the living room? At a dinner party recently, we stayed at the table at least an hour after the meal and what had been served. My chair became uncomfortable, the room hot, the others followed my lead, and our hostess, offered apologies. I hope I was being rude, but I was afraid the conversation might go on and on and on. Do you think? — Mrs. R.A.C., Mt. Kisco, N.Y.

Answer: Such a suggestion would be completely improper. The family should make their plans and pays for the wedding and reception, and the groom's family pays for the out-of-town guests. The bridegroom's parents often give a pre-nuptial party or reception to introduce the bride and her family to their friends. Your sister might want to dispose of her "obligations" in this way. But it would be folly for her to suggest splitting expenses for a huge reception. Not only would this be intrusive and impolite, but she would also run the risk of offending the bride and her parents in the bargain.

Question: My husband and I have been to a wedding recently. Neither of us drinks. We would like to know what we should have given as a wedding gift. I proposed to the bridal couple. Must we go wedding, or can we just rise with the others but drink nothing? — Mrs. B. F., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: When a toast is proposed, even by choice, a drink is emphyhanded. It's not necessary to sip wine. Fruit juice, a soft drink, even a glass of water may be lifted just as well.

Elsie Donkersley quit school in Grade 8. But now she's planning to enter the University of British Columbia. Jack Hutton tells how she crammed five years of education into one.

Teen-Age Canada

Ex-Waitress Takes All High School in One Year

By JACK HUTTON

But this fall she intends to enter the University of British Columbia—after somehow cramming five years of education into one hectic year.

Impossible? "I believe nothing is impossible if you work hard at it," said Miss Donkersley.

I believe the story of Miss Donkersley should serve as a beacon this summer to any Canadian teen-ager who feels that he or she can't do something; she'd tell you the word can't doesn't exist.

"There was no time for social life," the 25-year-old student confessed recently. "It was work, work, work all the time." (Remember she hadn't been in school for 12 years.)

The story began last summer when Miss Donkersley decided to catch up on her missed schooling and began a daily grind that often ran from 6 a.m. to midnight. Sometimes it went later.

Since leaving school she had worked at jobs ranging from waitress to bookkeeper, but also found her lack of education a hurdle that held her back. By last summer she was an accounts clerk with a lumber company and had enough saved for a year's study.

Most of her work was done through the provincial education department's correspondence school and the British Columbia Matriculation and Science School.

But imagine the problem of her instructors. Miss Donkersley says them often gives her a great deal of help—but on several occasions instructors weren't sure exactly which grade she was studying in various subjects.

DELIGHTED

Yet she finished passing in her Grade 12 exams with a B average and has completed almost all of her Grade 13. The U. of B.C. says it's delighted to have her on its fall list.

The attractive brunette enjoys occasionally reminding both her family and friends that they said originally that it couldn't be done.

"I'm sure that there are a lot of girls like me who are finding it harder and harder to get ahead because they didn't have enough schooling," she says. "I was fortunate enough to be able to do something about it."

Her future plans? Miss Donkersley will start off with an arts course at university but is rather vague about anything after that.

I believe we can make one safe assumption: Whatever Elsie Donkersley wants, she is eventually going to get. Maybe there's an object lesson there for any of you who are a bit discouraged about life.

UNEVEN CHANCES

Jim and Leroy are two 16-year-olds whom I meet during a two-week stay in the Caribbean island of Barbados.

Both are excellent students. Both have school grades which should promise a glowing future—but the comparison of the two stops there.

The reason: Leroy is colored. Unless he works himself into a crowded civil service his chances of advancement are low. His father, who has seven other children, can't afford to back him in business.

Jim is luckier. He's coming to Canada this fall to enter one of our best universities and will undoubtedly do very well. I found him eager to find out more about our northern country.

If I made any one conclusion about the islands, it was this; thousands of young people finishing school there would give their right arms for the opportunities which Canadian teen-agers have.

AN EARLY SMOKER

Jean Marshall, 15, of Halifax, writes: "When are teen-agers going to realize that it isn't smart to start smoking just because it seems the thing to do with the gang?

"I'm one teen-ager who tried a few puffs when I was about 13, sneaking into the back booth of a neighborhood restaurant with some friends. Once was enough for me!

"What bothers me is that my friends who experimented at that time carried on and one girl is now smoking at least one package a day by now. Where she gets the money for it I don't know.

"I was delighted to see that Teen-Age Canada wants to hear from teen-agers this summer about smoking. I hope you get great stacks of mail on this subject because it's a problem every teen-ager has to make."

Royal Ontario Museum Houses Young Detective, Job Is Identifying Rocks

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP)—A couple of high-ceilinged rooms behind the minerals gallery of the Royal Ontario Museum are headquarters for a young detective whose operations are exacting in detail and international in scope.

Chicago-born Joseph Mandarino, 33, works in an identification service for prospectors, geologists and other mineral-minded persons and institutions.

With a jumble of x-ray cameras, test-tubes and weighty technical volumes, he traces the mineral identity of rock samples ranging in size from pinhead specks to small boulders. Rock is sent from locations as far apart as the shores of Lake Superior and Mocteszuma, Mexico.

His research has identified half a dozen new, natural mineral compounds and tabbed two Canadian samples as compounds not previously known in this country.

As associate curator of mineralogy in the ROM's earth sciences division, Dr. Mandarino also is intent on building up the museum's own collection of minerals—some 200,000 specimens at last count—and expanding its identity catalogue to serve as a swift comparison guide in future work.

AMONG TOP SIX

The ROM collection is Canada's biggest and best and Dr. Mandarino says the mineralogy department "ranks among the top six in the world."

It was on a collecting mission to Arizona soon after joining the museum staff in August, 1956, from teaching at Michigan mining and technology college at Houghton that Dr. Mandarino set up an exchange leading to identification of the new minerals.

In Scottsdale, Ariz., to see the private collection of mineral dealer Scott J. Williams, he arranged a deal whereby the museum would identify unusual samples for the dealer in return for free specimens.

First assignment was a group of six rock samples found by Mr. Williams at an abandoned gold mine in Montezuma. Dr. Mandarino went to work with the assistance of colleagues including Dr. Richard S. Mitchell of the University of Virginia's geology department, a fellow student in postgraduate days at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbour.

Chief tool was the museum's x-ray diffraction unit, purchased five years ago to record on film strips a mineral's atomic structure.

FIVE NEW COMPOUNDS

Five of the Mocteszuma specimens were found to be new compounds of tellurium, a silvery-white mineral used in small quantities industrially for such purposes as increasing tensile strength in metal alloys.

The sixth specimen showed the same characteristics as a mineral compound created synthetically but not previously found in nature—a combination of lead, oxygen and fluoride.

The tellurium compounds, known as tellurites, are comparatively rare combinations of the element with other metals and oxygen. Only four tellurites were known previously, three in North America and one from a single location in Japan.

Dr. Mandarino gave names to two of the new discoveries and he has submitted descriptive papers on them to technical journals in Canada and the United States.

The other, a light green rock, he named dennisgite for a professor who helped him to his doctorate at University of Michigan, Reynolds M. Denning.

Although industry creates no large-scale demand for tellurium and its compounds, a prospector who spots the purple hue of spiroffite or the pastel green of dennisgite would be encouraged to probe the area for associated minerals such as gold, lead or zinc.

Dr. Mandarino and his x-ray camera also have established the presence in Canada of two mineral compounds not known here previously—a rare combination of lead, selenium and oxygen called molybdomenite and a cerium-calcium-carbonate compound called parisite.

Specimens of the compounds were brought back to Toronto from a collecting trip north of Lake Superior last summer by D. W. M. Tovell, ROM curator of geology. Dr. Tovell is returning to the area this summer for a further search.

While not commercially valuable in themselves, the rare compounds might point to the presence of minerals such as lead or cerium.

Swedish Doctors Bring Aborted Babies Briefly Back to Life

BELFAST (Reuters) — Swedish doctors studying "deep freeze" therapy for treating premature babies, have used an artificial womb to bring babies born dead back to life for short periods, the British Medical Association was told Thursday.

Delegates to the BMA's annual conference were shown a color film of the work done at a Stockholm laboratory as part of the first publication of the Swedish experiment.

Swedish doctor Dr. W. B. Westin explained that the babies used in the experiments had not the slightest chance of life when they were legally aborted from their mothers.

The oldest fetus used was 24 weeks and the youngest weighed only three by four ounces. None lived longer than 21 hours in the artificial womb.

Dr. Westin said lessons learned during the experiments had saved the lives of more than 100 Scandinavian babies asphyxiated at birth.

'CLINICALLY DEAD'

He explained that all the babies used in the experiments were "clinically dead" before they were placed in the artificial uterus. Their vital functions had ceased and "they had no chance for survival."

The fetal child, apparently perfectly formed, had a connection made between its umbilical cord and an artificial heart.

It was then lifted — barely covering the doctors hand—into a glass jar filled with an artificial amniotic fluid, a salt solution which closely approximated a mother's water in the womb.

The child's blood was then oxygenated in the artificial heart, circulation started and soon the child's heartbeat rose toward normal.

It was then taking oxygen into its body and the return to life was shown in movement of the body and heart.

Dr. Westin said the artificial womb experiments were part of a broader investigation of the deep-freeze therapy in treating new-born children.

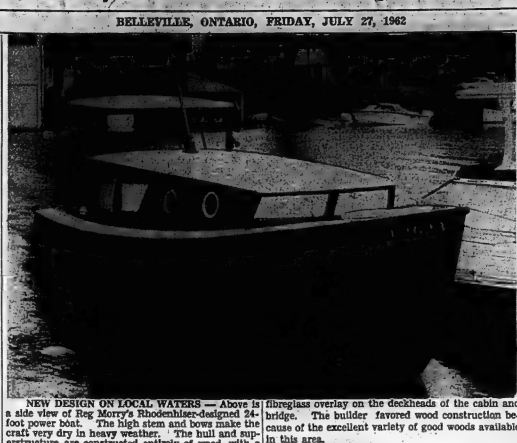
Seek to Settle Problem Of Agricultural Imports At Common Market Talks

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Negotiations for Britain's entry into the European Common Market resumed today in a marathon session aimed at settling the question of temperate agricultural products.

Edward Heath, British deputy foreign secretary, and ministers of the six Common Market nations planned to meet until late in the evening, if necessary, to solve the problems connected with the British demand for allermale markets for the temperate foodstuffs exported by Canada, Australia and New Zealand.



The negotiations reached a key point of agreement Thursday, but serious problems remained. The seven, ministers agreed in principle that, if world agreements had not been signed by 1970, Commonwealth and other non-market member countries would be consulted by the enlarged community with a view to reaching special arrangements which, sources close to the talks said, would take the form of commodity agreements between the Common Market and the Commonwealth.

But, though this represents a concession from Britain, Heath last night made two proposals on the six that received a cool reception.

The British minister asked for a continuation during the transitional period ending in 1970 of Commonwealth preferences for coarse grains, such as barley, which now enjoy a preference in the British market.

He has also asked for a commitment that Canada, Australia and New Zealand will be able to export the same quantities of these products to the market during this period as now are taken in by the British market.

The six, however, are in favor of a gradual withering away of Commonwealth preferences by 1970 and are opposed to giving quantitative assurances.

NEW DESIGN ON LOCAL WATERS — Above is a side view of Reg Rhodenhiser's 24-foot power boat. The high stern and bows make the craft very dry in heavy weather. The hull and superstructure are constructed entirely of wood, with a fibreglass overlay on the decksheads of the cabin and bridge. The builder favored wood construction because of the excellent variety of good woods available in this area.

Launching Pad Is Damaged But Doubt Tests Will End

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence department and Atomic Energy Commission officials were reported to have met Thursday to decide what kind of a nuclear device should be tested next high over the Pacific.

An informed source said he doubts the meetings were held to decide whether to cut off the test series in the wake of the intentional destruction of a Thor rocket on its launching pad at Johnston Island.

The Thor, which was to have carried a nuclear device to a high altitude, developed a so-far-undisclosed malfunction.

The pad was understood to have sustained considerable damage. There is only one rocket launching pad on Johnston Island.

"Any decision to halt the series would have to come from the White House," the source said. "President Kennedy has been watching this series very closely."

Defence scientists have fired one high altitude burst successfully. Three other attempts failed because of trouble with the Thor or its system.

The ABC said the missile's destruction caused no injuries and no radioactivity hazards.

There was no nuclear detonation and fires that started when the missile was destroyed were extinguished quickly, a spokesman said.

It had been announced previously that the test was a rescheduling of a nuclear test attempt that failed June 3 when the Thor rocket carrying the device was deliberately destroyed in flight because of a tracking fault.

The first U.S. high-altitude test, in the megaton range, occurred during the night of July 9-10 at a reported height of about 200 miles over Johnston Island.

It Never Accepts Any Ads Pravda Tells Free Press

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Russian newspaper Pravda has declined to accept a paid advertisement from the Winnipeg Free Press replying to an advertisement carried by the Free Press on the text of a speech by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Pravda said in a cable Wednesday to Free Press Publisher R. S. Malone it never accepts advertising of any sort.

Mr. Malone had asked Pravda to accept, in the interests of free speech, an ad allowing the Free Press to reply to Mr. Khrushchev's statement.

The Free Press offered to pay Pravda $2,800, the same amount the Soviet embassy in Ottawa paid the Winnipeg newspaper to carry the full text of Khrushchev's speech in a transmission and cease conference in Ottawa this month. The Free Press was one of a number of newspapers in Canada and the United States which carried the text as an advertisement.

The Free Press said Thursday its reply will be broadcast Saturday by special arrangement with Radio Liberty, a private U.S. station which operates broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain at the Soviet Union and its satellites.

In a statement issued Thursday, Mr. Malone said the Free Press would publish its own reply, written by Victoria Times Editor-in-Chief Bruce Hutchison, in English and Russian, so that Canadians of Russian or satellite origin can cut out the articles and mail them to friends in Russia and Russian-dominated countries.

Ontario Farmer Will Set Sail For South Seas

VICTORIA (CP) — A South Seas adventure starts next week for a former Ontario farmer when he sets sail for Kuaiofa in the Tonga Islands.

Burnett Chalmers, 49, will make his voyage aboard the ketch-rigged 30.6-foot Tolos.

Capt. Paul Sklives of the B.C. government ferry Sidney will accompany Mr. Chalmers on the two-week trip to Sea Flower Cove—first leg of a trip around the world.

Chalmers has arranged for a two-man crew to sail from San Francisco to Honolulu and one man to accompany him from there to Tahiti.

He will be met by his Tongaborn wife and two-year-old daughter Tamar at Nukualofa where the family will stay for a year or two. Then plans call for an extended cruise which will end on the Atlantic coast.

Mr. Chalmers will be met by his family plan to settle in his native Stratford.

Vienna Doctors Settle Dispute

VIENNA (Austria (AP) — Vienna doctors and the health insurance institute ended a dispute over fees Thursday which was highlighted by a one-day doctors' strike July 9.

The institute agreed to increase fees by July 30—although not to the extent asked by the doctors—and to negotiate later on a general reorganization of payments.

Precise details were not disclosed, however. It was presumed the doctors generally will get a 15-per-cent increase. They sought increases of 65 per cent.

Health insurance is compulsory in Austria. Patients have a free choice of physicians. The physicians are paid by Austrian Health Institute on the basis of collective bargaining between the institute and the Austrian Chamber of Doctors.

HAND ME A BIGGER HAMMER, MATE — might have been what engineer Bill Beur boat builder Reg Morry (right) said to his friend, Bob Owen, as the two recently wrestled with the installation of an ancient Acadian east coast engine into the new power launch. The two were busy trying to subdue the engine's vibrations by the installation of a new bed.

Spent Fall, Winter Making Boat of Seaworthy Design

Wives who would like to be sure that their husbands are kept busy and out of mischief and the house for the coming winter might be well advised to interest their mates in building a boat. Not only does this keep hubby out of the way for the next eight to ten months but, when he is finished, he should have lost weight and there should be a nice, new boat on the harbor for the family to spend its leisure hours and vacation on.

Such might be the comment of Mrs. R. J. Morry of 42 Tracy Street, whose husband, Reg, has been out of sight in the family garage for the major part of the leisure time since last August until several weeks ago, when his 25-foot 10-inch Rhodenhiser-design power craft was launched on the Bay of Quinte.

Since the laying of the keel has, August, Reg has spent many long hours running into the wee hours of the morning shaping, planing, fitting and nailing, and getting sage advice from local boat builder-designer Bill Rhodenhiser on some of the finer points of construction. The result has been the slow but sure construction of a craft not often seen on local waters.

Reg's boat does not exactly have the forward look of streamliners such as are produced in the quantity-built boat days by commercial builders. Rather his boat sacrifices sleek lines for comfortable build. High in the bows, broad of beam, and a specially designed hull and keel give the craft excellent stability in rough weather and keep it quite dry and easy to handle. It is more like a deep sea craft than an inlands water pleasure craft.

ARE MARITIMERS

This is not surprising when one realizes that the designer, Bill Rhodenhiser, is from the east coast and learned his trade in Nova Scotia and the builder Reg, is from Newfoundland and grew up on the broad reaches of the Atlantic. So far the Morry boat has been through winds up to around 50 knots and has yet to ship any water, except when it rains.

Perhaps because of his background, Reg relies upon an ancient two-cylinder Acadian engine to power his craft. This fascinating power plant, which features such "advanced" mechanical design as fixed injection priming (via pinholes leading into the combustion chamber) appears to rely mostly on salty oaths and hefty kicks on the flywheel for reliable starting, according, perhaps, for its nickname of "kicker."

The surge of power delivered by this engine, rated a around eight horsepower, is almost overwhelming and, until Reg solves the problem of dampening its vibrant enthusiasm, is not unlike the sensation one might experience whilst standing in the centre of a stampede of wild horses.

All of which definitely adds character to the boat, plus the advantage that until Reg does get the vibrations out no other boat out of Belleville harbor has an inbuilt massage system of soothing, albeit ominous, effect.

The boat will alreg four and has complete conveniences below decks and plenty of room, even

Sees Name on Blackboard Beside Highway in Britain, Learns He Has Big Task

OTTAWA (CP) — Thomas Grantham Norris was bolding forth happily in Britain when he was caught in an international tangel.

He and his wife, driving in a rented car to Canterbury, suddenly saw his name scrawled in chalk on a roadside blackboard. Ottawa wanted him urgently.

So urgently that the Royal Automobile Club, the automobile association, Scotland Yard, Interpol and others were looking for him.

The blackboard notice, put up by the automobile association, was a long-distance summons from Labor Minister Starr to Mr. Justice T. G. Norris, district judge in admiralty for British Columbia and a member of the B.C. Court of Appeal.

He was wanted as a one-man industrial commission to inquire into shipping disruptions and labor unrest on the Great Lakes.

The assignment meant a hurried flight to Canada and an immediate start on what promises to be a tumultuous investigation into a violent war between two sailors' unions.

A rugged six-footer weighing just under 200 pounds, the silver-haired jurist says:

"Right now, the main job is to get started—to appoint commission counsel, to get a staff, to hold an organization meeting with the parties and settle down to work."

He faces a tangled web of inter-union rivalries, of violence and skullduggery, of international power plays involving the Canadian and American governments, of boycotts and blacklists that stalled ship movements in U.S. ports and even closed down the vital Welland Canal between Lakes Ontario and Erie.

His terms of reference are just about as wide-open as he could want to make them, as he grapples with the long-brewing feud between the Seafarers International Union of Canada (Ind.) and the newly-formed Canadian Maritime Union (CLC).

As a lawyer practising in Kelowna and Vancouver, he is remembered as a fierce courtroom fighter with a whip-crack mind and a superb memory. As a man, he is regarded as warm and affable.

In his 40 years as a lawyer, he acted for both unions and management in labor disputes and on several occasions as arbitrator. He served as counsel for several royal commissions and was offered elevation to the bench.

He was born in Victoria, Sept. 14, 1893. His father, a newspaper man, died when he was five and his mother brought up the family. As a youth, he assisted in financing his way through university and law school in British Columbia.

He went overseas in the First World War and won the Military Cross and Bar, doesn't say what for. The army, however, says he received the MC for "coolness and bravery under fire on a patrol in France, and the bar with the parties and settle down for "conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty" with his battery although painfully wounded.

At 48, he enlisted again to serve in the Second World War, entering the Judge Advocate general's branch. He ended the war as a colonel and senior Canadian legal officer in Field Marshal Montgomery's staff in Northwest Europe.

Cobourg Judge Will Supervise County Courts

TORONTO (CP) — Judge Arthur Roy Willmott of Cobourg, today was appointed as Ontario's first chief judge of the county and district courts in the province.

A joint announcement from Ottawa and Queen's Park said it is the first time Ontario's county and district court system—which predates Confederation—has had a chief judge.

Judge Willmott was appointed as a county and district court judge July 9, 1959, for the province as a whole, becoming Ontario's first "roving judge."

The position of chief judge for the county and district courts was created by an amendment at the last session of the legislature, following recommendations contained in a report last fall by Eric Silk, assistant deputy attorney-general.

Judge Willmott's duties in his new post will be partly judicial and partly administrative. He will likely try cases throughout Ontario and will preside over the annual meetings held by the judges of each district, where problems will be discussed and sitting schedules set for the ensuing 12 months.

Suspend Board Of Hospital At Montreal

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has suspended the board of management of Pierre Gendron Hospital in Montreal, and ordered the setting up of a trustee in a new one into the institution.

The inquiry will seek to determine whether there is, in fact, one, the 48-bed hospital's founder and chairman of the board of management, has been involved in "embezzlement of public funds paid for hospitalization purposes."

Making the announcement after a cabinet meeting Thursday, Premier Lesage said the hospital ignored an inquiry commission's recommendation May 2 that Dr. Dionne and the whole board of management be replaced.

Commissioner Judge Edouard Tellier, in his report to the government had said Dr. Dionne was a "speculator" and "profiteer" who had made $430,000 from land deals involving the province institutions and its contractors in a public hospital.

Judge Tellier will also carry out the new inquiry.

Plan to Spend 'Every Last Penny' To Give Limbless Son a Chance

SARNIA (CP) — A 15-year-old girl has given the parents of an armless and legless baby a new source of inspiration to give birth to a deformed baby after taking the drug.

In London, Ont., where one thalidomide baby has been born, a city doctor said he believes legal action is being considered against both the doctors who administered thalidomide and firms which marketed it.

Woman Dies In Wreckage Of Seaplane

MEAFORD, Ont. (CP) — A Toronto woman died Thursday in the wave-swept wreckage of a seaplane that cracked up and sank in the wind-tossed waters of Georgian Bay outside Meaford harbor. The pilot and seven passengers were rescued.

Dead is Ingrid Zum Tobel, 34, wife of the pilot, Wolfgang Zum Tobel, also 34. The other passenger was identified as Rudy Herzig.

Waves 10 feet high lashed the single - engine Cessna as it bounced off the outside harbor wall.

Rescuers spotdons snapped off and the fuselage had started to slip below the surface by the time bathcoast Cliff Richardson of Meaford arrived in a 30-foot cabin cruiser.

Mr. Richardson got the two men into the boat but before they could reach the pilot's wife the fuselage went down.

The pilot, a refrigeration specialist, had flown here to inspect an installation his company had made at a Meaford store.

Yanks Blast Bosox, Up Lead To 3

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Ralph Houk of New York's Yankees has a problem that would be welcomed by every other manager in major league baseball. What should he do with Tony Kubek?

The versatile Kubek, the Yanks' regular shortstop last season and rated by many as the best outfielder on the team, is scheduled to be released from military duty Wednesday and rejoin the American League leaders next Friday.

He is much too good to be kept off the team, but it will be difficult to find a spot for him. It's all the fault of Tom Tresh and Hector Lopez.

The switch-hitting Tresh, who won Kubek's vacated shortstop job, is performing ably in a fashion that makes him a top contender for rookie-of-the-year honors. He is hitting .278 and is on a 16-game hitting streak.

LOPEZ IMPROVES

Lopez in left field, long a trouble spot for the Yanks, has snapped out of the batting slump that plagued him last season and is showing rapid improvement in defensive play.

He is hitting .264, a climb of almost 20 points in the last month.

Tresh and Lopez continued their hot hitting in Thursday's 13-3 rout of Boston. Red Sox Tresh belted his ninth homer of the season and a single. Lopez drove in four runs with a double and a single.

The Yanks, who have won 12 of their last 14 games, knocked off Boston's Gene Conley with an eight-run third inning and the Chicago league lead in three games over Los Angeles Angels.

Clete Boyer's two-run homer climaxed the big inning against the six-foot-eight righthander. Conley (8-10) forced in two runs with bases - loaded walks and gave up two-run doubles to Elston Howard and Dale Long.

The Yanks added two runs off reliever Hal Kolstad in the fifth frame on Lopez' double and singles by Howard, Long and Boyer. Tresh's homer featured the three-run sixth that ran the score to 13-0.

Rookie Jim Bouton (4-2) had a four-hit shutout going into the seventh inning when Boston chased him with a three-run burst. Bob Turley finished up.

Bob Johnson's solo homer in the ninth inning prevented Chicago's Ray Herbert (10-6) from gaining his first shutout of the season.

The White Sox jumped on Washington's Bennie Daniels (4-11) for two runs in the first frame, two more in the second and four in the sixth, snapping Daniels' three - game winning string. Herbert coasted after his mates had the game safely in the bag.

The Tracks

STANTON, Del. (AP) — Prohibitionists, John W. Galbreath's hope in Saturday's $250,000 Delaware Handicap, blazed through a half-mile in 46 3-5 seconds Thursday and then galloped five furlongs in :59 2-5. Indications are there will be nine starters in the world's richest race for fillies and mares.

Jerry Simon, owner - trainer of Reluctant Deb, said Ronnie Ferraro, sensational 20-year-old apprentice, will ride the Canadian four-year-old in the race. He has 182 victories this year compared with 185 for Willie Shoemaker, who will ride C. T. Chenery's Cicada.

Dolters' Advice

Marcel Bonin Retires

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Bonin, 30-year-old left winger with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, is retiring.

He said Thursday he made the decision after doctors advised him he would be unable to play for a year because of an old hockey injury to his back. He will have to wear a special corset "indefinitely."

Bonin broke into professional hockey in 1951 with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior League. He came to the NHL with Detroit Red Wings in the 1953-53 season, later played with Boston Bruins and joined the Canadiens in the fall of 1957.

Smash World Swim Record

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Two California school girls smashed a world record at Japan's outdoor swimming and diving championships.

Donna de Varona, 14-year-old Olympian from Santa Clara, and Sharon Finneran, 16, of Los Angeles eclipsed Mike de Varona's listed world record of 5:34.5, in a qualifying heat of the 400-yard individual medley. Donna was clocked in 5:34.7—the fastest ever by a woman. Miss Finneran was timed in 5:37.4.

Death Probe Hinges on Autopsy

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Authorities say they will await an autopsy report before deciding on an inquest in the death of a young boxer in his first professional fight.

Sonny Nunez, 22, suffered a fatal blow to the head in the final moments of a four-round featherweight bout watched by his wife, Carmen, and 1,800 persons Wednesday night.

The right-handed punch was landed by Rodrigo Contreras, 19, of Tucson, Ariz., also making his professional debut.

The death was the eighth in boxing this year.

The 128-pound Nunez reached his feet after being counted out but collapsed in the arms of his trainer, Billy Sparks. Nunez, in a deep coma, was taken to a nearby hospital but never regained consciousness.

A surgeon, who worked on Nunez 40 minutes, said the boxer suffered brain damage and was hemorrhaging heavily.

Great Rush Is on to Grab Agency Rights From MCA

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's the greatest scramble for properties since the Oklahoma land rush!"

This was the exuberant comment of a Hollywood agent this week as he raced as for the right remains of Music Corporation of America, in this race the properties are not prairie farm land but the commissions of movie stars.

Asic what agent wouldn't put on some speed for 10 per cent of Marlon Brando?

To comprehend the situation, you've got to understand the agency business, which takes some understanding. In the early days of Hollywood actors would handle their own jobs. But as they grew more important, stars felt the need of a go-between to put them better deals with producers.

Hence the agent, who collected 10 per cent of his clients' salaries for everything from negotiating to babysitting.

Agencies were minor adjuncts to the business until Jules Stein moved in with MCA in the 1930s. By the 1950s MCA was controlling the most powerful force in Hollywood. The government slapped MCA with an anti-trust suit two weeks ago.

BREAK UP AGENCY

The government said MCA had to break up the agency. The outcome today, which since turned to television filming, was planning to do so anyway. The screen actors guild would no longer let MCA be both agent and producer. Besides, commissions amounted to only 10 per cent of the annual take.

MCA is about as informative as the Russian embassy, so it's plans for divesting the agency weren't known. "I think that's a mistake," one big client, Kirk Douglas, said recently. "I think we should be let in on what is going to happen."

MCA waited too long. Instead of an orderly transfer of clients into a new agency run by former MCA executives, the business had to be thrown up for grabs. This was the result of an agreement with the justice department, which is still suing for termination of MCA's merger with Decca-Universal Pictures.

The agency wing of MCA brought in $8,443,687 last year, so you can understand the scramble.

All over town actors are being wined, dined, gifted, cajoled and flattered to get them to join new and established agencies.

Army Cadets Win Shoot In Britain

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Army Cadet rifle team, shooting against a top-sided British cadet team at the Bisley rifle ranges in England, has won the Alexander Graham Bell Trophy, army headquarters announced.

In a hard-fought match, the Canadian cadets edged the British team to win by a point with a score of 749. It was the third time Canada has won the trophy since it was presented for competition in 1954 by the former director of militia and cadets, the late Col. D. B. Buell of Brockville.

Since the presentation, the Canadian cadets have competed annually against British cadets, winning in 1955 and 1960.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Could it be that the public relations fraternity of the Kingston Frontenacs hockey club, in particular, and the Eastern Professional Hockey League, in general, dead or alive, are slipping?

Gadzooks, it is not possible that they have been scooped by an out-of-town and faraway sports columnist!

Furthermore, is it possible that the dynamic Wren Blair, he of the blonde forelock, has been holding out on them—and keeping the juicy scoops within his immediate family?

I have the printed proof of—take of the above whichever you prefer.

This paragraph appeared in Blair's column of Saturday of last week: quote—

"Kingston fans were so upset when news first broke the EPHL likely would cease operations, that some of the more emotional followers in a moment of delirium offered to pay the entire league's debts in Kitchener, Sault Ste. Marie, etc." unquote.

Now, podner, that's downright unfair of Four-Gun Wren to keep that all-fired important information from the loyal Kingston public.

And just imagine how the keepers of the shook-up exchequers of the Rangers, Black Hawks and Red Wings must feel not to know that untold thousands of dollars were within their grasp.

A few hooped-up fans running around offering to pay a quarter-million in life-saving swag with no takers because of no public relations? Ah, me, 'tis a strange world.

Columnist Blair raps the Toronto Leafs for washing their hands financially of the EPHL. Writes he: "Why don't they shelf this financial failure (Rochester American) and get in the act of putting the EPHL across, which under tentative plans, will not cost any one organization too much letters?"

Sports editor Len (Kitchener Record) Taylor sees it differently. Says he: "The Rangers will need enough local people to handle about $750,000 in losses if they come back to Kitchener auditorium."

Says Blair: "Detroit Red Wings haven't declared their intention financially or otherwise. They probably lost a few dollars in Sudbury last season, but now are looking elsewhere."

Says Taylor: "Hurting more than the Toronto refusal to join the EPHL is the withdrawal of the Red Wings. They have pulled completely out, which means financing will have to be done by four clubs."

Says Blair: "Several suggestions have been made which would be to the league's advantage such as player age-limits, roster limits, salary limits and other important aspects."

Says Taylor: "Some attempt is being made to cut back the expenditures by reducing the quality of play. How can the team operators, who couldn't sell a better brand of hockey, hope to peddle something that isn't as good in a league which has received all the unfavorable publicity that the EPHL has had in the past six months?"

But Taylor has a point when he says: "If the EPHL was only able to average 3,700 a game in Kitchener last winter, how can it be expected that an inferior product will do even as well next winter?"

And, by the way, word from Windsor has it that Red Wings' manager, Sid Abel, has told Windsor sports officials that the Detroit Red Wings won't permit Windsor to have a minor pro hockey entry which is one reason why Windsor men were working so hard to bring back an improved brand of senior hockey.

Canadian Henley

St. Kitts Holds Lead

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines, host rowing club and defending champion at the four-day Royal Canadian Henley regatta, went into a scheduled heavy with final events today holding a 52-point lead over its nearest rival, West Side of Buffalo.

St. Catharines Thursday stroked its way from bottom to top of the 16-club standings with victories in two eight-oar events. The host club had 82 points at the end of the second day to West Side's 40.

Brockville Rowing Club led Leander of Hamilton by a canoe was going into the Thursday program, with 28.5 points to 25.

Climax of today's 21-race schedule, including 13 finals, promised to be the quarter-mile sprint for eights.

BROCKVILLE SHOWS

St. Catharines put three crews into the eights dash final in preliminary heats Thursday, and two West Side crews qualified. Brockville captured the sole remaining lane in the final.

The St. Catharines No. 3 eight turned in the fastest time in the heats, clocking 7 minutes 7 seconds over the quarter mile. But the club's first crew was beaten in another heat by West Side's No. 1 eight.

Two eight-oar finals went to St. Catharines. Harry Mansfield stroked the 155-pound crew to a two-boat win over Detroit Rowing Club in the junior 155s. Doug Mackie was at stroke for the St. Catharines entry in the junior 125 pound event and scored a one-length win over Leander.

WEST SIDE WINS

West Side's lone victory in nine finals came in the junior 155-pound fours, with Paul Dilzik stroking his crew to a two-length margin over St. Catharines.

Lake Washington Rowing Club of Seattle pulled off a double win with Ted Nash winning the junior singles and stroke John Poitras led his crew to victory in the junior fours with con-

Knudson Tops Starry Field

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP) — George Knudson, a 143-pound, bespectacled golfer from Toronto who spent weeks getting himself up for the Canadian Open championship, carried a two-stroke lead over a starry international field into the second round of the tournament today.

Knudson slashed his way through international rain and thunderstorms, placing his approach shots with deadly accuracy, for a five-under-par 67 Thursday in the first round of the $20,000 classic.

But the opening round was a disappointment for South Africa's Gary Player, U.S. PGA champ. He disqualified himself for turning in a wrong score.

Player was disconsolate over the situation when he realized long after his round that he had taken a seven at the par-five 10th hole instead of a six as he had reported in finishing his first round of the open with a 75, far behind the leaders.

Playing with power — hitting Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, and veteran Bob Rosburg of Portland Ore., Knudson matched almost par and par golf off the tees, then picked up his lead with his ability to hit the greens and sink key putts.

A gallery of 400 that started following the star threesome to watch Nicklaus, winner of the U.S. Open, exclaimed in applauding Knudson's every shot on the back nine as he shot four birdies.

FOUR AT 69

Coming in with 69s were Bobby Rose of Milwaukee, Don Fairfield of Perdido Bay, Fla., Ron Thomas of Durham, N.C., and George Bayer of Miami.

Nicklaus, one of the pre-tournament favorites on grounds that the open fairways of the Laval-sur-le-Lac course would suit his booming game, was grouped with four other players at 70. They included veteran Nick Weslock of Toronto, the low amateur in the tournament, Will Hamende of Winnipeg, who came home in 33 after being one over par on the front nine, Bob Shave, Jr., of Willoughby, Ohio, and Dave Hill of Jackson, Mich.

Al Balding, a veteran tournament competitor from Toronto, fired a 71, coming in with a three-under-par 33 on the back nine.

LEONARD OFF

Two other Canadian favorites, veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Al Johnston of Montreal, were well off the pace with a 76 and 79 respectively.

The rain that started Wednesday night hit with violent bursts throughout most of the day, leaving pools of water in the fairways and sand traps and turning the greens into virtual sponges. Play ceased for an hour shortly after noon when lightning started flashing and the players headed for shelter.

The forecast for today was clearing skies after a cloudy morning.

It was after the hour delay that Knudson got hot.

Suns Blank Leafs 2-0, Bisons Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One minor league looks much like another in Cliff Cook the baseball-playing third baseman, most valuable player in the American Association last year, teed off on International League pitching Thursday night.

Cook only recently sent back to the minors after hitting just .222 in trials with Cincinnati Reds and New York Mets of the National League, lashed out a homer and a double for four runs batted in to lead Syracuse Chiefs in a 10-7 victory over Richmond Virginians in the first game of a doubleheader.

In the second game, Cook got three more hits, including a triple, and drove three more runs across as the Chiefs swept to a 12-5 decision.

BLANK LEAFS

The first-place Jacksonville Suns blanked the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs 3-0 behind Ron Taylor's two-hitter, Buffalo Bisons posted a five-game losing skid with a 4-1 triumph over Columbus Jets belted Rochester Red Wings 8-4.

Taylor, a rookie from Leaside, Ont., a suburb of Toronto, allowed only two singles—by Denis Menke in the second inning and Mike Kramich in the ninth.

It was his third shutout of the season, all by 2-0 scores. Mike De La Hoz provided the winning margin with a two-run homer in the seventh inning.

The victory was costly, however, as Jacksonville outfielder Chico Alvarez was hit on the hand by a pitch in the second inning and likely will be lost for the rest of the regular season, with a broken bone. The Suns lost outfielder Tony Curry earlier this month with a shoulder separation.

Tiger Ready To Meet Fullmer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger, Nigeria's middleweight champion, arrives from London Saturday delighted to have his chance at the world crown and confident he will take it.

The 30-year-old British Empire middleweight champion meets NBA titleholder Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, at San Francisco Aug. 27.

"Fullmer is a tough and strong fighter but I feel I will win. He is fighter and I like to fight a fighter," he said. Tiger, who has won his last seven fights, is ranked as the No. 1 contender.

Six Teams In Salaried Seniors

KITCHENER (CP) — A six-team salaried Senior A Ontario Hockey Association Series has been formed.

In the league are Windsor Bulldogs, Chatham Maroons, Sarnia Rams, Woodstock Athletics, Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers and Galt Terriers. All six clubs were members of last year's OHA Senior series in which there was no A or B classification and which operated on a share-the-wealth basis.

Two other members of last season's loop, Stratford Indians and Strathroy Rockets, were not represented at Thursday night meeting and are not planning to enter. Both hope to operate in a new Senior B league now being formed, major convener C. G. (Pat) Fetterly of Guelph said.

Three other teams considered for the Senior A loop, Belleville, Toronto Marcedonia and Toronto G and H, were not present.

Sam Fox, representing Windsor, said Belleville might be interested in joining the new league but would only be able to play weekend games. Macedonians are reported going Junior A and G and H felt it wasn't ready for Senior A.

LEAVE DOOR OPEN

Delegates decided to go ahead with the six teams represented and to consider Belleville's application fi and when that city has mirror one.

All six clubs will try to form affiliations with Intermediate teams to obtain players and financial aid. For reported the Bulldogs have already formed an affiliation with Detroit Red Wings of the Midget class.

A deadline of Aug. 15, was set for entry fees and $1,000 bond which each team in the league must post.

Delegates passed a motion calling for a 30-game schedule and voted in favor of setting up a league fund which could be used to help out any teams encountering financial difficulties during the season.

Harold Ribbe, representing Galt Terriers, said his team will definitely play in Galt this season. Earlier reports said that the team might amalgamate with Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers.

'Sick Over' Wrong Score Situation

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Open golf championship today was without the crowd's favorite as Gary Player was eliminated by disqualification for turning in a wrong score.

The South African wizard—described as "absolutely sick" over his position—reported the situation himself to Royal Canadian Golf Association officials several hours after the first-round play at the suburban Laval-sur-le-Lac course.

Player, fresh from winning the United States Professional Golfers' Association championship last week, was disconsolate over the situation when he realized long after his round that he had taken a seven at the par-five 10th hole instead of a six as he had reported in finishing his first round of the open with a 75. He was eight strokes behind the leader, Toronto pro George Knudson.

The Johannesburg golfer told Ken Venturi, in the same threesome, to score the 10th as a six. Later, when reviewing his round with Bruce Devlin of Australia, Player said it suddenly struck him that he had taken a seven and not a six.

The 10th hole where Player disqualified himself is a 510-yard par three.

Player was said to have put his second shot under a pine tree. He just barely touched the ball in trying to get out with a putter.

Then he chipped out to the fairway with the putter and then pitched to the green. It took him two putts to get down in what appeared to be a seven.

He reported a six.

Daily Double At Harness Meet Saturday

The Quinte Driving and Riding Club will complete its six-meet schedule at the Belleville Fairgrounds Saturday night with what is expected to be the biggest meet of the season.

Five classified races have been scheduled and the top horses in this part of the province will be competing in the ten heats.

The pari-mutuel betting system, which has proved a decided success here this year, will again be in operation and a special attraction has been added.

A "daily double" will be run on the first two races and should be popular with those who like to back their choices with a bet or two. Longshots have sent more than one fan home with an extra dollar in his pocket and a smile on his face to date this summer.

The race for points among the individual drivers has also made for keen competition and all will be out to better their totals Saturday.

The first heat is slated to get underway at 6.30 o'clock, under the floodlights.

Club officials have paid special tribute to Mrs. Marjorie Steele, of Belleville, who has done an excellent job as Perwee Marshall for all meets this summer.

Reds Win Nine Straight, Inching Up

By MIKE EATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The aura of sickness seems to be building again at Cincinnati, where the stricken Reds have reeled off nine consecutive victories and inched toward the top in defence of their National League pennant.

Fred Gladding's aged, pro-dancing new heroes each day while putting together its longest victory string of the season, whipped Pittsburgh 5-3 Thursday night and clouted either a game of the third-place Pirates.

The Pirates got off to a 1-0 lead against the Reds when Bob Skinner homered in the first inning, but Lynch came back with a two-run blast in the bottom half that sent Cincinnati ahead to stay.

LAW'S GAME

Frank Robinson's run-producing single and a two-run homer by Coleman in the fifth wrapped it up for the Reds and Johnny Klippstein. The Pirates' fourth pitcher allowed only eight hits until relieving in the eighth. Vern Law (8-6) was charged with the defeat.

Spahn (10-11) struck out five Mets and moved into seventh place on the all time list with 2,274, surpassing the 2,271 strikeouts recorded by Lefty Grove. He also hit his first homer of the season—he holds the NL career record for a pitcher with 31—en route to his 183rd victory.

Hank Aaron hit his 27th homer in support of Spahn, who lost his bid for a shutout when Jim Hickman singled and Marv Throneberry doubled with two out in the eighth.

The Reds and Braves—hottest teams in the league at the moment—meet tonight at Cincinnati when Spahn struggle resumes with a seven-game schedule. The Dodgers end game stay at Los Angeles.

Johnny Podres (4-7) will try to protect the Dodgers' consecutive game margin against Juan Marichal (13-4).

Champ Must 'Defend' Or Else

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The chairman of the world championships committee of the National Boxing Association has told Davey Moore he must defend his featherweight title "against the best available challenger" or lose the crown.

The warning came in a letter from chairman Paul Sullivan Thursday to Moore's manager, Willie Ketchum of Hemet, Calif.

Sullivan said if Moore doesn't commit himself to a title defense against a high-ranking challenger, he will recommend to the committee Aug. 20 at Tacoma, Wash., that the title be declared vacant and a tournament be arranged to find a new champion. Moore's last defence was against Kazuo Takayama Nov. 13, 1961.

Manny's Money For Homers, Not Singles

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) Owner Charles O. Finley of Kansas City Athletics has ordered Manny Jimenez to start hitting the long ball again.

Finley, laid up after Mayo Clinic surgery, said in an interview he had telephoned field manager Hank Bauer and told him: "I don't pay Jimenez to hit singles."

Jimenez is a "smart Cuban and he's going for singles and a bellie average," Finley told Bauer. "You get him in your office and get another Cuban to interpret and bang your fist on the desk. We'll see what happens."

Jimenez, who has led American League batting much of the season, now is in second place with .327. Pete Runnels of Boston leads with .340.

At Kansas City, Bauer said he had relayed Finley's order to Jimenez.

"I have to agree with Charley to a certain extent on this," Bauer said. "Jimenez has only 86 runs batted in in the past two months and right now is more or less what I would call a one-dimensional batter."

"I called Manny in after I talked with Charley and I told him Finley pays more money to owners than to coaches for singles.

"All Manny said was, 'I try, I try.'"

Als Blast Bombers 53-0

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes exploded for 39 points in the second half to whip Winnipeg Blue Bombers 53-0 in exhibition football Thursday night.

The Alouettes, last in the Eastern conference in 1961, broke a 21-game string of road wins by the Bombers, last year's Grey Cup champions.

Fullback George Dixon, hampered by injuries last season, led the Alouettes with only two touchdowns in the first half on drives up the middle for 18 and 21 yards.

Second-half touchdowns were scored by halfback Dick Cohee, rookie end Jason Harness, Bobby Lee Thompson, rookie halfback from University of Arizona, end Ron Dundas and defensive halfback Billy Ware, who scored on a 71-yard pass interception.

Rookie end Martin Fabi kicked two singles for the Alouettes with the only two conversions from six of seven converts and connected on a 37-yard field goal.

The Als were led by rookie quarterback Sandy Stephens, who left the game early in the third quarter with Montreal leading 24-0. Joe Francis, Gerry Thomykins and rookie Cal Connor all were used from then on.

The Bombers got effective passing from Kenny Ploen, who completed two of five attempts for 41 yards before leaving the game in the second quarter.

CROFTON — Mrs. D. B. Munro spent Tuesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vangasen at Glenora.

Mrs. K. Crook was a guest of Mrs. Harry Foster at Scotch on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Calnan and Mrs. E. Crook were among those to attend the "Twilight Night" at Mr. Jarad Dennard's home near Wellington, put on by the Holstein Friesian Association.

Mr. Skidmore of Napanee showed pictures of his trip through New Zealand which were very interesting and the ladies of Asbury and Concession showed and modelled the hats they had made through the Women's Institute.

Refreshments of cake, ice cream and chocolate milk were served by the association.

Mrs. W. J. Gray is spending some time with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray, at Deseronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Barr, Carrie Ann and Brock of Foxboro were Saturday evening visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Munro.

Mrs. George Hutson returned home from Burlington on Thursday.

Banks Will End Overdrafts On September 1

TORONTO (CP)—Overdrafts, the system under which a customer is sometimes allowed to draw cheques for more money from an account than is in it, will be abolished in Canadian chartered banks Sept. 1, according to reliable reports in banking circles here.

Advice, it is understood, will be sent to customers concerned about July 31.

One banking source described overdrafts as an "unlikely" way of doing business that has been bothering banks for some time. He added:

"If a man has a note at the bank, he has a definite liability, bearing a definite rate of interest and a definite maturity and he knows where he stands and the bank knows where it stands.

GO TOO FAR

"With an overdraft, the customer never knows when it may be cut off and, from the bank's point of view, some customers have a tendency to push the accommodation further than it is intended to go."

Bank advice, apparently, will be to make definite loan arrangements.

The timing of the decision is understood to have some relation to present money scarcity in the sense a banker commented, that this is a time to make the best use of all the money available.

Some leeway from the Sept. 1 deadline, it is understood, may be made in cases of customers who need a little more time to make other arrangements.

GREAT RIVER

The Columbia River runs a total of 1,150 miles, the first 464 miles in Canada and the rest to its outlet on the U.S. Pacific Coast.

Wooler

WOOLER — Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Rattan and family of Waterford, are spending a few days with his father, Mr. Arthur Rattan.

Miss Jimison of Kingston, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McMaster.

Mrs. Jamie Scott with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Austin are camping at Weslemkoon Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hobbs were guests of Mrs. Mable Gerow and Cecil, at Smithfield, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Way of Ottawa, also Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Way of London, spent the weekend with their father, Mr. J. J. Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Putnam, June and Jerrilyn visited Mr. and Mrs. Art Putnam at Deer Lake, on Sunday.

Cora Valentine spent Tuesday at Bloomfield visiting friends.

Mrs. Way of Brighton, spent the weekend with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Art Dorland. Margaret Dorland accompanied her grandmother home to spend the week.

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—Excellent for making contacts at gatherings. Arrange meetings at home. Going too far afield could cause inconvenience. You will want to have certain facts within easy reach.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Much in your favor. But all is not obvious. You may have to drive ahead without clear outline of prospects. But cycle indicates you should act. Problems become clear tonight.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Being skeptical fine if you don't "frighten away" prospects. This a time to be diplomatic. Avoid superficial solutions, judgments. Member of opposite sex could make this a most pleasant day.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Cycle moving up. Opportunity for pleasure, vacation, professional advancement very apparent. Today you must "grasp out"! Notice to be restricted. Seek chance to exhibit talents.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Wise you say may be "on the record". Keeping this, choose words carefully! Maintain sense of humor, but make sure others are also laughing. Plus for entertaining and being entertained.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—Now you can make your point to those in authority. If you want to "sell" you will find that ideas are put forth which ultimately prove profitable. Be alert. Grab opportunity.

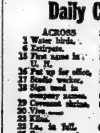
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—If you attempt to fly too high you may be in for a "fall". But if you go step by step, this could be significant day. Seek advice of family member. Heart-to-heart talk pays dividends!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Favorable lunar aspects promises clarification of recent "puzzles". Long-range view advised. Refuse so-called bargains. Seek values designed to last and give service. Tonight you should shine!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Budget matters, investments demand attention early. Check details, arrive at decisions. Later, be with harmonious persons so you can relax. Let Sagittarian frankness come to fore.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be progressive rather than look back at past. If you have chance for happiness through new association tonight, take it. Like Aries, new friends could give much help.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Accept friends, fellow workers as they are instead of trying to change them. What you say may be "held against you". So be diplomatic. Try to understand instead of seeking only to be understood.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—Now you can benefit from recent attention to details. Tonight very good for getting out, for being entertained and for turning on Pisces charm. Grant favor if it is asked such action promises to "pay off".

If today is your birthday ... you are dynamic, original and have intense desire to succeed. Success, for you, means admiration of friends, business associates. You can never be "ordinary" and happy.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Gemini, Cancer, Leo. Responsibility is key word today. Those who have been extravagant are called to task. Those who make claims are called upon to produce.

Britons in Nazi Uniforms Assemble in Dingy House, To Vilify Negroes, Jews

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP)—Men in Nazi uniforms gather daily in a dingy London house to practise unarmed combat and vilification of Negroes and Jews. The National Socialist Movement wants a white, Gentile Britain at any cost.

John Tyndall, 28-year-old national secretary, is a pale man with watery eyes who fulfills membership requirements by being of "pure British or kindred Northern European racial ancestry." He quit his salesman job to devote his life to "cleansing Britain of the Judo-African scourge."

Headquarters of the NSM looks like a grade B movie set. Members of the "spearhead" executive lean casually against an ugly fireplace and gaze up at a painting of a Nazi war lord. Swastikas glow on their chests. This is the home of Hitler's disciples.

Tyndall blames Jews and Negroes for all the world's ills and says that when his party "takes over in about 10 years" all non-Aryans will be "evacuated from the civilized world."

ATTACKS THE TWIST

Although the NSM has fewer than 300 members, Tyndall speaks confidently.

"The deterioration of the present social, moral and political system will continue," he said mechanically as he stared out of the window. And he spoke of "decadence" which includes, for example, the twist.

"This alien dance cult from the African jungles has been forced upon the world by the Jewish - dominated entertainment industry which fosters the decline of culture for its own profit."

A photographer wanted a picture and Tyndall interrupted his tirade against "the mass subculture" to put on his uniform. But first he switched on a phonograph.

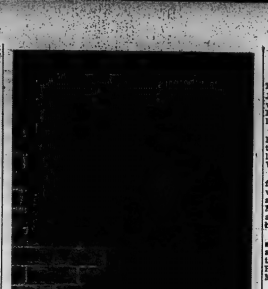
"I don't know whether you like marching music or not ..." he mused as he left. Nazi war songs blaring behind him.

MANY TEEN-AGERS

When he marched back in facsimile Nazi uniform with boots which he admitted were British Army surplus, he paused before a colored picture of Hitler and then resumed his spiel.

NSM members who fought against Hitler in the Second World War, he said, now realize they were wrong. He explained the Nazi campaign of mass-murder as "Jewish lies."

"Hitler roped in the riff-raff and put them into camps. Some may have died of starvation, but there was a food shortage."



There was another interruption by a small, angry man who demanded records of his daughter's membership be destroyed. Tyndall agreed, and later admitted such parental complaints were not unusual. A large number of members are teen-agers.

Britain has always been conscious of free speech and has remained unusually indifferent to fascist hate-campaigns which have risen and fallen here for 30 years. But lately even members of Parliament suggest there is a limit.

RIOTED IN LONDON

The NSM held a meeting in Trafalgar Square July 1 and 20 persons were arrested after a riot which everybody expected. Thousands of Britons stood as much of the anti-semitism as they could. Then they shrieked insults and finally threw whatever was handy at the small band of fascists.

This violence was the beginning of what looks like a long verbal battle over the rights of free speech. Home Secretary R. A. Butler summed up the government dilemma: "I deplore the disorder . . . and even more the obnoxious doctrines expressed. But we must not put ourselves in a position of lightly restricting free speech."

BRITISH NAZI LEADER — Dressed in the official uniform of Britain's Nazi party—the National Socialist Movement—national secretary John Tyndall, 28, stands before a portrait of the late Arnold S. Leese, one-time head of the Imperial Fascist League. The pictures of Hitler, hang in the dingy London headquarters of the party. Tyndall blames Jews and Negroes for all the world's problems. (CP Photo).

"I have always left my politics at home," he said bitterly, "and all this leads to dismissal then I must wave the mantle of a martyr. Meanwhile I'll have more time to get back at my enemies."

The NSM loves publicity. Although most of the reports of the July 1 riot were viciously anti-fascist clippings covey two huge bulletin boards in Tyndall's offices.

OPPOSE ECM

"There is no such thing as bad publicity," Tyndall said. "Our membership has increased greatly since the demonstration."

Among the clippings is a telegram from Lincoln Rockwell, commander of the American Nazi party, Wishing the NSM good luck, it bears the greeting "Heil Hitler!"

Tyndall fingered his swollen eye where a coin hit him during the riot, leaned back in a twisted chair and stretched. His boots and leather harness creaked.

"Our plans for the Commonwealth include white supremacy of course. And we oppose the Common Market. Jews and Negroes would benefit and the white Commonwealth countries would suffer. And we oppose the excessive economic control that Jewish Industrialists in the United States have over, Canada."

As you leave headquarters, heavy wire grills over windows and doors catch your eye.

"We must be prepared," Tyndall explained grimly. "At any time the Jews and Negroes . . ."

Govt. Is Pleased With Emergency Program Results

Exchange Reserves Up, Dollar Holding Firm

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance department officials are breathing easier these days with Canada's foreign exchange reserves growing once again and the dollar holding firm on exchange markets.

Mr. Fleming broke his customary silence on the subject Friday by a brief comment:

"We're well pleased with the results that have been achieved by the emergency program."

The minister and the department are unconcerned about the state of exchange reserves little more than a month after the massive drain—it was announced June 24 to stem a flight of capital on exchange fund. Only month - end figures are made public, and the July 31 report is expected to be issued of next week.

It is known that the reserves increased by $58,000,000 from commercial transactions in the last week of June, after hitting a critically low point of $1,100,000,000.

An indication of what has been happening since is the drop of $13,000,000 in government cash during the two weeks to July 15, the latest figure.

The government's cash balance reflects a variety of transactions, including normal spending and tax revenue. Increases in this figure, such as the $60,000,000 drop shouldn't be taken as a measure of dollars actually used buying U.S. dollars to fatten the exchange reserves.

But they say it indicates some large purchases of U.S. dollars, just as sharp increase in government cash earlier this year signalled the heavy decline in foreign exchange reserves.

On top of this, the exchange fund got another $200,000,000 U.S. dollars from the mid-July payment by France of $60,000,000 on a post-war debt to Canada.

Meanwhile the exchange rate on the Canadian dollar was held fairly steadily recently at about 92½ cents U.S., one quarter cent away from the par. The parity rate fixed May 2, 1961, at the end of the month there was $1,908,700,000 in the exchange fund, including the $300,000,000 loan from the International Monetary Fund and $500,000,000 from the U.S. reciprocal exchange "swap" with United States and British central banks.

Both must be repaid and there's a government-fixed limit on repayment. The government officials say they prefer to repay them ahead of the due date because of the effects of the loans on the confidence within the financial community.

Meanwhile, informants say, it is too early to know clearly the effects of the new budgetary measures adopted June 24. The budget, exchange controls, reports, governments spending cuts, and higher interest rates on borrowing.

WON'T TESTIFY

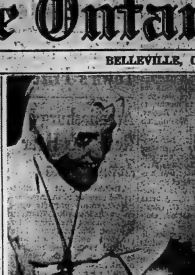
OTTAWA (CP)—An aide to Prime Minister Diefenbaker says he is sure the prime minister won't give up Trnyl, B.C., to appear as a defence witness at the trial of five Sons of Freedom Doukhobor women charged with public nudity and disturbing at an election rally. The women's counsel asked him to appear. But Mr. Diefenbaker declined comment on the request Friday.

Girl Hurt at Calgary Stampede Says Grafted Arm 'Feels Good'

CALGARY (CP)—As chipper as any teen-ager, 17-year-old Hazel Doulin of Kelseyville, Calif., says the plane Calgary surgeons pieced together in a rare operation "feels good."

In her hospital room since July 10 accident at the Calgary Stampede, she said: "I think when her left arm was almost severed at the shoulder in a 50-foot-fall, Hazel said Friday.

"There's lots of feeling it it but the hand, the arm. I'm pretty sure it will be successful."



It was believed to be the third time in medical history that a limb has been grafted on a person's body with apparent success.

Hazel received a telegram Friday from 91-year-old Everett Knowles Jr. of Boston, whose right arm was re-attached by surgeons in an historic operation there in May.

He told her: "The best of luck and please keep your courage up."

The Boston boy's arm was severed by a train May 23 and grafted by another surgical team. Dr. George Miller and orthopedic surgeon Dr. Glen Edwards grafted the severed bone together, repaired a number of veins and arteries, attached the muscles and replaced nerve fibres before suturing the wound.

Further surgery will be necessary, the doctors said, but the arm appears healthy.

FEELING FINE — Hazel Doulin, 17, the California girl whose arm was reattached in a "miracle" operation after it was almost severed in an accident while she was on a midway ride July 10, is confident she will regain complete use of the limb. Here, her arm in a mandrex cast, she chats with Sister Hetty, operating room supervisor at Holy Cross Hospital. (CP Wirephoto).

UN DIPLOMATS FLAY APARTHEID IN MANDATE

Suggest UN Rule South-West Africa

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Two United Nations diplomats who toured South-West Africa last May have issued a scathing indictment of South African policy there.

They suggested that the UN might itself move to take control of the mandated territory.

They recommended that the General Assembly consider the feasibility of revoking the mandate, if necessary imposing sanctions to enforce its decision.

The envoys, Victoria Carpio of The Philippines and Dr. Senyvador Martinez de Alva of Mexico, condemned South Africa's application" of apartheid in the territory.

South African policy was in utter contradiction of the principles and purposes of the mandate, the Charter of the United Nations, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the enlightened conscience of mankind, they asserted.

MANDATED BY LEAGUE

They made their report to the special committee for South-West Africa, of which Carpio is chairman and Dr. Martinez de Alva is vice-chairman. South West Africa is administered by South Africa under a mandate from the old League of Nations.

The report contained findings that appeared to be at least in partial conflict with those advanced to Carpio and Dr. Martinez de Alva in a joint statement issued in both their names in the South African city of Pretoria last May 25.

That statement said there was no evidence of a threat to world peace in conditions in South-West Africa, as Carpio has alleged, and that the natives seemed to be progressing.

Carpio has denied authorizing the statement.

BOY SUFFOCATES

HULL, Que. (CP) — Seven-year-old Ronald Vanasse suffocated Friday, choked up in a sand heap in the back of a panel truck at his home in suburban Wrightville. The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vanasse. No inquest will be held.

Brewers, Union Dispute Settlement Is Announced

TORONTO (CP)—Only local issues remain to be settled in the dispute that threatened to face Ontario with its second beer drought in four years.

Settlement of industry - wide differences between the brewers and the Brewery, Malt and Soft Drink Workers International Union (CLC) was announced by Louis Fine, Ontario's chief conciliator.

Mr. Fine, who made the announcement after 2½ days of closed meetings, said remaining local issues will be disposed of Monday.

The provincial agreement calls for a 35-cent-an-hour wage increase over the 18-month contract. Six cents of the increase would be retroactive to last Dec. 31 when the old contract expired. There would be eight-cent raises in each of the next two years.

The agreement also gives married workers a weekly unemployment wage guarantee of $55 the first year, $56 the second year and $57 the third. Single men would receive $30 a week less.

The wage settlement represents a compromise between the union's demand for three increases of 10 cents an hour and the company offer of three six-cent raises.

The companies agreed to increase sick pay to $80 a week from $45.

Pair Swapped Identities To Fool Nazis, Reunited

NEW YORK (CP)—Eighteen years ago, an RCAF warrant officer and an American soldier swapped identities in a Nazi prisoner-of-war camp in a plot to help the Canadian escape.

The Canadian shipped out with a group of U.S. prisoners ordered transferred to another camp. He hoped to escape en route. The American remained behind, replying for the Canadian at the daily camp roll calls and risking death by a firing squad if caught.

The pair met last the two men heard of one another.

A week ago, the American, Hugo (Del) DelPretre of nearby New Milford, N.J., asked the New York bureau of the Canadian Press to help him locate former WO. Beverly Wayne Scharf, the Canadian who had traded identities with him.

He often wondered, he said, whether Scharf had "made it" after the war.

His only clue was a Sarnia address — 287 Cobden Street—scribbled by Scharf in the American's tattered pocket diary the night before Scharf shipped out of the German camp, Stalag 6, as DelPretre.

A letter was sent to the Sarnia Observer asking for help.

Friday, DelPretre received from Scharf, now living in Orange, Calif., a letter expressing his delight at receiving a long-distance call from the Sarnia newspaper, which had located him through relatives.

He, too, had often wondered whether DelPretre had survived in the camp.

No, Scharf wrote, he had not died.

Expelled by Communists, Tells of Work for RCMP

OTTAWA (CP) — Calvin M. MacDonald says he led a double life for the RCMP as a Communist in public and an RCMP informer in private.

The 30 - year - old Ottawan hitched the veil on his secret life with a run on the Toronto Dominion Bank in 1957 and ended up in a Soviet boat in the back of a panel truck at his home in suburban Wrightville. The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vanasse. No inquest will be held.

He told reporters he received money from the RCMP for his information, but "I can't say how much or how often.

He said the RCMP would probably refuse to admit he was an undercover agent. The RCMP spokesman in Ottawa Friday declined to comment.

So far, the public has come from Mr. MacDonald, a Cape Breton boy who was brought to Ottawa at the age of two and grew up here.

Mr. MacDonald, a stocky man with shaggy hair, said he worked his way up in the Communist party until he was 26 years member of the party's provincial committee.

He said he was most useful to the RCMP between 1956 and last April, making numerous reports on the activities, organization and plans of the Communist party.

He knew — and told the federal police agency — where, when and why Communist party members were travelling.

The force was one step ahead of everybody."

He said he was kicked out of the party. His expulsion was announced in a statement that attacked the RCMP. It was signed by Bruce Magnuson, Ontario Communist leader, and Osmo Hahti, provincial organizer.

To reporters, Mr. MacDonald called some of the "findings" false.

There are 22 card - carrying Communists in Ottawa and about 2,000 in the Toronto-Hamilton-Windsor area.

Communists were active in peace organizations, the Ukrainian Church and a group he called the Treelonians, Mr. MacDonald said.

Communist "cells" functioned at some universities, among Hungarian refugees at Toronto, Italians at Hamilton and Italian construction workers at Sarnia.

A man, who had Communist sympathies was a Boy Scout leader in Ottawa — even turning up at a party meeting in Scout uniform. He declined to give details or names.

His story brought a quick retort from Communist party leaders in Toronto. They accused the RCMP of using McCarthyite tactics.

"We're a public organization and we have nothing to hide," said Leslie Morris, national secretary of the Communist party of Canada.

"It's a lot of rubbish that we have something to be ferreted out—it's a bit of the McCarthy technique."

BELIEVE RIVAL ALGERIA LEADERS NEAR ACCORD

All Being Arranged Informants Declare

ALGIERS (AP) — Troops loyal to dissident Vice-Premier Ahmed Ben Bella have occupied the east Algerian seaport of Philippeville.

The new military move came as Algeria's rival political factions were reported moving toward a settlement of the leadership dispute dividing the fledgling North African nation. It remained to be seen what effect the result have on the political talks.

"All is being arranged," informed sources declared. They said an agreement was being worked out in a "climate of confidence."

The optimistic appraisal followed a meeting between moderate premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda and Mohammed Khider, special envoy and lieutenant of radical Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella. Both have availed developments in Oran.

But there was no official announcement of the meetings forward accord and there was no indication of how the seemingly irreconcilable differences of Ben Bella factions intended to settle their "divergences."

TRY TO AVOID WAR

The ministers' words appeared to be borne out by the absence of any significant military movement in either camp. The Ben Bella forces that had been reported moving on Algiers from the West apparently marched time while the talks continued.

Guerrilla units of the various opposing military factions (Ben mones) also were reported to have received orders to stop attacks inside the territory in an effort to minimize the possibility of a full-scale conflict.

"The djounouds (fighters) will not fire on other djounouds," a spokesman said.

But the third-major military force in Algeria—the 300,000-man French Army—stationed there showed signs of activity again. It was the first time since Algerian independence July 3 that French troops showed up in the street of Algiers.

ESCAPE EUROPEANS

The French troops moved in after six more Europeans had been assassinated by Moslems. The move was taken as a sign French troops meant business when they warned that week they might intervene in the fighting if necessary to protect lives and property of European settlers in the country.

Algeria's leaders also were under growing pressure from the Moslem masses weary of the squabbling that has spread chaos and confusion throughout the country. Calls for peace came from all parts of the country. The pleas were echoed by delegations joined in the appeals.

Cost of Tending Drug-Deformed Babies Becomes Political Issue

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Who should bear the cost of rearing deformed babies if so far no one, because their mothers took a special drug during pregnancy?

The question was raised in Toronto and partially answered in Ottawa.

The Toronto officials, representing religious, welfare and municipal groups, said the federal government should shoulder the responsibility for deformed babies born to mothers who took the drug thalidomide.

A federal government health department spokesman said the government has no responsibility for financial aid to families whose children have been deformed limbs are born.

The drug has been banned in Canada and several other countries. It was considered at one time an ideal drug for use in pregnancy—until its tragic side effects became apparent.

Thalidomide has been blamed for the birth of infants without arms or legs or with malformed limbs.

One case concerns a baby girl, born four fingers growing from each shoulder, feet attached to the hips, born to a Belleville mother, her first child.

The 33-year-old father, who insisted on remaining unidentified, quit some hope after his child was born without arms or legs.

"I came out of the doctor's office with more hope than when I went in," he said.

He didn't explain on what his hopes were based.

He earns $55 a week and is not covered by medical insurance.

Said Ald. Joseph Piccinnono, Toronto welfare and hospitals board of Health:

"A family could be bankrupt for life if they tried to care for such a child on their own. The federal government should accept legislation to help specific cases."

His plea was supported by others.

Spokesmen for the Ontario government said cases of thalidomide deformities are being investigated.

"Each case will be dealt with on its merits until we know the extent," said Dr. W. G. Brown, Ontario deputy health minister.

Common Market Negotiations Are Deadlocked

MACMILLAN MAY RETIRE AS PM IN SIX MONTHS

Feeling Growing Among Members

LONDON (AP)—There is a growing feeling among members of Parliament that Harold Macmillan will retire as prime minister within the next six months, British newspapers report today.

"Those who think Mr. Macmillan may go before Christmas base their estimates on the Common Market negotiations," says the pro-Labor Daily Herald.

"If Britain joins the Market, they suggest that the prime minister would make way for a successor who would tackle the difficult period in which Britain would be set.

"And if the talks break down, their view is that 68-year-old Macmillan would go to allow a younger man, such as R. A. Butler, who is 59, to meet the problems of creating a new Commonwealth pattern of trade."

The Daily Mirror says it was frankly recognized that the premier's unhappiest speech to the Big House of Commons censure debate Thursday bore all the signs of a tired man.

"In the next two or three months he will be hammering out an agreement for Britain to join the Common Market," says The Mirror.

"Success could provide him with a record of triumph on which to retire."

Reports that Macmillan might be considering retiring as prime minister in the near future became circulating two weeks ago when he staged a wholesale reshuffle of his cabinet. Macmillan fired seven of his ministers —one of the biggest peace-time purges of a government in British history.

Took Drug, Woman Bore Deformed Twins

HAMILTON (CP)—A Hamilton woman testified that she gave birth to deformed twin boys after having taken the drug thalidomide.

It was the first reported case of deformed babies connected with the drug.

The 30-year-old mother, who has also normal children, told of the tragedy after officials in Ottawa and Hamilton knew of no such cases in Hamilton.

"How can they keep saying that," asked the mother who is raising the deformed children at home and says she will never part with them.

Twin boys, Peter and Paul, were born at St. Joseph's Hospital in early January of this year. Their hands, arms and legs were severely deformed.

Although the hospital photographed the babies shortly after birth, public health nurses took down details, it was not until almost four months later the mother began to suspect the drug.

REVENUES SLIP, DEFICIT IN JUNE $72 MILLIONS

Red Ink Blots Out April, May Surplus

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal budgetary deficit of $72,700,000 for June was reported Friday night by Finance Minister Fleming in a statement showing tax revenues had slipped and expenditures risen from year - earlier levels.

The minister's regularly monthly treasury report showed a $22,000,000 surplus for the first three months of the current fiscal year as the red ink for June blotted out much of the surplus accumulated in April and May.

Mr. Fleming's last budget estimated a $746,000,000 deficit for the fiscal year ending next March 31. But the government has since said this will be reduced by tariff surcharges and government spending cuts announced June 24.

REVENUES OFF

The June deficit compares with a $24,900,000 deficit in June, 1961. Budgetary revenues slipped to $446,400,000 from $458,700,000 a year earlier, and spending rose to $519,400,000 from $513,600,000.

For the three months April-June, revenues of $1,371,200,000 were ahead of $1,260,900,000 a year earlier, while expenditures rose to $1,340,200,000 from $1,238,000,000.

The June dip in revenues was due mainly to a decline in collections of personal income tax.

Expenditures would have been even higher if they hadn't been for the new federal - provincial financial arrangement this year under which Ottawa no longer makes tax - rental payments to the provinces, Subsidies and other fiscal payments to the provinces were $52,600,000 for the three months, compared with $239,700,000 a year earlier.

CORPORATION TAX RISES

Although the new arrangement also reduced federal collections of personal and corporation income taxes, federal collections of corporation income tax rose to $319,000,000 during April-June compared with $307,800,000 a year earlier, in June they were about level with last year.

But federal collections of personal income also dropped to $432,200,000 in the three months from $454,600,000, and June collections fell to $145,200,000 from last year's $121,300,000.

Mr. Fleming also reported a June deficit of $13,800,000 in the old age security fund, which operates outside the normal budgetary accounts. This exactly offsets a surplus accumulated during April and May in the fund, which finances the $46 monthly pensions to everyone aged 70 and over.

Destroy Nearly 8,000 Hogs In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Nearly 8,000 hogs have been destroyed in Quebec since the outbreak of hog cholera two weeks ago, says Dr. Henri Trolen, provincial director of animal health services for the federal department of agriculture.

However, Dr. Trolen said Friday there are "very encouraging signs" that the epidemic will be checked soon despite new outbreaks expected next week.

Until now 25 per cent of pigs have been destroyed in Quebec and more than 200 farms have been quarantined within a one-mile radius of where infected pigs were discovered.

Dr. Trolen said the epidemic has not reached the disastrous proportions of a 1961 outbreak when some 58,000 pigs were destroyed on 408 farms throughout Quebec.

He said the Quebec epidemic started July 13 when a consignment of 200 infected hogs was placed among 2,000 healthy animals at a sale in St. Hyacinthe, 30 miles east of Montreal.

"made it." He went into the new camp with the U.S. group and was liberated by the Russians on May 21, 1945. He then fled a Russian compound and reached the American lines.

His greatest difficulty there, he said, was "to persuade the Americans that I was a Canadian." In swapping identities, Jones said he had exchanged dogtags and he was wearing the American's identification disc. He eventually reached Britain and home.

DelPrete, then a 37-year-old private in the U.S. combat engineers who was captured in fighting at St. Lo, France, was also freed, and eventually repatriated, when Soviet troops reached his camp early in 1945.

THE SECOND TRY

The escape attempt was the second for Scharf, who was 18 at the time. Shot down over Berlin in 1943 after 18 missions as a rear gunner, he was imprisoned in Camp Stalag 3M. There, he traded identities with another American, Julius Kaley of Gary, Ind., but was captured after five days of freedom.

He was sent to DelPrete's camp and proposed the escape plot to DelPrete when he heard some Americans, were to be transferred.

Both men now have families. Scharf lives in California's six years ago and now is a U.S. citizen and sales manager of a specialties equipment firm. DelPrete works for a New Jersey food company.

The men hope to get together in the future.

Twelve Hundred Doctors Got Thalidomide

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York City official quotes the U.S. food and drug administration as saying 1,206 doctors so far have received experimental supplies of thalidomide during the last three years. Dr. George James, acting health commissioner, said 70 New York City physicians received the drug, including 14 in New York City.

At least three deformed babies have been born recently to New York City area mothers who took the drug during their pregnancies, but three mothers obtained the thalidomide in Europe, rather than from U.S. physicians.

James said inspectors in New York are working to make contact with all city physicians who received the drug, as well as their patients, to locate any or it still in circulation and "place it under immediate embargo."

Ten of the 14 doctors who got the drug already have been reached, he added.

CNR Announces Changes In City Services

Canadian National Railways today announced a rearrangement of its passenger sales facilities in this area.

J. K. Fleming, passenger sales manager, Belleville, said C.N.R. will open a ticket office at the Trenton RCAF base on August 1. E. D. Whitney, currently Belleville branch manager, will go to Trenton to direct operations at the new office.

To maintain CN services in uptown Belleville, Carl Rohif, of Rohif's Travel Centre, 227 Front Street, has been appointed Canadian National agent effective August 1. The CN ticket office at 136 Front Street will be closed after business on July 31.

C of C Favors Recreation Commission

PICTON — Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce directors favor recreation in Picton being organized under a committee, also, the employment to a full time recreation director.

The matter was discussed at a meeting on Thursday to get the opinion of members. Other groups are holding similar meetings and all will meet August 2nd to decide if action is to be taken.

Necessary steps include a by-law to be passed by town council. The committee could function with or without a full-time director to become eligible for the grant, minor sport activities, craft and other clubs. It is felt the burden of supervising all recreation activities would be lightened if a full-time director could be secured, said Chamber President G. E. Morrison.

'Trenton, the Gem of the Trent' Town's Prize-Winning Slogan

TRENTON — "Trenton, the Gem of the Trent."

Calchy, isn't it? Well, that's the slogan that won the 15-year old Fred Hoover of 3 McGill Ave. in Trenton, $30, and which may, in time, become the official slogan for the town.

On Friday, a panel, of judges comprised of clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry; Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chairman of town council's Industrial and Economic Development Committee; Elmer Bonter, public relations representative for the town and Jack Goldberg, representing the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, chose Fred's slogan from among 104 submitted in a town-sponsored slogan contest. Altogether, 25 persons submitted slogans, many of them "good as image" of Trenton.

Judges were agreed that the contest had stipulated a great deal of interest in the town. Several entries were received from out-of-towners. While most of the slogans were interesting, in the opinion of the judges, a common fault was that they were "too good" to be past, too long.

Honorable mention was won by Mrs. A. Dusnala of 104 Mill St., Trenton for the slogan, "Trenton, the Town of Airways and Waterways."

While Fred's slogan was judged to be the best of the 104 suggestions, it was not accepted as an official slogan to replace the present "Trenton, the Gateway to the Trent Waterway." Or it may be modified by members of the committee.

One favourite with the judges was "The Wedding of the Waterways." This emphasized the right idea, (again according to the judges) but they'd like to find a substitute for the word "wedding."

"Trenton, truly terrific." was thought to have some merit, while "Heart of the Trent Valley," was thought to be inaccurate, as the judges opined that Campbellford is closer answer to that description rather than Trenton.

Mr. Larry said that it was regrettable that none of the slogans containing reference to modes of transportation in and around Trenton, were short and descriptive enough to use. He said that the whole history of the town was tied in with transportation in one form or another. In the early days of Trenton's history, logs were floated down the Trent to the Gilmour Lumber Mill. Later, Trenton was a railway centre, with the Canadian Pacific Railway and Grand Trunk trains running into town. Now, a provincial highways run through the town and Highway 401 is within a stone's throw of the town's northern border. To the south, is the airport, busy with planes arriving from and leaving for every part of the world, almost daily.

Mr. Goldberg said that whether the judges accepted the slogan "Gem of the Trent," as one or not, with the publicity the slogan contest had received in area newspapers, he thought it might be advised by the public, once the results of the contest were made known.

'Prayer Vigils' Lead to Jail In Georgia City

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Rev. Martin Luther King has landed in jail for the third time in nine months as the integrated city and police are looking for resumed mass demonstrations.

King and seven others whose who attempted to hold a prayer vigil in City Hall were arrested Friday. Eighteen others, including a white youth, went to jail that day for a one-hour late for a similar protest.

Led by white and Negro student non-violent coordinating committee and William Hansen, a Cincinnati white youth, the second group kneeled to pray. About 50 newsmen crowded in on stretchers after they refused to move.

Hansen and his group had stepped from cars earlier in front of City Hall "in a final effort to soften the hearts of the city commission," the group said in a statement. "This prayer vigil comes after repeated attempts to meet with the commission."

Police Chief Laurie Pritchett confronted the group, telling them that they must speak with a commission representative in groups of five or less. Without a pathy said. "If not, we will just pray here on the street."

After Pritchett again warned the group to come inside his office, more or be arrested King asked Abernathy "to lead us in prayer."

Abernathy prayed for blessings on the city officials. The group was arrested after Pritchett had asked them four times to move. . .

Anti-Coagulant Drugs Seen As Dangerous

BELFAST (Reuters)—A leading British medical expert has warned that some drugs used or treating heart disease may ave dangerous after-effects.

He said doctors should stop reating heart disease as a routine matter until a drug which reduce blood clotting.

Professor John McMichael, professor of medicine at London University, attacked anti-coagulant drugs at the British Medical Association's annual meeting here.

He said that for the chance of saving seven people the lives of four are being gambled with. Possible side effects of the drugs include cerebral hemorrhage, he said.

Anti-coagulant drugs have been a routine form of treatment during the last 10 years for persons who have had one heart attack. When the drugs are taken the risk of excessive bleeding in case of accident is increased.

Alarm Spreads Over Move for Lumber Quotas

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alarm is spreading through British Columbia's forest industry over pressure for voluntary quota restrictions on Canadian lumber exports to the United States.

A mixture of surprise and disbelief greeted an announcement by President Kennedy that he is seeking talks with Canada towards implementation of the quotas.

No figures were mentioned by the president, but demands by some U.S. senators from the Pacific northwest would involve a cut of up to 50 per cent in B.C.'s $300,000,000-a-year export trade to the U.S.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, also minister of trade and industry, said the province will make any representations necessary to protect the lumber market.

President Kennedy's proposal caught the forest industry by surprise despite the fact pressure has been rising for weeks in the U.S. for barriers against Canadian lumber exports which totalled $285,000,000 last year, about two-thirds of it from B.C.

Men Suicide By Inhaling Insecticide

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The suicide of two men who inhaled an insecticide sold publicly has resulted in an investigation by police and health authorities.

Police said a middle-aged man died after he sprayed the insecticide powder on the floor mat of his car May 15. An elderly man just took the lid off the insecticide can June 20 and breathed the fumes.

The insecticide, available to the public at seed stores and hardwares, contains 40 per-cent hydrogen cyanide gas.

Provincial Police Corporal D. J. Alsop said he has been told 300 parts of hydrogen cyanide per 1,000,000 parts of air will kill a person in 10 to 15 minutes.

W. J. Franks, acting deputy commissioner of the OPP, said in Toronto that the insecticide appears to be a "rather popular brand."

"From my level I'm not going to publish anything that's going to be detrimental to the producers—that's for some health authorities to do."

He said inquests are likely on the two suicides and the product probably will be named then.

He advised policemen to wear gas masks if they investigate deaths in which they think the insecticide may be involved.

Franks said he is not warning the public against the use of the product.

"There's no doubt we're handing poisons every day of our life. It's a matter of how we handle them."

Falls 84 Feet Inside Chimney, Only Bruised

CHATHAM (CP)—Sixteen-year-old Bryan Hitchcock fell 84 feet to the bottom of a smoke stack Friday and survived.

He escaped with only rope burns on the hands and arms and bruises along his left side. He was in satisfactory condition in hospital.

The accident happened at the Canada Packers plant where the youth, an employee of the Way Maintenance Company, was lining the inside of the tall chimney.

Bryan was sitting on a swinging chair supported by rope and scaffolding. The seat of the chair broke his fall, police believe.

Oshawa Pair Charged With Deserting Son

TORONTO (CP) — George Michael McGuire, 32, of Oshawa and his wife Barbara, 28, will appear for trial Aug. 2 on a charge of abandoning their eight-year-old son.

McGuire pleaded guilty Friday to the charge and was remanded.

Crown Attorney Roy McMurtry said McGuire brought the boy to Toronto and left him in a downtown theatre where the lad was later found by police.

Made Living By Falling In Stores

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Canadian who dresses like a cowboy has made a living, police say, by deliberately falling down in some of the best stores in the country, then collecting insurance.

Sometimes in his enthusiasm, he actually hurt himself, John Crowley, 35, of Petersburg, Ont., told police Friday.

They said Crowley got his handy-dandy idea when he received $75 from an insurance company after a minor fall in a Rolls, Mo., store nearly a year ago. Since then, he has collected $3,000 they said.

Crowley was arrested Friday as he left a hospital, where he was recuperating from a fall he took in a department store. An insurance adjuster who heard of the case thought it fitted a pattern and tipped police.

Crowley was charged with false pretences and making fraudulent claims on insurance companies.

Conference On Education Is Disbanded

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Conference on Education is no more.

After four years as an association of teachers and others who managed, if nothing else, to drum up more public interest in education, the conference has folded with the departure of its leadership team.

Garrie Robins, former seventh - grade schoolmarm from Saskatoon, cleaned out the CCE office here Friday and prepared to leave for Mexico City, where he will help run schools for Canadian servicemen's youngsters.

Also departing — Kurt Swinton of Toronto, an executive of Encyclopedia Britannica of Canada, and Max Swerdlow, who directs education for the Canadian Labor Congress—have also bowed out.

No one stepped up to replace them. That, plus financial troubles, led to the death of an organization, set up on a continuing basis after a big Ottawa conference in 1958 and shipwrecked after an even bigger Montreal follow - up last spring.

Sandra Price, 17, entering grade 13 at BCI in September, accepts her "graduation" card, certifying her participation in a "Health Care Team of Tomorrow" program, from Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, and a member of the Board of Governors at Belleville General Hospital. Miss Doris Smith, director of nursing in the hospital, looks on.

Edna Knight, a 16-year-old grade 11 student, is served tea by Mrs. Marjorie Daechsel, of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary. Edna, planning a career as a nurse, commented, "the Health Care Course made me a bit scared, but it didn't change my mind."

Tea Marks End of Course Introducing High School Students to Hospital Life

The 19 girls of Belleville's first "Health Care Team of Tomorrow" completed their introduction to hospital life and employment in Belleville Hospital yesterday with a tea given by the women of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, they received identification cards to prove they had completed the course.

Girls for the course were drawn from grades 10 to 13, of Belleville's high school system. They are all interested in a full-time career in hospital work. The course is not training toward that career, but it will help them make up their minds, by giving them a first hand view of nursing. Even girls not planning to enter nursing will benefit from the experience of the four-week course.

Most previous courses conducted in other centres, were an after-school affair in which the girls worked only after school hours. By planning this course for the summer vacation, the Belleville group received a more complete introduction. The girls, wearing yellow uniforms, assisted the nurses in their normal duties. For the high school girls, this meant mostly making beds, arranging flowers, feeding patients, and running errands.

The two, Maj. E. J. E. Mills and Capt. M. R. S. Jones, leader and secretary respectively of the expedition, were killed July 18 when only about 5,000 feet below the peak.

Margaret Skis Without Getting Wet

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret is fast making the grade in her new passion for water skiing.

Friends said the princess, having weathered a few preliminary duckings, now frequently can make it to the line and off the run without getting her bathing cap wet.

Margaret has mastered ski stance in 400-yard runs over a private ski club lake on the edge of London.

A newspaper picture of the princess, streaking across the lake in skin tight rubber suit and flowered swim cap, looked to be a boost for the sport which few but the hardiest care to tackle in England's chilly waters.

The Daily Express, which carried the picture, launched a competition among its readers with free water ski lessons as the prize.

The Express noted that Princess Margaret and Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy are not the only notables to take up the sport.

Other ardent water skiers include the Aga Khan, auto racer Stirling Moss, speedboat ace Donald Campbell and jockey Lester Piggott.

Douglas Faces Contest

Both the Social Credit Party and the Liberals have announced that they will run candidates in the Burnaby-Coquitlam byelection in British Columbia.

The seat is vacant as the result of the resignation of Erhart Regier, who quit in order to make it possible for his leader, New Democratic chieftain T. C. Douglas, to get a seat in the House.

There is many a slip between the cup and the lip. Regier apparently achieved unusual popularity amongst the people of his riding, in addition to which he himself has boasted that his successful campaign was backed by the best political organization in any riding in Canada. Douglas will enjoy some benefits from Regier's popularity and his organization, but not to the full extent that would accrue to Regier himself. Still, if he does not win the seat, the best thing he could do would be to gracefully retire from the political scene. In the general election, all Mr. Regier's opponents did was double their deposits. If there is such a thing as a "safe" New Democratic seat in the country, Burnaby-Coquitlam is it.

It will be interesting to see whether the Progressive Conservatives run a candidate. Despite their vastly differing policies, the Conservatives and New Democrats are seen by some observers as potential allies in the new House. They share one thing in common—a desire to postpone the next general election until the party coffers fill up after June's expensive highjinks. The Socreds and Liberals, on the other hand, having made the fireworks last month, want to go to the people again before the tide in their favor has a chance to turn.

Calculated Risk

The British Health Ministry has announced that it will continue with its campaign to vaccinate every baby in Britain against smallpox.

This is its answer to Prof. George Dick of Belfast University who says such a program would kill 20 babies a year.

Statistics indicate that 27 babies have died of complications resulting from vaccination in the past ten years. But arguments about the exact number of deaths are academic because only a quarter of Britain's babies have been vaccinated. Prof. Dick says he thinks some of the deaths resulting from vaccination were not recorded as such. The health ministry, while it says that Prof. Dick's figure of 20 deaths from universal vaccination is a hypothetical figure, admits that there is a risk. The question is whether the risk is worth the potential gain—the safeguarding of those who survive vaccination against smallpox.

It is no answer to argue that the toll from vaccination is higher in Britain than that from smallpox itself. If smallpox claims so few lives it is because of the vaccination program. The question is which is the safer procedure—to eschew vaccination of babies and leave them susceptible to smallpox or to vaccinate all babies and have very few of them die in order to immunize all the survivors. The fact that the toll from smallpox was once so high is not in itself a satisfactory answer. Great advances have been made since those days, both in hygienic conditions and in methods of treatment of various diseases. It may well be that vaccination remains the best policy—but with all the various immunization shots now available for different diseases reconsideration of the value of some of these programs ought to be undertaken periodically.★

Wrong Time, Wrong Place

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Negro leader who preaches passive resistance and nonviolence in his fight against segregation in the U.S. South, has met with a shock. After winning a court decision in Albany, Georgia, which gave his supporters the right to march in demonstrations against segregation, he is dismayed by the fact that such a march resulted in violence. Moreover, it was not his supporters who suffered, but police.

For a Christian minister, the embracing of non-violence and passive resistance may come naturally. But the truth of the matter is that Dr. King has been attempting to practice the wrong method, in the wrong place, at the wrong time. Whatever may be the feelings of ministers of the Gospel, the record shows that for the great mass of people calling themselves Christians their religion has always been a fighting religion, particularly if their adherence takes the form of fundamentalism, such as is common amongst the Negroes. Gandhi could preach passive resistance and have his followers practise it—but Gandhi's followers, if they were not Buddhists, at least understood a religion whose founder is generally depicted contemplating his navel.

Metamorphosis of Modern Canada Affects Voting

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — If a nation is its people, Canada is certainly not the country today it was a decade before.

A study of a couple of reports on the national census last year reveals that Canada is becoming younger, more urbanized and more diversified.

The first report, this week, showed another reason — if one was needed—why politicians last June leaned so heavily on appeals to the so-called ethnic vote.

The report showed the large-scale movement by Canadians and the startling fact that since 1951 the number of people who could speak neither English nor French had increased by 83 percent.

A similar increase occurred in the number of people with a mother tongue other than the two official languages — there are 2,454,862 of them now.

A similar report a few weeks earlier, covering religious origin, showed that more than 4,600,000 Canadians are not members of French nor British origin and their numbers have increased by almost 100 per cent since 1951.

These changes result of course, from massive immigration over the 10-year period, immigration which accounted for close to half of the population increase of about 4,230,000.

FEW BLOCK VOTES

Another special appeal made by the politicians was to the old to get toward young people, even children.

Aside from the fact that children grow into voters and that sounding their opinions now is like buying a political pension, the appeal to youth appears justified.

When the census was taken last year, more than 1,000,000 Canadians were under the age of 25 and a good 40 percent of the population was not considered enough to vote.

Earlier census reports showed the inevitable drift from rural to urban living in Canada. By the same token proportion of Canadians now see in towns or cities an increasing trend in their thinking — political and otherwise — by the influence of other "neighborhood" groups.

STRONG VOTES

This is something of real concern to all politicians, something they are going to have to deal with, but something we do not want to.

Redistribution of seats in the House of Commons has not kept pace with the growth of urban Canada.

The gural vote, for this reason, is being overlooked by politicians because in many cases it is worth five to 10 urban votes.

Consider, for instance, that the tolly population of largely-rural Prince Edward Island is barely larger than the number of voters living in the Toronto riding of York-Scarborough.

If the voting strength of two areas were to be made honestly equal, York-Scarborough would be allowed seven or eight seats in the Commons as compared with the two for PEI.

The same proportion would hold true if the comparison was made with some of the rural ridings in Saskatchewan, or even Ontario.

It might be said that this is an extreme case, York-Scarborough probably has the greatest population density per square mile of any riding in Canada. Nonetheless, it does point up the problem facing the politicians.

They are the ones who will have to do the work of redistribution and those in the Commons representing rural constituencies will, in effect, be cutting their own throats if they give the urban vote the same power as rural vote.

POLITICAL AWARENESS

But do it they must, and soon . . . because of the other two growing forces mentioned above.

For some reason, Europeans generally have always been more politically conscious than native-born Canadians. This applies to the large numbers of immigrants who have arrived here in the past decade and all of whom will be able to vote by 1966 at the latest.

They keep track of matters politic are aware of the power of their vote and do not want to see it diluted.

Also, the statement about native-born Canadians could now be challenged, because the younger people of this country today are rapidly becoming much more involved in politics than did their parents.

They may not yet be able to vote, but their influence is being felt by MP's. These men cannot ignore people who have but a few years to wait before they begin casting ballots.

It is natural, it would appear that where Canada is changing, it is changing for the better, with the possible exception of the decline in the rural population. It is not bad to have more people in the cities, but the rural economy remains the backbone of the nation and it needs people to maintain it.

Govt. Should Test Drugs

Windsor Star

With the great increase in the number of drugs developed in the past few years, Canadians may be pardoned for wondering if they are not in danger of checking such drugs have kept pace.

Recent instances of drugs being made available before their harmful effects have become known have strengthened the belief that more precautions must be used. The most striking example is the drug thalidomide, which was put on sale in Germany, and was available on prescription in Canada, before it was suspected that its use by pregnant women might cause malformations in their off-spring.

When the drug became suspect, largely because of a series of incidents of malformed babies in Germany, its sale was promptly stopped in Canada. A few cases of malformities in Canada have been attributed to the use of thalidomide, however, and other cases may follow.

While it is to the credit of Canadian government authorities that they acted swiftly once the possible dangers of the drug became known, the public is entitled to ask whether this was not a case of locking the barn door after the horse was stolen. In other words, what happened to the checking procedure which the public trusts the government to conduct before a drug is licenced for sale?

It is admitted that the drug was extremely useful for the purpose for which it was prescribed, as a tranquilizer and sedative, and that the harmful effects believed to have transmitted to newborn infants through mothers who used it were not discovered for some time.

Surely, however, some trained mind should have realized that bad effects of a seemingly helpful drug might not be known for some time. It is hard to believe that the possible harmful effects of new drugs on unborn babies are ignored.

The responsibility for thorough checking of new drugs for possible harmful effects lies not only with government. Manufacturers who put out the name must make sure that their products are safe. Physicians must use their best judgment in prescribing new drugs. The public must not allow "miraculous" effects of a new discovery to stampede their judgment.

Nevertheless it is on government, whose interest is the public health and which has the authority of the people, that the final responsibility rests. If lack of funds is hindering the health department in its task of making sure new drugs are safe, more funds should be provided. Otherwise, in a complicated and highly technical field, deserves all the protection possible.

Alcohol Wins Victims By 'Embracing' Them!

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

People who can gain the most benefit from plastic surgery may quit as soon as they realize what it's about.

The ones who can get the next most benefit will probably read it all.

"Dear Sir: Wouldn't you say that a young man of 25 who drinks straight whisky constantly for relaxation at home is well on the road to becoming an alcoholic? He is contemplating matrimony.

"He says he will never become a 'drunk.' He is proud that he can hold his liquor.

"He keeps a bottle in his room at all times. He drinks socially, but we are concerned with this solitary drinking. Mrs. W.E."

I don't know whether Mrs. W.E. is the young man's mother, but she is definitely about him, and she seems to have a keen amount of significant information.

Within the last year there have been five columns devoted to alcoholism, not counting a number of short paragraph comments. Even this is not an amount of space commensurate with the importance.

I can only say for sure whether this man of 25 will become an alcoholic, but I think he will. Or perhaps he has begun.

The worst form of enslavement comes out of habit, but from dependence. The threat of removing the dependence is the worst threat. It is more than any sort of threat against which the victim might offer to fight.

That is the ever-reaching danger of alcohol. It wins, not by overpowering its victims, but by embracing them.

The victim wants to be won, and he will make any sort of excuse to justify it, including the claim that he needs alcohol to relax, or that he can "hold his liquor." Each of these is an excuse that was slain before I was born, but it takes a million new victims every year think they have discovered a new justification.

The best advice I can offer is that the young man's character is understood and he is really happening, should lay the facts on the line and shock him into understanding. True understanding is the answer.

If she really loves her, and him. If she loses, it's a good thing for her.

And of course if she loses, he'll use her as an excuse to keep on with his drinking. In that case, I hope she'll accept the truth that she has done best, even though he will use her as a reason for continuing the drinking he has already begun.

To some extent. Arm exercises to firm up the muscles will help. I know of no other method except plastic surgery.

"Dear Dr. Molner: The veins under my tongues are very large. They look like the veins women get on their legs. They are deep blue but do not ache or pain or bother me. It is just that they are not very pretty to look at. I am 66. Mrs. M.D."

Well, don't look at them. Blood vessels under the tongue are very close to the surface. They may, therefore, become more prominent when one curls the tongue upward.

Apartheid In Practice

From Johannesburg, South Africa, comes the report that 56-year-old F.A. Mattera, who married a colored woman in 1918, has been forbidden to live with his children and grandchildren. He is white and they are designated colored.

This is an example of how the Dutch Reformed Church of the keystones of apartheid, works. This act empowers the tournament of the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club. This rink was successful in winning its first games, high. Competition was keen and the hospitality of the Kingston hostesses most enjoyable.

Here is an interesting item from our files of this time in July 1932 — 60 years ago: The special committee appointed at the last meeting of the city council to confer with the Bell Telephone Company with regards to obtaining from the company a bonus for the privilege of installing telephones to citizens of Belleville, met last night. Mr. C. Scott was present to represent the company. It was decided that the company should pay the city $250 per annum for ten years for the sole privilege of supplying telephones here.

Devour Miles In Big Gulps

Shell Aviation News

The supersonic transport will enjoy its greatest usefulness on long trips where is can devour the miles in great gulps of speed. The tremendous distance required to accelerate the aircraft to cruising speed and attitude will later be decelerated for landing, make the aircraft's ranges under 1,000 miles less than 1,500 miles rather difficult to justify. On stage lengths of 2,000 miles, the United States finds into Canadian at Toronto or Montreal.

Scots Tough On Untidy

St. Thomas Times-Journal

A man strolling along a street in the Ayrshire town of Prestwick tossed away the stub of a cigarette. A police officer saw him do it. Prestwick has strict laws, and the police officer took the man into court where he was fined for throwing litter in the street.

Many cities in Ontario, and in many other countries, could do with a Litter Act. Cigarette stubs, empty cigarette packages, candy wrappings, and many other kinds of debris are to be seen littering the streets. Some people are just too lazy to walk a few steps to use the receptacle provided, or to replace leviting them to keep the streets clean.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most Canadians who go for a visit south of the border take the trouble to convert their Canadian money into U.S. funds. States dollars before they leave home. Our United States guests would save themselves a lot of trouble and us a good deal of embarrassment if they did similarly if they would do the reverse before coming up to Canada.

It is possible that, in many cases, the local banks in the States would not have a supply of Canadian dollars but they would be a small matter for the tourist to slop on crossing the border, and changing it into United States funds into Canadian at any bank in Canada.

What I suggested this to a resort owner, he thought it a good idea except that a fair number of our guests are those believers in the principle that American dollars are good anywhere on earth, and take pride in the thought. Some of them he says, take pleasant if not satisfying little travel messages and hotel clerks struggling with the exchange, not to mention that they like to see their dollars doing duty at a dollar's worth, especially, as for several years, they suffered the humiliation of seeing their dollar discounted. He added, however, that the more intelligent visitors already do convert their money into Canadian before leaving the States. They get a better discount.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

SHALL WE MEET?

Shall we meet beyond the river,
Where the surges cease to roll?
Where in all the bright forever,
Sorrow n'er shall press the soul?

Shall we meet in that blest harbor,
When our stormy voyage is o'er?
Shall we meet and cast the anchor
By the fair, celestial shore?

Shall we meet in yonder city,
Where the tow'rs of crystal shine?
Where the walls are all of jasper,
Built by workmanship divine?

Shall we meet with Christ our Saviour,
When He comes to claim His own?
Shall we know His blessed favor,
And sit down upon His throne?

In mission services, evangelistic programs and prayer meetings across America, this gospel hymn has been a favorite for three - quarters of a century.

Its words were written about the middle of the nineteenth century by Horace L. Hastings and its music was composed several years after the poem appeared by Ella S. Rice who at the time of the composition was serving as secretary and chorister of a Logansport, Indiana Sunday School.

Mr. Rice turned out this hymn tune in 1886 and sent it to Robert Lowry, another gospel hymn composer, who was editing the music department of "The Young Reaper" (Ophia) Sunday School song book and its music and published it in his magazine.

It was more than a dozen years later, however, before Mr. Rice discovered that the hymn, with his music, was in general use and popular with song leaders and audiences. It was Ira D. Sankey, the singing evangelist, who told him Mr. Sankey praised the hymn tune in a letter to the composer in August, 1876 and later Mr. Hastings, the author of the poem also sent Mr. Rice an approving message.

of kings and presidents to their citizens; taking opera choruses to millions who would never see an opera stage, bringing rich hymns and sermons of churches to invalids in their beds. But the mysterious power which can do all these can easily become the master of men who brought it into being.

3 REDUCE FALSE MASTERS

It is high time to reduce these false masters to their role as servants. Christ helps us to distinguish the ends of life from the means of living.

When He saw His neighbors feverishly running after material things, He said: "Do not anxious, asking 'what shall we eat? or 'what shall we drink?' or 'what shall we wear?' but seek first God's kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well. Christ comes into our busy, burdened, bedeviled living and bids us seek first the rule of God. When we get a clear view of the ends for which we live, we then can condition the means of living.

The ends of living are to be mastered. I do not serve my car, I service it in order that it may serve my needs. I can buy a house, and become master of it. But I cannot buy a home and master it. If my home is to be a true home, I must serve it.

Here then is our choice: Will we continue to stress the mastery of men for the making of things? Or, like the Christ, will we seek the mastery of things for the making of men?

Vancouver lawyer George Herbrik said a tape recording indicated the prime minister was not offended by the incident.

A Lift For Living

Are Mechanical Servants Becoming Our Masters?

By Dr. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

In 1876 the United States celebrated the hundredth anniversary of its birth. At the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia the feature which attracted perhaps most attention was a giant Corliss engine enthroned in Machinery Hall. That display was very appropriate, for the engine was first brought to successful use in the same year independence was signed. And what a new power the steam engine placed in the hands of men.

But it was not long until men began to discover that this new servant, steam, was creating an environment which tended to condition the conduct of man. The machine began to regulate the hours and pace of men's work. If we work too long, we produce too much; if we work too short hours, we do not produce enough for the money invested in the machines. In many a place human beings have become merely hands of the machines. And all of us are regulated pretty much by the mechanical inventions which were created to be our servants.

Take the motor car, for an illustration. Charles Merz said that one of the epochal dates in American history was the night when Henry Ford first drove his car around the block. For then was settled the struggle between the country and the town. Yes, the automobile has woven the patterns of city and country together. It has emancipated the family shut up in the city walls, and it has given freedom of travel to the farmer on the distant plain.

WE DASH AHEAD

We could not tolerate the thought of going back to the horse-and-buggy era. We dash ahead, devotees of the god of speed. And this devotion to the god of speed draws us from the God of the sanctuaries, turns Sunday into a saturnalia of honking horns and frayed nerves and strews our highways with a toll of death. The automobile, our invaluable servant, has made us so motor-minded that we must beware lest the servant become greater than as his lord.

Or turn from the motor car to the motion picture. To make the scenes of history live again on the screen, to re-enact the great dramas of the remote places of the earth, to capture and preserve the events of today for the minds of tomorrow all this is an incalculable service which the motion pictures are rendering to modern life. But has not the servant almost become the master? Have we not become moulded and fashioned by the popular codes of morals, being colored by the conduct of our film heroes?

Are not many of our books being written with the thought of being sensational enough for Hollywood uses? Are not our styles of dress and manners being set for the masses by the stars of the screen? Are not

Or consider two more of man's creations — radio and television. What mighty servants these are, carrying the voices

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Dora O. — I'm trying to protect my poor brother.

* * *

Helen T. — I'm a woman of 45, who's been married 20 years. Although Herbert and I are childless, we have a completely happy and peaceful home. Perhaps it is her envy of this which is now prompting his sister to try to make trouble for me.

My husband is a baker who works nights. Naturally I try to plan my time to coincide with his free time at home. So I have friends over in the evening to keep me company and, after they leave, I do household chores. But suddenly my sister-in-law has planted the idea in Herbert's head that I entertain a man behind his back! If my husband knows this is nonsense, but he questioned me anyway at to what could put such talk into Dora's mouth.

I know. She's disappointed in her own marriage. Her children haven't turned out well. So she'd like us to be miserable, too.

* * *

Dora O. — I don't live near Helen, but I used to and I spoke to a few of her neighbors during a week. How does she explain the funny coincidence of a big 5-passenger car which pulls up in front of her home every night, shortly after Herbert leaves for work? And it's gone when Herbert returns.

My brother is a shy, quiet peace-loving man. He works hard and he trusts everybody. That's how Helen has been able to walk all over him for 20 years. He never refuses her anything, never questions her. Where she's concerned, he's the original Nebbish, like in those cartoons.

Naturally he can't know what goes on at home in his absence. I felt he should at least be alerted so as not to let himself be made a fool of completely. I don't care if they're both made a one, someone had to open Herbert's eyes.

* * *

The Council: Well, the Garden of Eden had its serpent, and Helen and Herbert have a Dora! Herbert can't really be the Nebbish his sister depicts. He's maintained a pleasant home and himself and Helen for 20 years. And now he's smart enough to stand staunchly alongside his wife in deserting Dora's dark hints nonsense, and in trying to figure out why his sister should be trying to stir up some excitement.

The Case of the White Car is flimsy indeed! No sensible person would need to do extensive on that evidence, especially second-hand reports by neighbors. Anyone who'd objective — take us, for example — can list all sorts of possible explanations about the car, and each might easily be checked. It can belong to one of Helen's lady friends, or to a visiting couple. It can belong to a neighbor who parks it there temporarily because his own driveway is occupied. It can even belong to a mischievous neighbor who wanted to get Dora's eyebrows up!

It's good Dora is a blood relative. Otherwise, if she confines to hurl insinuations without checking facts, she'd be in line for a lawsuit — the charge, malicious slander. She must remember that, in our society, a woman — even a sister-in-law — is presumed innocent unless proven guilty. And, if Dora's well her suspicions of the car was being cuckolded, two easy recourses were at her disposal. One was to drop in unrelated some evening, while the white car was there, or to have directed a neighbor to call on Helen under some pretext. The other was to report it to the police. Department as to what name the license number of the car was registered under. Wouldn't her face be red if the owner should be revised to be a woman's pensioress!

No, Dora, on the face of your charges we find them indicative of your own muddled thinking. Amongst all the unsavory and hanky-panky wouldn't park in front, anyway! A few blocks away would be safer. And would he risk the unexpected return of a husband who forgot something?

From a sensitive eye, you're finished. But as a sister, apologize, be forgiven, and open a new investigation — forward!

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

"Travel is life in miniature. Both are journeys."—Ethel S. Smith.

* * *

"Are you going away for your holidays?"

"Have you been away? When did you come back? Have a good time?"

These and others are the common, the usual July-and-August kind of questions one hears now. Chances are some will say they have been or are going to the cottage to stay and really relax. Others, that they have been or are planning to take a trip; by plane, train, boat or motor-car.

The German poet, Goethe, a great traveller, once declared the world an empty place if thought of in terms of cities, mountains and rivers. The mere fact that the Danube River, for instance, is twice as small as the Nile or the Amazon or the Mississippi! — Missouri rivers, yet with a small basin, about the size of Texas, which has been the rise and fall of empires, cultures and social form above any other river such as the above mentioned, would here him, Let's say, extremely.

What would arouse his interest? The answer is, people. "Then", he says, "this globe is becoming a familiar garden."

Yet meeting people while travelling can be a burden. The faster the travel the fewer the contacts seems to be it seems. Often the only contact in plane travel is the passenger in an adjacent seat. Motor-car travel, most private of all, isolates the occupants like astronauts whirling through space, who scarcely see or speak to, even, gas or motel attendants. Small boat owners make a sort of see-going fraternity and make friends easily at docksides and quays in boating circles. Time plays the leading role evilly, and see-you-soon or a trans-continental train journey offer the best advantage — with a note of melancholy added: farewells are saddened by realization that chances of meeting again are most negligible.

Still there are ways and means. "I hate travelling first-class and avoid it as often as possible. You meet so few people," one lady commented. Then, there is one's waitress, at meal times. She is a fund of information and interest, able to confer on one, bits of local color and atmosphere otherwise entirely missed.

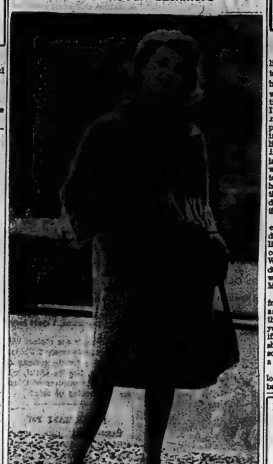
As an example, may we say no statistical wonder of the Grand Canyon comes to mind as readily as the memory of the young waitress who served breakfast there and said: "I came down here from Montana, where I live and go to college, to be the bridesmaid of my roommate, who lives in Flagstaff. After the wedding, I decided to see if I could get a job in order to stay a little longer. I like it down here and think it does you a lot of good to go places and see other people apart from your regular life."

Or — the stunning looking waitress, in a small restaurant in Hollywood, who said: "I'm from Manitoba and came down to Hollywood so I can become an actress. It's my life long ambition. Yes, I'm studying at Loretta Young's School for Actresses. She is positively raving to look at. On the day you graduate, she comes and hands you your diploma personally. I'm studying hard, and work here part time to help pay for my board and tuition. So you're from Ontario — eastern Canada. Have you ever heard of the hockey player, Maurice Richard? He's my cousin . . ."

Tucked away in the Colorado mountains at Creed Junction, a mother and daughter own and run a little restaurant known as "Mom's Place". My daughter used to bring her young friends home in the evenings. Mother, the hostess, decided to go into business so that "mother and daughter", she'd the mother lightly, and added in a more serious vein, "you may not collect, but my daughter is blind. Not totally, for she can see light, very, dimly. But she is able to help me run this business. I am a widow and took it over, for it is a good way to make her independent, if anything happens to me." And in another restaurant in the same town, the blueberry muffins were superb. "They're a specialty of the house", explained the trim, white uniformed waitress. "No, indeed, they're not a mix. And the blueberries are shipped to us daily from Nova Scotia, Canada".

"The worst thing about travelling", says Miss Leona Riggs 21 Queen Street, recently home from a trip abroad, where, among other things, she had a re-union with close French friends (which makes a big difference to a city like Paris, she admits), and who was accompanied by Mrs. R. L. (Lottie) Brown, 116 Bridge Street E., for much of the tour, "you begin making plans for the next trip, as you return from the one just ending".

Happy holidays!



Mother's Helper

VISITING Grandma's home will be a treat for guest and hostess if "crowd" is kept singular. So if yours is a large family, devise a turn system and you'll find things will work out better for all concerned. There'll be less confusion and more fun, on this individual basis.

The material is woven in a waffle effect and is in a gray and saffron mixture. The topper's fashion notes include a matching fringed stole, patch pockets and a bone button closing.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LOWIN

SHE REALLY CAN REPAY HOSPITALITY

Question: My husband and I live in a small apartment. He travels a great deal. When he's home, we frequently dine with various friends who continue to invite us, even though I'm afraid, we do very little to reciprocate any hospitality. Our place is so small that entertaining is difficult. There's very little seating space, and dining is done on a table set up in the living room. Besides, when my husband is out of town, I wouldn't feel right having other couples in, although I do invite the wives to drop in for tea when they're in the neighborhood.

At this point, I feel a little embarrassed about accepting dinner invitations, since I do so little in return. Do you think I could repay their hospitality? We can't afford to entertain at dinners in restaurants, so what would be the alternative? — Mrs. H.C., New York City

Answer: Obviously your friends don't "resent" your not asking them to dinner, or else they wouldn't continue asking you to their homes. However, if you want to keep the relationships alive, you should offer something a little warmer than a cup of tea on an off-afternoon. Since your husband travels a lot, you're of course not probably to be excused on this basis. Even so, you do have a social obligation, and properly you can do it on a weekend's basis when he's away.

For instance, you might invite one or two of your friends to have lunch with you at a good, but inexpensive, restaurant occasionally. Or, you might get tickets to a matinee or an antiques show, or some other exhibit of interest, and ask your friends to join you.

Occasionally, you might simply telephone just to inquire after the family and to chat for a few minutes. Nothing makes a hostess feel more let-down than to be ignored by her guests completely between invitations. A phone call lets her know you still consider her a friend and not something akin to a part-time cook.

If you can't reciprocate hospitality in fact, then you might try it in spirit. Try to remember your friends' anniversaries with a card or, better yet, a small bottle of champagne. If you have children, you might at times invite several to be guests of yours at a show suitable to their interests and years.

The main thing is to show your friends that you are interested in them as people, instead of as a source of dinner invitations. If you can't reciprocate in kind, the least you can do is reciprocate in kindness.

I wonder if you have among collection of recipes one for a casserole made of sweet potatoes with oranges and spices — M. F. S.

ANSWER:

8 medium sweet potatoes, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 navel oranges, sliced water ¼ cup light brown sugar, ¼ cup sugar, 6 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon cornstarch.

Some weeks ago I clipped a recipe for a Peanut Butter Krunch Cookie but have mislaid it. The cookie was made by Girl Guides by a mother of two Brownies. The recipe called for margarine, peanut butter, eggs, baking soda, flour, white and brown sugar, but I am not sure of the amounts — Mrs. G.M.

ANSWER:

The recipe you clipped was not mine but the one I am giving you now is close to your description and highly recommended.

PEANUT CRUNCH DROPS:

½ cup peanut butter crunch, ½ cup margarine or butter, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup liquid honey, 1 egg, well beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups all-purpose flour (unsifted), 1 teaspoon soda.

WEDDINGS

BEDELL — PATTERSON

Blue delphiniums, white daisies and stephanotis formed a lovely setting in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, July 7th, at high noon for a very pretty summer wedding, when the Right Reverend Monsgr. nor Sullivan united in marriage, Catherine Anne Patterson, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Gerald Sullivan of Belleville, and the late Mr. Nelson C. Patterson, to Bruce William Bedell, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bedell.

Mrs. Fred Rose, of Trenton, cousin of the bride, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, of Belleville, in his rendition of "Ave Maria" and "The Wedding Prayer", at the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Gerald J. Sullivan, the bride was charming in her original design white peau de soie bridal gown, fashioned in sheath style in floor-length, with fitted bodice having a square neckline and long sleeves forming points over the wrists. The full length pleated overskirt cascaded into a graceful chapel train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet encrusted with pearl de soie bridal gown, fashioned in sheath style in floor-length, with fitted bodice having a square neckline and long sleeves forming points over the wrists. The full length pleated overskirt cascaded into a graceful chapel train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet encrusted with pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white cymbidium orchids and chrysanthemums in the form of a cross. Her only jewellery was a heirloom pearl necklace, worn by her mother as something borrowed, she carried a lace and linen handkerchief worn by brides of the bridegroom's family for four generations.

She was attended by Miss Elva Anderson, of Belleville, as maid of honor, and Miss Gail Cox, as bridesmaid. Both were gowned alike in pale yellow silk organza over taffeta, with fitted bodices and full pleated skirts. They were yellow chiffon Juliet caps, sequin trimmed. They shoulder-length veils, and carried nosegays of yellow and white mums with cascading white satin streamers.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Grayzanne Bedell, of Toronto, niece of the bridegroom was also gowned in yellow of bastlte material, with yellow hairbandeau, and carried a basket of yellow and white 'mums.

The reception and wedding breakfast were held at Club Casera, Belleville, where the bridal table was appointed in the traditional nuptial manner with a three-tiered wedding cake as centrepiece, and flanked by white and yellow candles in crystal candelabra. The bridal bouquets and yellow floral arrangements completed the setting.

The bride's mother, in a Dior blue silk sheath, with matching flower hat, shrjugs and beige accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

St. Margaret's-in-the-Hill Anglican Church, Belleville, was the setting for a recent pretty wedding when Marsha-Anne Wing, daughter of Mrs. Norah Wing, became the bride of Robert Irving McMartin, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. McMartin. The Reverend G. Arthur Page, rector of the church, officiated before a lovely background of white snapdragons and Shasta chrysanthemums. White satin bows marked the guest pews.

Mr. John Croydon Withers, cousin of the bride, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, of Belleville, in his rendition of "Ave Maria" and "The Wedding Prayer", at the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, she was charming in her original design white peau de soie bridal gown, fashioned in sheath style in floor-length, with fitted bodice having a square neckline and long sleeves tapering to lily-points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt was accented by a cummerbund of self fabric and the queen's crown of seed pearls with four-tier shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet encrusted with pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade of American beauty roses and stephanotis carnations. Her only jewellery was an heirloom pearl necklace, borrowed from the bride's mother.

The bride, Joan Fraser, of Stirling as maid of honor, was attired in an organza gown in robin's egg blue with a wide satin matching headdress and shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion. She carried a nosegay of blue-tinted pom-poms and Sweetheart roses.

Some Accidents Can Be Avoided

By Mathew B. Dymond, M.D., Health Minister for Ontario.

Two small children suffocate in discarded refrigerator . . . Baby found dead with plastic bag over head . . . Youngster crushed under old stove in backyard. Such headlines are all too common. They happen fail to arouse many of us to be as crusades aimed at stamping out such carelessness, because all such accidents are due to carelessness. But somehow when the story is forgotten, the crusade fades away as well.

One of the first suggestions usually coming out of such crusades is for "Legislation for Control". On the surface this is good, but legislation that cannot be enforced is of little value and indeed may be harmful because many people believe a "law" looks after everything.

The real prevention of such tragic accidents lies with the parents or guardians of young children. This calls for constant care and vigilance, and even with all this some accidents will happen. Children are active they're inquisitive — nearly all of them have the urge to explore and be adventuresome.

And we can't expect or would want them otherwise.

To help them live with this as normal children is a great responsibility of adults, but to make sure as far as this is humanly possible that they continue to grow up unharmed by accident is an even greater responsibility of every adult."

Don't ever discard an old ice-box or refrigerator or any appliance that has a door which could be protected from some possible dangers.

Remember, your Ontario Department of Health wants all our children to grow healthy.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

Like human babies, young birds learn by a combination of observation and trial and error, usually the mother is the instructor, and the children try to obey.

The first lesson land birds must learn is flight. When you see a baby robin standing on the side of the nest clutching its wings it is practising for flight from home. Barn swallows are taught to fly a very short distance at first and return to the beam on which their round home was built. Each day they repeat a little further, meanwhile being taught how to catch flying insects as they sail through the air. After each evening they are brought back to rest on the beam, strung out in a line beside the nest into which they will no longer fit.

Mrs. Brown Bess has a better scheme. For weeks after her brood have left the nesting hole at dusk she gathers them together in the discarded house of some bird other than herself. She calls "chuck, chuck", and they go to her. They may spend several nights in the old nest of a purple finch or a redeyed vireo; but as they grow too large for that a robin's nest may be laid over.

SWIM FIRST

Young merganzers, water birds belonging to the duck clan, are taught to swim before they can fly. Mother leads the way, and by 12 to 16 youngsters paddle along behind her in single file. When a boat or man approaches as she has them in tow they squeal in fear, for they are unable to fly and cannot swim fast enough to escape. But wise mother calls "quack, quack", and they answer "weet, weet" while she swiftly changes her position so that she may be between the danger and her small charges. She tells them where to feed for, and how to half fly, half run on the surface of the water. The pace is not fast for their newly acquired skill, but they do their best to obey orders.

Another lesson for young merganzers to learn is the art of fishing. She leads her family to a quiet bay where the reeds grow and demonstrates how it is necessary to put the head under water up to the eyes so as to watch out for a passing fish. Then a dive must be taken to grab the fish in the sawtoothed bill where it is held firmly while the water drains out. Each youngster must have a turn trying to follow mother's example.

Successful Living

In Love With Her Boss

DEAR DORIS—I am in love with my boss. He is 10; I am 18.

The trouble is he is married. I figured he just asked me out to see what he could get out of me, but I was wrong. Now I have gone out with him four times and he has never taken advantage of me.

I asked him to leave me alone but I went back to him because I do love him. I've tried to put myself in his wife's place and know how or what to feel. "I know I would be truly hurt.

Try not to tell me to leave him alone because I can't.—HELP ME.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR HELP ME—What on earth would you like to hear? To go ahead, make a wreck of your life, his life, his wife's? Are there some children to involve in this mess as well?

He is pretty nearly old enough to be your father. He is the author of this place for something. And, young as you are, you have to finish it or take the consequences, which are all bad.

Get a new job. And leave him alone, while you still can. Or, yes, you can. I'll be looking for a letter to say you have.

DEAR DORIS—I have lived with a girl who is not my wife for five years. Once during that time she ran away with her husband for a weekend. But she says she really loves me. I support her and our two children.

Now he is coming around again and wants her to go back with him (since he has left the woman who was living with him.) She seems to be kidding him along that she is considering this, but tells me she wouldn't go for anything. She says she is only stringing him along in order to hurt him like he hurt her.

What am I to think? I don't seem able to trust her because she did go with him once.—GEORGE.

DEAR GEORGE—Who is kidding whom? Your whole house of cards needs cleaning out. You have no claim on her. He has. Yet you love and support her.

She is behaving childishly if she kids him along.

How about a great love to be in the interest of making your union legal? Then you could call the tune. And your offspring would thank you, later.

DEAR DORIS:—I am a fellow of 25 and read your letters in the paper all the time. Now has come the time I must ask for help.

I have had dates with some nice girls but my problem is now they are all married and I am still single. Where does a fellow go to meet new girls? Every girl I have ever gone out with has said I am a gentleman but they don't want to go steady.

I'm beginning to wonder if being a gentleman is why?—TED.

DEAR TED—No, it's not. But is there something else wrong? Take an honest look at yourself. What is there to attract the fair sex?

Are you always clean and well-pressed? (No halitosis, no B.O.)—Ask your next-to-best friend about this). Then how about improving your conversation (and spelling!)? Get your library to help you with good books to read. Read the newspapers and know what is going on around you.

Get a hobby. Can you cook over a camp fire? Or take pictures? Or make a coffee table? Learning something new and different can make you different. More interesting. And it will help you meet new people.

If you are a perfect gentleman, read up on how to behave on a date. Don't lose out because you didn't know how to order your girl's dinner, how to put her in your car, or how to take her arm to cross the street.

DEAR DORIS—I like a boy very much and he knows it. Sometimes in school he asks me to run around after him and I say no, that I'm not his servant. Now he doesn't ask me and he is still as friendly as ever.

Should I have kept saying no?—WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING—Unless you want to keep running, you have to keep saying no. Since he's still friendly, what's the problem?

CONFIDENTIAL TO E. M.:—You have a right to love and marriage too. Try having a conference with your mother, your brother, your brother's wife, your friends and yourself all present.

That fine young man of yours is willing to help your mother and this should influence your brother to do the same. With something from both of you and the government allowance for mothers with families, she should be able to manage.

How to Avoid Front Wheel Bearing Woes

By EUGENE B. MILSON

Because they may bring on similar symptoms, front brakes, tires, shock absorbers and the steering mechanism are often blamed for conditions which are caused by faulty front wheel bearings.

For instance — too much steering play, excessive road shock or wheel shimmy can be due to loose or worn bearings. Other symptoms often wrongly blamed on bearings, is cupped tire treads.

Suspect front wheel bearings are binding, fitting too tightly or "seized" if the following: What happens? You'll notice that the car steers hard — or it may tend to pull toward one side if the trouble is confined to just one front wheel.

Noise from the front wheels can be another sign of bearing trouble. This can be due to a matter what is wrong — whether they're loose, tight, worn or overheated.

How do you avoid bearing trouble? Well, you're not likely to experience serious difficulty if you follow proper lubrication practices. 30,000-mile intervals are usually recommended.

From-O.N.: "What's best to clean light chrome such as bumpers?"

(A) Mild soap and water will usually do it. If not, your auto supply store has products which remove stubborn road film, rust and tar from bumpers, bumper guards, chrome hub caps.

* * *

M.J. asks: "We just bought a '56 sedan in good condition. The car starts O.K. during the day but at night the lights almost go out and the starter seems to turn over slowly. It takes big runs before it will be fore the engine catches."

(A) Your battery could be weak or the terminals might be loose or corrosion crusted. Incidentally, starting is easier on the battery when the lights are off.

* * *

C.S. writes: "I've considered opening a filling station without repair service. What do you think about this?"

(A) Many such stations are profitable, but more and more seem to feel that some form of regular service as well as emergency roadside facilities is apt to attract a steady traffic. One of the leading trade papers claims that a potential 30-40 per cent volume of business is lost when service is not provided.

* * *

From R.P.: "Does speed really make much difference in economy, or is this more safety propaganda I hear about?"

(A) It's both. At 60-65 m.p.h. you burn approximately twice as much gas and oil as you do at 35-40 m.p.h. Brake and tire wear is increased, too.

Day Lilies on Parade

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Early in July the parade of Day lilies begins. It will go on until October. The early sorts are tipped indeed of the shades do not resent transplanting if they are watered before moving and again after they are settled in the new position.

The most popular time is midto late July. This is the time when most of the miniatures bloom.

A word about color: to select more light colors than dark ones. The dark shades will show up well against white walls or fences or white pebble but the light shades show up best against their own dark foliage and surrounding summer green. They provide more striking color than the dark shades.

Schrieder Won't Be Thrown To Lions

Riders Get Two Tackles

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders have traded Canadian halfback Gary Schrieder to British Columbia Lions but the 26-year-old Big Four veteran says he won't report to his new club.

In an unconditional deal which is final even if Schrieder sticks to his decision to stay out of football this year, the Riders Friday obtained two tackles in exchange for their former defensive captain.

One is import Mel Semenko, 24, a lineman from the University of Alberta now in his third year of Canadian football. The second is Canadian Billy Graham, also 24, who played with Toronto Argos and Calgary Stampeders before being picked up by the Lions.

Both Schrieder and teammate Ron Stewart have clashed with the Ottawa management over their insistence to attend college Hall law school in Toronto this year.

The Riders refused to allow them to divide their time between football and law but the players turned down a proposal to play only the first half of the schedule before enrolling in their law courses.

GARY SCHRIEDER

Schrieder, who has played seven seasons for the Riders, says he told the Lions the day before the trade was announced that he cannot leave Ontario if he wants to qualify for the province's bar exams.

B.C. general manager Herb Capozzi is confident that "satisfactory arrangements" can be made with Schrieder to allow him to attend Osgoode Hall.

Riders' general manager George Turvey said that if Stewart refuses to sign a contract for the full season with no time out for school, he'll be put on the suspended list.

Angels Blow Lead, Twins Win

Long Homer Gives Yankees Win

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Have you heard the one about how it does something to a baseball player when he gets on a New York Yankee uniform?

If not, we offer Dale Long as an example.

The veteran first baseman was hammering the ball at a .167 clip for San Francisco Giants in May when the Yankees spirited him to the American League in mid-campaign. Long promptly hit .308 as the Yankees went on to win the pennant.

Then Washington Senators' Chuck Cottier was sent down to Buffalo in the Triple A draft. Long hit .340 for them in 1961 and .341 this year.

The Yankees also took on waivers early this month. In Friday night's game against Chicago White Sox Long drove home one run with a sacrifice fly in the first and a single in the seventh.

Nellie Fox singled home the tying run for the White Sox in the eighth. Long's dramatic homer came off Turk Lown, who had relieved Ray Herbert in a row.

Los Angeles picked up two runs in the eighth inning against Detroit to break a 1-1 tie established on homers by Norm Siebo for the Angels and Norm Cash's 28th of the year for the Tigers.

Dean Chance went in to pitch for the Angels in the ninth with two men on and walked the bases full. The Tigers scored one run when Chance threw the first on Billy Bruton's sharp one-bouncer back to the mound. Then Al Kaline stashed a two-run single to end the game.

RECORD NOW 15-6

Pascual ran his record to 15-6 as he gave up only six hits, as did Cleveland's Jim Perry. The Twins scored in the first inning on singles by Lenny Green and Vic Power and a sacrifice fly by Rich Rollins. The Indians got one in the fourth on singles by Willie Kirkland and John 'Boog' Mason, a sacrifice by Woody Held and an infield out.

Robin Roberts went the first eight innings for Baltimore, giving up only a first-inning homer by Ed Charles. The Orioles tied it with an unearned run when Bobby Del Greco dropped a fly ball hit by Brooks Robinson. A single by Boog Powell and a sacrifice fly by Jackie Brandt put the Sox in front.

Jerry Lumpe singled in the go-breaking run in the fifth inning but the Orioles came back on a walk, a sacrifice, a double by Dick Brown and a single by Jim Gentile that bounced off first base into right field.

Bob Johnson hit two homers for the Senators and Pete Hamlin belted a grand-slammer as they barfed the Red Sox.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Will someone please tell the name of that lovely little old lady, present at the last harness meet of the Quinte Riding and Driving Club who was calling the "win" wicket cashier by his first name before the final heat entries broke the barrier?

This is not much for any private eyes to go on, but for any Peter Gunns interested, this matriarch of the mutuels had hair the color of fresh-fallen snow, dark eyes that twinkled and snarkled at least four times that night, a face unravaged by three-score years—give or take—and the friendly selection knack how that brought every bangtail she tabbed with two dollars, or more, home under the wire a winner.

The only horse she did not pick was Reta Herrington's "April H", a handsome three-year-old colt who cut his racing teeth with a second-best victory and paid a lone bettor $131.60 for a two-dollar outlay.

In fairness to her selective ability she missed her turn at the wickets. She did not bet on any horse. By the time she was ready to bet, the race had started. I am told, she became involved in a perverted political argument and by the time it was finished the debaters discovered that time, tide and racehorses wait for no man or woman silly enough to argue politics.

The first reason I would like to find her is that I have hired six fortune-tellers, four mindreaders, a couple of swamis, a savant or two and a half-dozen gypsies to tap sob, mental and clairvoyant on her, and find out what's on her mind the second before she picks a horse.

The second reason is, for the first time in the history of the Quinte Driving Club's harness meets, and I believe, on a Belleville racetrack, the daily double betting will be in effect at the mutuels.

That means I must needs have a double-take of the lady's mental picture before I thrust the cookie-jar money into the hungry maw of the mutuels.

And speaking of the daily double here's a tip to the veteran betting fraternity. It is being operated here tonight under a different system to that in vogue at other tracks.

Racing officials have asked me to pass it along to the public. Here's how the daily double will be operated tonight:

First of all the daily double, in this case, involves the winners of the first and second races.

Here is what to do. You select your horse and place your bet. If your selection wins the first race, you take the ticket back to the wickets, and place your bet on a horse in the second race.

If this selection wins, you take home the daily-double gravy, whatever it happens to be. It is as simple as that.

Remember, to be a daily double winner, you must come up with the winners of the first and second races.

That, mes amis, is why I am anxious to discover my Madame Midas of the Mutuels before the track bards sounds the "Get your money ready" and the Two-Spot Thomases wander down to the wickets to wager next week's lunch-money and probably some of junior's piggy-bank lucre.

So if you perchance see a guy in a black-and-white check suit, a morphin matting and following a little old white-haired lady to the wickets you'll know I've found my madonna of the magic touch.

The last daily double I wagered on was "Spavin" O'Feaver and "Mr. Lear O'Shadowy. They haven't finished yet. "Arnaze" O'Cole drove "Spavin" up the Long Reach by mistake, while "No Leg" slopped at each quarter and walked for "Harlack" O'Hill to deliver a smart of milk.

Buffalo Leads Henley

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Buffalo's Westside Rowing Club enjoys a 10.5-point lead going into today's crucial senior oarsmen races to decide the 1962 Royal Canadian Henley regatta.

Three wins Friday, the third day of international competition, gave Buffalo a lead over defending champion St. Catharines Rowing Club and a chance to take the Henley for the first time since 1957.

Westsiders took victories in the junior eight, the junior 132-pound four and the junior 132-pound double sculls to add to and two thirds to overcome a 52-point deficit of the club Saturday.

A stake is the Ripple Leaf trophy and the Bob Henley championship. Buffalo's only worry seems to be St. Catharines, which has 138 points compared to their 161.5. Third is the Leander Boat Club of Hamilton with 83.5.

Brockville Rowing Club failed to pick up a win Friday and slipped from third place to fifth place at 48.5 points.

WILL TRY CHANNEL

DOVER, England (CP)—Despite training setbacks Claudia MacPherson, 16-year-old Winnipeg schoolgirl, will plunge into the sea next month after trying to be the youngest swimmer to conquer the English Channel.

"I had some ear trouble and was out of the water for five days," Claudia said in an interview at the south England college where she and her mother are staying between sessions in London.

"I can't wear earplugs and sometimes water swells the inside of my ears, but I'm okay again and now it looks like I should be trying the channel Aug. 7."

Sifford In Front By Stroke

Knudson Falters, Negro Takes Lead

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP)—A gaggle-smoking golfer who has won less than $5,000 in prize money this year has a one-stroke lead going into today's third round of the $50,000 Canadian Open championship.

Charlie Sifford, a 39-year-old five-time Negro champion of the United States, fired a five-under-par 67 Friday for a 135 total at the half - way mark of the golfing classic.

Hard on his heels was an international trio — diminutive Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, Australia's Bruce Crampton and veteran Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Sifford, now playing out of Los Angeles, ripped off a brilliant 65 in the first round of the 1955 Canadian Open at Toronto before fading for a 279 total and a tie for 19th place. His best-ever-all performance in a PGA event this year was a third place in tre Tucson Open.

Sifford, who has played 36 holes without going over par, came in almost unheralded with his lead - snatching round after shooting a 71 over Laval-sur-le-Lac's par-36 course Thursday.

STARTS EARLY

An early starter, few of the more than 6,000 persons who who braved intermittent showers and chilled fairways were following him.

Homenuik, a 135-pounder who looks more like a caddy than a player, was elated after his performance despite going one over par at each of the 16th and 17th holes.

He has played in 12 PGA tournaments this year in addition to being a coaching pro at Winnipeg's Glendale Club and is a close friend of George Knudson of Toronto, another slender shot-maker who was the first-round leader of the tournament with a 67.

Knudson was leaving long putts hanging Friday and missing on some of his approaches as, he shot a 72. His 140 total game had a second-round score of 71.

A crowd estimated at more than 2,500 followed Knudson and Jack Nicklaus, winner of the U.S. Open playing with the Toronto native. But Nicklaus blew to a three-over-par,75 and a 145 total.

HEROES BY HEEL MARKS

The marshalls had trouble containing the crowd and trying unsuccessfully to keep them off the fairways. Some of the late finishing players complained about finding their fairway shots sunk keep in heel marks.

One of the players not complaining, however, was Kroll, who shot a 68.

"When they're dropping for you, conditions can't be anything but perfect," said Kroll, who has played three games during his game.

Crompton, a curly - haired newcomer raised the improved player on the PGA circuit, also turned in a 68.

Al Balding of Toronto stayed within striking distance of the leaders, Glen Leonard of Vancouver had a 71 for 147.

English Football League

Wants Bets Profits Cut

By PAUL WESTBROOK

LONDON (CP)—Soccer is the latest British sport to take its financial problems to Parliament.

Many amateur bodies have been trying to get state subsidies but the letter English Football League secretary Alan Hardaker sent to MPs is believed to be the first in the professional sphere.

The lifeme of the 700-word letter concerns football pools and the money bookmakers and private promoters make from them. The league wants a part of the profits to help solve its financial and ground problems.

The letter notes that the 1961 Betting Levy Act ruled that bookmakers must pay a percentage of their profits to horseracing so that amenities at courses could be improved.

The league wants similar legislation for soccer because experts reckon that the decline in attendance is partly due to the lawdry condition of soccer stadiums.

The league already receives approximately £300,000 a year from the pools run by the Pools Promoters' Association. But bonuses who offer odds in the results of matches and the numerous smaller sweeps run by social clubs, business houses and charities pay nothing.

POOLS HELP OTHERS

Hardaker emphasizes that a share of the pools money helps rid cricket are using soccer sweeps to raise funds, "in a sense," he says, "soccer is being milked while by organizations which make money out of our matches."

One of the charity pools mentioned in the league circular is one that raises money for spastics. However, the league says this had a £10,000,000 turnover last year and £2,000,000 in prizes and passed only £4,500 on to soccer.

If all the pools, however praiseworthy, live off soccer "there will be nothing left back into the game," says Hardaker. One of the most receptive of the MPs to whom the letter was Ellis Smith, a keen soccer fan and a supporter of the move to institute a national pools board. He forwarded it to the treasury.

"We need action now," says Smith. "Other sporting have to compete abroad against government - sponsored sportsmen who have the advantage of super-stadiums and the finest training conditions."

The league estimates the levy would bring in £1,000,000 a year. This would be spread among the 92 member clubs to improve stadiums and training grounds.

At present only about a dozen of the 92 could afford to do this out of their own pockets.

Gil Hodges Out for Long Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Gil Hodges, New York Mets first baseman, will be out of the lineup most of the rest of the season.

Dr. Peter Lamotte Friday told reporters at Roosevelt Hospital where Hodges is recovering from an operation for removal of a kidney stone, that the 38-year-old former Dodgers star will be released from hospital next week. He will then need at least six weeks of rest at home before he can play, the doctor said.

Only two weeks would remain in the season after that period, and Hodges would probably need most of that to get into playing shape.

Howard Hits 3-Run Homer

Dodgers Nip Giants In Opener

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tall Frank Howard finally is achieving a sizable proportion to his height.

And Los Angeles Dodgers have pulled into a two-game lead over San Francisco Giants in their struggle for National League supremacy.

Howard supplied the power with a three-run homer and Podres supplied the finesse with a five-hitter as the Dodgers won the opener of their three-game Giants All-Friday night before a record setup, the second-place 54,996 fans—the largest crowd in Dodger Stadium's brief history.

Howard, a six-foot-seven slugger heralded as the new Babe Ruth when he first hoisted his mammoth figure into a Dodger uniform, is beginning to fulfil his expected potential. His key homer against the Giants, No. 18 of the season, was his 13th in the last 35 games and gave him 43 runs batted in over the same span.

DISCOVERS FORMULA

Podres has discovered the elusive nine-inning formula that when the Dodgers need it most. Shoestringed with Sandy Koufax on the sidelines with a Sniper injury, the league-leaders have found another stopper in Podres, who has hurled three complete games in his last four starts after failing to last the route in 13 previous outings.

Meanwhile, the two hottest teams in the league met at Cincinnati, where Milwaukee Braves extended their winning streak to seven games while cutting off the Reds' at-bats. The score was 7-5 as Claude Raymond of Bill Johns, Gus, hurled three innings of perfect relief.

The third - place Pittsburgh Pirates ended a six-game losing skid by beating Philadelphia Phillies 4-1 in the second game of a doubleheader after the Phils took the opener 5-3.

New York Mets snapped their 11-game losing streak with a 1-0 victory behind Al Jackson's third shutout in the opener of a twi-nit bill before St. Louis Cardinals beat Roy Daviault of Montreal in the nightcap 6-5 on Charley James' three-run homer. Chicago Cubs beat Houston Colts 5-2.

BATTING AVERAGE CLIMBS

Howard, who has raised his batting average to .308, tagged San Francisco starter Juan Marichal (13-9) for his homer in the second inning after singles by Tommy Davis and Ron Fairly.

Podres (7-7) didn't allow a runner past second base until the ninth when the Giants pushed across an unearned run on a walk to Orlando Cepeda, an error by Larry Burright, a fly ball that moved Cepeda to third and a single by pinch-hitter Bob Nieman. Podres has allowed only 10 earned runs in his last seven starts.

The Braves built a 4-0 lead but Cincy tied it 5-5 as Frank Robinson hit his 17th homer of the season and Don Pavletich connected for his first in the major leagues. Milwaukee won it in the seventh, snapping the deadlock on singles by Del Crandall and Frank Bolling, a sacrifice and Lee Maye's sacrifice fly off Jim Brosnan (4-2).

Raymond, running his won-lost record to 3-1, didn't allow a hit or give up a walk in his three-inning stint. He struck out three men.

HOMERS DECIDE GAME

Two-run homers by Tom Dennier and Ted Savage off Harvey Haddix (7-5) won the first game for the Phillies and Dallas Green (4-3), although the Pirates amassed 11 hits to Philadelphia's seven. Pittsburgh scored two runs in the seventh inning of the nightcap on singles by pinch-hitter Jim Marshall, Bill Virdon, Dick Groat and Dick Stuart to give Bob Friend (11-10) all the margin he needed with his six-hitter. Jack Baldschun (6-6) lost.

Jackson (5-2), who hadn't won since June 22, scattered nine Cardinal hits in the opener and came out a winner when the Mets scored an unearned run in the third frame on Clarence Coleman's bunt single, a sacrifice and an error by Julio Gotay. That man, Bob Gibson (13-7) a loser.

James, who earlier stroked a game-producing single, tagged Daviault (1-2) for the clincher in the eighth inning of the second game. The triumph went to Bob Duliba, his first decision. Daviault was tagged for three runs off three hits and a walk in the three innings he was on the mound.

Dick Ellsworth (6-14) went the route for the Cubs, although allowing 10 hits. Ellsworth also drove in what turned out to be the deciding run with a second inning single off Hal Woodeshick (4-10). The lone Houston run came on Carl Warwick's homer.

Retain Memorial Trophies

Maracle, Elliot Honored

Perfect-game pitcher Pat Maracle and shortstop Jackie Elliot, have captured two of the Belleville and District softball leagues top trophies for the second consecutive year.

Maracle has been voted the league's Most Valuable Player and winner of the Jimmy Barriage Memorial Trophy.

Elliot has won the Herbie Hean Memorial Trophy as the league's Most Gentlemanly and Sportsmanlike Player.

Maracle pitched his perfect game against the Bobcats on July 17. Elliot came up with a tremendous play at shortstop in the late innings of that game to aid Maracle in setting down 27 consecutive batters.

Both were given a close run for their money in the voting by team managers and coaches and members of the league executive.

Maracle, who won six games and lost two while leading Joyce Real Estate to the league pennant, received four votes just one more than Bobcat pitcher Bobby Green. Maracle led the league in strikeouts with 81 and issued only 16 walks.

Green was the Bobcat mainstay all the early games-winning pitcher on the club. He won five and lost six and was 4th of the club's batting leaders. His three clutch wins in the final two weeks of the schedule hoisted the Bobcats into the final playoff position.

Other players receiving one vote each were: Roger Drake (RCAF), Ab Wright (Bobcats), Don Cole (RCAF) and "Pug" Keller (Rolling Jrs.)

Elliott drew three votes in the Henn Trophy competition but the other eight votes were well divided. Pete Weston, of Rollins Juniors, was second with two votes while one each went to Ab Wright (Bobcats), Doug Alexander (RCAF), Pat Maracle (Joyces), Claude Carr (Joyces), Ted Belchelor (Joyces) and Floyd Crawford (Bobcats).

Elliott and Maracle will be presented with their trophies either at one of the Joyce Real Estate home games or at the league banquet immediately following the softball season.

Japanese Wife Wins 'So Solly and Sayonara!'

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

"Bill the Brute" Solowyka substituted for "Mr. Kleen" last night and should have taken, write Bruno Sammartino, the kudos for the main bout.

But he hadn't reckoned with the Nippon-ese wiles of Tora Sawa, a cunning son of the Rising Sun.

"The Brute" a well-rounded huge proportioned 305-pounder had Tora's Number One Son, the "Great Kudo" flat on his Oriental glutens maximus in the third fall.

Referee "Tiger" Takker was toiling the final count when Tora went into strategic action. "The Brute" had the wind wrenched out of "Kudo" when Tora hopped into the ring and judo-chopped the "Brute" neatly on the neck nape.

Summerino protested and the "Tiger" turned to read Rule No. 58492053, Para 42346-983, Section 667954.

He had just finished the preamble when Kudo flipped over and balanced himself atop the upside-down "Brute". The "Tiger" turned and bongo-drummed the victory "three" — and that was that.

The "Brute" was the fall guy in the first bout, too. He had the Master, Tora, in bed again bouncing him on and off the ropes until on the third rebound he ran into a judo-chop on the Adam's apple that sent him flopping down for the count.

But he got it back in the second fall. He weathered the two-handed assault of Kudo after clearing the ring of its Japanese opponents, and hoisted him aloft with a bear-bug backbreaker.

Then — and Kudo had the crowd howling with their pro-wrestling. They paid homage to a Buddha image and tattooed the ring with salt. They bowed with forehead knocking the mat. They executed strange preliminary exercises.

Popular Billy "Red" Lyons took the measure of George Kosti after eighteen minutes of the semi-final while Big Bo Stanley armlocked the illustrious Sam Steamboat the most of the time to split the fall honors after thirty minutes of battling.

Canadian Title Bout Tonight

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Canadian middleweight champion Willi Greaves of Edmonton defends his title tonight against Blair Richardson, 21, of Glace Bay in a 12-round match.

Promoter Gussie MacLellan predicts more than 6,000 will watch the fight, paying from $2 to $3 a seat. The gate is expected to break the Maritimes record—$10,400 set in a 1957 bout in Moncton between Yvon Durelle and Gordie Wallace for the British Empire light-heavyweight title.

Richardson has the better record with 34 victories, one draw and two losses in 37 professional fights. Greaves, 31, has a 30-2-16 record in 37 pro fights, has met tougher competition—including loases to Gene Fullmer and Sugar Ray Robinson.

Shades of the Bluenose

Schooner Now N.S. Pleasure Craft

Nova Scotians once again are going down to the sea in schooners.

Originally a fishing boat, the schooner took its place in history with the famed Bluenose, a Grand Banks schooner that was successful in almost all its races, and finally was lost on a reef off the coast of Haiti.

Since the days when diesel engines began to edge their way into use, popularity of the schooner as a fishing boat has steadily declined. But recently, there has been an upsurge of interest in it as a family pleasure boat.

Averaging 38 feet long, the schooner is relatively easy to handle, large enough to carry the family (a crew of five is needed in racing), safe, and because it was designed and built to withstand the ocean waves, extremely seaworthy.

To promote interest in Nova Scotia-built schooners, the Nova Scotia Schooner Association was formed last year. A number of members own what is called the Tancook Schooner, a small schooner compared to the Bluenose, averaging about 35 feet. The overall length of the original Bluenose was 143 feet.

Eight new schooners, constructed at a total cost of approximately $80,000, were built this year in South Shore boatyards. About 20 persons were employed in building the schooners during the winter.

Including the new vessels, there are now 42 schooners in the province. Many of these are expected to enter the second annual Nova Scotia championship race in Hubbards again this year.

Mr. Donald Haliburton, secretary-treasurer of the Schooner Association, says:

"We're trying to get United States sailing enthusiasts to have their boats built in Nova Scotia. It's less expensive than in the U.S. and since the builders here have been schooled in the ways of the sea, the boats are certain to be the best quality.

"The schooner is a boat that can be popular with all ages. It usually costs an average of $5,000 to $15,000, depending upon the owner's requirements.

To promote interest in the schooner, the association hopes to get other trophies — long ago hotly contested by schooner fishermen — donated for schooner racing competition.

Executives of the Nova Scotia Schooner Association are: Rear Admiral H. F. Pullen (retired), president; Dr. B. F. Miller, vice-president; Mr. Haliburton, secretary-treasurer, and Morton Pelham, chairman of the racing committee.

Middle Title Bout Postponed

WEST JORDAN, Utah (AP) — The Aug. 27 middleweight title fight at San Francisco between champion Gene Fullmer of West Jordan and Dick Tiger of Nigeria has been postponed to Sept. 12, Marv Jenson, Fullmer's manager, says.

Jenson said Friday the change was made because sponsors of a closed-circuit television telecast of the fight demanded a fight date which could be followed immediately by a secondary date in case the fight should be delayed by rain.

"The Giants are due back at Candlestick Park Aug. 28 for a night game so we'd be stuck in case of a postponement," said Lester Maltz, head of a packaging firm which is handling the theatre-TV of the fight.

"We checked the baseball schedule for a suitable replacement date and figured Wednesday, Sept. 12, was the best since the Giants go on the road for a long trip starting Sept. 13."

Peter Ustinov Successful In Wide Variety of Fields

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—When Peter Ustinov was born, he was such a bouncing big baby his parents weren't sure which way was up.

Today there are no doubts. Four intervening decades show that the only way he knows is up—and up again.

At a mellowed, easy-going, 41, as outsized as ever, the extrawide boy wonder of the British theatre swivels from one conquest to another without hardly taking a deep breath.

Currently he is:

Finishing The False Hands, his second novel;

Directing Billy Budd, an ambitious film;

Playing the lead role in his own play, Photo Finish.

All these are concurrent. Somehow recently he found time to direct three operas at the Covent Garden opera house — Ravel's L'Heure Espagnole, Schoenberg's Erwartung and Puccini's Gianni Schicchi.

The blend of French, German and Italian was no strain at all for one who can handle most European languages, including Russian.

MANY TALENTS

He is author, actor, director, producer, everything in the theatre and a linguist; linguist, bon viveur, gifted story-teller; political commentator, Common Market advocate, commentator on tennis at Wimbledon—he loves the game—and collector of the masters.

His father is Byelorussian, his mother Franco-Russian, his grandfather built Warsaw Cathedral and his grandmother, he says cryptically, came from Ethiopia.

He has links with Canada through his actress wife Suzanne Cloutier of Quebec. She appeared in the British film Quartet in the House and with the late Gerard Philipe in the French film Juliette, ou la Clef des Songes.

Suzanne's father, Edmond, is former Queen's Printer of Canada. During the fuss four years ago over Cloutier's responsibilities for the new government printing building at Hull, Que., Ustinov took to reading the Canadian Hansard from cover to cover.

"I got pretty mad, I remember," says Ustinov, who confirms his internationalism in typically tongue-in-cheek fashion by noting he was born in London's Swiss Cottage district, which has nothing to do with Switzerland.

FINE SCAGONTEUR

At a Commonwealth luncheon, he gave reporters a glimpse of his linguistic virtuosity, switching into French and German as he recounted anecdotes which The Evening Standard described as "dazzling."

Ustinov — say it oo-stee-nov with the stress on the second syllable—knows the newspaper world. His father was a Reuters News Agency correspondent in Berlin and his earliest memories include the noises Ustinov senior made as he excitedly telephoned stories to London.

Introduced at the luncheon as the prototype of the new Englishman, as "this bearded Common Market of a man, this cosmic accumulation of talents, this one-man national theatre, this linguistic monster," he was astonishingly:

"Hard to come on after that introduction. After all, most of it is true."

In his speech he recalled wartime months stationed on the English coast at the nearest point to the continent. With him was a Polish tailor who spoke only German. "It often wonder what Hitler would have thought had he known that the two British soldiers closest to Germany could communicate only in German."

Another story concerned a film — witted English aristocrat listening to a French-Canadian senator explain Quebec separatism, and concluding: "It—it is—rather like our Mau Mau in Kenya, what?"

But you have to hear Ustinov tell it, complete with accents.

AT THE BELLE — "State Fair". This perennial favorite is back again at the Belle, in a new form to Belleville, with Pat Boone and Ann-Margret, heading a cast of favorites including Pat Boone, Bobby Darin, Pamela Tiffin, Alice Faye and Tom Ewell. Rodgers and Hammerstein's heartwarming romance, in Color by De Luxe and CinemaScope, is continuing today, Monday and Tuesday at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

At The Park
STARTS MONDAY

"Night Creatures" are Terrorizing Sister

"Night Creatures," the thrilling and dramatic story which relates the strange and uncanny events that have turned a countryside into a territory of terror, is set to open Monday on the screen of the Park Theatre for its first showings.

Filmed in color, the picture stars Peter Cushing in the most exciting role he has played since his "Dracula" and Frankenstein" films.

The suspenseful adventure also stars the ravishing beauty, Yvonne Romain, Patrick Allen and Oliver Reed. Released by Universal International, "Night Creatures" is a Hammer-Major production by John Temple Smith and directed by Peter Graham Scott.

SECOND FEATURE

Thief Trap is Plot for Dramatic Thriller

The suspenseful drama of a man ordered by the police to turn thief to trap a notorious underworld organization — an event which turns into murder and blackmail—is the chilling story unfolded in "Information Received," which opens Monday on the screen of the Park Theatre for its first showings.

Starring Kathleen Sesselman, William Sylvester, Academy Award nominee Hermione Baddeley and Edward Underdown, "Information Received" was produced by United Co-Productions Ltd., and directed by Robert Lynn from an original story by Berkeley Mather and the screenplay by Paul Rider. The picture is released by Universal-International.

Complete shows at 7.00 and 8.45.

Film Factories Are Busy Grinding Out TV Programs

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is the time when the television film industry starts working full blast.

The film factories, full of hope and acrid problems, are preparing their new product, which will start reaching the home screens in September. None of the factories is busier than Four Star.

Powell was seated alone at the long conference table in Four Star's sumptuous offices. Neither of his partners, Charles Boyer nor David Niven, were there, though the latter's Oscar stood on the table.

Dick himself had been working in one of the 10 Dick Powell shows he will appear in next season. This one is a blockbuster which will probably open the season.

IMPRESSIVE CAST

As with last year's opener, he'll have an impressive cast: Mickey Rooney, Barbara Stanwyck, Lloyd Nolan, Jackie Cooper, Edgar Bergen and wife Frances, and June Allyson.

No, wife June won't be doing much more work for Four Star. "She's happier when she isn't working; so am I."

Powell reviewed last season's casualties: The Gertrude Berg Show ("A good series, but poor ratings"); Target: The Corruptors ("not the best show in the world, but good ratings"); Robert Taylor's Detectives ("we might have gone a fourth year") but the cops got pounced back with four new shows:

Ensign O'Toole, a navy comedy with Dean Jones—"I think it will be the sleeper of the year."

"McKeever and the Colonel," another service comedy—in a boys' military school.

The Lloyd Bridges Show, in which the former snorkler will play a different role each week.

How does Powell view the coming season?

"I think the general run of entertainment will be about the same, with perhaps a bit more emphasis on the lighter side. The only real trend is the decline of westerns. But they'll come back. They always do."

AT THE PARK — Lovely Sabrina Sesselman and William Sylvester are pictured in a tender clinch as Scotland Yard opens Monday at the Park Theatre, the chilling suspense drama of a police plot to trap an underworld organization of blackmail and murder. Also starring in the screen thriller, a Universal-International release, are Hermione Baddeley and Edward Underdown. On the same program is newsreel item to face at to die of fright, "Night Creatures," starring Peter Cushing, Yvonne Romain, Patrick Allen and Oliver Reed. Shows start at 7.00 and 8.45.

Young Coloratura Soprano Is Soaring Towards Stars

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—One of the most promising opera singers at the Royal College of Music this year was once a three - year - old pavement artist who sang To the Stars for wartime troops in the Maritimes.

Now Annon Lee Silver, a slender 22-year-old coloratura soprano from Glace Bay, N.S., is soaring towards the stars herself. Professors at the college think she'll make it.

Annon Lee has been studying at RCM since 1958, though her accomplished piano player, she has been concentrating on opera for the last two years and hopes to take lessons in Italy this summer.

"I've found my voice maturing and stretching to its full power recently," she said. "I'll reach its peak when I'm about 25. I was surprised to find that girls' voices break as well as boys'.

"I now sing so loudly that I had to leave my old apartment — a lovely garret—because the landlady, although slightly deaf, complained when I practised.

"It's awful in London trying to find a place to sing. So frustrating if you sing at half pitch your throat tightens up and everything seems to go wrong."

WON SCHOLARSHIPS

The college has helped her find a new flat in a house with a music room where "I can sing to my heart's content."

Annon Lee, encouraged by her parents, has been singing for as long as she can remember.

"When I was three or four I remember them coming for me in a jeep and taking me out to army and air force bases. I stood on a chair and sang sentimental songs. Soldiers of the King was the one I did best."

She received degrees in arts and music from New Brunswick's Mount Allison University and came to Britain on a Sexsmyth-brook scholarship. After her first year Lord Beaverbrook invited her to tea and was so impressed by her ability and ambitions that he renewed the scholarship.

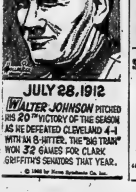
In her third year she was given a Nova Scotia Talent Trust grant and now has a Canada Council grant. At one stage she supplemented her income by teaching in a London secondary school.

GOT LEADING ROLES

This spring she sang leading parts in two college operas, playing Jenny Diver in The Beggar's Opera, a production conducted by Sir Malcolm Sargent, and Olinda in Prima Donna.

"It was the first time I'd sung with a full orchestra. It was marvellous."

Annon Lee has also sung at several concerts and recitals. Last year at a friend's request she played the Earth Mother in the annual Druid ceremony at Stonehenge — complete with a cornucopia of cider.



The highest fee she has been offered so far is 10 guineas to sing Debussy's Forgotten Airs at the famed Little Missenden Festival next October.

It was her rendition of these songs at a Richmond concert that aroused one critic to praise her "strong, round and well-coloured voice" and predict "she will make a beautiful heroine for opera."

MARITIMES DRAMA

An eight-episode dramatization of Thomas Haliburton's Nova Scotia novel, "Wings of Night" will be seen on CBC-TV next spring.

Sprinter Satisfied With Mile

MONTREAL (CP) — "I wasn't good," said Ottawa Track Club's Bob Fisher-Smith, "but if I can run that well under three conditions I should be able to do pretty well at the British Empire Games trials."

The flashy Ottawa sprinter was commenting on the 3.8-second finish that won him the 100-yard dash at a rain-soaked cinder track at the Eastern Canada senior track meet Friday.

It was the final hundred over Miles, Spencer and Normen Sinclair, both of Toronto Track and Field Club, who recorded 11-10.1 and 10.2 respectively.

Another highlight of the meet was the record-breaking time in the 55-metre hurdles chalked up by Cliff Harding of Montreal. She won in 11.9 seconds, surpassing her own provincial record and record set equalling the Quebec open record.

Bob Shirley of the host St. Lambert club retained the six-mile title he won in the Quebec senior meet last weekend but was pushed hard by David Leich. Scottish-born runner from Montreal, Shirley's time was 31:20.6.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Friday's race program at the Fort Erie Race Track featured the dead heat of the first time a jockey rode both ends of the daily double, the disqualification of the meeting and the first feature event won by Tom Surcotte.

Ron Turcotte was a stride Close to Me and Harry Hanson on up on Artificio when they crossed on even terms in the first race.

In the second Turcotte got Close to Me home by a head. Those who coupled Artificio and Days of Wine received a daily double payout of $8.10 while those who held a ticket on Close to Me and the second winner received $6.20.

Turcotte likewise looked a winner in the third when she impeded Reckless Lady as the pair raced down the wire. Bright Reward was disqualified and placed second, with Reckless Lady being moved to first place.

Turcotte got his third winner of the meet on Suave Knight in the $2,800 feature for three-year-olds at one mile on the grass course. Absent Son was second and Burez Roman third. The winner ran round with King Gorm in the field of seven and posted a time of 1:39 2-5 for the eight furlongs. Trey Slave paid $8.50, $4.30 and $2.60.

WONDERS of NATURE
By Ripley
In the dark depths of the ocean the phosphorescent beasts that feed on the sea animals, found in bone basalt rocks.
Suddenly, in the distance, a flock of lights might be seen, like the headlights of a car. They are the deep-sea fish, which have two illuminating soots, each close to either eye.
These deep-sea fish have enormous mouths with many dagger-like teeth. The head and mouth is much larger than the rest of its body.
The fish can turn their "lights" on or off at will, and they flash and even turn them off. This illumination is important for tracking and enticing their prey.
These spots have till a transparent membrane, of a lens, like a magnifier, and fill a large number of luminous organisms.

New Brunswick Announces Another Open Moose Season

By JOHN MOSHER

FREDERICTON (CP) — New Brunswick's third consecutive open season on moose this fall poses the question: How many are there in the province?

Hunters reported observing 1,846 during the brief 1951 season. Beyond that, no one knows.

Most of the big game animals were last reported still in southeastern New Brunswick, mainly Albert county, with the centre moving north and west.

A steady decline forced a closed season the year round starting in 1937. The number was considered big enough to justify limited killing in 1950. Newfoundland has been the only other Atlantic province to allow moose-hunting in recent years.

In announcing a 1953 open season, Lands Minister J. H. Crocker indicated a possible increase in the number of licences. He said probably more hunters will be out after moose than the 1,000 in previous seasons. Dates will be Nov. 5-10 in Albert county and parts of Saint John, King's and Westmorland counties; Nov. 7-10 elsewhere.

LIMIT ONE MOOSE

Licences, costing $25 and permitting the holder to bag one bull moose anywhere in the province, have been restricted to resident applicants recruited in an annual public drawing here.

Of 17,121 applications last year, 800 names were drawn but 29 didn't use their right to acquire licences, in 1952, of 400 drawn from 14,000 applications, 383 took licences.

The 1952 season was five days. Nov. 28-Dec. 2. Last year it was shortened to four days and additional shoot a month. The season was held earlier because the bull shed their antlers in late November and many are mistaken for cow moose and not shot.

The ratio of successful hunters was lower than previous both years. Hunters shot only 178 moose in 1950 and 284 in 1951, the respective years the season ran and 36 per cent. When moose are plentiful, the ratio is, for example—nearly 1,600 were shot.

Women hunters proportionately did a little better than men last November. They had 133 of the 771 licences and bagged 26 of the total 264 kill, giving them a success ratio of 35 per cent against 34 per cent for men.

Brian C. Carter, land department wildlife biologist, reports he had generally in better condition than the bulls with the animals fatter and showing less tick infestation.

Bob Ruttan, son of Mrs. Lorne Ruttan, of Tweed, is pictured above in a Saskatchewan Government photo with "King," a husky of wildlife and movie renown. Mr. Ruttan is a scientist with the Department of Natural Resources in Saskatchewan. "King" was featured in the movie "Nicki" but more recently has been busy sled pulling. "King," with the assistance of other huskies, and guided by Bob Ruttan, recently completed a two-week ground survey of woodland caribou in the Ile-a-la-Crosse and Pahunak area. The rigidly protected woodland caribou population is reported on the increase. In a few years it is planned to allow limited public caribou hunting, wildlife officials report. Before that time arrives, officials say, more basic information about the species is needed, and "King" is likely to spend more time on his feet that in the footlights. Mr. Ruttan's home is in Prince Edward, Saskatchewan.

Bank Declares More Business Growth Likely

MONTREAL — Many economic indicators "still point upwards and some further expansion of business activity in both Canada and the U.S. can still be expected, according to the Bank of Montreal's July Business Review, just issued.

The review says the current trends in business activity are conflicting. Taken together, however, they "do not by any means provide conclusive evidence that a mood of pessimism about the immediate outlook is justified", especially when a high level of consumer spending is continuing to sustain the current expansion in Canada, the bank adds.

The B of M recalls that during the past two years the North American economy has moved "through a mild recession into a period of expansion which is continuing at the present time".

"However", it continues, "recent developments, particularly the break in security prices on world stock markets, have raised questions as to the immediate outlook and in both Canada and the United States, businessmen are now very sensitive to any signs that suggest a levelling out in business activity".

VARIED FACTORS

Current cautiousness is attributed to a number of factors, the review continues. In the U.S., for instance, in addition to the drop in the stock market and a decline in corporation profits, the rate of inventory accumulation has also fallen and prices of industrial materials have weakened.

"On the other hand, there has been a generally encouraging trend in consumer spending, supported by rising levels of personal income", the bank says. "Furthermore, the announcement earlier this year of increased depreciation allowances in the United States is expected to encourage higher business spending on new plant and equipment".

At home, the review says it is still too soon to assess with any degree of accuracy the likely effect of Canada's new austerity measures. However, the B of M believes that the new external value for the Canadian dollar should provide a definite stimulus to export industries, while the temporary surcharge on imports should also lead to increased domestic production in certain lines, with a consequent increase in employment.

"The extent and duration of such an increase in activity will, of course, be influenced by trends in domestic prices and costs. Furthermore, the expansionary effects could be tempered by fiscal and monetary measures which are an integral part of the emergency program that had to be undertaken in defence of the Canadian dollar".

MONARCHS OF THE NORTH — These long-necked polar bears are considered kings of the Arctic and their living habits are being studied to develop a management program that will assure their survival. A survey by the Canadian Wildlife Service is headed by Dick Harrington, 29-year-old Calgary zoologist. Because of his job he's the only white man legally allowed "to walk and shoot polar bears in the Canadian North. (CP Photo from NFB.)

Shoots Eight Polar Bears But Does It Within Law, Works for the Government

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Many a big game hunter would give his eye teeth to be in Dick Harington's shoes.

Dick shoots polar bears. He's bagged eight on a three-month trip to the Canadian Arctic this spring, using a .270-calibre British sporting rifle.

He did it legally, too, despite a long-standing law that prohibits white men from hunting polar bears in the Canadian North.

Dick Harington is a government zoologist, and the shooting —which he dislikes—is all in the interests of the great white bears that roam the top of the world.

The 29-year-old native of Calgary has one of the most difficult current assignments in the Canadian Wildlife Service, the federal agency which studies birds and wildlife for protective purposes. He is trying to determine the number of polar bears in Canada, their annual increase, living habits, denning areas and sex ratio.

Such information—now based on guesswork—is vital to the establishment of a management program which will assure the survival of Thalarctos Maritimus, the scientific label for this sleek, long-necked king of the Arctic.

MEMBERS DECLINING

Dick may be racing against time.

Reports from the Soviet Union, Greenland and Norway indicate that the polar bear is declining which might reach the danger point soon. Over-hunting has been blamed.

Canada restricts the shooting of polar bears to Eskimo and Indian hunters and even they are forbidden from taking cubs, or females with cubs, in the eastern Arctic. Despite this, killing has mounted steadily in recent years. During the 1956-59 period it is estimated that natives killed nearly 3,000.

"There is a danger limit somewhere," Harington says. His job is to find it. Then regulations can be made to ensure that the annual kill stays below that level. If it goes higher, then the polar bear will be on a gradual slide into extinction.

The polar bear has two strikes against him now. The automatic rifle has made it easier for native hunters to kill him and the growing market for his unique pelt has made him a more attractive target.

Not many years ago the Canadian Eskimo hunted bears as a sideline, using the fur for himself and the meat as a welcome change of diet for his family and his dogs. A pelt sold for under $15.

Today, with radar and defence bases strung across the north, a big market has been established for the skins. A prime one will bring about $80 with the sharper native traders of the western Arctic getting up to $125.

An Eskimo hunter with an annual income of about $500 from other sources can double his earnings on a half-dozen bears which he ordinarily would kill. Much of the meat goes to waste.

Worried about the situation, the government is preaching conservation through northern service officers, RCMP patrols and defence system. But the results are best illustrated by this report from the RCMP detachment at Pangnirtung on Baffin Island:

"We . . . have been asked to stress conservation to the Eskimo and to enforce the Game Act to its fullest extent in regards to the illegal killing of bears. This has placed us in what may be defined an undesirable position with the natives, because as soon as we began to advocate conservation of polar bears the Hudson's Bay Company raised its fur price from the usual $35 for a prime skin to as high as $90."

The lanky, sandy-haired zoologist who has tackled the problem divides his time between Arctic trips and his studies in his space at the University of Ottawa biology building. He is here now compiling diet and bone growth reports from the eight animals he collected in the spring. Their pelts were given to his Eskimo guide.

"It's unfortunate we have to shoot some," he told an interviewer. "But a polar bear won't just stand there while you measure his skull."

Last year he tried it the hard way. He went north with an air rifle and drug-tipped darts hoping to stun animals in their dens, examine them and leave them to regain consciousness.

But the rifle froze and wouldn't fire. He tied darts on poles at stuck them through snow into dens beneath. The tips broke, the bears roared and Dick Harington became the Arctic's champion miller.

This August he will be back north, to test an aerial count of bears on the coast of Southampton Island.

The Golden Years

Hints on How Adult Children Can Help Their Aging Parents

By THOMAS COLLINS

There are those among the adult children of the country who would like to be of service to their retirement-age parents. Here is how they can be:

1. Recognize the fact that the normal man retiring in 1962 was born in 1897, reached maturity as World War I ended, and may never have finished high school. The normal child of this father, on reaching maturity in the late thirties, more educated and more savvy about the post-war world and less bashfulness. (The child, if he or she won't call it paternal, could be a competent adviser.

2. Advise first on the parent's life insurance. Many older parents are afraid to inquire about the insurance because they fear the man will try to sell them some more. Also they fear they will look stupid. So they ride with what they have. The child can call to explain the various options available to a man about to retire, any of which may be more desirable than what the parent now has. Insurance companies are good about this, but the parent doesn't know it. The presence of a child is reassuring.

CHECK INTO PENSION

3. Look next into Papa's pension. He is usually hazy about what it provides but is reluctant to go to the front office and ask the sort of frank questions needed for him to know what he's getting . . . such as deferring part of the pension for his widow, etc. A child, with the parent's consent, can usually find out.

4. Determine whether the retiring parent can see to read. Just as older men wistfully comb fading wisps of hair across their bald pates, they also cover up their failing eyesight, in doing so they sacrifice one of the great treasures of retirement, which is reading. Like the newspaper. Usually they can read a bit, but they need glasses or a change of glasses and thus grow tired. But the parent again is too bashful to go for a test, or feels he can't afford it, and the pleasure of reading fades away. The child can insist on a test, and can buy the glasses needed.

5. Ferret the way for some sensible investment advice for the parent. The child, if anything short of a banker, has no business giving the parent investment advice. But the child's broader knowledge of the world can lead the parent to consult Role brokers and bankers who can give it. And once more the child has less bashfulness about asking questions. Many retirement-age parents are keeping their savings in accounts that pay them 2 per cent return, or less, or hiding them at home. Prodding them to demand a bank checking account. The child can find ways to get them a safe 4 per cent.

VISITING SCHEDULE

6. Set up some system whereby the retiring parents can see the children and grandchildren on some regular schedule. Not by moving in next door because the parent generally finds the situation far from the fulfillment he wanted. Maybe a weekly or monthly visit. Maybe a plan whereby the grandchildren spend the night with Gramps every two weeks. Something . . . something regular and dependable. The child will have to arrange it. The parent won't.

7. Find a lawyer who is trustworthy, take him to the parent, prove to the parent he is not a crook, (really he's not,) and leave them be — for the parent to discuss a will, and income taxes, talk over provisions made for his wife, explore the complications of moving to another state, make arrangements for a cemetery lot and funeral arrangements. If this is a lawyer the child has chosen wisely, there will not be a big fee. And the parent will get a service that is almost impressive nowadays for the person who retires.

8. Determine if the parent can hear well, and if his feet hurt. There are a good many stores that sell hearing aids, and a few here and there in the cities that sell special comfort shoes that can bring sighs of pleasure to 65-year-old feet. Either or both make nice birthday presents for a child to give. Or Christmas presents. Or presents for no reason at all.

Guerrilla Junta Takes Control Of Algiers

Believed to Favor Power of Ben Bella

ALGIERS (AP) — Algerian guerrilla troops had Algiers today after a bloodless coup believed to favor the quest for power of dissident Vice-Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

Several opponents of Ben Bella were arrested. Among them was Amar Ouzegzki, political commissar of the Algerian autonomous zone, which the guerrilla leaders, said was dissolved.

Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda and officials of his government were not molested.

Two thousand guerrillas of the Wilaya (Zone IV surrounding Algiers occupied the city at dawn, Sunday. Their commander-in-chief, Col. Si Hassan, said he hopes to form a junta of Wilaya commanders to head the government until elections are held in the newly independent state. Elections for a constituent assembly are scheduled Aug. 12.

The guerrilla command announced it took control to establish national unity, to safeguard the gains of the capital to all factions seeking solutions to the political problems.

MAY SET UP EMBASSY

The Algerian command was considered a prelude to the installation in Algiers of the seven-man political bureau that Ben Bella is sponsoring.

In Paris, Ben Bella's right-hand man, Mohammed Khider, said a press conference the political bureau would be in Algiers Thursday or Friday. It was set up in Ben Bella's native city of Tlemcen under Ben Bella's control.

But Khider also warned: "The situation is very grave if stability is not established within a month. I fear the worst."

The guerrilla troops rolled into the capital aboard flag-decorated trucks and jeeps, loaded them from the nearby Mitidja plain.

They first seized Radio Algiers, which beamed their appeal to the population for "calm and support."

Then city remained quiet. The only sign of the coup were soldiers in splotched camouflage uniforms and combat boots up in some streets in predominantly Moslem areas.

APPOINTED COMMANDER

Col. Hassan appointed Maj. Si Salah commander of the city.

Officials of Ben Khedda's regime said the guerrilla coup "restored the status quo." They insisted Hassan acted to do away with "illegal, power usurped by the autonomous zone army and party."

There was no evidence of any fighting between the Algerian guerrillas and the troops of the autonomous zone. The latter apparently failed to guard some official buildings.

AERIAL TOUCHES WIRE, KILLS MAN AND BURNS HOME

Seven Killed, Two Seriously Hurt in Crash

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP) — Two children were fighting for their lives today after injuries suffered in a two-car crash that killed seven persons, including their father, mother, brother and three sisters. They were returning from a family reunion.

A man was on the critical list as a result of the collision Saturday night on a twisting stretch of the Cariboo Highway nine miles south of here. A mother and her two sons also were injured in the mishap which RCMP said was the worst on record in the British Columbia interior.

Killed were Steven Kuzik, 29, his wife, Eleanor, 25, their children, Judy, 7, Joseph, 5, Linda, 4, and Wendy, five months, and Alfred Joseph Carriere about 30, of Quesnel, Alexandria.

CONDITION CRITICAL

In critical condition were Paisley Marion, 5, and his brother, Cindy Lou, 2.

Otto Thompson of Alexandria suffered severe brain injuries 20 minutes after the crash when he was on his way to or after visiting directing traffic with a flashlight at the scene of the wreck.

Police said the Parsons were returning to their home at Williams Lake, 55 miles south of here, when their car was in collision with Carriere's car.

Injured in the second car were Mrs. Myrtle Heibert of Alexandria and her two sons, Keith, 8, and Darryl, 5.

Wreckage and bodies were strewn along the highway. The car which struck Thompson knocked a parked vehicle into the ditch, setting it on fire.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A trough a low pressure from James Bay to Lake Superior and southwestward is moving eastward and is expected to reach the lower Lake late tonight. Thunderstorms are occurring along the trough. Behind the trough cooler air has entered northwestern Ontario and will bring lower temperatures to all of the province Tuesday.

TO QUARANTINE SALES YARDS IN QUE. ONTARIO

Attempt to Stop Hog Cholera Spread

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

All auction sales yards in Ontario and Quebec will be quarantined as a precautionary measure to further the further spread of hog cholera, a federal agriculture department spokesman said.

In Toronto, Dr. G. H. Collacutt, Ontario district veterinarian for the department's health of animals division, said all Ontario community auction centres will be closed to swine immediately but "sale of hogs for immediate slaughter will be allowed under federal license."

Dr. Collacutt said the quarantine would not affect sales of other livestock through community yards.

In Quebec, Dr. O. Sennetville, federal veterinarian, said hog cholera is increasing at an alarming rate and all Quebec auction centres will be placed under quarantine effective today.

Dr. Sennetville said 20 farms in the province had been quarantined in 13 countries. Twenty-four infections in six Ontario counties were under the ban and would have to be disinfected.

KILL 10,000 HOGS

More than 10,000 hogs have been killed in Quebec as a result of the disease, which is not transmissible to humans, Dr. Sennetville added.

The two-province quarantine of sales facilities came after a meeting Thursday of federal agriculture officials at the office of the veterinary director-general.

Dr. Collacutt said the meeting discussed means of "improving natural resistance to swine and the hog cholera outbreak."

Dr. Sennetville said the government is having difficulty finding all the infected pork because many farmers did not report the disease to department officials.

Peru President Is Released by Military Junta

LIMA (AP) — Peru's ruling military junta has waited today for a thaw in relations with the United States following the junta's release of deposed president Manuel Prado.

In Washington a state department spokesman said "we're very happy that Dr. Prado has been released." He would not say, however, whether the move would help speed the U.S. recognition of the junta and restoration of the economic and military aid cut off in February. A July 18 overthrow of Prado's successor.

The junta had promised to release Prado as soon as his six-year presidential term — a president expired Saturday.

Convicted Red Spy, Dr. Soblen, Offered Asylum by Unnamed Land

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Robert A. Soblen has been offered asylum in an unnamed European country, friends said today.

The man under life sentence in the United States as a Soviet spy cannot take advantage of the offer until Britain's approval of Home Secretary Henry Brooke. Soblen's wife, Lona, a London prison swelling last-ditch legal moves to free her husband from jail. He is scheduled to say whether the country which has proposed asylum is in western Europe or the Commonwealth.

They arranged to petition the High Court of Lords for permission to appeal to that body, Britain's highest law tribunal. The Lords sitting as a judicial body last week turned down his appeal to be freed in Britain.

Soblen's other hope is a favorable decision from the Home Secretary on his petition for political asylum in Britain. Brooke may announce his decision in the House of Commons before Friday, when Parliament goes into summer recess.

Soblen jumped $100,000 bail in the United States last month and fled to Israel. He was expelled and slashed himself with a razor in a plane bound for London enroute to the United States.

The 61-year-old psychiatrist lost a second effort Sunday to win refuge in Israel. The cabinet unanimously upheld the interior ministry's refusal to let him enter as an immigrant.

While his lawyers there planned to appeal the cabinet's decision to Israeli Supreme Court, friends in London mapped final legal moves to block his return to the United States.

They arranged to petition the High Court of Lords for permission to appeal to that body, Britain's highest law tribunal. The Lords sitting as a judicial body last week turned down his appeal to be freed in Britain.

Soblen's other hope is a favorable decision from the Home Secretary on his petition for political asylum in Britain. Brooke may announce his decision in the House of Commons before Friday, when Parliament goes into summer recess.

Angry Denials Follow Statements of Self-Styled Undercover RCMP Agent

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Charlotte McDeen, chairman of the Ottawa area group of the Voice of Women, said today she has obtained a signed statement from Gerry Gilvin, a self-styled former RCMP agent Communist agent, which says:

"I do not know of any Communist member who holds a position on either the national or any provincial committee of the Voice of Women."

Mrs. McDeen said she got the signed statement from Mr. MacDonald Saturday because he said a second press conference to discuss his claims of Communist infiltration in various Canadian organizations.

He said VOW, the new Democratic Party and the bans-the-bomb groups all are prime targets for Communist infiltration and that communist secret members had joined VOW by the score. The women's group is a relatively new organization opposed to nuclear testing, nuclear armament, racial discrimination and anti-semitism.

Mrs. McDeen said the statement by Mr. MacDonald followed a five-hour talk with him and it was signed in the presence of a colleague with her, at the home of a friend of Mr. MacDonald.

She said Mr. MacDonald could name only three persons he said were VOW Communist infiltrators and that he possessed no evidence for his allegations.

He offered, however, to try and get some names from two anti-Communist organizations in Ottawa with whom he was going to be in touch," she said, Mr. MacDonald, expelled from the Communist party's Ontario leadership, told reporters

3,000 Sask. Families Join Non-Profit Medical Clinics

REGINA (CP)—An estimated 3,000 Saskatchewan families have taken out memberships in non-profit co-operative medical clinics that are springing up in five centres. Ten other communities are making arrangements for clinics and 15 area associations are being set up, a total of the idea has caught on in 30 communities.

Bill Hartley, chairman of the provincial council of Community Health Services, said September drives are planned under way in almost every centre.

He estimated the clinics he knew to be functioning had sold a total of 3,000 memberships. "This exciting development appears to be a stimulating opportunity to work with people in their communities to preserve medical services," said Mr. Hartley, a community development expert who recently returned from a one-year stint with the United Nations technical assistance organization in Liberia.

Clinics at Prince Albert and Regina are considered to serve as models for others in the province.

Citizens who supported the government's compulsory, prepaid comprehensive scheme started organizing the clinics before a doctors' boycott went into effect July 1. Doctors who drew services, except on an emergency basis, in protest of implementation of the government plan.

Financial Responsibility Disclaimed by Federal Govt.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A report from a Hamilton woman during the weekend that she has seven-month-old twin boys and fathered by cabinet's increased to 40 the number of known cases where deformed babies have been born to Canadian mothers who took the drug thalidomide.

Federal Health Minister Monteith, reached at his Stratford home, said his department sympathized with the parents but confirmed earlier Ottawa statements that no financial help would be given.

Meanwhile, authorities in the United States, where federal health officials banned the drug before it could be sold, said the worst over the deformities has prompted them to revamp methods of controlling new drugs.

The drug — the legal of the U.S. market by Vancouver-born Dr. Frances Oldham Kelsey of the Federal Drug Administration.

At Victoria, Dr. Brock Chisholm said a special federal commission should decide whether or not babies deformed by the drug thalidomide should be allowed to live.

Whether it would be more cruel to let these babies live

NINETEEN KILLED AS BASEBALL TRAIN WRECKED

Officials Say Track Out of Alignment

STEELTON, Pa. (AP) — A Pennsylvania railroad official says the derailment of a special baseball train in which 19 persons were killed and 100 were injured "was apparently the result of track being out of alignment."

"But a definite cause cannot be assigned until a thorough investigation has been completed," said James F. Newell, the Pennsylvania's vice - president in charge of operations.

Newell's statement concerning the track being out of alignment was based on first-hand reports given by Howard C. Kohout, the railroad's regional manager in Philadelphia. Kohout directed the salvage and repair operations. Crews worked throughout Saturday night to repair the 1,500 feet of track.

PLUNGE INTO RIVER

With its main line back in service, the railroad began preparations today to raise the death cars which tumbled down a 40-foot embankment into the shallow waters of the Susquehanna River. The railroad will rebuild the cars as part of the investigation.

The train, carrying fans to a National League baseball game in Philadelphia, left nearby Harrisburg—where it had been boarded—at 5 p.m. It was rolling along about 70 miles an hour, Kohout reported, at 7:30 when the derailment occurred on a curve between the Steelton and Highspire stations.

Company plant in this central Pennsylvania steel town. Officials said the speed limit is 75 m.p.h.

Railroad officials said the stretch of track at Steelton was used by 40 or 45 trains a day. The hour before the train was boarded—at 5 p.m. It was rolling along about 70 miles an hour, Kohout reported, at 7:30 when the derailment occurred over the same stretch.

The cars which tumbled into the river—the last three—were the only ones occupied. Two of the coaches also left the rails but remained upright. The two, along with three more up front, were the ones that the railroad were to board the train along the 90-mile run at Lancaster and Coatesville.

The death toll might have been higher except that the broad stream is extremely low because of the drought, officials said.

Peanuts, pennants, little boys' baseball caps and lunch baskets littered one of the river's eddies and children going to see a baseball game could be seen floating on the river.

"You saw those bodies along the river," a witness said the coaches in the water and you could see the rockets and torpedoes under the water's surface.

Rescue workers arrived about the wreck. There were at least 10 dead on the bank above the river. "I know because I saw them the last rites."

At Reading Fort Stadium in Philadelphia, thousands of fans rose from their seats to pay silent tribute to the victims.

24 Million Lbs. Of Uranium Sold To Britain

Will Be Delivered Over Period Into Early 70's

OTTAWA (CP) — The United Kingdom will buy 24,000,000 pounds of Canadian uranium at a price of more than $128,000,000, terms of a contract signed here today after protracted negotiations between the two governments.

The contract was signed following renegotiation of 1957 letters of intent to which Britain signified that it was prepared to buy this amount of uranium at a price of some $128,000,000. That meant a price of $8 a ton but the price disclosed today is $5.33 a ton.

Deliveries under the contract, signed for Trade Minister Hees for Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited of Canada and by Sir Roger Makins, chairman of the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority, will take place over a period extending into the early 1970's.

While the letters of intent were exchanged between the two Crown agencies in 1957, they did not become public knowledge until March of 1961. After their disclosure, Britain asked for lowered prices for uranium and delivery schedules in view of changed uranium market conditions, with a heavy world surplus.

The contract will carry into effect the letters of intent between the two organizations, changed in the spring of 1961," said a joint statement.

It will give a basic price of $5.53 a pound compared with $8 originally envisaged. However, this figure will rise under a provision providing for premium and carrying charges to be paid by Britain for deferment of deliveries.

The statement said the contract will have the effect of extending the period of operation of Canadian uranium production by about 12 months under the dates by which they will complete deliveries under existing contracts with Eldorado.

REVIVES INDUSTRY

Signing of the contract gives a new lease on life to Canadian uranium companies, particularly Rio Tinto Bancroft and Blind River areas of Ontario.

Its terms are of great interest to assure the continuation of a healthy uranium industry, Canada until the early 1970's when uranium is expected to be in short supply for both peace time statistics and nonnuclear uses.

The 1957 letters of intent called for a price of $8 a pound. But the British refused to take with deliveries to take place between 1962 and 1966.

However, the letters were exchanged at a time when world demand for uranium was at a peak and Britain needed the metal for its weapons and atomic power programs.

This picture changed drastically with the discovery of large uranium resources in many parts of the world and a situation that no substantial amounts of uranium would be required for the British A-bomb or H-bomb program.

World's Most Modern Navy Boast Of Soviet Admiral in Article

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia has built the world's most modern navy, its chief claims. Admiral Sergei Gorshkov said in a July 1 article in the Communist party's theoretical magazine Kommunist. It does with nuclear warheads.

The Soviet naval commander made the boast Saturday in Pravda, Pravda's article commemorating Navy Day, which the Soviet Union included a television program from the Baltic port of Leningrad. Gorshkov's article that resembled U.S. nuclear-powered submarines armed with missiles similar to the U.S. Polaris.

"The Soviet fleet is now more modern than the navy of any capitalist country," Gorshkov wrote in Pravda.

"The basis of our naval fleet is atomic submarines armed with powerful rockets and homing torpedoes with nuclear warheads. They have high speed, great depth of submersion and can operate for extended periods in the most distant regions."

Soviet Vice-Admiral S. Zakharov said Saturday Soviet nuclear submarines are faster and more maneuverable than American subs.

In another Navy Day article, Gorshkov said in an interview with Sovyetskaya Rossiya that Russia's submarine fleet surpassed under the Arctic ice cap, the underwater navigation of the American nuclear sub Nautilus in August, 1958.

Trud, the labor union newspaper, carried an eyewitness account of Soviet weapons in "several tons" being launched from submarines during last week's Barents Sea Navy exercises.

Reports of the Barents Sea exercises, which were witnessed by Premier Khrushchev, convinced some Western naval specialists that Russia now has the Polaris - type weapons system which it has boasted of for some time.

The three-hour telecast of Soviet fleet units in Leningrad's Neva River showed mostly conventional cruisers, destroyers and minesweepers anchored in midstream.

SEVEN SCOUTS OVERDUE 2 DAYS ON CANOE TRIP

Hunt Buffalo Party In Algonquin Park

CANOE LAKE, Ont. (CP) — An air and land search for seven Boy Scouts from Buffalo, N.Y., overdue two days on a canoe trip, is under way in Algonquin Park.

The boys, all teen-agers were identified today as:

Barry Sehgar, Bruce Small, James Hill, Howard Goldstein, Sheldon Mocks, David Amet and John Heuston.

They are members of Scout 120, Beth Zion Synagogue.

C. W. Crotty (Corky) Pulsifer, park superintendent, said he was "not too concerned" about the seven boys because they could have decided to wait at a campsite for a break in the rain which has prevailed in the area for several days.

But if they were not certain how many leaders were with the boys, but that at least one experienced adult accompanied them. They were travelling in three canoes and should have returned to nearby Tea Lake on Friday after their three-day trip.

Until Sunday, the park's Beaver planes were kept busy from the early light hours.

"Just two weeks ago there was a party missing about two days and while we were out looking for them they turned up here at Canoe Lake," the superintendent said.

The missing party filed a route plan, had good maps and good equipment.

The plan said the party set out from Tea Lake, about 30 miles west of Algonquin, and was to have travelled some 20 miles north to the Tim River before turning back.

"They could easily have missed a portage at that time of year, around point and it would take them some time to figure out that they'd gone wrong."

Two More Held, Hope to Break Abortion Ring

TORONTO (CP)—Two more persons were charged Sunday with procuring abortions and conspiring to procure abortions as police continued an investigation into what they say is the $50,000-a-year abortion ring.

Mrs. Adeline Churchill, 52, and Dr. Robert Scott, 50, both of Toronto, were arrested by provincial police Sunday morning.

Metropolitan Toronto Detective Douglas Wallace said the arrests were connected with the arrest July 16 of Mrs. Thelma Marie Blackburn, 50, of Toronto.

Trud, the labor union newspaper, carried an eyewitness account of Soviet weapons in "several tons" being launched from submarines during last week's Barents Sea Navy exercises.

Reports of the Barents Sea exercises, which were witnessed by Premier Khrushchev, convinced some Western naval specialists that Russia now has the Polaris - type weapons systems which it has boasted of for some time.

Common Market Farm Produce Flows Freely

BRUSSELS (AP)—The Common Market today took its most audacious step toward integrating the economies of its six partners — the three Benelux countries, France, Italy and West Germany—since the Europeans community was set up 5½ years ago.

The occasion marked the introduction of the first stage of their Common Market agricultural policy that integrates the six markets for grains, processed cereals, pork, fruit and vegetables, beef, poultry and wines.

The common policy affects some 15,000,000 farmers from Naples to Hamburg and from Bordeaux to the Elbe River.

Under the plan, all farm barriers among the six partner countries are armed with new lists provided by the six governments, who in turn will levy common duties for their exchange system, which is based on a single levy.

It means that from today member states have removed all quantitative restrictions to trade in this farm produce and have adopted their national trade structure to the common procedure based, for these products, on a single overall — a levy that will be variable.

Dad, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
Memories are all we have left you,
Within our hearts you have your place.

Damage in Paragon Cafe Fire Estimated at $10,000

The Paragon Cafe, on Front Street, opened Thursday after a $20,000 remodelling job, was closed by fire in the kitchen Sunday morning. The fire was caused by a large gas range, installed too close to a partition, the fire chemicals at work at the range, saw smoke coming from the partition and turned in the alarm.

The cafe was serving breakfast about 10.30 a.m. Sunday, when the fire broke out. Knowing that the remodelling job had not yet covered the increased insurance, the staff moved the fire themselves, with buckets of water, after touching in the alarm. Pitching the buckets, John Johnson accidentally scalded himself by mistaking the hot water tap for cold.

The call was answered by the full crews from both Belleville stations. Chief Vance commented today that the building might have been completely lost, but damage was held to a minimum, total damage due to the fire was about $4,000 according to Chief Vance's estimate, but total damage, including smoke and loss of business, may be more than $10,000.

Smoke, but not fire, entered the Hobby Shop storage room above the kitchen and damaged merchandise stored there. Firemen broke in through a window, to guard against the fire breaking through, but all fire-fighting, according to Chief Vance, was confined to the kitchen itself.

There was slight smoke damage to the front of the restaurant.

The management of the restaurant hopes to be able to reopen for business next Thursday, just one week after the last re-opening.

RCMP Said Wigwam Inn, 17 Arrested

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)— Two hundred RCMP officers swooped on the Wigwam Inn here Friday and later charged 17 persons with offences ranging from theft to gambling and possession of a policeman. A North Vancouver hotel was raided.

Gambling equipment, documents and large cases of beer were seized.

Wigwam Inn, a storied tourist spot at the north end of the Vancouver bridge, is regarded as a nice place for afternoon tea.

Three of those accused were charged with conspiring to corrupt a member of the RCMP. They are Vancouver lawyer Rockmil Myrnie William Fouldes Robertson and Jack McGrath.

Specific charges three are charged with offering money and valuable considerations to an officer to influence the commissioning of an offence and with interference with administration of justice.

SET HIGH

Bail for Robertson and McGrath was set at $25,000 each and Mr Myrnie $10,000. Bail of $2,000 each was set for Bunto Singh, Keith Anderson of Vancouver and [illegible] Victor Moore, all charged with keeping a common gaming house. Moore described himself as manager of the inn.

Eleven other persons, including two young women, were arrested in the raid and charged with being found in a gaming house. Their bail was set at $100. All were remanded to Friday.

ANGRY DENIALS

ers Saturday that Communist sleeper-secret agents — have joined the Voice of Women by the score and have used the VOW and CCND to spread the Communist party's ideas.

On Friday, it was said that the Unitarian Church in Ottawa had long been available for the holding of Communist sympathizers' meetings.

This was denied by Norman Dowd, minister emeritus of the church and an official of the Canadian Labor Congress.

"There is no justification for that statement," Mr. Dowd said. "There have never been any such meetings to my knowledge, and I think I would know."

Mrs. Tucker said the Voice of Women has been congratulated for its work by External Affairs Minister Green. Referring to the VOW executive, she said:

"I know them right down to the last one and every one is highly respected."

Mrs. Norman Alcock, a VOW executive member and wife of the founder of the Canadian Peace Research Institute, said she knows of no Communist infiltration in VOW.

WANT PEACE

"But I imagine some Communists want peace just as we do, so it's possible some have become members of peace groups."

The Voice of Women, formed two years ago and claiming 7,000 members, opposes nuclear testing and armaments and racial discrimination.

Dr. Feinberg, rabbi emeritus of Holy Blossom Temple in Toronto, said Mr. MacDonald's charges were "another lurid and shopworn chapter in the smear campaign being conducted against the Canadian peace movement, led by men who have nothing to lose but their obscurity."

He said the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament has nothing to hide and believe the RCMP knows it.

HAS NO DOCUMENTS

Meeting reporters at the home of a friend, Mr. MacDonald said he has no documentary evidence to show he reported regularly to RCMP contacts in the 1950's years he belonged to the Communist party.

He said he made photostats of secret Communist instructions to local organizers, gave the photostats to the RCMP and returned the original documents to Communist leaders.

He said he received an average of $950 to $180 a month from the RCMP in recent years for his reports.

He said he reported on a few Communist sympathizers in the civil service, but had never reported Communist espionage or sabotage activities.

He knew of Communists in Hamilton, Sudbury, The Lakehead and Windsor who have set up new MDP clubs, he said. Other Communists were planning to organize NDP clubs in Cornwall and Peterborough.

He said Communists supported most NDP candidates in the last federal election but "cloaked Douglas Fisher who was re-elected in Port Arthur.

"The Communist leaders really want to destroy the NDP, not help it."

HARDBOARD DECREASES

Shipments of all types of hardboard increased 16.1 per cent in June to 28,633,084 square feet as compared to the same 1961 month. Shipments in the January-June period were up 17.7 per cent at 162,200,555 square feet from the same period a year ago.

Comecon, Set up by East Bloc, Fails Miserably

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)— In Communist East Europe there are four shortages everywhere. Yet in Western Europe one can buy Bulgarian eggs, Hungarian salami, Polish potatoes, Romanian fruit.

Why are East Europeans kept short of food products while the west are exported?

Diplomats blame the Soviet bloc's own Common Market organization, Comecon, or the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, or Comecon.

Originally set up in 1949 as a co-ordinating group, Comecon four years ago reorganized itself to try to build the East bloc into a powerful trading market.

STATE PLANNING

It was to be directed by state planning rather than by the forces of private enterprise and was to try to surpass the West European Common Market.

But while West Europe is having a boom, Comecon, according to Western economists, has failed miserably. A meeting was held in Moscow recently to try to put new life into it.

Comecon set out in 1958 to integrate the economies of the Soviet Union, Hungary, Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria, Romania and Czechoslovakia.

Up to that time, each had developed heavy industry regardless of availability of raw materials, each got the same or similar goods, all attempted to become self-sufficient and all suffered from the same shortages.

COUNTRIES SPECIALIZE

Comecon pushed the idea that each country specialize.

Poland was to expand its production of coal, sulphur and other raw materials, Romania was to concentrate on oil and petrochemical industries, Czechoslovakia was to build up medium industry, automobiles and transport, Hungary was to develop light industry.

Huge industrial projects—like a big steel complex on the Danube near Budapest — suddenly became "not for us" plans were scrapped. Investment capital went down the drain.

Then countries like Czechoslovakia were told to put up money for investments in "poor" countries like Bulgaria.

But, say the Western economists, the system still isn't working.

BILATERAL TRADE ONLY

Despite all Comecon's efforts, the East bloc has not been able to arrive at a standard price and wage policy. Currencies are not convertible.

This means that there is only bilateral trade among the East bloc nations—rather in the nature of barter.

The countries exchange goods they grow or make for what they need, but there is no multilateral exchange of goods and system of settling trade balances.

One result is that the countries that set up the Common Market to acquire the machinery, raw materials and semi-finished products they cannot get from their own Communist colleagues.

They sell food and other products for hard currencies in the West, so they can buy supplies they need.

Burns Calls Red Proposals 'Unrealistic'

GENEVA (AP) — Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canada's chief delegate at the 17-nation disarmament talks, told the conference today that Soviet proposals for ending the arms race are "unrealistic and impracticable."

Speaking on behalf of the Western powers, Burns told the conference's third plenary session that if Russian disarmament plans were carried out, the strategic position of the NATO alliance would be considerably weakened vis-a-vis that of the Communists' Warsaw treaty bloc.

Burns' speech was described by Western diplomatic sources as the West's answer to a speech Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin made last Friday.

Zorin told the conference that if Russia's disarmament plan—calling for the simultaneous destruction of foreign military bases and delivery vehicles for nuclear weapons—were carried out, it would be impossible for any nation to launch a surprise attack.

Burns rejected this, saying it was the West's answer to a very misleading account of the strategical factors involved."

He said Zorin's proposals would leave Western Europe at the mercy of superior East-bloc forces by requiring all troops to be withdrawn within their own national boundaries.

This means Russian troops would only be within about 400 miles striking distance from Western Europe, whereas the United States would have to transport arms and men across the Atlantic in any operation to aid Western Europe against a surprise attack.

"Apparently Mr. Zorin's adviser assumed that it would be as easy to move a division by air and have it fully effective as a fighting organ on arrival as it is to take passage in an aircraft from Geneva to New York," Burns said.

Six Fields In Competition Score Over 80

Field Crop Competition director Bill Bishop of the Belleville Fair Board announced the winners in the local field crop competition today. Judging has been completed over the past few days by Mr. A. H. Martin of the Canada Crop Inspection Service. The highest score of 88 went to George Burkitt of Frankford, followed by Reg Barber of Huffs Island with 87, Ron Hamilton (85), Hudson Ketchen (84), Alfred Cairns (82), Cliff Barber (81).

Fourteen fields were entered in the competition. Five of the first six places were taken by the new Russell Oats with Rodney Oats taking a 3rd and 7th place. Only one field of Garry Oats was entered.

That Old Black Magic Works for New Sinatra

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The frail, young singer belted out a familiar Cole Porter tune as if the song had just been written for him.

He caressed the lyrics and swung with the beat.

The crowd was so familiar —and the setting, too—that it could have been 1939. Even the bobbysoxers stopped twisting to gather around the bandstand as they used to do.

But it wasn't 1939. It was Saturday night at Disneyland.

The singer—Frank Sinatra, Jr., age 16.

Young Sinatra, not officially embarked yet on a professional career, approached the Elliot Brothers band in the Disneyland Plaza and asked for a chance to sing.

"We do a takeoff on the big bands," explained Bill Elliott, including the old Tommy Dorsey band.

A few days ago young Sinatra came up and said he would like to do a guest appearance Saturday night when we did Dorsey. With a name like that, I didn't ask if he could sing—I just answered yes."

"The kid's good," said Elliott. "I let him sing for a guest appearance because his name is Sinatra, but I'd sign him permanently even if his name were Joe Smith."

Frank, Jr., may talk it over with Frank, Sr.

Motorist Will Be Glad When Station Opens

TRENTON — One Toronto motorist will be mighty glad when the [illegible] centres on Highway 401 [illegible] are completed and equipped with repair facilities.

On Sunday the motorist set out from Toronto with his wife and two children for a sunny holiday [illegible] eastern Ontario. The [illegible] and a towed trailer were [illegible] camping equipment and supplies. On the way to Trenton, one of the car's wooden tires blew. Our motorist replaced it with the spare. About five miles west of Trenton the spare blew. At 3 a.m. the [illegible] man locked his wife and children in the car, with instructions not to open up to anyone, and started on the long trek to Belleville, rolling the tire along the highway. Finally, he picked up a sympathetic [illegible]-traveller, who took him to the Trenton police station, where he was directed to the [illegible] service station on Trenton's outskirts. So, the tire was repaired there and repaired. The family got too much money to spare, our motorist stated, to have the long haul back to the 401 and his family. A sympathetic Trentonian, (a member of the fire department, by the way), picked him up at the Front Street and drove him back to his crippled car.

Slaves To Our Own Inventions

The theme of the Seattle World's Fair is the world of the future, and the gadgets we may expect to see, and be pestered with, when the ever receding future stops long enough to allow us to catch it. (Remember those days when we would all be running around in personal hail-copters by the early 1960's?). The fair, and almost all predictions of the future, concentrate interest in the sleek, sophisticated automatic gadgets, the fast cars, and the overbearing mechanizations toward which we tend.

Most of those philosophers who died long enough ago to be considered respectable would have shuddered at the future as it is now predicted. One of the ideas they expressed most frequently, perhaps the only idea most of them held in common, was that man ought not to make himself a slave to material things.

Highways such as the 401, efficient though they are, give us a taste of what driving may be like in the days to come. On the dual highways, we can cruise for hours without seeing anything really interesting. Even if there are sights along the side of the road, we drive too fast to catch more than a passing glimpse of them. Far better, in terms of human enjoyment, to drive a 1920 model car along a 1920 model highway.

So far, we have the choice of smaller, less deafening roads to travel when we go on a short trip. But the cars of the future, if they appear in the forms predicted, will be more likely to cruise lakes with ease than travel a bush trail.

It is not just with cars that we are heading for a philosopher's torment. Furniture with motors in it, to recline, eject or vibrate the user), is coming into its own, and electric toothbrushes are for sale in Belleville drug stores.

It is no accident that mechanization is encroaching on our life. Manufacturers will build anything they can sell at a profit, and the higher the price, the bigger the profit, and the more anxious they will be to make it.

If we are to avoid sinking to a robotic existence beneath a mass of unnecessary automation and gadgetry, we must take the initiative ourselves, by refusing to buy needlessly complex goods.

Use Both

There are two schools of thought about this. One school argues that marked police cars serve their purpose by slowing down traffic. Nobody speeds when he sees a police car travelling in front of him or close behind him. But, retort the critics of marked cars, traffic only slows down when the police are in sight. If the police used unmarked cars, motorists would be more inclined to observe speed regulations continually, since it would be difficult to tell if an unmarked police car were in the vicinity.

Most motorists dislike "ambushes," where police cars hide behind bushes or in sideroads. We sympathize with such objections. But it is absurd to say that an unmarked car is not "sporting." If these unmarked cars moved with traffic, and if other marked cars continued in operation to slow traffic as at present, we might have the best system. One point, though, needs to be raised. When any person is dealing with the police, he or she has a right to know it. A motorist chased by an unmarked car might mistake the police for robbers, or worse. Some method of identifying the unmarked police car, instantaneously and positively, is required. A sticker in the window is not enough—too easily overlooked. A flashing red police light is not the answer either—too easily spotted when the car wishes to remain unidentified. But surely it is not past the ingenuity of police inventors to devise some answer to this problem.

Appeal Warranted

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts is to be complimented on the prompt decision to appeal the ruling of Magistrate H. T. G. Andrews of Brampton, who says that members of the armed forces travelling under standing orders are exempt from the provisions of the Highway Traffic Act.

To praise the Attorney-General is not to criticize the magistrate. He gave his opinion. If he is wrong, he made an error which all of us do sometimes. If he is right, he could not have done otherwise than rule as he did.

But if the magistrate is right about the law as it stands, then the law needs to be changed, and promptly.

Except in times of war, it is essential that members of the armed forces should be under the same restrictions as the rest of us when they travel the public highways.

Camping—Then and Now

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

The growing popularity of camping has been matched by the appearance on the market of an amazing variety of tents and other easily transported shelters.

In our youth, there were but two types of tents available; both were heavy and cumbersome as an anchor, and would discourage all but the stoutest hearted from embarking on a camping trip.

The discovery of waterproof, lightweight canvas probably has been the factor most responsible for the development of the tents in use today. They are available in a number of shapes and sizes, designed to meet the needs of any family, and so made as to permit quick and easy erection and striking.

It is small wonder that even more vacationers are on their way, homes securely bundled and strapped to car-tops, looking for an inviting place to make camp.

* * *

An older generation had to depend on bell tents and wall tents. The former required for support a centre pole of the dimensions of a small telephone pole, and were guyed with three heavy timbers. The idea of a comprehensive floor has still to be discovered with the result that those who were not content to lay on the ground had to provide heavy wooden floorings.

A day of rain is merely a minor inconvenience now. But when one, in fact, resided under canvas, it was a different story. If, in an unwary moment, the sides were bumped, a leak was inevitable. It generally was believed that running a sooty finger from the leak down the wall to the floor would channel the water away from one's bedding. As we recall, it seldom worked.

But it was more ponderous, even when the trench laboriously excavated around the tent perimeter proved deep and spilled onto the floor.

* * *

For some reason, we cannot resist a feeling of superiority when we look at the campers of today. Some might consider it pride, which, with good reason, it might be.

For we did not have lightweight sleeping bags or proof stoves above our heads. Our tents could not be put up in 10 or 15 minutes. Gas lanterns and stoves were unheard of. So, too were collapsible cots. For on the ground served as mattress, and not even mounds of spruce boughs and carefully formed hip holes could quite counteract all the hazards and bumps.

But it is because the present generation is deprived of all these elements of roughing it that we feel they are missing something. We do discover with the result that those who were not content to lay on the ground had to provide heavy wooden floorings.

A day of rain is merely a minor inconvenience now. But

Teach French Speedy Way

Fraser Arnaelle

A non-profit, private association called BUPLEX (Bureau of Linguistic Planning for Experts) has been set up, whose aim is to teach in the shortest possible time, adult Frenchmen already fluent in the reading knowledge of a language, to speak it exactly in its native idiom.

The school attends one-hour-a-day classes at the time it best fits in with his schedule. The average student, 50 sessions — five a week — have proved to be sufficient.

In each daily session, the businessman listens several times to a taped dialogue until he comprehends its general meaning. The teacher helps by translating unknown words and assisting with difficult constructions. He then listens to the tape again until understands it completely. Afterward, the lesson is cut and alternated with blanks, which the businessman fills by speaking the missing word or phrase. The professor corrects his pronunciation and inflection.

Finally, in the question period, the businessman goes through grammatical "scales" in order to learn idioms and abbreviations. His pipe animated cartoons are arranged to stimulate automatic responses.

To the general program a course is added in keeping with the student's special field of such as banking, coal steel, or engineering.

Hot Butter In Low Lands

Milwaukee Journal

A chase. Police bullets pepper the fleeing car. It's too late. The villain escapes with another load of Dutch butter.

Such incidents are common these days along the Belgium-Holland border where butter smuggling has become a chronic problem.

Dutch butter sells for roughly 40 cents more a pound in Belgium than in Holland. Officials estimate that smugglers make customers a million dollars each year on "hot" butter sales.

The situation points up the difficulties some members of the European Common Market are encountering as the community moves toward closer integration.

The Dutch outproduce and undersell the Belgians in dairy and meat products. Belgium has responded by applying numerous quota restrictions, especially on butter, to protect its farmers.

Government subsidy and protection for agriculture is widespread among the six Common Market nations. But many of these devices will have to be eliminated if the goals of the community's new agricultural program are to be achieved. The plan, adopted by the six early this year, seeks to create a common market in farm products. The aim is to encourage freer trade among member countries, increase agricultural efficiency and raise farm income.

Youngsters Irk Old Cons

Ohio Penitentiary News

When are they going to take the old hardened criminals and put them away from the youngsters now crowding into the prisons in droves?

Isn't it about time someone thought of this "get out" and quit thinking about what is going to happen to these youngsters that the public thinks are going to be taught to be super crooks or scientific killers.

Let me be the first to inform you that the old cons are not going to catch on to this "school". They know it all, and if you don't believe it, just check them in on some of their conversations.

When it comes to sticking up a supermarket or a bank, these kids are in a class by themselves. They don't even bother up before, to hear them tell it, is just because it ain't been built yet.

All of them had autos long enough to land a job on one, and their molls would make the neighborhood stores green and pink with envy.

This is the main reason that I say that they are not having prison and going straight — they got to get away from these youngsters before they really get themselves corrupted.

Did you ever think that these kids made millions in stealing and selling automobiles to crooked dealers? And, to tell the truth, they stole all the cars they own.

In fact, to hear them tell it, they kept the bus companies in business. They had to steal stolen vehicles to keep these kids living in the style to which, and you'd be surprised to hear them tell it, just how high the liquor bills were.

For once we are going to agree with those in free society. Keep the youngsters away from the hardened criminals.

He's got enough troubles as it is.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 30th, 1942.

Pilot Officer Tom Hetherington, Belleville Air Cadet Squadron, led the class of air cadet officers who took a special course recently at the Jarvis Bombing and Gunnery school. P/O Hetherington was top man in a class of 150 air cadet officers with an aggregate percentage of 88.6.

"Forty-seven years is a long time, but it has failed to erase the natural beauty, or the fine people of this part of Ontario." That is the opinion of Mrs. Dewey John Charles Hillier Mockridge, retired Presbyterian minister of Philadelphia, Pa., who returned to his native heath for a brief visit after an absence of 47 years. Mr. Mockridge comes from a fine old family of Anglican ministers. His grandfather on his mother's side was the late Rev. Greer, one time Rector of St. Thomas' Church and who built St. George's on Station Street.

Robbers broke and entered Seldon's drug store, on Front Street and stole a large quantity of cigarettes and all of the loose change in the premises some time early Sunday morning. Police were notified and it was discovered that entrance had been gained by forcing open a transom over the rear door leading into a store room of the back of the premises.

Officials of the Belleville Air Cadet Squadron voiced their appreciation of the generous response to their appeal for funds on a Saturday through the medium of a tag day. The sum of $440 was realized and will be devoted to the needs of the squadron.

Strictly Personal
High Property Taxes in City Seem Unjust

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I own a house, and the man around the corner owns a house. Mine is a three-storey brick town house. So is his. We both pay roughly the same amount of real estate tax.

But here the resemblance ends. My house is occupied solely by my family. He has divided his house into little apartments, and collects a considerable income every year from each month from his roomers.

Moreover, I am not allowed to deduct a penny for any repairs or improvements I make on my house, whereas he is allowed generous deductions as a landlord.

This, it seems to me, is a grossly injudicious situation. The property values have gone up a home in the city, not only because there is more land, but (mine have been raised three times in three years), but also because the price of buying a house in the city is geared to the "converter."

The "converter" can easily afford to pay $10,000 more for a city house than I can, to turn the 10 rooms into 20, to rent out the basement and the attic, to convert closets into kitchenettes.

But the man buying a house for his own family cannot afford to compete in such a market — so he moves out to the suburbs.

This, of course, is the way city slums are created and are perpetuated. Landlords buy up more and more apartments and houses, permit them to run down, charge excessive rentals, provide poor service, and get no extra tax for the privilege of doing so.

In Chicago, as in other large cities, tens of thousands of fine old town houses have been converted in this manner — almost always to their disadvantage to the neighborhood. A family wanting to buy and reside such a house finds the price is forced to compete with landlords who care little about the neighborhood or the city, but only about a quick and sure return on their property.

Many factors are responsible for the flight to the suburbs; but one of the most important is the constantly rising property tax in the city. Taxes rise in the suburbs, too, of course, but the services are better, the schools are better, and the neighborhoods are occupied by householders who genuinely care about the future of their community.

One of the most effective ways, in my view, to halt this flight, to arrest the growth of slums, and to preserve homeowning neighborhoods in the city, would be to impose a stringent but realistic tax on those who use their houses for business purposes — which would offer relief to the harassed citizens to those families who are trying against heavy odds, to maintain their homes in the metropolitan areas.

To Your Good Health
Emergency Warnings Are Provided by 'Medic-Alert'

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I have been swamped with letters about "Medic-Alert," which is a non-profit group identification plan. Bracelets and other emblems to be worn by people who want to carry with them a constant notice that they are allergic to some drug or other or have some physical condition which may, in an emergency, be extremely important. Some have diabetes, or are sensitive to penicillin, or they have a very rare blood type. Or a heart condition.

I take it that the response in this column is to offer such correct information as I have it in my power to give, but not to take sides between one product or another.

I believe that it is wise to wear or carry some such indicative emblem and will be easily seen and recognized in case of emergency.

Since there are, or have been different groups sponsoring such emblems (and most jewelry stores now have something of the kind available), I am not for or against any particular kind.

In at least one case that I recall, there was some bonuspoppy involving over-charging. It's unfortunate for a person in doubt to make a quick choice. I think I'd refer to the Business Bureau before investing. Those who have not yet applied to the above-named group nor to others of my acquaintance.

I especially don't feel qualified to favor one group against another, one product against another, unless there is some overwhelming reason.

Neither do I want to slight any good group. So I will continue to write about what I think I understand, and leave personal choices up to the reader.

"Dear Dr. Molner: In the winter I can't touch a member of my family or turn out a light without getting an electric shock. Is there anything wrong with me?" — E.T.

No, this doesn't indicate that anything is wrong. Now that the weather is here and the weather is warm and usually moist, you probably don't have this trouble.

Friction causes static electricity to accumulate. Any time you rub a comb or plastic rod with a piece of wool, fur, silk, etc., and create enough electricity so that it, in a dark room, for instance, will cause a spark to jump, you'll see a faint shock.

Friction of your shoes on the carpet, or brushing clothing, or a nylon slip, etc. — can cause static, too.

If this electricity can leak away to the ground gradually, you never notice the disturbance. That's why gasoline trucks have those chains dangling and scraping on the ground — to get rid of the static so there can't be a spark.

In hospital operating rooms, surgeons, nurses and others wear cotton, never silk or nylon, because the cotton because family mats from perspiration and conducts the electricity away. They also wear shoes, and walk on floors, that can conduct electricity a little bit.

As for you, you may not want to go to that much trouble, but if, in the static season, you touch some grounded piece of metal every so often, you'll get rid of your static electricity charge before it builds up enough to give you those harmless shocks. However, don't worry about the matter; it's unimportant.

Thirteeners' Kept on Hoop

Ottawa Journal

Mooning about Ottawa and every other Ontario city are hundreds of students who await the results of Grade 13 examinations. This is the time of acute anxiety for both students and their parents. The results will decide whether it is to be university or a search for a permanent job.

The St. Catharines Standard, having observed so many young people at the "hang on the hook", would like to hear the Department of Education explain why it is impossible to produce the Grade 13 results until almost the middle of August.

Impatience always have an explanation considered, urbane, complete, based on precedent, sanctified by theory. What we would rather have is an assurance the Department of Education agrees eagerly for an improvement in the system which sees the students' fate decided in exams in June and then worry for six weeks or more, unsettled and incapable of giving full attention to any summer job before final decision. What we want to seen investigate have been overcome in many human enterprises and experts on the machinery of education should be no slouches at organization. That's why gasoline trucks have

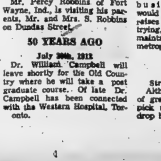
By GREGORY CLARK

When Randolph Churchill visited his father-in-law, Sir Winston, he always brought home from France with the broken bits of his luggage. Sir Winston, the eminent old gentleman was very skilful at mending and twiddling his toes."



Ten years ago, the Packsack reported having met a remarkable old man in the backwoods of Quebec who had, as a boy, survived all the hazards and vicissitudes of the backwoods life, and was alert and tough as a bull terrier at that advanced age. When asked what was the secret of his health, he said it was due to twiddling his toes.

"The minute I take my boots off, or when I go to bed," said he, "the first thing I do is stretch my legs out and twiddle my toes for about a minute or two. Not just twiddle, but twitch and twiddle. And in a minute, when I relax, I feel a kind of tingle creeping up my legs, and then all through me. Been doing it all my life, and I think that's what has kept me healthy."

During the stress of war, Sir Winston was said to retire for a short nap after lunch every day, and twiddle his toes. Is it possible he was in there twiddling his toes?

24 MILLION LBS.

early 1970s. As a result of the glut of uranium, the world price also has been pushed down to $4.25 a pound.

NO CONTRACT STANDS

The new contract for 24,000,000 pounds is in addition to existing contracts with Britain for 11,000,000 and 10,000,000 pounds, respectively. Because these contracts are taking place under a stretch-out program announced last year, they will continue until the end of 1966.

No deliveries under the new contract will be accepted from any of Canada's seven producers until each of them has completed deliveries under existing contracts.

The new contract also contains an escalation clause to take care of possible increases in basic cost levels over the long period covered by the contract. Any such extra costs would have the effect of increasing the price to be paid by Britain.

"It was the desire of both parties to the contract that delivery of uranium should be extended over the longest period considered to be economically sound," the statement said.

"This will keep to a minimum stockpiling costs and ensure that the Canadian industry is best able to operate successfully in the expanding markets for uranium which are expected to develop in the late 1960s or early 1970s."

PRICES VARY

The statement said the operating costs of some Canadian producers are higher than others and the prices to be paid to each company will vary accordingly.

"The arrangements are intended to be such that the operating profit per pound delivered by each producing company will be approximately equal," it said.

This provision makes it possible for all seven producers, to provide uranium under the contract. Each one will get a different price but the profit will be the same.

Britain would have liked to buy the 24,000,000 pounds from the cheapest Canadian producers. However, the federal government said it insisted on an arrangement allowing each mine to participate and earn a profit to keep the industry intact and prevent ghost towns rising in Ontario's mining and northern areas.

"It was the desire of the Canadian government that the employees of all the mines, the communities based upon the mines and the supporting companies be dealt with in a completely fair manner," Mr. Hees said.

EQUITABLE BASIS

"An equitable basis for division of the 24,000,000 pounds covered in the British contract has been worked out. Each mine will receive an amount of the total proportionate to its contractual rate of delivery as of July 1, 1962, when the detailed negotiations were proceeding."

The statement said the price for uranium to be delivered under the contract was reached after an extended period of detailed bargaining.

Under previous contracts, the mines received a price which reimbursed them for capital expenditures for production facilities.

However, the price under the new contract is based only on operating costs, depreciation and a reasonable profit. The seven months of 1961 is used as a standard.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Eloise N. — Why shouldn't I date a man who is definitely living up a second wife?

Eloise N. — I'm a widow of 36. I've been seeing a great deal of a gentleman. I've known his many years, having met him in the sales office of my brother's business. About six months ago he invited me out to dinner, and since then we've had several dates a week.

My brother is after me to break off with Norman because he's a married man. But Norman confided to me that he's really longer in love with his wife and that it's all over between them. They're planning to end their marriage. So I can't see where it's so terrible for me to be going out with him. If he wasn't entertaining me, he'd be taking out someone else. He has even broached the idea of my marrying him when the divorce is definite.

* * *

Howard A. — My slate must be growing soft in the head! Here she is, still young and beautiful, yet wasting precious weeks when she might be meeting truly eligible men. Instead she spends her evenings with a man who, far from being free, isn't even legally separated yet. So in addition to it being fruitless for Eloise to see Norman, it's immoral.

Doesn't she realize that she should be sending that man back to his wife, not encouraging him in his deceitions? And even if he insists his marriage is over, anything can happen. His old love for his family may reawaken at any time, and then where's Eloise? Out in the cold. She should wash her hands of the whole mess right now.

* * *

The Council: Upon Howard falls the thankless task of saying words Eloise knows herself but doesn't want to hear. So all we can do is ditto them and urge her to listen.

The only hint of a "pro" side to all this is that Eloise's investment of time and energy and emotion may be adding to her knowhow in conducting herself with a man. Then too, there's the "fighting chance" that if Norman should ever be really free, he'll seek her out as his next.

But counter-balancing those notions heavily are the practical and unglamorous aspects of the affair. Norman, Howard lists some of these. There's always the chance that Norman will reconcile with his wife. There's also the likelihood that Norman is "looking over" other candidates, possibly even younger ones, for filling the coming void. In any event, with no real claim and no hold on the man, Eloise is a sitting duck for a double cross.

Worse, she is contributing to the break-up of a home which might possibly have a chance of bolstering together. If Norman as a married man were suitably rebuffed in his efforts to play pat-a-cake with other women, he'd have to come clean and apply his efforts either to repairing his marriage or ending it legally. His duties at this point might be with a marriage counsellor, rather than with Eloise.

So, regardless of how attractive Norman appears to her, Eloise must look behind the facade and see the big smoky letters which spell out the DANGER. Here, the eventual "happy" ending she envisages now, that of becoming Norman's wife, may well turn sour. Just as he got time his present wife, revealing a lack of scruples to both women (and perhaps, others), he can grow out of "love" with her and set forth on a prowl for No.3, with no effect to work things out.

As still "young and beautiful," Eloise, you can spend your dating hours to better advantage. Line up a few legitimate suitors. Any man could rather than risk being "out" in the cold" yourself.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

BRING ROMANCE BACK TO MAIAIAGE

Women often lament that "the romance has gone out of my marriage."

What they really mean, very often, is that the little courtesies they expected during courting days have disappeared from the daily scene.

Manners tend to get rusty when they're only used on state occasions. Much of the romance could be put back into marriage if husbands would make an effort to do the "little things" that make a woman feel she's still something special and not just a familiar old shoe.

Pull out his wife's chair at the dinner table, if it does it at breakfast, as well, then glow day's really made.

Open the door for her, even if she's not dressed for a ball and is just taking the garbage to the incinerator.

Give her a compliment occasionally, and not wait for an anniversary.

Help her into the car or a cab properly, to make her feel like a lady instead of a "good guy."

Speak to her about something other than job and children occasionally. After all, there might be a thinking mechanism still ticking under those fascinating locks.

Stand up when one of her women friends drops in, so he can greet her properly or be introduced.

Call when he has to work late at the office or is otherwise detained.

Pick up her gloves, bag, or even her handkerchief, when she drops it on the floor. It was little gallantries she appreciated before marriage and it can win her over again.

Introduce her properly by name when introducing her to his friends. It's more pleasant to be referred to as "my wife, Mary," instead of being passed over as "the missus," no matter how joking the intent.

Good manners never tarnish when they're taken out and given a bathing every day. It's a wise policy to follow when a husband wants to put the glow back into his marriage and bring a sparkle to his wife's eyes.

Sticky Pecan Rolls

by Mary Moore

Margy and Pete were leaving Kawartha for Kingsgard and Margy had an urge to take some baking to their hosts, the Strutts.

What resulted was two pans — the best I have ever tasted, of sticky-bottomed pecan buns I want you all to know how to make the glaze which is poured over the pecans in the bottom of the pans before the pinwheel rolls are placed over them.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Italian Spaghetti with Meat Sauce; Grated Cheese; Tossed Light and Dark Greens with Italian Dressing; Italian Bread Sticks; Homemade Preserved Ginger Ice Cream; Coffee.

STICKY PECAN ROLLS:

NOTE:

These quantities made two large pans of pecan rolls and one muffin pan full of clover leaf rolls. This is a large quantity but Margy figured that if she was going to do the work at all she might as well have enough of these popular rolls for two families for two meals.

2½ cups milk, ¾ cup butter or margarine or shortening, 1 package granular yeast, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ cup lukewarm water, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, 7 cups unsifted flour, 2½ teaspoons salt, cinnamon and melted butter.

GLAZE:

1 cup light brown sugar, ¼ cup soft butter, 2½ tablespoons light corn syrup, 6 oz. whole pecans.

Heat the milk to scalding. In a very large mixing bowl measure the ½ cup butter or margarine and the ½ cup sugar and the salt. Pour scalded milk over them and let cool to lukewarm. Add the 1 teaspoon sugar and ½ cup lukewarm water to the yeast in a measuring cup and give it one stir and let stand 10 minutes. When milk mixture is cool add yeast liquid. Beat the egg a little and add it and the flour. Mix with wooden spoon, then turn out on floured board and knead 100 times, adding more flour to board as needed (kneaded?). Shape into ball, return to greased bowl, turn (grease) over (to have a greased top), cover and let rise in warm place until doubled and light.

Punch down dough on floured board and knead 200 times. Cut off a piece of the dough that amounts to about one-fifth of it. Cut remaining dough in halves. With rolling pin roll one of these large pieces into an oblong 10" by 14". Spread it with melted butter and sprinkle liberally with cinnamon. Roll up like jelly roll, starting at long side. Stretch this roll to lengthen it and slice it into 1¼" thick pinwheels. Arrange these close together in pans prepared with glaze: (for two 8 x 2" round pans): Mix together over low heat, barely enough to blend, 1 cup light brown sugar, ½ cup soft butter and 2½ tablespoons corn syrup. As soon as blended remove from heat. Cover bottoms of 2 pans with whole pecans, each pan requires 3 oz. Drizzle glaze over nuts and make sure glaze and nuts are evenly distributed. Cover and let rise about 1½ hours in warm place. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. rather high in oven for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. F. for another 15 minutes or until done.

NOTES:

The small piece of leftover dough may be made up into cloverleaf rolls (using a 12-cup muffin pan) or into 12 Parkerhouse or Poppy Seed Rolls.

W.I. Members Visit County Museum

STIRLING — Last Wednesday ten members of Rilver Valley Women's Institute, two visitors and five public school children paid a visit to the Hastings County Museum in Belleville. On arrival, the group divided into two sections and enjoyed guided tours through the three rooms under the direction of the curators, Mr. Gerald Boyce and Miss Barbara Weese.

In the first room the group viewed a large display of lumbering in days of yore. There were various types of tools, square timbers, the art of logging; the material used instead of nails and numerous items of interest.

The large map showed over 50 saw mills in Hastings County in the tygnee days. The group was most interested in one old mill located at River Valley and known as "Sager's Mill." Later the small mill owners sold out to three large companies in the county.

HAND CARVED FURNITURE

The second room contained the Couldery Collection. All the main pieces of hand-carved furniture were in this room as a permanent display. However, the small articles were different and those, who were making their second visit, saw numerous new items in this collection; the silver, jewellery; vases and knick-knacks were all on display and carried the group back to another era of history.

The third room contained a collection of odds and ends of small antiques. Many war medals which had been won in the last century were shown, and also a variety of helmets and the clothing that the men had actually worn at that time.

A large glass cabinet held the challenge, "What do you have for this display?" No doubt many homes are in possession of heirlooms that would be valuable assets to the museum, whether loaned or donated.

Those who attended expressed their appreciation of the fine educational tour and voiced thanks to the guides.

It was regretted that more members did not attend, but the week was filled with other activities which interfered.

Now 'Glove' Silhouette Highlighted

PARIS (AP)—Designer Yves Saint - Laurent, who once put them in sacks, put them in tubes today and an audience of celebrities loved it.

The chief, however, is nothing for a man to get panicky about. Although the queen of the last Christine Dior called this the "glove" silhouette, it does not fit that way.

The slender elongated sheath does advance the bust and softly slides over the hips, hinting of the figure underneath. But this is the extent of sure silhouettes this season. It appears to have gone astray somewhere in a second successful show since his army stint, a show that broke down, a total battle with the Christian Dior house and a comeback for Saint-Laurent.

Seeming to assure his success was Princess Lee Radziwill, before a viewing at Givenchy as is the custom of the princess and her sister, Jacqueline Kennedy, visits in France, the princess posed in the one-piece wool and jersey especially for her by Hubert Givenchy and rumors were rife that she would produce the interest her trend-setting sister in his costumes.

Three Women Million Dollar Salesmen

MONTREAL (CP) — Three women "worth their weight in gold" attended the annual four-day conference of life-insurance underwriters here.

Mrs. Edna Nightingale Austin of New York, Martha Overall of Wichita, Kan., and Norma Austin of Detroit headed as insurance agents collectively signed $8,000,000 worth of business for their employers.

They are the only three women to sit at the Million Dollar Round Table, a gilt-edged world - wide fraternity which limits its membership to agents who have sold $1,000,000 or more of insurance in a year.

Mrs. Kravette said in an interview that selling life insurance is more a matter of "serving" than going out with the "avowed purpose of making a million." All three women agree that the insurance business is a good one for women.

NO EARNING LIMIT

First, they say, there is no limit to what a woman can earn. Earnings are figured not on the same basis as a man's. Secondly, there is no age limit to entering the profession. Mrs. Kravette said, in fact, age was an advantage where a knowledge of people was concerned.

Miss Austin said that a woman could adjust her insurance selling hours to her family schedule. "If she wants a mother can work two days a week and spend the rest of the time with her family." Miss Overall summed up the opinion of all three that "if you like people, you will like the insurance business."

Miss Austin and Miss Overall both started out as secretaries in insurance offices and Mrs. Kravette went into the business when her husband died. "I was no ignorant about insurance then, I didn't even know we had a policy," she said. Today she is a life member of the Women Leaders Round Table and president of the League of Life Insurance Women in the United States.

Must Not Over-Protect Children Warns Expert

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP) — Dr. Anna Freud recommends nursery schools for children after the age of two easing parents and teachers not to "overprotect" children against frustrations.

"Fortunately there is no such thing as an unfrustrated child, but if there were he wouldn't develop at all," the famous psychologist told a conference of child psychologists and social service workers. "He would fall asleep."

Dr. Freud, daughter of the late Dr. Sigmund Freud, founder of modern psychology, urged delegates to try to understand the process of growing up. She warned that it is easy to produce intelligent children who remain immature.

She said children between two and six should be encouraged to develop their personalities among other children at nursery schools. Learning to get along with other children is "education," she said. This should not be confused with "learning" — including such things as knowing to read — which does not assist a child's mental development.

Dr. Freud said parents and teachers must realize that children are basically unreasonable.

"They will interpret the logical concepts of grown-ups as an illogical manner, and the parents must be prepared for this."

VIEWS ACCEPTED

Dr. Freud was addressing a session of the assembly of the World Organization for Early Childhood Education. She was OMEP from the group's French name (Organization Mondiale pour l'Education Prescolaire).

Canadian delegates said Dr. Freud's views received with unanimous acceptance among delegates. Prof. Grace Bredin of the University of British Columbia said she was particularly impressed by Dr. Freud's analysis of how children differ in the speed of their emotional development.

"She made it clear that a child should shelter the needs of her held back. Many teachers are too impressed with a generalized idea of the average age at which a child is supposed to perform certain feats."

OMEP was formed in 1948 by Mrs. Alva Myrdal of Sweden and an Englishwoman, Lady Allen of Hurtwood. The objective was to promote nursery school education. The founders believe the period from two to six is the most important one in forming a person's personality.

Lady Allen said Britain tends to forget that serious seeds of delinquency can be sown in early childhood.

Canada is one of the 18 nations in OMEP. Other Canadian delegates to the assembly were Prof. Mary Wright of the University of Western Ontario, Mrs.

Camping in Canada Up Tenfold in 10 Years

By Lake and Stream the Campfires Glow

More than a million back-to-nature Canadians are taking camping vacations this summer. Some will explore hinterland areas, portage their canoes, camp where silent trees grow tall. Most will travel family style, stopping at established campsites in every province, visiting Canada's national and provincial parks. Canada's parkland — 89,000 square miles and equal in size to Great Britain — is set aside for its scenic beauty, natural grandeur. In the family car, campers can travel highways, adventure along twisting woodland trails, come to rest in cool clearings amid scented pine and whispering birch. On lake shores, by stream banks, in inland forests and by the sea, holidaying campers pitch tents, cook outdoor meals, relax in the fresh air and solitude that beckoned their forefathers a century ago.

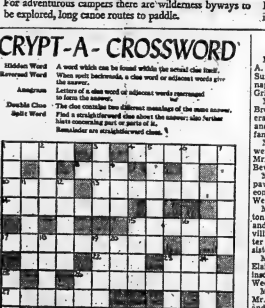
National and provincial camping sites are supplemented by hundreds of private tourist grounds, like this one in Nova Scotia, which provide hot and cold water, washing machines for family campers.

Quebec vacationer revels in fresh air, water, summer sunshine. From Newfoundland to the Yukon, 1,000,000 Canadians will "get back to nature" on camping holidays.

For adventurous campers there are wilderness byways to be explored, long canoe routes to paddle.

In British Columbia, baby gets a first taste of camping. In national parks camping has increased 10 times in as many years.



Sunset over Prince Edward Island beach is signal for tent lights to go on as campers relax after day of touring.

ARGENTINA GETS AID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has announced a broad program of assistance to help Argentina out of a financial jam. The immediate aid will run about $200,000,000. The credits, publicly pegged to Argentina's promises to help itself in every way possible, are for development projects and to bolster the country's currency.

Canada-long renowned for wide-open spaces and large amounts of elbow room — is still a country of outdoor-thinking people. Mostly city and town dwellers today, Canadians by the thousands get back to the woodlands and quiet wilderness through their growing national sport of camping. Of the 108,000 billion tons of air resting atop Canada, the cleanest and purest — target of camping Canadians — is found over forest, lake, mountain and prairie, far from urban industry.

With 18 large scenic national parks, dozens of wide-reaching provincial parks, hundreds of smaller parks and privately-owned camping places, families vacationing in Canada can drive their cars — stacked with tents and provisions — from the Atlantic to the Pacific and up to the Arctic Circle. Over portable camping stoves, charcoal and brush-wood fires, they cook hearty outdoor meals, heat water for baby's bath, make steaming pots of tea and coffee. In puptents, family tents, luxury trailer tents, lean-to's, they shelter from summer's noonday heat and cooling showers, sleep deeply at night beneath rustling leaves and by lapping lakeside shores.

Like gypsies and wanderers of old, they cast aside care for a week or two, go where the will takes them or winding road entices, take their time by the shimmering sun. Mood and scenery set the pace, the face of Canada guides the wheel. In the lofty mountain passes, amid rolling fields of grain, along shady, thick-treed trails, by river's edge and on sandy beach, camping families relax on their touring trips, get a close-up view of natural Canada, count the blessings of their wide and lovely land.

Why Shouldn't Wife Be Jealous

DEAR DORIS—I am troubled by a young woman who comes into our restaurant two or three times daily for coffee or ice cream. Never seems to have any housework or her own to do, though her husband is an invalid at home.

She'll spend half an hour talking to my husband. People have gossiped about this. When I object, he turns away and doesn't talk to her, but he says he does not want to lose a good customer.

DORIS CLARK Perhaps it is true that I am jealous, but why shouldn't I be?—TROUBLED WIFE.

* * *

DEAR TROUBLED WIFE—I grant that it's annoying. But all your life, patrons of your restaurant are going to pass the time of day with your husband. It's part of good will for him to be friendly. His business depends on it.

So the thing to do is help him be friendly. Show him confidence. Improve your companionship with him and stop brooding over something which really doesn't matter.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I would like your advice about a girl who is only 13 and is going around with a 19 or 20 year old boy. He comes and sees her where she is baby sitting for. He wants her to come to his place and another girl for his friend. —TWO WORRIED FRIENDS.

* * *

DEAR TWO—I take a dim view:

(1) Because of the great gap between their ages.

(2) Because he goes where she baby sits. This is out of bounds for any self-respecting girl—or boy.

Your very young friend is heading for trouble. What can her mother be thinking of?

* * *

DEAR DORIS—My husband is a drunkard. He is unemployed; was working part time but wouldn't go to work half the time.

He won't pay the bills with what little we do have. Every time the landlord calls around for the rent, he goes to the hotel drinking it up. Tonight the landlord was here and my husband is away, as usual, so he's given us a week to get out unless we pay the two months' rent that we are behind in.

I'm also expecting my fourth child. I stay home every day. I don't even go to the supermarket to get the groceries because if I do I get in trouble for buying too many groceries. It's no use leaving him because I love him and I think the children need him, even if he has little to offer them

Please help me if you can. I'm really afraid of going out of my mind.—U.L.

* * *

DEAR J. L.—It's the old vicious circle: he drinks to forget his troubles and makes more troubles by drinking. Will need a rude jolt before he'll come to.

Anybody who is trying as hard as you are deserves help. I could send you budgets and sympathy, but a counsellor to talk and work with you is what you really need.

Make an appointment with the Children's Aid Society, 83 West Moira St., Belleville, which counsels on family problems as well as when children are involved.

Focus on Health

Topics This Week: Physicians discuss glamor, carrots and vision and dirndls of the liver.

CARROTS AND VISION

Don't believe it if someone tells you drinking carrot juice will improve vision, two physicians warn.

They tell of seeing three people who had turned yellow-orange in skin color from drinking excessive amounts of the juice—they'd been doing a diet to two quarts a day.

The discoloration disappears if the juice drinking is stopped.

Of all the folklore remedies for poor eyesight, "drinking carrot juice is perhaps the most useless," writes Drs. Ira A. Abrahamson, Sr. and Ira A. Abrahamson Jr., of Cincinnati.

GLAMOR AND SPORTS

Glamor bars many teen-age girls from being physically fit, reports Dr. Marjorie Morehouse of the University of California's Los Angeles.

Tennis, swimming and volleyball interfere with matrimonial cook's culture and makeup. So, he says, many a bride is thinner physically and weaker at 16 than she was at eight.

SWIMMING POOL HAZARD

Those germ-killing chemicals used for bathing and swimming pools must be handled with care, or they quickly knock out c' children's reach.

The chemicals are usually sold in highly concentrated form—since they will be diluted to a full strength, may be poisonous or irritating. Connecticut's poison information centre cautions.

CHERRIGES AND LIQUOR

A prevalent belief is that alcoholism causes cirrhosis of the liver, but Dr. John Gleanton of Emory University can't find good evidence for it.

Instead, he finds that only a minority of alcoholics get cirrhosis, and it doesn't differ from the cirrhosis of non-alcoholics in non-drinkers. Yet it is true that more persons having cirrhosis drink alcoholics, he says.

The understanding of liver disease had been based largely on animal experiments which may be misleading, he says. Some people, either because of genetic reasons or because of an acquired disease, may have a weakness for cirrhosis which alcohol may bring on. Nevertheless, there are people who have never taken a drink who can have exactly the same cirrhosis."

Rules Friends Can Exchange Obscene Photos

TORONTO (CP) — Magistrate Fred Thompson has ruled it is legal to send obscene pictures through the mail to friends.

He dismissed a charge of using the mails to distribute obscene materials brought against Ernest Hamman, 39, of Toronto. He said he does not think Parliament intended to prohibit the exchange of such among friends. The intention of the Criminal Code was to prevent the corruption of morals.

Hamam, branch manager of an insurance company, had been charged after police seized 29 postcard - size pictures and 10 pieces of written material.

Defence lawyer Austin Cooper said it is legal for the mails to be used for obscene materials if the enclosure is in a sealed, plain envelope so it can't offend an innocent person and is directed, to "an adult consenting person who had a mutual interest in enjoying the material and correspondence, and who was not likely to distribute it publicly or commercially."

He said the exchange of obscene pictures is a legal hobby.

Mr. Griffen stressed the Lord's warning "Thou hast left thy fist love, repent or I will move thy candlestick out of its place". He emphasized the pressing need of Christians showing forth the love of God in their daily lives, and the utter folly of professing religion and failing to show a Christ-like spirit in daily lives. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo H. Carver, Sports Editor

Somewhere in the misty sports Valhalla, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and other baseball greats of their era looked down with nostalgic pleasure.

For it was a gathering of the all-stars of the great teams that highlighted baseball in the mid-thirties, before and after. And nearly 60,000 fans who had seen them play or heard and read their records, paid fitting tribute to the men who contributed stirring pages to baseball's all-time history book.

And the vociferous tribute given these former greats of the game was evidence that the baseball fan, unlike the butts of other sports, seldom forgets.

It seemed to me in my private box in front of the dem o magic lantern, that Jolting Joe DiMaggio, one of the greatest Yankees of all time, received a greater ovation from the stands than did Mickey Mantle, a current hero, when they trotted out in their various capacities.

Baseball caps etched against white or greying locks, some spectacled; limbs creaking a protest, some pot-bellied, others not, they trotted to their positions in low gear but with a game spirit that a quarter-century hasn't dimmed.

And with perhaps reasonable facsimiles, Di-Maggio, the former boomer king, slapped out an in-side-the-park four-bagger; "Pepper" Martin, famous base-runner of the great St. Louis Cardinals "Gashouse Gang", pilfered second base "and kind into the bag" doing it.

"Ole Diz," the great Dean, also an ex-Gashouse Gang member, flashed his same natural pitching style but unfortunately twisted a knee when covering first base on an infield bid for a hit.

Ernie Lombardi, the great Phillies catcher, showed he had not forgotten how to catch a foul ball away back and beyond of the plate.

There were others, too, who turned back memory's pages nearly three decades. There were Bill Dickey, the famous Tiger catcher and manager, "Lefty" Gomez, the pitching wizard; Bobby Feller, the strike-out king; the one and only Jackie Robinson; Charlie Gehringer, Joe Medwick, Hank Greenberg, who caught pop flies or fielded grounders like a youngster of 25; Earl Averill, Joe Moore, Red Ruffing, singer Johnny Mize, that onetching stalwart Gabby Hartnett, and many others.

There were touching moments to this flash-back baseball drama in Yankee Stadium Saturday afternoon. Those who had hit 100 home runs and over were presented with special plaques. Mickey Mantle, I believe, was the only "modern" to receive the honor.

Mrs. Babe Ruth, and Mrs. Lou Gehrig, wives of the two Yankee immortals, received the plaques honoring their illustrious husbands. The stadium rocked to the plaudits of the thousands.

There was mistiness in the eyes of many and perhaps a lump in the throat as memorial tribute was paid to Ruth, Gehrig and other baseball greats who have passed on. An almost reverent hush fell over the huge crowd as Mel Allen, Yankees' radio and television announcer, slowly read the "Honor Roll." In the baseground the band played softly "Auld Lang Syne."

Those of us who saw that famous "all-star" game of the mid-thirties, perhaps got a bigger thrill out of Saturday's re-living of the thrills than those who knew them by their fame or the record.

There were some perhaps who thought it a comedy prelude to the scheduled Yankees-White Sox game. I thought it was a colorful strengthening of ties with the storied past, an evidence that the spirit of sport never dies and a tribute to a number of the game's greats who helped make baseball the great national pastime of the United States.

Strictly By The Birdies

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP) — Ted Kroll, a veteran of the golfing wars egged on by an enthusiastic, free-raged caddy, caught fire for a four-under-par final nine and a two-stroke victory in the $30,000 Canadian Open golf championship.

Kroll, 43, a much-wounded war veteran who has suffered from back miseries for several weeks, came in with a 70 for a four-round total of 278, 10 under par and two strokes better than Charlie Sifford, a Negro pro from Los Angeles who led Kroll by three strokes with only nine holes to go.

Sifford ran into late putting trouble while Kroll, told by his caddy to take it easy, started banging in birdies.

"That kid was a real good caddy," a happy and relaxed Kroll said after his win. It was his first major title since 1956, although he has not been playing the tournament circuit regularly since then.

TRYING TOO HARD

"I was trying too hard and after I three-putted the fifth my caddy—I can't even think of his name right now but I'll sure find out—told me to cool down a bit.

"I don't remember his exact words, he just told me to take it easy. I was trying too hard."

The caddy was 17-year-old Russ Witt of suburban St. Lambert, who modestly disappeared after Kroll putted out on the final green.

"Mr. Kroll is a real nice man," Russ said over the phone later. "His attention to golf is good and his attention to the crowd is good."

Russ, a nine-handicap golfer himself, said that Kroll's putts just weren't dropping on the front nine of the final round Sifford and Kroll started the round tied at 282.

"I just said to him, 'wait and they'll start dropping for us'."

They started dropping on the 310-yard 10th, when Kroll fired a birdie. He got another birdie putt on the 12th and three holes later took a lead he never lost.

"On the 15th," Kroll said,—"I hit a drive and a five iron and then my caddy told me Charlie had bogeyed the hole. So I though I could sneak one in."

BIRDIES LAST TWO

He got that birdie and added another on the 18th, sinking a 10-footer while a disconsolate Sifford watched.

Kroll's win was worth $4,300, while Sifford picked up $3,000 for his second-place finish.

In third place was Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., who started the day seven strokes off the pace but fired the best round of the tournament, a six-under-par 65, to finish at 283 and collected $2,000.

Ted Kroll's Homemuk of Winnipeg fired a hole-to-one, sinking a three-wood tee shot on the 206-yard 17th. It tied him at the low Canadian at 285 and won $1,250.

Toronto veteran Nick Weslock was low amateur all the way through the tournament, finishing at 292.

Bad weather in the first two rounds kept the number of pacbreakers for the tournament to 18. Among them were Jack Nicklaus, the U.S. Open champion, at 288, and Al Balding and George Knudson of Toronto, both of whom shot 287s.

Score Was 10-7

Kenmors Trim Brockville

BROCKVILLE — Belleville Kenmors defeated the Brockville Brocks of the New York-Ontario Baseball League 10-7 in a free-hitting exhibition here Saturday night.

The bats of both clubs exploded for extra-run fallouts, Brockville getting four in the third innings off as many hits and the Kenmors getting five hits in the fifth for four clouts.

The homesters outhit the Lakeshore League seniors 12-9 getting six for five runs off starting hurler Gerd Vaughn in two innings and as many good for two runs off reliefer Bill Laichford. The latter had 10 of the 14 strikeouts. He walked three.

The Kenmors tagged Brockville starter Jerry Eligh for seven hits and good for nine runs in six innings, Wilson took over and gave up the other run for a pair of clouts. The pair whiffed six.

Brockville defended well, a homer by Coughlin, in the second and added their four in the third off a double, three singles and a Kenmor error. They tacked on singles in the fifth and ninth.

Vaughn, on by hit-by-pitcher, Lock's triple and an outfield error gave the Kenmors two in the third.

Larry Soden's single and Dugald's double added another in the fourth.

The roof fell in on the Brocks in the fifth. Locke led off with a single and Hunter got another on a Brockville error. Goyer doubled scoring Locke, Hunter at third on the play raced home on Mavety's sacrifice fly.

The Kenmors' second error put Soden on, but he went out on Dugald's infield grounder. Dugald singled and Soden's back-up hit scored both runners. Laichford struck out.

Goyer homered in the sixth, with nobody on and an error, three stolen bases and a hit-by-pitcher gave the Kenmors the final tally in the seventh.

Goyer again led the Kenmors' pack with a homer and double, Locke had a triple and single with Dugald getting a double and single. Soden made a pair of singles with Soule's single rounding out the attack.

Coughlin was the big gun for Brockville with a homer and four singles. Chin—Green and McBobie had two singles each.

The teams:

Belleville — Locke, Hunter, Goyer, Mavety, Soden, Moore, Dugald, Soule, Vaughn, Laichford.

Brockville — Forrest, Dexter, Smith, Pearce, Coughlin, Marshall, Brown, McBobie, Eligh, Purvis, Wilson.

Schrieder A B.C. Lion?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Will Gary Schrieder play for British Columbia Lions?

"I can't," says Schrieder who was traded to the Lions by Ottawa Rough Riders.

"He can," says Lions general manager Herb Capozzi.

"He will," says Lions coach Dave Skrien.

The Canadian Football League club traded Schrieder, a star half back, for tackles Bill Graham and Mel Memenko.

Schrieder said in Ottawa Friday he cannot report to B.C. because he would not be eligible to practise law in Ontario if he left the province after Aug. 21.

He has completed law studies at Osgoode Hall in Toronto and hopes to write his bar exams this year.

Capozzi said Lions would like to talk Schrieder into articling in B.C. "which would give us a chance to keep him for the entire season."

Skrien said he expects Schrieder to be here Tuesday.

25 Swim Records Broken

STRATFORD (CP)—Twenty-five Canadian and Ontario swimming records fell here Saturday in the Ontario outdoor swimming championships.

Dan Sherry of Hamilton Kiwanis Club was low-scoring eight-year-old Canadian and Ontario mark for the senior 100-yard freestyle by one-tenth of a second, with a clocking of 57.7 seconds.

Sherry voted outstanding male swimmer at the national meet. He also established records, also set a Canadian and Ontario mark of 56.7 seconds for the senior 100-yard butterfly, lowering the old time of 59.3 seconds.

He was clocked over the 100-yard backstroke to one minute, one second—1.6 seconds better than the former Ontario record.

Maxwell Hits Three Homers

White Sox Clip Yankee String

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It is a good idea to get out of the way of Sunday drivers. The same goes for Sunday hitters in baseball.

Charlie Maxwell of Chicago White Sox is a prime example of the latter and New York Yankee pitchers forgot to get out of his way Sunday.

Maxwell hammered three home runs in a doubleheader, two in a row, as the White Sox ended a five-game Yankee winning streak in the second game of a split with the American League leaders. The Yankees won the first game, despite a three-run Maxwell homer, 7-4, and the White Sox took the second 6-2.

Two other doubleheaders were also divided as contending teams for the league pennant finished the day where they started.

The second-place Los Angeles Angels won their first game of their twin bill to Detroit Tigers 7-6, with the loss going to southpaw Ted Bowsfield of Penticton, B.C. The Angels won the second game 13-8 to remain five games behind the Yankees and just a game in front of Minnesota Twins.

TWINS LOSE OPENER

The Twins lost the opener 3-2 to Cleveland Indians and won the nightcap 7-5 in 11 innings. Kansas City Athletics salvaged the last of a four-game set with Baltimore Orioles by winning 7-3 and Boston Red Sox whipped Washington Senators 4-2.

Saturday night the Yankees edged Chicago 4-3. Detroit beat Los Angeles 6-1, Minnesota defeated Cleveland 5-2 and Washington belted Boston 9-1. Baltimore swept two games against Kansas City 3-0 and 7-3.

Jim Pizarro of the White Sox also got a split Sunday. He was knocked out in the first inning of the opener with four runs to take the loss, then came back in relief in Mike Joyce, Chicago bonus pitcher making his first start, in the fifth inning to win the 13-8 decision.

A two-run single by Hector Torres and Bill Skowron's two-run homer were the major blows for the Yankees in the opener.

Maxwell hit a bases-empty homer in the second inning of the nightcap and another solo shot after Bob Sadowski's three-run blast in the fourth.

Of Maxwell's 67 homers since 1955, he has hit 36 in Chicago. He has had 17 against the Yankees, nine on a Sunday.

MANTLE INJURY

Mickey Mantle came up limping in the eighth inning of the second game after Maxwell's homer and sat out the ninth inning. Reports were that it was severely hurt. He was out for more than a month — and the Yankees haven't looked he was gone — with a similar injury earlier this year.

The Angels cracked six homers in the second game against Detroit after Al Kaline's two-run double had provided the only winning margin in the opener. Bowsfield (6-3) started the first battle and got the only 7 innings.

Angel manager Bill Rigney lifted the pitcher after the first game and six in the second.

Dick Donovan of Cleveland won his 16th game of the season, against four losses, in the game with Washington. He lost his shutout bid when Vic Power hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning after Frank Kendall dropped a pop fly. Power then dropped the ball in a fundown play to allow the deciding run to score for the Indians in the eighth frame.

Relief pitcher Bill Dailey threw the ball away on a bunt to allow the Twins to break a tie in the 11th inning of the second game.

Jerry Lumpe was the big gun for Kansas City as he knocked out four straight hits and drove in three runs. Bill Fischer went the route for the victory, while Chuck Estrada took his fifth loss against five wins.

Earl Wilson won his second straight game for the Red Sox, who had lost three in a row to Washington by lopsided scores. However, a big relief job by Dick Radatz saved it for him. Radatz came on with two men on and none out and struck out three Senators in the eighth inning and two more in the ninth.

Dodgers Sweep Giants, Lead By 4

By JIM MACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Are Los Angeles Dodgers primed to break away from the old National League tradition—the down-to - the - wire pennant race?

Fired by the hitting of Frank Howard and superlative pitching of righthander Don Drysdale, the Dodgers completed a three - game sweep over San Francisco Giants Sunday, crushing their closest pursuers 11-1.

The romp increased the Dodgers' league lead to four games, the largest edge the Dodgers have had in a pennant derby since their runaway year of 1953.

Howard knocked in five runs with a homer and three singles and Drysdale breezed to his 19th victory of the season with a six-hitter.

Frank Robinson's key hitting led Cincinnati Reds to a double-header sweep over Milwaukee Braves 9-4 and 3-1 that carried the Reds into third place, Claude Raymond (3-6) of Montreal the first-game loser. Chicago Cubs split a twin bill with Houston Colts. The Cubs won the first game 4-3 and lost the second 3-1.

The Dodgers beat the Giants 8-6 Saturday, while Cincinnati defeated Milwaukee 8-3 and Philadelphia belted Pittsburgh 9-2. The Mets edged the Cards 9-8 as Ken MacKenzie of Gore Bay, Ont., worked five innings of relief for the victory. MacKenzie (4-6) singled home a run in the ninth inning that made the difference.

The Dodgers, who have won 14 of 19 games since regaining the league lead three weeks ago, got off to a flying start in Sunday's romp that gave them an 8-3 season mark against the Giants. They sent 11 men to the plate in the first inning, rapping out five hits, scoring six runs and knocking out southpaw Billy O'Dell.

Howard delivered the first two runs with a single, stapled in another in the second inning, banged his 30th homer of the season in the seventh and had another RBI single in the eighth.

The six-foot-seven, 250-pound outfielder drove in 12 runs in the three-game set against the Giants, getting a homer in each game. Howard has homered eight times in his last 11 games, has batted in 26 runs in his last 27 games and boasts a .321 average.

MAYS SPOILS SHUTOUT

Drysdale (19-4) struck out five men and didn't issue a walk, making it 37 consecutive innings without allowing a base on balls. He lost his chance for a shutout in the seventh inning when Willie Mays hit home run No. 32.

Robinson hit a pair of two-run homers in Cincinnati's opening-game victory, with the second providing the clincher, then doubled twice and scored both the Reds' runs in the second game.

Joey Jay (15-9) pitched a five-hitter in the second game and blanked Milwaukee until the eighth, when Tommie Aaron singled in the tying run after an intentional walk to his older brother, Hank. The deadlock was broken in the ninth inning on Robinson's second double and Marty Keough's single—and the Reds had won for the 12th time in their last 13 starts.

Hank Aaron also hit two home runs Sunday, boosting his season total to 29.

Carl McIlish threw a five-hitter and Jose Gonzalez led the offensive as the Phils mauled Bob Friend. Gonzalez collected two doubles and a single among Philadelphia's 14 hits and batted in four runs.

CARDS HAD TROUBLE

The Cardinals had their hands full against the last-place Mets before taking both games with late-inning flurries. Ken Boyer singled across two runs in the eighth inning of the opener and another crucial while Marv Throneberry was chasing Boyer into a rundown. That ran the score to 8-3, but the Mets made a battle of it by scoring twice in the ninth against Bob Gibson.

In the second game it was a 1-1 duel between Ray Washburn of the Cards and New York's Roger Craig until the seventh inning. Then Curt Flood and Julian Javier hit two-run singles for St. Louis.

The Cubs won their fourth straight game and handed Houston its sixth successive loss in the opener, but the Colts pulled out the second game with two unearned runs in the eighth inning.

Billy Williams' homer in the seventh frame evened the score 1-1 in the second game. In the eighth, an error by Ernie Banks helped Houston load the bases. Carl Warwick brought in the tie-breaker with a sacrifice fly and Hal Smith's single cashed in an insurance run.

Good Crowd, Fine Racing

Harness Season Winds Up

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

A top crowd and top racing curtained the summer harness racing season of the Quinte Driving and Riding Club here Saturday night.

An unofficial estimate said the club's "broke even" on the six-meet summer card. Parimutuel betting, introduced here for the first time, proved popular with the take-a-chance public.

A lone bettor walked off with the swag from the first daily double offered here the other night, to the tune of $72.60 for the double ticket with Jimmy M. Grattan winner of the second race paying $28.30 to win. Plus the take on "Gold-en Valley" winner of the opening race.

Sentimentally the most popular win o' the night was that of "Buddy C. Abbey" owned and driven by Al. Vance of the city.

All season "Buddy C." had tried for the loge but never quite made it. Saturday night the big horse, well-driven by Vance, finished second to the first heat of the D 1-Classified race and to standing cheers of the grandstand raced home a winner in the second.

Brighton's Reta Herrington drove her "Lu Atkorney" to a thrilling victory in the second heat of the "B Classified" race nosing Count Direct in a cluster finish.

"Chuck's Delivery" in his first race here took the first heat by a length, but "broke" in the second and failed to make up the distance. Count Direct paid place bettors twice.

It was a two-way duel in the C-1 Classified race between the Herrington-owned Billy H. Sunday and Ken Key's Gregg C. The latter here won the first heat but Billy H. nosed him out in a thriller in the second.

Brighton - owned "Captain Kidd" in its first appearance here, rimpled and "broke" the first heat of the C-2 Classified race, Miss True Volo, driven by Rod Zebedee of the city taking it from Atomic Selka.

The big black "Kidd" came back strongly in the second to win the heat easily, "Volo" finishing third behind the Russian-owned "Tripper Grattan" driven by charles Golloghy who it seemed did not like talk with the judges.

The Zebedees "Golden Valley" and Herman Lucas' "Scotty H." shared honors in the D-3 Classified with "Dennis B." being a third-place threat.

And a season-end tip-of-the-hat to Mrs. Marjorie Steele, the attractive lady rider who with her colorful horse paraded the saids before the grandstand prior to each race.

A NEW CONCEPT IN TRUCK ENGINEERING

TEST LOADSTAR DRIVER COMFORT

You'll swing into the cab with ease, from the wide step through wide opening doors. The adjustable tilt width seat gives posture-perfect comfort. Most of all, you'll like the flat-angled steering wheel that assures effortless, relaxed control. Visibility is exceptional through the large windshield.

TEST LOADSTAR MANEUVERABILITY

Loadstar drivers will tell you. They've never driven a truck that responded so fast and sure to the turn of the wheel. Exclusive "wide track stance" permits 49° turning angle and 7 foot shorter turning radius. The Loadstar really pilots in congested traffic, crowded docks and difficult job sites.

TEST LOADSTAR RUGGED POWER

Put Loadstar through its paces on the roughest ground and steepest grades. Husky frames are full depth from bumper to rear springs to soak up road and load punishment. Engines, transmissions, axles and shafts are extra tough and oil tight.

TEST LOADSTAR SERVICE ACCESSIBILITY

Leafs Take Pair From Crackers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rookie Bud Bailey was all the offence needed by Columbus Jets as they closed up another half-game on fourth place—the last playoff position — in the International League race.

Bailey, a long ball hitter with Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League, drove in eight runs as Columbus swept a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs 9-1 and 3-1 Sunday night.

The victories pulled the streaking Jets to within half a game of Buffalo Bisons, who beat Jacksonville Suns 4-0 in the sevenmaking opener of a scheduled doubleheader. The twin bill was delayed two hours and 35 minutes by rain and the second game went on the books as a postponement when the teams failed to complete 4½ innings before a midnight curfew.

Rochester Red Wings continued their mastery over Richmond, beating the Virginians 5-4 in 10 innings and 3-2. Toronto Maple Leafs took two games from Atlanta Crackers 4-1 and 7-4.

Greaves Retains Crown

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Canadian middleweight champion Wilf Greaves retained his title Saturday night with a decisive 10th - round technical knockout over Ritchardson of South Bar, N.S.

80 Different TV Series Now Before the Cameras

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In this film capital, TV production is at a peak barely out more than 50 per cent of the programs for next fall and winter.

Performers are working 12-hour days—and devoting evenings and week-ends to learning lines, to keep up with the gruelling shooting schedules.

More than 80 different television series are on the production lines. At the revue studios in the San Fernando Valley, where 10 different series are before the cameras, 11 is harder to find parking space than on Hollywood Boulevard.

The moving picture, once king of the community, quietly has abdicated and gone abroad. Only 13 feature films are in production here — but almost twice that number are being made by American companies abroad.

STILL ARE POPULAR

Motion pictures, however, still loom large in the Hollywood scene. There is still more prestige in movie acting than in television. Both actors here in the prime source of its acting supplies. Film casts, here and abroad, are Tinsel Town performers, who made reputations in television and moved over, usually with star or featured billing and handsome financial contracts.

Among television alumni basking in movies are Clint Walker, Hugh O'Brian, Lee Marvin, Robert Lansing, Efrem Zimbalist, Tony Randall, all of whom made their reputations in TV and moved on when departed or moved into reruns.

Variety, the authoritative show business paper, estimated recently that half-hour shows average a bit higher than $80,000 an episode while each hour show runs around $120,000.

DeJohn Upsets Cleroux

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mike DeJohn of Miami unanimous upset decision over Robert Cleroux of Montreal in a 10-round fight at Miami Beach Auditorium Saturday before 2,104 fans.

There were no knockdowns in the televised fight.

Cleroux, the Canadian heavyweight champion, waded in repeatedly in the first round and stepped and looked for chances to penetrate Cleroux' peek-a-boo defense.

DeJohn in the opening round showed the results of his four months of rigid training, unique for him, as he danced his 205 pounds around the ring, leading the Canadian around like a matador leading a bull.

In the fifth, Cleroux, who weighed in at 202½, forced DeJohn into the ropes repeatedly. DeJohn, looking for a telling blow, was unable to land it and Cleroux maintained his professional fight record of never having been knocked down.

Judge Gus Jacobson scored the fight 96-95, Judge Barry Pearlman 98-94 and referee Billy Regan 98-94. The Associated Press card was 97-94, also for DeJohn.

Jackie Gleason Travels East In Real Style

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jackie Gleason, who steels more room than most travelers, will return to New York in a seven-car private train costing $90,000.

Drinks will be served.

The train, following a zig-zag course across the United States will also be loaded with dancing girls and six-piece orchestra.

It's the only way to go," Gleason told a reporter.

Gleason never flies.

The high - living comedian said the train will depart from here Aug. 9, and stop in Phoenix, Ariz., for a day.

TO ATTEND PARTIES

"I plan to march in a parade there and attend three parties," he explained.

Next he heads north for Denver.

"I'll play 18 holes of golf there and then maybe another date in Colorado Springs."

Other stops on the 10-day trek will be Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

"Upon arrival at Penn Station in New York, we will proceed to the restaurant of a certain obnoxious drunken friend of mine, hoping that he will have prepared bird and bottle for the weary traveler," said Gleason.

NOT ALL PLEASURE

An entourage of some 45 persons will accompany Gleason: The trip, however, will not be all pleasure.

Part of the group will include Sue Ann Langdon, his new, CBS-television, co-star, several TV writers and the producers and three secretaries.

The dancing girls also will be part of Gleason's return to television in September.

Gleason tried to charter a train when he came here from New York last month to star in the movie Papa's Delicate Condition.

"At that point we were several adjoining drawing rooms," Gleason, a big man, "It embarrassed me so much, I got off at Pasadena."

Three railroads—Santa Fe, Wabash and Pennsylvania — share ownership in the equipment and the right-of-ways for the journey east.

Gleason will supply the money and the laughs.

The Tracks

PORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Despite the fact that each winner ran the fastest mile of the meeting, a picture of each finish was needed Saturday to decide winners of both divisions of the $10,000 added Fair Play Stakes at Port Erie race track.

In the camera game Mrs Lay Lear's Wine Count got the edge by a neck in the first division, and Mrs. Nikah Nikah got the decision by a neck in the second.

Wine Command ran his mile and one-sixteenth in 1:51 flat of Mibit. The winner paid $6.90.

Chopavane led up to the last two strides in the second division before Nikah Nikah staged a drive that gave her a stretch to gain the decision by a neck. Another length back in third place was Winkton. Nikah paid $20.50.

NEW YORK (CP)—George D. Widener's Seven Thirty overhauled Meadow Stable's Cicada a couple of strides before the finish Saturday and won the Delaware Handicap, the world's richest race for fillies and mares, at Delaware Park in Stanton, Del.

Bramalea was third in the $100,000 event for a cross purse of $107,875.

Seven Thirty paid $21 and the two was $5.60 on a fast track.

Ad Geaenport, N.J., affectionately led all the way in registering an easy victory in the $100,460 Saturday Stakes at Monmouth Park, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Jacobin finished the six furlongs in a record 1:10 and won by five lengths. The old mark was 1:10 set by Marullah in 1956.

Ogden Phipps' Fashion Verdict was second by three-quarters of a length over Mrs. Katherine Rabb's Miss Velocity.

The victory was worth $60,264 to Mrs. Jacobs and those who backed the filly collected $2.60.

Doctors Flown Back to Moscow Are Released

The doctors flew to Paris after attending an international cancer conference in Moscow. They included Dr. Marie Lacassagne and another as Japanese.

The doctors said the night in Moscow after being flown back to the Soviet capital, airport officials said. They boarded another plane early today.

Officials of the Soviet Aeroflot airliner ordered one of the doctors to stop taking photographs. He refused, the officials said.

The captain then turned the plane around, landed the four doctors in Moscow and took off for Paris, arriving here eight hours late.

Kassem Defies Political Gravity in Wrecked Iraq

By GEORGE McARTHUR

BAGHDAD (AP)—In wrecked Iraq, diplomats say, there is power and now more struggle between Premier Abdel-Karim Kassem, left-wing political genius and maintain control of this historic land that sweeps up from the Persian Gulf.

With guns or words, Kassem is fighting Arabs, Kurds, Communist imperialism, the Arab League, Mediterranean-oriented Iraq Petroleum Company, Kuwait, Egypt's President Nasser and Israel.

Kassem's ally Egypt's Nasser threw King Feisal and turned almost make Iraq to disappear. Premier Nuri Es Said. Now his uneven scale plasma from perished in Cairo, A visitor counted 18 in Kassem's own reception room.

He drives through the streets in a bullet-proof sand-yellow Cadillac. Increasingly he depends on police state measures at home and on Soviet arms abroad. He caters to his army with shooting schemes and Moscow weapons.

LAND, REFORM

He has tried to woo the peasants with land reforms. And the reference is only beginning to show itself after two years.

Official farm income has dropped and the flow of food abroad.

He accepted in Baghdad—despite Kassem's frequent outbursts against the West—that rebelling Kurds control much of the countryside in the north. He has not, however, banned for that area.

Open fighting against Kuwait in the south have alienated other Arab states and caused him to lose a vital ally, Col. Abdul-Salam Arif.

Kassem recognized Kuwait's independence.

Despite the efforts of a minor Communist takeover and a controlled press, the 7,000,000 citizens of Iraq have no lack of enthusiasm for Kassem.

Kassem governs largely through army officers and civilians—the heads of military intelligence, the police, internal security and the army itself. He has promised elections for 1963.

Although Iraq's oil industry became makes the population rich, economic problems are likely to prove more troublesome than the long run. In concentrating on arms Kassem has allowed the economy to stagnate. Nearly a massive income from oil.

Kassem has a creeping fear and the cost of living is going up.

The Soviet bloc has given him about $250,000,000 in credits for his five-year industrial plan. Most of the $1 billion he includes factories that will help the economy marginally while committing Iraq to years of buying spare parts, technicians and further credits.

He must also pay back to Moscow some $400,000,000 in military credits, for which he has received a vast stock of Soviet tanks and artillery plus a jet air force that lacks the MiG-21 Mosser has.

Kassem's new benefits on the $250,000,000 he receives annually from oil revenues. This sum must cover his domestic economy and help pay the $100,000,000 debt to Russia.

This is one reason Kassem is the enemy of the Iraq Petroleum Company into raising royalties, and why he also wants the oil-rich kingdom of Kuwait.
